Lam says school here is nicer than in Vietnam. In Vietnam they beat the students with sticks. The work here is a little easier than in Vietnam, but school here is not confusing and disruptive like in Vietnam.

We would like to welcome Lam to our school, and we hope he enjoys himself here. We would also like to wish him luck in his life and hope that he is soon reunited with his family.

Things Kids Do

After School And On Weekends

By BRIAN HUCKINS

It seems that everyone thinks that all we kids do is hang around street corners and get in trouble. NOT SO. We at Sterling engage ourselves in a vast variety of activities after we leave Sterling.

Some kids play sports for their after school activity. Others go out and meet with their friends. Some kids go to the Y.M.C.A. or the Lincoln Hancock School. They swim, have gym, or talk with friends. Others go home to watch television or go to bed for a nap. Some kids go to dance. Then there are kids who go shopping. Kids also go to watch soccer, or basketball, or some other games, to root for their schools team. Some kids just go home and work on their hobbies. Many kids have jobs that they do after school and on weekends. Many teenagers are now jogging.

On weekends kids go to the movies, or to pizza places. Some bowl for teams. Others watch cartoons or sleep all day. Some ride mini-bikes or go to carnivals and to Quincy square. Some go away for the weekends.

So, as you can see, parents and teachers, we can show some responsibility for our time! Most of us are pretty good kids who enjoy doing worth-while things and having a good time.

Sterling Leads Junior High Schools In Energy Conservation

By LINDA MCCARTHY

Sterling's energy conservation program resulted in saving about $736,351 which means more than 2,300,000 gallons of fuel oil.

Sterling had the best conservation record.

We all worked very hard trying to save energy by doing such things as:

- Pulling down shades at the end of the day.
- Turning off lights when areas aren't in use.
- Lowering the thermostats.

Here is a chart of fuel consumption at Sterling Jr. High:

Average Consumption	Gallons	Degree Days	Gallons Per Degree day
1971 72 & 1972 73	63,157	5528	11.42
1973 & 1974	47,718	5410	8.82
1974 & 1975	48,355	5505	8.78
1975 & 1976	47,477	4897	9.69
1976 & 1977	56,738	5738	9.88
1977 & 1978	54,678	5636	9.70

Former Sterling Teacher Appointed Vice Principal

By JOHN GAUDIANO
JIM McSWEENEY and
LARRY NASSON

Mr. Smith, (the new Vice Principal), and a former Sterling teacher misses teaching English and the classroom interaction with students. However, he finds his new job interesting and challenging.

Before coming to Sterling he attended Atlantic Jr. High, North Quincy High, Ottawa University in Kansas, Boston State College and B.U.

He was also in Vietnam during the war and he taught English in Topeka Kansas.

He says he still has a sense of humor but the job of assistant principal requires a lot of seriousness.

After half a school year, Mr. Smith is still non-committal about what the best and the worst parts of his job are. We would like to thank Mr. Smith for letting us conduct this interview.

PULLING TOGETHER is the way the staff and students at Sterling manage to hold energy costs down. One of the better ways to conserve energy is by simply pulling down shades as Lynne Maze, left, and teacher Deborah DeCristofaro demonstrate here.

The Eagle's Eye, student publication of Sterling Junior High School, is a special issue of The Quincy Sun feature "Young Ideas".

EDITORIALS

Crisis Of The 70's

By LYNNE MAZE
Editor

Each decade seems to have its own major problem that affects the future somehow. The 30's had the depression, the 40's had World War II, the 50's had atomic bomb scares, and the 60's had the Vietnam War. Now we come to the 70's; the decade of the energy crisis.

Energy conservation is a term that junior high students understand well. Many newspapers, newscasts, and documentaries carry stories and segments on the topic.

Constantly, people used to just turn on lights for no reason. Today, however, people are becoming more aware of the shortage of energy, and are not using electricity unless there is a real need. School and office building employees are trying to make an effort to shut off lights, pull down shades, and turn down the heat.

Some people still don't get the hint that we have to start saving energy. They are the ones that are going to waste all the energy and ruin it for the rest of us who are conserving.

Another way people waste a lot of energy and fuel is with their cars. People could form car pools, ride bikes or ride on public transportation, like the MBTA. A lot of people don't pitch in and try to conserve. Planes are somewhat like cars. People take planes all over the world and that wastes a lot of fuel. I think people should only use planes going across the sea or if they're trying to get to a faraway place. I think it is a waste of fuel having planes fly to the next state. People could take trains or buses because they don't use up as much energy.

The purpose of this editorial is not to list ways of saving energy, but to show that we, as teenagers, care about the energy crisis, and want to conserve energy not only for our generation's use, but for the generations to come.

The Year 2525

By LARRY NASSON
Editor

Tis the year 2525 as my very great great grandchildren walk down Hancock Street, they adjust their gas masks which are now required because of the pollution from the energy plant.

Let me explain. Some 525 years ago, in the year 2000, the whole world ran out of energy. Scientists had been warning the people of the world for many years that they were going to run out of energy. Finally they did. The only source of energy the scientists could come up with was wood.

All trees and bushes were cut down and burned. Then the energy created even with that could help only one-third of the world. Now all the forests are just empty barren fields.

Since energy sources are now so scarce all the fast food shops had to be shut down and every household was allowed to have only one electric light. These are only two of the grim results of no energy sources.

The ideas fantasized about in this editorial are not far from becoming reality. As a junior high student I hope the future is not as bleak as it now looks.

Basic Skills

By BARBARA DAVIS

In the outside world you hear people talking about basic values. But in school they're talking about basic skills, which are basically, reading, writing, and arithmetic.

A lot of people probably know that Quincy is wrapped up in basic skills. Many memory tricks were made up to remember correct spellings for certain words. One example of a memory trick is for the word arithmetic "A rat in Tom's house may eat Tom's ice cream. A (a) r (rat) i (in) t (Tom's) h (house) m (may) e (eat) t (Tom's) i (ice) c (cream). The reason some instructors teach this skill is to help students spell better.

Although English and arithmetic teachers try their hardest, the students don't always take advantage of the easy ways of learning. Even the media is trying to help. Many educational skits are performed on television. This is only one of many ways to improve the student's education.

Do you sometimes wonder why your math teacher takes out those 5x7 cards and keeps drilling those times tables? Also, those English teachers keep asking, "What's a noun? What is a verb?" What about those maps and locating states and countries? Doesn't it all seem endless? How many of your dreams are measured in metric units?

To sum it all up, Basic Skills are endless. I'm sure most students agree, let me tell you, I do!

MEDIA CENTER MASTER Brian Huckins finds writing articles for "The Eagle's Eye" much easier with the resources of the school's media center at his fingertips.

Movie Survey
Finds Pinnochio,
Star Wars Tops

By PAUL FITCHER

Here at Sterling Jr. High we had a school wide survey. The subject was movies. Out of Rated G movies Pinnochio came in first with 152 points. The Small One came in second with 112 points. Out of movies rated P.G. Star Wars came in first with 393 points and in second place was Grease with 362 points. In third place was California Suite with 274 points and in fourth place was Oliver's Story with 190 points. Out of R movies Saturday Night Fever was in first place with 279 points, in second was Magic with 240 points, and third was Moment By Moment with 166 points.

Amo (I Love) Emo

By JOHN GAUDIANO
LARRY NASSON and JIM McSWEENEY

How many of you know "Emo"? The obvious reply is EVERYONE!

When some students were asked what do you think of "Emo"? they replied:
"I Love "Emo"
"That's my uncle"
"He's Italian"
"He's friendly and kind"
"Always whistling"
"Without him the building wouldn't be the same."
"Keeps the building clean"

For the information of the general public "Emo" is Emo Vanelli, a custodian at our

He's been married for 37 years, almost 17 full years!

Not only do you see Emo, with mop in hand, cleaning, but also helping with discipline and security. His talents include singing. It is rumored he turned down the New York Met to come to Sterling.

Now for his personal life. He's been married for 37 years, to the same woman: WOW! When asked how many children do you have he said, "None of my own but 600 adopted Sterlingsites."

Most importantly, when asked what he thought of Sterling, he said it was super. We think you're super too, Emo.

the 79 BRIDES

Weddings— more romantic than ever

High fashion is chic and designs are pared sleek, still the 1979 bridal picture is strictly lavender and old lace. Tradition and romance are the two key words to today's weddings, with resultant beautiful memories for all.

Today's couples have taken a serious look at the rich, beautiful ideals of the marriage vows. They want their weddings to reflect both the joy and the solemnity that will constitute their union.

If wedding trends are turning back to the romantic formalities of yesteryear, the reason goes beyond mere nostalgia. Modern couples seem to have gained deep respect for the dignity of this traditional ceremony and wish to affirm the fact that a wedding is the symbol of a commitment to a lifetime of shared experiences.

The new bride is gloriously romantic, but far from coy and fragile. She is truly today's woman, with the confidence in herself and her decisions to cast off her tailored suit and stylish "togetherness" for a delightful detour into the world of opulent satins and gossamer chiffons, seed pearl embroidery and rich layers of lace.

Bridesmaids follow beautifully along this romantic trend, wearing some of the most picturesque, feminine and original creations ever shown. And, surprisingly, the return to the traditional in weddings has resulted in a fashion revolution for the bridal party.

Dresses for the bridesmaids are definitely losing that standard "wedding party" look in favor of rich designs in a wide variety of new colors and fabrics, dresses that any woman would love to wear to a party or dance—a tremendous new delight for all bridesmaids-to-be.

The undisputed star of the new wedding party, however, is the groom! With the return of a more traditional approach to wedding apparel, fashion designers have found a whole new way to channel their talents.

By updating the rich classics of yesterday with new fabrics, subtle new colors and rich new touches, men's formalwear has soared to the forefront of the fashion scene. "Here Comes the Bride" may still be the attention-getting theme, but

Soft glow of cultured pearls intensifies radiance of bride

Throughout the centuries, across the world, brides have traditionally been described as possessing a special glowing beauty, a radiance that is seen only on the face of a woman in love on her most romantic of days.

It's only natural that the gem traditionally worn by brides throughout the ages is a perfect reflection of this very special type of beauty.

The cultured pearl, nature's most magnificent gift from the sea, possesses a radiant lustre and subtle palette of demure hues which are the natural complement to a bride's unique beauty.

Today, with a return to the romantic and the traditional in wedding styles, cultured pearls are an even greater favorite of brides as an exquisite accessory.

The Cultured Pearl Association has some helpful guidelines for brides to use in selecting the styles of cultured pearl jewelry that will best complement their gowns—and their own radiance—on their wedding day.

The most important thing to consider when selecting a cultured pearl necklace is the neckline of the gown. High, round necklines can be adorned with either the popular multiple strand "dog collars" or the traditional single strand choker, a perennial favorite for its demure, classic look. The most formal look would be a matinee or opera length necklace falling softly over the bosom.

Deeper, scooped necklines suggest a variety of cultured pearl necklaces. The fashionable dog collar is equally appropriate, and a princess or matinee strand would be absolutely lovely. Most luxurious of all would be a bib of several strands of pearls falling from the base of the throat to the top of the gown's neckline.

High-standing collars on gowns call for a slightly longer strand of cultured pearls: matinee or opera length. For an especially romantic and striking effect, hang a brooch from the collar.

If your gown is heavily beaded you may still wear a cultured pearl necklace, but do not let it fall over the imitation beads of the gown, as the effect will be too heavy and detract from the richness of your necklace.

For final touches of radiance, wear a delicate pair of cultured pearl earrings or, if your sleeves permit, a simple single or double strand cultured pearl bracelet.

No matter what your final selection may be, you can be certain that your cultured pearls will be the perfect choice in jewelry for your wedding day, reflecting and intensifying the radiance of you, the glowing bride.

OUTSTANDING 9mm cultured pearl choker with 10mm mabe pearl earrings complement the beautiful bridal gown and headpiece.

Plan well in advance . . .

Key to successful wedding

The flowers will wilt, the cake will be eaten, but your wedding can live on forever in professional photographs of this important day — if you plan now.

In small or large towns, professional photographers suggest brides-to-be reserve their services at least six to eight weeks before the ceremony. And, if the wedding is being planned for one of the more popular bridal months — June, July, August or December — then it's wise to book your favorite photographer at the time you make arrangements for the church and reception hall.

Plan your style

When you make arrangements with your local photographer, discuss with him the type of photographic coverage you'd like for this day. If it's to be a formal ceremony and reception, you might like a mix of formal and informal photographs to reflect the mood.

For a casual service — even one outdoors — you may prefer a totally informal, candid photographic collection.

This is also the time to view different photographic styles. Your photographer will be able to show you other wedding portraits and candid he's made — candlelit mood images, silhouette views, even superimposed photos. Whatever you choose, you can be sure of a quality print on Kodak paper when the finished photographs are ready.

Selection appointment

After your honeymoon, make an appointment to select the pictures for your album and other uses. Your parents will appreciate an album of selected photographs. And you'll want enlargements to decorate your new home or the office.

Expect to allow from four to six weeks for the finished prints, possibly longer if you are having a custom-finished, framed enlargement prepared.

And ask about cards your photographer can make for you. They are one-sided cards with room under the printed message and alongside the photograph for you to write a special thank you for gifts.

A TENDER MOMENT worth preserving in a photographic portrait. Make arrangements early for a professional photographer to cover your wedding day.

1979 weddings will definitely attract a great deal of admiration for the groom, as well.

Traditional weddings also bring out the best in their guests. While statistics state that cash is today's favorite wedding gift for young couples, bridal registries are once again de rigueur, and popular demand shows that newlyweds are definitely interested in a beautiful start to their life together with a host of beautiful gift selections.

Such items as sterling, fine china, crystal and linens are increasingly in demand as special gifts to go along with the more formal wedding.

Specialty appliances and elegant decorative pieces are also leading choices for the new couple.

Whether you choose to present the newlyweds with the practical or the precious, the point is to remember that traditional romance deserves the extra special personal thought that goes with a gift of love.

But whether you're a loving relative, an admiring guest, an especially lucky bridesmaid or usher, the dashing groom or the romantic bride, one thing is for certain: 1979 promises to be the best year ever to get wrapped up in the warm and wonderful festivities of the wedding.

Decorate first home for easy care, maintenance

A bride's approach to decorating her first home or apartment may determine a future of easy-care living or long hours spent on home maintenance.

For the bride interested in spending more time with her husband and less time on housework, a practical decorating strategy will produce a home that is stylish and easy to care for.

Using both standard decorating ideas and her own personal style can result in practical solutions for an easy-care home.

For instance, in the kitchen, decorate for ease as well as style. Hang pots and cooking accessories within easy reach.

Turn the back of a kitchen door into storage space for cleaning supplies. Hang broom, carpet sweeper, mop and other cleaning supplies from brackets on the back of the door, or hang shelves for a convenient door-back pantry.

Decorate with low-maintenance materials, such as carpeting, to cut down on housework. With the abundance of durable fibers and colors available today, carpeting is versatile enough for a number of decorating applications.

Carpet-covered chairs, couches, tables, even walls are attractive and simple to maintain. A run with a carpet sweeper eliminates the conventional dusting and polishing that would otherwise be required.

The bride's obligations

- Wedding invitations and announcements.
- The wedding reception: rental fee for the hall, music, flowers; food, all beverages.

Decorative baskets are creative organizers. A large trunk-like basket used as a coffee table serves as a storage bin for books or can hide the miscellany for a quick clean-up.

In the kitchen, baskets can be hung decoratively to hold recipes, napkins and placemats, and house plant equipment.

Desks can be tidied by using baskets as catch-alls for pens, paper, stamps and as files for correspondence.

A new bride can have more free time if she spends just a few hours making plans for a home that is stylish and easy to maintain.

- Rental fee for the place of the ceremony.
- Bridal portrait and wedding photographs.
- The wedding cake.
- The wedding gown, headpiece and veil.
- Gifts for her attendants, but not their gowns.
- Flowers for her attendants.
- The groom's ring.
- Wedding present for the groom.

CARPET-COVERED FURNITURE is a creative solution for brides interested in decorating a first home or apartment inexpensively and for easy maintenance.

Guide to tux wear

The tuxedos worn by the groom and other male members of the bridal party are as important as the gowns worn by the women.

There is a tremendously large selection of styles and colors available today, and all are designed to make the men look their very best on the important day.

• If at all possible, try the tuxedo on! Check the waist and trouser length, and make certain the trouser bottoms are properly turned under.

• Check to see that all the buttons are in place and that all closures and zippers are performing as they should.

• Check all accessories: shirt (with studs, cuff links and collar stays), tie, vest, cummerbund, etc.

• If you and your attendants have rented shoes, make sure one is for the left foot, the other for the right and that the color is correct.

Thorough beauty schedule for wedding loveliness

Your wedding... one of the most important events of your life. Of course, you want everything to be just perfect, especially the way you look and feel.

So that you can be your best through the weeks of preparation, on your special day and while honeymooning, here are some helpful suggestions.

Stay relaxed through hectic weeks of planning with deep breathing and exercise. Just 10 minutes of waist bends, toe-touching and sit-ups help release tension. Try them to a background of soothing music and see how relaxed you feel.

Keep a personal beauty checklist. List down beauty routines and items to buy for home use and honeymoon. Easy-to-use-and-carry products like light cold cream and moisturizer are ideal for busy women and traveling. For travel, include items for the climate you'll be in such as suntan lotions or ski goggles for protection.

Schedule a few minutes a week for special pampering. For a quick facial, remove makeup then slather a light whipped cold cream over face and neck to deep-down clean and smooth skin. Leave on 10 minutes, tissue off and rinse.

Experiment with makeup colors and looks well in advance of your wedding. And, try new haircuts and styles to find the one that's most flattering for you.

Manicure toes and fingernails the day before your wedding to avoid last minute tension. Early on your wedding day, tone, soften and invigorate your complexion. Apply chilled light moisturizer, then relax for 5 minutes.

At the same time refresh eyes by placing slices of cucumber over them. Tissue off moisturizer, then reapply lightly and you're ready to put on makeup.

Now, slip into your outfit and take a quick look in the mirror to admire the most beautiful bride of all.

Hail wedded love, mysterious law, true source

Of human offspring, sole propriety.

In paradise of all things common else.

—John Milton

The Key Role Of Best Man

One of the most important members of the wedding party is the best man. He is the person to whom everyone else will turn to make sure things are running smoothly. He has a myriad of duties on that most special of special days, all of which will take the burden off the bride and groom and their families.

Traditionally, his functions encompass:

- Keeping the wedding rings safe until the proper moment arrives and if there's a ringbearer, making sure he follows his instructions properly;

• Helping the groom ready himself and accompanying him to the wedding, arriving at least a quarter of an hour in advance;

• Taking the luggage of both bride and groom and the groom's going-away clothing to the reception hall;

• Having the clergyman's or judge's fee ready on the wedding day, and presenting it at the appropriate time;

• Having marriage license on wedding day;

• Checking honeymoon arrangements and connections, and making sure groom has all necessary tickets and documents before the newlyweds set off together;

• Acting as toastmaster at the bridal table, and assisting the newly married couple to get away at the right time.

Care and safety tips for kitchen appliances

Chances are that once the flurry of wedding activities are over, you'll realize you are now the owner of a multitude of portable kitchen appliances.

These appliances will offer you many conveniences and save you valuable time and energy, if you use them safely and care for them properly.

To help keep your new kitchen appliances sparkling clean and in good working condition, follow these suggestions:

- A clean appliance will usually operate more efficiently than a dirty one; be sure to read the manufacturer's instructions for any special cleaning directions.

- To quickly and effectively clean smudges, fingerprints and everyday dust and soil,

- Immediately repair or replace any frayed electrical cords, faulty plugs, or otherwise damaged equipment before using in electrical appliance.

Follow In A Queen's Footsteps With Platinum Ring

The first bride to succumb to the allure of a platinum set engagement ring was Queen Alexandra of England. It was her love of fine jewelry that prompted her to command that even the crown jewels be set in platinum. While today's bride may not have an assortment of gems to be concerned about, she should opt for the very finest of jewelry metals when choosing her diamond engagement ring or wedding band.

Platinum's silvery white color complements diamonds perfectly and never sheds, any unwanted lights on the stone that you're so proudly showing to friends.

Whether your taste demands modern or a traditional style, rings made of platinum will wear longer, never discolor the skin and most importantly hold a diamond with greater security than any other metal.

Because platinum prongs and settings hold your stone so well, there's rarely a worry regarding the loss of a diamond or the fine points of a marquise, pear, square or baguette diamond becoming chipped or broken.

Last-minute tips for groom

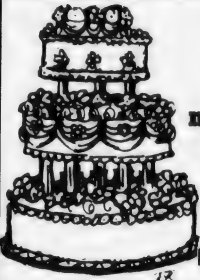

The morning of the wedding, the groom is apt to be a bit nervous.

- Line up clean underwear, and appropriate socks beforehand.

- Make sure shoes are ready and, remember, clean handkerchiefs are a must at all but the dullest weddings.

- If garments are on wire hangers or in a box, put them on wooden hangers which will help hold their shape best.

- Arrange with the best man to have wallet and bulky pocket items tucked safely away out of sight. Nothing is worse than keys jingling at the altar or a pack of cigarettes ruining the line of the jacket.

The Quincy Sun

The bride's calendar

A formal wedding takes a good deal of planning, and you should allow at least six months to take care of all details with ease and comfort.

Six months before, sit down with your parents and decide on your wedding budget and on the sort of wedding you want.

This decided, choose the places where wedding and reception will be held, find out how many guests can be accommodated at each place and make reservations.

Plan reception and begin considering menu. Choose wedding colors and go shopping for your wedding gown and accessories.

With your fiancée, go to see the person who will be officiating at the ceremony.

Select your attendants. Begin planning your new home. Choose and register china and silver patterns.

Plan for your honeymoon: consult a travel agent and send for a variety of brochures.

Three months before your wedding, your guest list should be complete.

You should, at this point, begin shopping for your trousseau, select and order attendants' dresses, select a portrait photographer and order invitations and announcements at least four weeks before you want to begin addressing them, to allow sufficient time for engraving.

Make honeymoon reservations.

Plan details of ceremony and reception with caterer, florist, etc.

One month in advance, mail invitations; order flowers; choose gifts for groom and attendants; order groom's ring; have final fitting for wedding gown and headpiece; have portrait taken; arrange for newspaper announcements.

Two weeks before, go for marriage license with your fiancée; send announcements to newspapers; complete honeymoon arrangements.

One week before, take care of last minute details.

Begin moving possessions to your new home.

Estimate number of reception guests and send tabulation to caterer.

Finish writing your announcements to be mailed on your wedding day.

Arrange rehearsal date and notify members of bridal party of time and place.

Family Meeting

Initiated By

Groom's Family

The first contact between the bride's and groom's families should be initiated by the groom's parents. This can be done by a simple telephone call or letter extending an invitation to dinner at home or in a restaurant.

The bride and groom may wish to attend, if only to perform the necessary introductions.

Should the groom's family not make the initial overture, it is perfectly proper for the bride's parents to do so.

Easy care hairstyle for bride-to-be

Wedding "belle's" need to look their photo album best from head to toe during that stately walk down the aisle.

According to beauty experts at Helene Curtis, a picture-perfect look is easy. If you top off a trousseau with professionally-styled tresses.

A hairdresser can make the best of any hair type, length and style... or suggest a brand new look to highlight a bride's best facial features.

Busy brides-to-be will appreciate an easy-care, go-everywhere perm that keeps its shapely good looks through wedding showers, on the way to the altar, and long after the honeymoon. You'll get a grand reception from husband, friends and mother-in-law alike with soft curls that always stay in place.

A perm can usher in a new lifestyle, too. A woman on the go from the office to a new home can save precious minutes with a wash 'n wear perm that needs next-to-no upkeep.

Plan ahead for beautiful hair. A month before the Big Day, make an appointment for a "cut and perm." (You'll feel more comfortable with a style if you've had time to get used to it.) While you're there, schedule a refresher trim just before the wedding.

"Trousseau tressing" with a professional perm is a terrific pre-wedding treat that will add a just-coiffed, fresh-as-flowers look to head a bride down the aisle in style.

Anniversary traditions

Those who are looking ahead eagerly to the years to come are always curious to know which anniversary is symbolized by what.

Those who are faced with the question of how to give a couple celebrating an anniversary frequently find that a consulting list of traditional anniversary presents is an excellent way of deciding upon a gift that is both practical and beautiful.

In any case, to satisfy the curious and to assist the befuddled, the following outlines the major anniversaries and the presents that symbolize them:

- First — Paper
- Second — Cotton
- Third — Leather
- Fourth — Linen
- Fifth — Wood
- Sixth — Iron
- Seventh — Copper
- Eighth — Bronze
- Ninth — China or pottery
- Tenth — Tin or aluminum
- Eleventh — Steel
- Twelfth — Silk
- Thirteenth — Lace
- Fourteenth — Ivory
- Fifteenth — Crystal
- Twentieth — China
- Twenty-fifth — Silver
- Fiftieth — Gold

My heart is like a singing bird
Whose nest is in a watered shoot;
My heart is like an apple-tree
Whose boughs are bent with thickest fruit;
My heart is like a rainbow shell
That paddles in a halyon sea;
My heart is gladder than all these Because my love is come to me.

— Christina Rossetti

Why brides say 'I do' with a diamond

To some people the diamond means baseball. To those born in April the diamond is their birthstone.

But to young couples in love the diamond is the universal symbol of engagement.

Though many time-honored traditions have topped, the tradition of the diamond engagement ring is stronger than ever—75 percent of first time brides received a diamond engagement ring in 1977.

Invincible symbol

The diamond is the accepted symbol of the engagement promise, representing to young people everywhere the individual expression of their love.

It all began with Mary of Burgundy. She was the first lucky girl to receive a diamond ring for her engagement to Maximilian of Austria, on August 17, 1477.

The diamond has been considered one of the most precious of all materials, almost since the dawn of history. The diamond, the hardest substance known to man, literally endures forever. Once cut and polished, it never loses its beautiful brilliance. The very word diamond comes from the Greek word "Adamas" meaning invincible.

Every stone unique

No two diamonds in the world are the same. Each diamond has a personality of its own. Think of a diamond as Nature "doing her own thing."

The major consideration in choosing an engagement ring is, of course, its cost. Today, a good-quality half-carat engagement ring can cost from $600 up.

Value factors

It is important to know what factors affect the price of a ring. One, naturally, is the size and quality of the diamond.

Another is the amount of gold or platinum in the design.

Because although diamonds, like everything, have increased in price, gold has gone up too. This means that a wide ring will cost more than a narrow ring with the same size diamond.

Putting it another way, for the same price you can get a bigger or better quality diamond if it's set in a narrow band rather than in a wide one.

And it's the diamond, not its setting, that is going to last for a lifetime and beyond. Many diamond engagement rings have been handed down from generation to generation.

What about shape?

The shape of the diamond is also a factor in its cost. In general, the round or brilliant cut is less expensive than the so-called "fancy" shapes, i.e. the marquise, the pear and the emerald cut. The reason is simply that more rough diamonds are found in nature that lend themselves to the brilliant cut.

The oval is an adaption of the round or brilliant cut and appears larger than a brilliant of the same carat weight.

The marquise cut is the name given to the diamond shape that is long and pointed at both ends. This word is a French one in the feminine form and is pronounced mar-KEYS.

The marquise is rather an expensive diamond to cut because some of the rough stone must be ground away in forming the two pointed ends.

It is a very feminine and

HER HAND FOR DIAMONDS—If you're planning to get engaged in the near future, you should consider the shape of the diamond, and the shape of her hand. They should complement one another. The five most popular diamond shapes are: the oval cut (shown on hand) which seems larger than others of the same weight; the emerald cut which can be rectangular or square in outline; the round or brilliant cut; the marquise which is long with points at both ends; or the pear shape which is wide at one end and tapers to a point at the other.

graceful shape, and has been growing in popularity as an engagement ring choice in recent years. It has a great deal of fire and sparkle like the brilliant.

Brilliant cuts

The pear shape is the English name for the French "pendeloque" which is related to our word pendant. The cut is a variation on the brilliant cut, with one wide end curving smoothly to a point. The point of the pear is always worn toward the finger-mat.

The emerald cut—a straight-sided oblong—goes back centuries to the old table-cut method of fashioning gem stones, particularly emeralds. But the emerald cut diamond is the most recently developed of all the popular diamond shapes.

A diamond is forever

Because of its clean, modern look, the emerald cut diamond is most often set in platinum, usually with two baguette side stones. (Baguettes, by the way, are thin and rectangular, somewhat like the emerald cut, but with fewer facets.)

As with anything else, the shape of a diamond is a matter of individual taste—one is not preferable to another, they are all works of art.

But whatever the size and shape of a diamond, one thing is sure—a diamond is truly forever.

STERLING SPORTS

Dear Old

Sterling School Days

By KAREN PINEL and JUNE CANWELL

What will Sterling Jr. High School be like in the year 2525? This is a question asked by few and wondered about by many.

There are some students who like going to the school and doing all the work there but others would rather stay at home and go to school through television.

When I say television I mean electronic television (often known as teacher vision). Teacher vision is a computer used for teaching. Every morning, at a certain time, all of the kids turn on their teacher visions and begin their lessons. To do this they push a button and their teacher appears on the screen. She presents the lesson and sends the homework through a slot. This would be due the next morning.

As the students progress in their work the teacher vision must be reprogrammed so that student and computer can work on the same basis.

A lot of kids will still need a lot of structure. These students will have to come to school. The ones who are too lazy to walk won't have to move their little legs. There will be conveyor belts, that is, moving sidewalks. These sidewalks will be enclosed with heat for the winter and air conditioning for the summer. There will still be some stationary concrete areas for people who like to walk or jog.

When the students arrive at school, they will get on the escalators and go to their classrooms and lockers. At nine o'clock the teacher vision sets will be turned on.

All the classrooms will have computers for the kids to use. The cafeterias will be automats, everyone can choose what they want from a machine.

The days will end at 1:00 so students can pursue leisure time activities.

Of course no one is sure that the schools will be like this in the year 2525. By then everyone may even have a clone who would go to school for him or her while the student could stay at home and sleep. I guess no one will know until the year 2525.

What Makes A Basketball Coach Tick?

Today we talked with Mr. Meehan, the coach of the Girls Basketball Team. He lives in Avon. He has been teaching at Sterling for 11 years, and has been the coach of the basketball team for two years.

As the Basketball Coach, he is always teaching the girls something new. The team did great in the regular season. They were undefeated and are city champs.

This year's girls basketball team was undefeated and their star players were: Nancy MacDonald, Eileen Morrison, Kathy Duggan, Maureen Flaherty, Janice Burke and Diane Coska.

Congratulations to Mr. Meehan and the girls basketball team for a great season.

Sterling Wrestlers Showed Them The Light(s)

By JIM MCSWEENEY,
LARRY NASSON

Sterling's wrestling team "really had a hold on" things this year, finishing with a 6-2 record under Coach Sullivan. Their only losses fell to the hands of undefeated Broadmeadows.

The team "really pinned things down", in the city meet when they won three gold medals which was more than any other school. The winners were John Kozlowski at 108, Joe Bush at 125, and Mark Picot at 155. The team also had three silver and one bronze medals. The silvers were won by Joe Madden at 80, Mario Venturilli at 100, and Steven Ricci at 135. The bronze was won by Glen Oriola at 116.

Mr. Sullivan was happy about the performance of this year's team. He looks forward to next year, and he thinks that it will be a close race between Sterling, Broadmeadows, and Central. Mr. Sullivan was happy about the team spirit at practice and the help he got in practice from Mario Venturilli, John Kozlowski (this year's co-captain), Glen Oriola (this year's captain) and Joe Madden. Mr. Sullivan said he would like to start the boys earlier and put more moves in and work a little harder at practice next year. Mr. Sullivan would like you to know that they will be serving baked pierodactyls after practice during the 1979-80 season.

Better performance will result next season if this year's seventh graders get some motivation says Mr. Sullivan. Dave Coulter, Greg Rennie, and John Cacciatore look promising if they work hard and don't sit around eating twinkies and watching the Flintstones. Mr. Sullivan's plan for next year is to improve their record and win the city championship.

Congratulations to this year's team who showed many schools "the lights".

Dear Gabby

By CHERYL NURMI and LYNN MAZE

Dear Gabby,

For nine months, this boy that I met in school has been calling me. Our relationship is growing strong. Recently he started going out with another girl. He continues to call me. I really have strong feelings for him. He claims to have the same feelings for me, but he will not break up with the new girl. I feel cheated and left out. Please give me some advice.

Signed

Lost and All Alone

Dear Lost...

I think that you should talk to him about your problem. If he continues to go out with this new girl, try not to let it bother you. He may not be the right boy for you. Don't stay home on Friday nights just because of him. Go out and enjoy.

Sure hope it works out for the best!

Gabby

Dear Gabby,

I like this boy a lot, but he goes to a different school. I only see him about three times a year. When I do see him, he plays it cool. How can I get him to notice me? Don't say I should forget about him, because I can't. I love him!

Please help me!

Signed Troubled

Dear Troubled,

When you see him, don't just sit there going crazy, talk to him. Boys are shy and they need to know that you noticed them first. So, the next time that you see him, "Say hi!"

Good Luck!
Gabby

Dear Gabby,

I have this teacher and everybody hates him but I don't and I think I'm the only one. What do you think I should do?

Signed Ha Ha

Dear Ha Ha,

If I were you, I wouldn't let it bother me because your opinion is the only one that counts.

Sterling Girls Still Undefeated

By STEVE ALUISEY
WILLIAM HARRIS

Sterling Junior High was packed with spectators from the school for the traditional faculty vs. girls varsity basketball game.

The girls ended the faculty 37-34 in a vicious battle! They increased their record to 13-0 for the season. The pre-game strategy for the faculty was a long pep talk conducted by Mr. Fearless, Steve Fisherman, a social studies teacher.

The game started with tremendous intensity on and off the court. The first half was equally played and ended up at half time 16-16.

When the second half was ready to start both the players and the crowd knew it was going to be a fabulous half. The teachers came out with low percentage shots and shocked everyone. The girls played conservatively in the 3rd but rallied in the 4th with 10 straight points. With 30 seconds left on the clock, the girls up by 3, the crowd on their toes, the faculty brought the ball up and their offense just shut down. The faculty panicked and the Sterling

Girls Varsity basketball team became victorious 37-34.

BACKING EACH OTHER UP in their work on the Sterling newsletter are Debbie Gustin, left, and Mary Ann Kelleher.

Sterling's Cafeteria

By MARYANN KELIHER and DEBBIE GUSTIN

Sterling's cafeteria is very organized. We will take you through an ordinary lunch at Sterling's cafeteria. First, before lunch students go to the lavatory. This is the only time you can go to the bathroom during lunch. We have three lunch periods; first at 11:15 the seventh grade eats lunch, at 11:35 eighth grade, and last, at 12:05, the ninth grade.

We have students helping out in everyway. Some students help the lunch macons prepare and serve the lunches. Although some students are paid for working the cafeteria, all students at Sterling must help to take care of the room.

From each homeroom there is a table captain. There is a rotating schedule.

They clean the table where their homeroom sits. When they enter the cafeteria for lunch they have to report to Mr. Smith, the vice principal, so he knows they are there to clean the tables.

The lunch lines are organized. Everyone files in a single line until they come to the food counter. The lunch trays are already prepared for you to take. After you get your lunch you pay the lady at the end of the counter. You have to have exact change or else you can't buy lunch. You must have your money changed in the morning before school. We also have a line to buy milk. Ice cream and sometimes cookies.

After everyone is done eating Mr. Smith blows a whistle and says, "Table captains get to work; the rest of you outside." The table captains clear off their tables and Mr. Smith checks them, then the captains go outside.

The bell rings and everyone comes in from outside and gets back to work. Do you believe this all happens in 25 minutes!

What To Do To Prepare For The Blizzard Of '79

By NANCY D'OLIMPIO

Make sure you have enough wood for the fire place.

If you live on a hill, that's tough for you, you would have to get sand from where the sand barrel is to get car going without it slipping around from side to side.

One of the most important things to do is to turn your water on a little bit so your pipes won't freeze; if they do well then you're in trouble.

You should have plenty of supplies of food on hand.

Sometimes when snow falls lightly you believe that it will stay that way. The blizzard of '78 started out that way but, well, you know how that ended!

You should dress with layers of clothes and have boots with woolen socks.

If you are going to the store you should bring a sled with a box or anything tied on to groceries to bring home.

If the sidewalks are full of snow and you can't walk there walk away from traffic.

If a car slides you should jump a nearby snowbank.

The Sterling Gourmet

By PAM JACOBS and LINDA BUCCHERI

Did you know that Sterlingites have unusual appetites? Here are some of their favorite food combinations. Did you ever try eating:

1. Peanut butter, onion, and pickle salami rolls?
2. French fries dipped in vinegar?
3. A half cooked egg on a piece of bread with ketchup and mayonnaise?
4. Pickle and potato chip sandwiches?
5. Peanut butter and sliced cucumber and tomatoes with grated cheese?
6. Peanut butter and jelly sandwich dipped in milk?

7. Coffee with crushed crackers mixed with it?

8. Potato chips with vanilla ice cream on them?

9. Potato chips between two pieces of white bread with bologna and peanut butter?

10. Apple sauce and mashed potato's mixed together?

Now that you've read them, what do you think? Try them with a cool refreshing drink.

Take Me Out To The Ball Game

By CHRIS CONSTAS

The saying goes, "If you want something, you have to pay for it." This is also true in sports. People want good players for their favorite team, then complain when the players get a lot of money. Sports players should be paid plenty.

Players don't play long. After retirement they have their whole lives ahead of them. They need extra money to live on.

Also, while they are playing they never know when they might be traded. They're taking chances of getting hurt, too.

They remain for years in the Farm League. Some never even get to the majors.

Would you take these chances without high pay? I doubt it. That's why sports players should be paid plenty.

PRO AND CON -- Sports writers Chris Conostas, left and Paul Gray verbally debate the pros and cons of their separate stories on the issue of high pay for sports players while teacher Denise Dalton mediates.

I've Been Taken' ...Out To The Ball Game

By PAUL GRAY

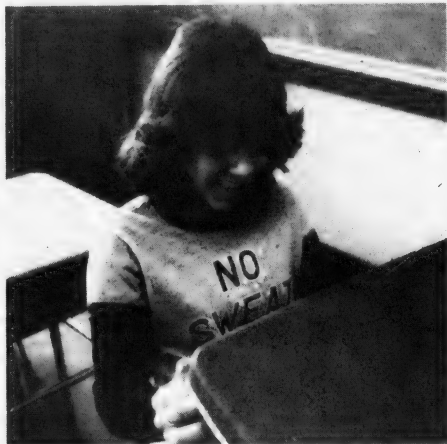

Whatever happened to the good old days when sports players enjoyed the game and could have cared less about money? It is the feeling of this sports fan that players shouldn't get so much money.

There are many reasons why I feel sports players are overpaid.

They play only eight or nine months of the year and in that time they make more money than most people do in two years. By the time they finish their careers they have so much money that they don't have to work again.

I have even heard it said that some ball players have had candy bars named for them.

As the salary of a sports figure increases, so does the price of entry into a sports arena. Refreshment prices increase also. Even so, what can we do about it. I know I'm still saving my pennies for opening day, at Fenway Park.

THE HEAT was on Cindy Manupelli when she appeared as an extra in "The Brinks Job" but she was as cool as the saying on her tee shirt.

Sterling Student Gets $320 From 'Brinks Job' -- Legally

By DEAN VANELLI

Did you know that a movie star attends Sterling Jr. High? Is it Tatum O'Neal, Adam Rich, Kristy McNichol? No! It is Cindy Manupelli!

Cindy was in the Brinks Job. She got in the movie when she was visiting her cousin, in the North End, Boston last summer. The movie company was having tryouts, and they took a picture of her. A month later the movie company called her on the phone and said Cindy was in the movie, and to report the next morning at 5:30 a.m.

Cindy had five parts in the movie. They were driving down the street in an old Cadillac, playing hop scotch, buying popcorn, playing in the rain, and talking with people on a street corner. She worked six days, 14 hours a day and got $320 for being in the movie.

Cindy had to wear knee socks, pointy shoes, a long skirt, a heavy coat, and a turtle neck sweater. Her hair was in an afro.

The stars of the movie are Peter Faulk, Warren Oats, and Jerry Murphy. I asked her if she talked with Peter Faulk and she did.

They talked about how long she worked for the company, her name, and how old she was. Then Peter left.

Cindy was so good in the movie, that many people have said, "Kristy McNichol should watch out."

Child Abuse Seminar At Wollaston School March 12

The Wollaston School faculty and PTA will present, in conjunction with the International Year of the Child, a child abuse and neglect seminar Monday, March 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the Wollaston School auditorium.

Deborah Murphy, child abuse investigator, Norfolk County District Attorney's Office, and Barbara Walsh, executive director, Children's Protective Services, Quincy, will discuss, "What is Child Abuse and Neglect?"

The film, "A Cry of Pain", will provide an overview of the situation.

Carolyn MacDougal, community representative, South Shore Council for Children, will speak on "Citizen Involvement in Preventing Child Abuse and Neglect."

A discussion period will follow. Coffee and refreshments will be served. The public is invited.

Curriculum Night Thursday At NQHS

Counselors at North Quincy High School have planned a Curriculum Night for parents and students of that school and Atlantic Junior High for tonight [Thursday] in the new cafeteria at 7 p.m.

Parents will visit each area of the new building to hear a brief overview of that department's share of the curriculum presented by the Department Head.

During March, counselors will be meeting with students to aid in course selection for the school year 1979-80. This program provides the opportunity for parents to clarify their understanding of the curriculum in order to assist their children in that process. Choosing courses is critical as it not only affects educational development, but career and personal development as well.

Favorable Report Expected On Bill For Liquor License At Wollaston Facility

license but the Quincy Licensing Board has turned them down.

"I don't want people to think that we are doing this because we don't like the people of Quincy," said Ambler, who filed the bill for the commissioners and chairs the Government Regulations Committee.

"It's not fair to the taxpayers of the other parts of the county. It's like a private country club for one corner of the county but the rest of the county has to pay for it."

"If we can't make it at least a non-deficit facility for the rest of the county then we have the obligation to file legislation to mandate the commissioners to sell it and get us out from under."

"If Quincy wants to purchase it then that should be its choice but I don't think the people of Quincy should have exclusive control over the taxpayers' money in the rest of the county."

Morrissey said he is opposed to the liquor license and will oppose it when it comes to the floor of the legislature. He is also opposed, he said, to the sale of the golf course.

"If the license doesn't go through," he said, "there'll be a strong push to sell the land. I don't think that would be inevitable. I think we can block that."

Morrissey noted that there was a federal investment in the county purchase of the golf course with the string attached that it was to be reserved for conservation and outdoor use.

Once the bill gets out on the floor, he said, "I'm going to try to amend it to death." He said he would try to have it limited to two years and also specify an early closing time.

"Nowhere in the General Laws in recent years," he said, "have we been able to find where the county commissioners have been empowered to grant a liquor license. It's a dangerous precedent."

Ambler said Quincy pays $16,000 as a deficit assessment for the facility and such remote places as Brookline pays $12,330 and Millis pays $1,400. Ambler's own town of Weymouth pays $10,000.

Ambler said he met with Morrissey, Brownell and Sen. Paul D. Harold (D-Quincy) last week to tell them about the coming favorable report.

He said he told Morrissey that he would agree to a stipulation that the liquor permit be a club license and have a time restriction of 10 p.m., "the same condition that was enjoyed for many years by the private club."

"The mistake the county commissioners made," said Ambler, "was that they did not get a transfer of the license as part of the purchase. But they never felt there would be any problem in getting one."

Ambler said he was against the county takeover of the golf club in the first place, "but I was a voice in the wilderness."

"Now we have it," he said. "We don't want to operate at a deficit if there is any way we can generate funds to break even. The rest of the county should not have the liability for what is located in one extreme corner of the county."

Meanwhile, City Councillor John J. Lydon Jr., who testified against the bill before the Government Regulations Committee, fired off a letter to Ambler further explaining his opposition.

Lydon said he considers it "an insult to our local licensing board, if that authority is taken away from them, as I feel they know the issue and have been involved with local officials and the neighborhood."

He said that during negotiations with residents over the choice of access road, the Norfolk Board of Advisors assured the neighborhood "that the facility was not going to be operated with a public, all alcoholic license."

"The facility has been operating for a short period of time," Lydon pointed out, "and in my opinion has shown a steady increase of cash flow and over the next few years should be operating in the black."

"Like any business starting out, it takes time to prove itself and to run at a profit."

"I strongly object to allowing an outside vendor to come into the facility and having an all alcoholic license issued, as I understand it, for the ridiculous sum of $400 per month."

"I cannot understand how this amount of money could assist Norfolk County's financial picture at the golf course."

"I have asked the question several times that if the Norfolk County commissioners feel that a license is so beneficial to the running of the golf course, why they have not sought the license themselves?"

Lydon reminded Ambler that federal funds put into the project mandated that it be a "family recreational facility, not to be operated exclusively as a golf course and tennis court operation."

"With all the controversy of the public drinking age now being voiced, and as this facility was intended to be a family recreational facility with many minors present, I would ask the committee for an unfavorable report on this legislation," he said.

Hannon To Speak At Merrymount

City Planning Director Walter Hannon, will speak on "Quincy Downtown Development" at a meeting of the Merrymount Association tonight (Thursday) at 8:30 p.m. in the parish hall of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, Sea St., Merrymount.

Board Re-Affirms Position

No Basement Bar Or Game Center For LeDisco

The Quincy Licensing Board Tuesday informed the operator of Le Disco, 77 Parking Way, Quincy, that the license issued Dec. 19 does not include a basement bar or game center.

Atty. Robert Brooks, representing James Kearney, the manager, assured the board Le Disco intended to abide by the restrictions in the license.

Kearney and his attorney were called before the board when board member Allan MacDonald (building inspector) learned that plans for Le Disco submitted to the state appeals board showed a basement bar.

Atty. Brooks said that the wrong set of plans had been presented and that there are no plans "at this time" to use the basement for anything but a storage area.

More than a dozen residents of the area attended the hearing. Chairman John Gillis told them that the board had already issued an all alcoholic-common victualer's license for the premises, with a 1 a.m. closing.

Le Disco's management had originally sought a 2 a.m. closing but it was denied. The board at the same time denied a request for a game center in the basement.

Rev. William McCarthy, pastor of St. John's Church, raised the question of the distance from the church to the discotheque. Gillis said that it was more than the required 500 feet.

Kearney told the board that work on the interior will be started as soon as the building permits are cleared. He said the work should be completed within two months, but could give no definite opening date.

Harold To Speak At QCBPA Meeting

Sen. Paul D. Harold [D-Quincy] will speak at a meeting of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association today (Thursday) at 8 a.m. in Caesar's Restaurant, 16

Cottage Ave. Harold will discuss pending legislation on state regulation of business and explain his bill to expand the use of tax incentives to encourage downtown development.

Hannon Reported Leaving For Private Post

Hannon served two terms as mayor of Quincy from 1972 to 1975 when he was defeated for reelection by Joseph J. LaRaia following a controversial recount.

While LaRaia was in City Hall, he served as director of the Economic Development Group for the South Shore Chamber of Commerce. Earlier, he owned the Hannon Tire Co. from 1949 to 1963.

Hannon lives with his wife.

Patricia, on Forbes Hill Rd., Wollaston. They have five children.

Boston Harbor Marina Inc., owned by Ron Courville, operates a skating rink and tennis courts in the old hangar of the Squantum Naval Air Station, as well as a marina on the site.

Last year, a bid by Carabetta Enterprises Inc. of Meriden, Conn., to build a $100 million apartment complex on 35 acres of the Marina's land was blocked by the city's refusal to change the zoning.

The Tobin Administration opposed the zoning change from Industrial A to Planned Unit Development to make way for the complex.

Major Repair For Main Library

[Cont'd from Page 1] "The building is like a sieve," said Watson. "Every rainstorm we discover new leaks in the slate and copper roof. Some of the slate tiles have blown away. We have lost reference books to water damage. "Some of the old brownstone is badly eroded right through to the wood. I reached out to examine it the other day and a piece broke off in my hand just like fudge.

"If we do the job right I can't imagine what it would cost."

"We would have to replace whole windows that we have been giving first aid to for years. They're such an unusual shape and size that they will have to be custom-designed. There are non in stock. I'm sure."

Chamber Opposes Elimination Of Sunday 'Blue Laws'

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce voiced its opposition to the elimination of Sunday "Blue Laws" in recent testimony before the Legislature's Joint Commerce and Labor Committee.

The Chamber cited increased business overhead costs, increased use of scarce energy resources, and general public opposition to the idea of allowing all stores to open on Sunday.

Ronald F. Frazier, Manager of Public Affairs for the Chamber, testified that the Chamber interviewed 500 South Shore business people and residents representing a cross section of the population, and found that 90 percent strongly opposed throwing out the laws against doing business on Sundays. At the same time he noted that no one came out strongly in favor of eliminating the laws.

It was pointed out that businesses would not realize any real increase in sales, since the consumer has only so many dollars to spend.

"People are going to spend the same amount in seven days as they did in six," Frazier told the committee. "They'll just spread it over a longer period of time. But the business person won't be the only one hurt by repeal of the Blue Laws, since consumers will end up paying more for products due to increased overhead costs for energy and staffing."

The Chamber of Commerce representative said that these higher prices, coupled with Massachusetts' sales, cigarette and alcohol taxes will drive more people to shop in bordering states such as New Hampshire.

Frazier also pointed out that smaller businesses and convenience stores do up to 60 percent of their business on Sundays, and the opening of larger stores on that day would be devastating to these "Mom and Pop" operations.

While the original religious basis for the Sunday Blue Laws may not be defensible in today's society, Frazier asked the legislators to carefully consider the positive social aspects of a "day of rest."

Frazier rejected the contention that elimination of the Blue Laws on Sunday would create new jobs. "The story we heard from retailers," he said, "was that no additional jobs would be made available. Management would simply allot the working time of their present labor force over a seven-day period without increasing the number of employees."

Frazier said the Chamber will continue to support moves to eliminate the Sunday Blue Law status of Patriots Day, Columbus Day and Veterans Day "... because it has been shown that these are, in fact, days when people will shop and spend a little bit extra, which has worked to the advantage of both the retailer and the state in the form of sales taxes."

"According to those participating in our survey, 'Blue Laws' elimination will do little to contribute to the economic revival of Massachusetts," Frazier said. "It will simply cost the consumer more for the privilege of being able to shop on Sunday, while eating up our energy resources and contributing to the break-down of family life."

Civil Defense Units Seek Disability Benefits, Training Academies

Quincy Auxiliary Police and other volunteer civil defense groups are seeking support for legislation covering establishment of auxiliary police training academies and increased disability benefits for civil defense workers.

A hearing will be held at the State House, Wednesday, March 21 on House Bill 5358 calling for establishment of training academies with day and evening courses related to police duties and civil defense training. The bill was introduced by Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy).

On March 19 a hearing will be held on the increased benefits legislation. This bill, or similar legislation, has been before the General Court annually for more than 20 years.

"This year we are getting more support," said Police Auxiliary,

Sgt. Frank Davis.

Currently an unemployed volunteer receives compensation of $35 weekly, plus $2.50 for each dependent. The bill would upgrade this to Workmen's Compensation levels.

The legislation would also increase the burial allowance from $500 to $1,000 and raise a widow's annuity to $2,860 with $312 for each dependent.

system, announces Cong. Brian J. Donnelly (D-Boston).

Total cost of the project will be $185,000, of which one-fourth will standards, the public will have faith, employers will have faith and the result will be better public education in the Commonwealth," the commissioner said.

He said that all 437 school districts throughout the state are involved in the program although none have the student participation he found in Quincy.

He also noted that while it has been found in state assessment test programs the students do well in fundamentals they often have difficulty in applying the same principles to a specific task.

"That is, a student will read a paragraph well," he explained, "but when they have to read a paragraph of directions they can't do as well."

"The application of a basic skill is important whether you call it a basic skill, a life skill, a survival skill, or whatever. People may be able to write, spell and punctuate, but when they come to write a paragraph they make mistakes."

In answer to a question regarding the affect of test grades on promotion or high school graduation Anrig said that his position has "turned around 180 degrees."

"The state board's position now," he said, "is not to tie in these standards to high school graduation. I don't believe that these important steps should hinge on any one piece of information."

He pointed out that a student may not feel well on the day of a particular test and that some youngsters just freeze when it comes to taking tests.

"The board's conclusion was that promotion or graduation should be based on a whole variety of information, grades, attendance, teacher evaluation, performance and other factors, and not on just one test."

He added that there is nationwide pressure for basing graduation on the tests, but it has not been considered by Massachusetts as yet.

He also assured the students that the test is a means and not the end. The testing will be done early enough in the student's academic life to reveal any possible areas of difficulty so that action can be taken to help the student overcome the difficulty.

"The test is to find out where we are at and then what we can do about it," he said. "We want to find out how we are doing as a school and as an individual."

The concept that excessive amounts of sugar and refined starches are the chief offenders in dental health is not a new one. Research as early as 1867 indicated there was a relationship between the ingestion of sugar and tooth decay. Fortunately, the saliva has a tendency to neutralize harmful acids produced by bacteria on foods. In addition, fibrous foods such as fruits and vegetables are also helpful in keeping the mouth clean and free from acid-producing factors that can be harmful to teeth. Preventive dentistry and good oral hygiene are stressed at the office of Dr. Daniel P. Sweeney, D.D.S., 539 Adams St., East Milton Square. As a family dentist, Dr. Sweeney works with patients who are very young (from 3 years) to Golden Aged. Call our office at 698-3636 for an appointment at your convenience. Amorosino: 'They Were Tremendous'

Midnight Ends Tourney Dreams For Cinderella Team

By TOM SULLIVAN

Midnight arrived for Quincy's Cinderella basketball team last week when the Presidents, who had rebounded from a 1-21 season to tie for second place in the Suburban League and qualify for the state tournament, bowed to Durfee of Fall River, 61-42, in their opening game.

Quincy trailed by only 23-19 at halftime but Durfee, taking advantage of turnovers, scored the first eight points in the third period for a 31-19 lead and that was it. Durfee outscored Quincy, 20-11, in the period to take a 43-30 lead into the finale and it continued to widen its lead.

"You hate to see it all end, but it has to end someplace," said Coach Joe Amorosino. "These boys had a tremendous job in winning their last four games and eight of their last 10 to qualify for the tournament and there aren't many teams which have come back from a 1-21 season to qualify. These kids were just tremendous all season and I'm so proud of them."

Junior Brian Donovan, the Suburban League's number two scorer, had 20 points and scored 14 of the Presidents' last 23 points. Amorosino will be building around him next year.

"Brian showed me a lot of heart tonight and he wouldn't give up," Amorosino said. "The way I see it, you had to be a champion to get here and the important thing was that they got a taste of tournament competition."

"All the young kids were coming back into the locker room yelling, 'We'll be back here next year, and I believe they will. We had a lot of fine underclassmen.'"

Quincy had edged North Quincy, 41-39, to tie for second in the league and automatically qualify for the tournament, then finished up by topping Oliver Ames' Hockamock League champions, 56-41.

Amorosino was given the traditional dunking in the shower after Quincy clinched the tournament berth with its win over North, which gave the Presidents all they could handle throughout the game.

"Nobody expected us to be where we are now and there must be a lot of red faces out there," said the happy coach as his clothes were wet but his enthusiasm was undampened as he savored the victory.

For three periods neither team was able to take more than a four-point lead. The smaller Raiders held their own on the boards and both teams kept turnovers to a minimum.

"We had trouble getting the ball up court against their press and we looked to Carrera who did the job because he had to," Amorosino concluded.

The teams were tied at 27 going into the final period but Carrera scored 10 of the team's 14 points in the period as Quincy pulled it out.

Carrera had 12 points and Donovan added 11 for the Presidents.

Amorosino had a big decision to make during last year's nightmarish season.

He could continue to use his seniors or he could use his younger players and give them valuable experience for this season.

He decided on the underclassmen.

"I had to make the decision and it paid off for us this year," the Quincy coach said. "If I continued to use the seniors last year we might have had another 1-21 season this year. We pointed toward this year with everything we did last year. All our drills, the players' developing their individual skills, our special programs, everything was done with an eye toward this season.

"There aren't many teams that came back from a 1-21 season to qualify for the tournament and there are many teams with far superior records than ours last year who failed to qualify this year."

Quincy's balance played a big role in this season's success. The Presidents had a strong bench and a number of players contributed heavily to the season.

Junior Brian Donovan was the league's number two scorer. Seve Priscella, a sophomore, had an outstanding year, and the seniors, who gained vital experience by playing regularly last year as juniors, did their part.

"We didn't rely on any one player," Amorosino said. "Andy Carrera, a junior, pulled us through the tough North Quincy game by scoring 10 of his 12 points in the final period and Jeff Connerty scored 24 points to spark us against Oliver Ames."

Capt. Dana Guidice, Connerty, Mike Connolly, Ray, Coscia and Tom MacKay, the seniors, all played well and Ritch Finnegan, and Kurt MacDonald, all had a hand in the team's success.

In the finale against Oliver Ames Priscella was the only other player in double figures as the Presidents dominated the boards as Connerty had 10 rebounds to go with his 24 points. Priscella had nine to go with his 10 points. Donovan [eight points] had eight, and Connolly [five points] grabbed nine.

Raiders Looking To Next Year And A Home

North Quincy's "homeless" basketball team finished up with a 7-11 record last week and just missed knocking Quincy out of the state tournament.

Coach Eddie Miller and the Raiders are eagerly looking forward to next year and a home.

North has not had a home court for the last three years but next season will have its beautiful new gym, one of the best facilities in the area, ready and the players are ready to go home.

For three years North has played its home games at the Quincy Vo-Tech gym and done its practicing at the Lincoln-Hancock School.

Not only will the Raiders again have a home gym but most of this year's players will be back to enjoy it.

"Our seniors (Mark Roberts, Kevin Cobban, Jim Holleran and Bill Harrow) deserve a lot of credit for staying in the program without a home of their own," said Miller. "We've had to bus our team for every practice and game, so I guess we are all looking forward to next year when things will be different."

Miller hopes the new facility will result in North Quincy players staying at North instead of going to outside schools as so many do now.

The Raiders gave Quincy all it could handle last week before bowing, 41-39, as the Presidents tied for second place in the Suburban League and qualified for the state tournament.

The game was tied at 27 after three periods. North stayed with the Presidents on free throws by Mark Millane, outstanding sophomore, and Bill O'Connell but Quincy bounced back to take its biggest lead, 40-33, with less than two minutes left.

Millane and O'Connell kept it close down the stretch but the Raiders were unable to make the final shot after a timeout with 12 seconds left.

"It was anyone's game but they made some shots at the end and we didn't," Miller said. "We were able to create foul situations much better than we did the first time against Quincy (Quincy won that one by 10 points) and we threw in some man-to-man defensive pressure which was effective."

Holleran, held to eight points, wound up as the number three scorer in the league. Millane, who had 11, had a sensational season for a sophomore and O'Connell, who had 12 points, also had an excellent season. Cobban, the quarterback on the football team, also was the basketball team's 'quarterback.'

NORTH QUINCY'S basketball team, without a home court for the past three years, will be back home playing at this beautiful new gym, one of the finest facilities in the area, next season. Three games can be played simultaneously. The North Quincy Parents Advisory Group is shown inspecting the gym.

Central Defeats Atlantic, Broad Meadows Takes Point

The Central Junior High basketball team defeated Atlantic, 40-28, with Mike Guidice scoring 12 points and played a fine two-way game.

Broad Meadows romped over Point, 55-29, with its finest showing of the season, with a tenacious defense being the key. The BM press caused many Point turnovers which were turned into easy baskets. Jim DiPietro had his best game of the year with 17 points and outstanding rebounding and Steve Spencer had 12 points. Jim Donnelly led Point with seven points.

The Point junior varsity defeated BM, 35-27, sparked by Paul McCray's 12 points. Mike Williams scored 14 for BM.

Atlantic defeated Point 43-28. Sparked by the shooting of Bill Gray and the fine defense of Paul Murphy, Atlantic led, 22-19, at the half. A three-point play by Chip Bunker and some good work by Pat King enabled Atlantic to get off to a fast start in the third period and it soon pulled away. Gray led all scorers with 16 points.

Earlier Atlantic defeated Central 31-26, with a late scoring spurt. With 1:30 left in the game Sterling came from five points behind to take the lead but Atlantic came right back with a driving shot by King to regain the lead and on the inbound pass the ball was stolen by Murphy, who passed to Gray for a layup. With only seconds remaining Atlantic stole another pass and Bunker sank an insurance basket. Gray had 10 points and Jim White added nine for Atlantic.

Central defeated Broad Meadows, 38-18, displaying a potent defense. Wesley Paul placed Central with 18 points, while David Church and Mike Burnes also played well.

Point snapped a two-game losing streak by defeating Sterling, 30-19, as Peter Papile scored 10 points and Javier Perez had eight. Dave MacDonald played outstanding defense and Gary Durante was outstanding as he came off the bench.

Sterling won the junior varsity game, 24-22, despite 14 points by the losers' Chris McCray.

tennis nets are being installed at municipal tennis courts this week for those who wish to take advantage of the good weather.

Executive Secretary Richard J. Koch, said work has started on removing caps on drains of the combination skating and tennis court areas throughout the city. The debris is being removed and the courts are being swept in anticipation of an early spring.

Koch has informed the park and recreation board that turf areas in ballfields, parks, playgrounds and beach areas have suffered severe damage during recent months. He said most of the damage was caused by four-wheel drive vehicles leaving large ruts in grass areas.

He said the damage will result in a delay in spring field preparation. Hundreds of yards of material and loam will be needed to fill in the depressions, Koch said.

Boys Basketball Tournaments Underway

The Quincy Recreation Department's annual Boys Basketball and Senior High Basketball Tournaments got under way Saturday with games at Broad Meadows and Sterling Junior high schools.

In elementary action, Central, Atlantic, Snug Harbor and Beechwood Knoll advanced to next Saturday's second round.

Central, paced by the 12 points of Jim Sheets, held off a fourth quarter rally by Atherton Hough to take a 28-23 win. Tad Sheets added eight points for the winners while Al Martell, John Christiani and Matt Eloffson each scored two points. Atherton Hough was led by Kevin Servaes with eight points while Joe Conti, Paul Miller and Mark Aboud chipped in with two each.

Nine players scored in Atlantic's 42-20 win over Squantum. Leading the way for Atlantic were Ken Runge with 12 points, Jim Arroyo, and Ed Kennedy with six each and Mark Scanlon, Pat O'Sullivan and Anthony LaValle with four apiece.

Squamant was led by Joe Newton, and Chris Noble on offense while Dave Gains and Joe Strosio stood out on defense.

Keith Burt and Pat Lynch each scored 10 points to lead Snug Harbor over Wollaston 20-14. Matt Hanley and George McGinnis stood out defensively for the winners. Wollaston was led by the 10 points of Mark McDonald followed by Chris Costello with four, Mike Barron and Dave Ayles played fine defensive games.

In the day's final game Beechwood Knoll defeated Montclair, 14-10. Larry Leonard with eight points led the Beech scorers while Mike Kiley, and Chris Roberts chipped in with two each. Luis Morales led the Montclair attack with four points while John Ennis, Chris Grey and John Osgood added two each.

Next Saturday's quarter final round will see Point tapping off against Central and Snug Harbor playing Merrymount at 8:30 a.m., followed by Atlantic vs. Wollaston "B" and Beechwood Knoll vs. Sterling at 9:30 a.m. at Broad Meadows.

Senior High action saw Snug Harbor, behind the 20 points of Dave Austin, defeat Broad Meadows "A", 45-41. Other scorers for Snug Harbor were Dan Goldrick with 10, Fran Donovan, 6; Jim Magnia, 5; and Tom Brennan, 4. Broad Meadows was led by Bill Burts 14 points while Dave Grindle added 10. Other Meadow scorers were Mike Shea with six and Mike Mattson with four.

Broad Meadows "B" used a Tom Murphy hoop with seven seconds left to play to defeat Merrymount, 33-32. Murphy led all scorers with 11 points while Darrin O'Neil added 10. Other Meadow scorers were Chris Loeb and Mike Ducey with five each. Merrymount was led by Paul McConville with 10. Steve Walsh added nine and Dave Moloy and Gussie Gonzales each scored four.

10-year-old Sets Record For Mile

Ten-year old Harry Morash of the Quincy Track Club electrified the crowd in racing to a club record 5:33.7 in the mile run at last Saturday's Danvers-North Shore Striders meet.

The youngster went on to set a club record 3:08.9 in the 1000 at Taunton the following night.

Eleven-year old Georgia Traficante remained undefeated in her age group, winning the 50-yard hurdles at Danvers in a national best time of 7.9, winning the 600 in 1:41 and taking the high jump at 4-6.

In Taunton she won the hurdles, lowering her mark to 7.79 and winning the 1000 and high jump.

Also winning at Taunton were Tommy Walsh, setting a club record 6.9 in the 9 and under 50; Deirdre Murphy in the shot, 300 and 1000 in 7 and under; Kathy Shea, 9 and under 50; Clare Murphy, 9 and under high jump, and Maureen Roche, 12-13 50, 300 and high jump.

Other outstanding performers for Quincy were Lorie McNeill, Alma Crehan, Tira Hamilton, Elaine Santo, Sheila Barrett, Eileen Crehan and Beth Veneto.

In boys action at Taunton Mike Ross won the 12-13 hurdles, Kevin Roche won the 9 and under hurdles and Mike Williams, Brian Roche, Pat Murphy and Don Hamilton also did well as 30 QTC members participated.

In the Danvers meet Denise Santo won the 50. Margaret Osterman was second in the 600 with a club 14-15 record of 1:35.2, and Mary Crehan was second in the mile with a club indoor women's record time of 5:33.7. Coach Jeff Hennessy won the men's hurdles and 600.

The QTC will hold dual meet with Taunton Track Club this weekend and several club members will participate March 24 in a meet at Brooklyn's Pratt Institute.

4 Teams Left In Women's Tournament

Four teams remain in contention in the 24th annual South Shore Women's Candlepin Bowling Tourney sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy. They will clash in the semi-finals Sunday at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome.

The stage was set Sunday afternoon in the tourney quarter-finals as the Wollaston Monday Night Women bowled high for the day to oust the Pin Ups 1468-1410. The Rag Dolls edged Supreme 1464-1455, D.C.A.S.R. Lucky Strikes defeated The Queen Pins 1437-1352, and the Eight O'clock Rollers topped the Rollerettes 1425-1415.

The Wollaston Women jumped off to a 26-pin first string lead, and captured the final two of their 58-pin victory.

Linda Coughlin led the Wollaston Women combine with a 309 and was aided by Roberta Misner who chipped in a 303.

Val Lavers was top for the Pin Ups with 301.

The Rag Dolls spotted the Supreme Entry 44 pins in the opening frame gained back 13 in the second and pulled it out in the third string as the Supreme went cold.

Marion Alibrandi scored 322 for Supreme in a losing cause.

D.C.A.S.R. opened up with a 23-pin lead in the opening string, caught the Queen Pins in a second string freeze and roared to add 71 more in the second for a 94-pin lead going into the final, and coasted to their third tourney victory.

Maureen MacPherson was tops for D.C.A.S.R. with 318, and Mary Ann MacNair had 299. Joan LaFleur with 286 was high for the Queen Pins.

The Eight O'clock Rollers ran up a 54-pin first string lead but watched it dwindle to 10 pins at the end of two, a third string standoff assured the winners of their third tourney triumph.

Noreen Mastroianni held the Eight O'clock team in front scoring a 326, and Carol Pitts aided the cause with a 306.

Rose Ferris with 293 was tops for the losing Rollerettes. The championship team will be presented a $50 cash award, and each member will receive an individual trophy from the Koch Club of Quincy.

Trophies will also be provided for top tourney average, high three string total, and single string.

The tourney has been sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy for the past 24 years as part of its Winter Athletic and Recreation Programs.

Burke, Brooks To Receive Chamber Leader Awards

Former Congressman James A. Burke will be honored as "Statesman of the Year," and William G. Brooks of Braintree as "Community Leader of the Year" by the South Shore Chamber of Commerce at its annual meeting March 30 at the Lantana, Randolph.

A third special award, for "Business Leader of the Year," will be announced later pending acceptance by a vacationing recipient now out of state.

The Chamber's Leader Recognition Awards Committee, headed by Everett Grossman of Grossman's, selected Burke and Brooks for the awards on the basis of the two men's contributions to the quality of life and economic prosperity on the South Shore.

Burke, a Milton resident, represented the 11th Congressional District in the House of Representatives for the past 20 years. Until his retirement at the end of the last session, Burke served on the House Ways and Means Committee, and was Chairman of the House Subcommittee on Social Security.

Before going to Washington, D.C., Burke served 10 years in the Massachusetts Legislature. During World War II he served in the 7th Infantry division in the Pacific with a counter intelligence unit.

Brooks who lives on West St., Braintree, and is former manager of the Armstrong Cork plant in Braintree, "has contributed more of his time to the community than one could expect in three lifetimes," said Grossman.

Besides being one of the organizers, past president, and now director and honorary president of Quincy Junior College, Brooks is chairman of the Braintree Industrial and Business Development Commission, a lifetime director on the board of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, a director of the Quincy YMCA, a trustee of South Shore Hospital, a Braintree town meeting member since 1939, a member of the governing board of the new Braintree Hospital, and a incorporator of New England Deaconess Hospital of Boston for more than 40 years.

He was founder and director of the North, South, and East Braintree Little League, Pony Leagues, and Senior Leagues in baseball, and past director of the Braintree chapter of the American Red Cross. Brooks also contributed his time and talents to the Neighborhood Club of Quincy, the Braintree Airport Commission, the Braintree Airport Association, the Tufts chapter of Delta Upsilon Fraternity, Inc., the Men's Club at All Souls Church, Braintree, the Cochato Club of Braintree, the Braintree High School Sports Council, the Rotary Club and the Braintree Choral Society.

The Chamber's Leader Recognition Award Committee comprised, in addition to Grossman: Dave Devine, Boston Mutual Life Insurance; Rita Welch, Colonial Nursing Home of Weymouth; Gerald Reilly, Gerald T. Reilly & Company; John Spence, Rockland Trust Company; John Blake, Colony, Inc.; Jack Conway, Jack Conway & Company, Inc.; Andrew Walsh, Walsh's Restaurant.

Dick Flavin will be the guest master of ceremonies, with music by the Bob Jennings Orchestra. Reservations and ticket information for the dinner dance can be obtained by calling the chamber at 479-1111.

Without Paying Tuition

Iranian Student Allowed To Complete Senior Year At NQHS

The Quincy school committee last week voted approval of a request to allow an Iranian student, now the ward of a Wollaston couple, to complete his senior year at North Quincy High School without paying tuition.

Hadi Farshani, currently living with Mr. and Mrs. Jason Stone of Holbrook Rd., was accepted with the stipulation that if he returns in September he will be charged tuition.

The action came after a lively debate during which some members of the committee, led by Frank Anselmo, warned that to permit foreign students—or any students not residents of Quincy—to enter the system would be setting a dangerous precedent.

Anselmo and Committeeman

John Sullivan said that it is legally and morally improper to spend money on foreign students while talking about closing schools.

Mayor Arthur Tobin, chairman of the committee said that all the talk about opening the doors to a flood of students from Boston was "the kind of emotionalism we want to avoid."

"Reasonable, intelligent people will put the emotional issue aside and vote on the individual merits of the case," the Mayor said.

Vice Chairwoman Patricia Toland said that during her time on the School Committee she has seen only four requests from foreign students. She reminded the committee that Quincy participates in at least two programs encouraging cultural exchange.

Toland said she did not think that the addition of one student to the school population would have any affect on the school budget.

Tobin, Toland and committee members Mary Collins, and Christopher Kennedy voted acceptance of the Iranian student tuition-free for the remainder of the year.

On a motion by Anselmo the board then voted that Farshani should be charged tuition if he does not have enough credits to graduate in June and wants to return to school. Anselmo was joined by Tobin, Sullivan and Joani Picard in favoring the motion. Collins, Toland and Kennedy abstained.

$71,000 Program To Inform Seniors

After the information is obtained it will be summarized, put into a cross-indexed booklet and distributed to each household with one or more residents 60 years old or over.

The outreach workers will carry identification cards issued by the Quincy Police Department when they deliver the booklets. Seniors who wish more information may call the Council on Aging.

The Mayor estimated that there are probably at least 2,500 seniors in Quincy who are in need of services but are unaware of what is available to them and how to obtain it.

"Our goal is to reach 100 per cent of our senior citizen population and keep them informed," he said.

The Council on Aging is planning to spend a $71,000 CETA grant on an intensive program designed to inform the city's senior citizens of the programs and services available to them.

The money will be used to hire six field workers, one for each ward, and a coordinator based in the Council on Aging office.

"There has been an incredible amount of confusion and misunderstanding by older residents of Quincy in securing services to which they are entitled," said Mayor Arthur H. Tobin.

"This project will eliminate this confusion by offering all senior citizens of Quincy a comprehensive guide to programs and services created for their use."

A second, phase of the program will be the possible establishment of a comprehensive shopping transportation system, an expansion of the service now provided to senior citizen housing.

"Area supermarkets have agreed to support this proposed transportation network provided we can assure them of adequate volume to cover costs," said the Mayor.

During the first two months of the project, the six field workers will be assigned the task of obtaining all current information from social service agencies that serve Quincy's elderly.

Craig DiBona Granite Cooperative Contest Winner

The name of Craig DiBona of 47 Blue Hill Terrace, Milton has been drawn as one of 12 weekly winners in a contest being held by the Granite Co-operative Bank of Quincy.

The public is invited to guess the amount of cash handled by the bank between February 1st and April 30th. The person guessing the closest will win a Panasonic Console Color TV worth nearly $700.

Each week the bank draws one of the entries submitted and awards a prize from amongst other Panasonic merchandise.

DiBona won a Panasonic Tape Recorder.

At Board Meeting

Creedon, Anselmo Clash On Employees Overtime Pay Issue

Overtime pay for school custodians and maintenance employees was the subject of a brief but lively discussion at last week's School Committee meeting.

The matter was placed on the agenda by committeeman Frank Anselmo who insists that overtime could be reduced considerably by having part-time employees do work that regular employees are now being called back to perform.

He contended that $20,000 could be saved if part-time workers were utilized for snow removal in place of regular maintenance men who must be paid at overtime rates. He pointed out that the city's public works department uses part-time workers for such jobs.

Anselmo told the committee that it appears that overtime is distributed unevenly and this, he said, could lead to a union grievance. He asked for a new schedule of overtime work distribution so that "the men will have no squawk."

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon took issue with Anselmo's contention that part-time employees could be used to handle the snow removal work performed by maintenance men. He pointed out that regular employees man the snow-blowers and plows to clear out school yards, while the part-time workers are hand-shovelers.

Creedon said he resented Anselmo's contention that overtime is not distributed equally, adding that the school system has received no grievance claims from custodial or maintenance men.

Anselmo, however, contended that some men have received more than 1,000 hours of overtime during the year. He cited one case in which, he said, a worker is getting 25 hours a week and another where a man got $8,670 in overtime.

Creedon said he was ready to discuss specific cases and had the names and amounts paid.

During the discussion on overtime committee member Joan Picard left the room. Her husband, Tom Picard, is senior electrician in the school system.

Mrs. Picard was elected to the committee in the last election, edging out Anselmo in his bid for re-election. Anselmo was later named to the committee following the resignation of Frank McCauley to take a seat in the city council.

Creedon also pointed out that most of the $40,000 in overtime goes to custodians who work when the school buildings are rented to community organizations. The overtime paid by the groups goes directly into the city treasury and does not revert to the school system, he said. As a result overtime appears to be a more substantial part of the school budget than it actually is, Creedon explained.

Anselmo moved for a complete analysis of the overtime system by the superintendent and called on him to confer with union leaders and school administrators to find ways of cutting the figure.

Committee member John Sullivan moved to table the motion and it will remain on the table until Creedon's report is ready.

Second To Weymouth Quincy's Licensed Dog Population: 3,809

Quincy with 3,809 dogs has the second highest canine population in Norfolk County, exceeded only by Weymouth with 3,844 licensed pets, according to county treasurer James M. Collins.

Throughout the county, according to the report, there are 48,442 licensed dogs, a decrease of 4,000 from last year's figure. There are 24,496 male dogs, 3,594 female dogs and 19,838 dogs listed as spayed.

Quincy received $4,101 from the $53,422 in disbursements to communities throughout the county. During 1978 the county collected $152,393 from the 28 communities. Dog disbursements amounted to $98,871 and the remaining receipts were returned to the towns to be used for library purposes.

Weymouth received $3,884; Needham, $2,980; Walpole, $2,836 and Dedham, $2,705.

Needham was third in the number of licensed dogs, reporting 2,839, followed by Weymouth with 2,816 and Dedham with 2,600.

Kennel dogs were not included in the count. During the year 514 kennel licenses were issued. Collins listed them as 386 of the $10 variety, 91 of the $25 variety, and 37 of the $50 kind. There were also 359 dogs sold by the towns.

Once each month it is our practice to calculate how much cash is handled by our bank. So, we've decided to make a contest of guessing the total of our cash transactions. The period covers three months beginning February 1st and ending April 30th. If your guess is the closest we will award you first prize... a $700.00 Panasonic Color TV. Please be precise, and to the penny. You may guess each time you enter the bank. No deposit is necessary. Enter often. Each entry increases your chances of winning. The official contest rules are printed on the entry blanks. Take into consideration that "cash" also includes all checking transactions... and... into our total goes mortgages that are granted or payments that are made, all loans and loan payments, the bank's operating expenses, all deposits and withdrawals, the fees for traveler's checks or money orders. Any money the bank takes in or pays out will be calculated in the total. Here's a hint: Our total cash flow runs from twelve million dollars to fifteen million dollars each month. Good Luck!

Sometimes it seems that there is nothing as annoying or upsetting as losing a single earring. It means not only losing something that is valued, but also not knowing what to do with its partner, which might mean a great deal either financially or sentimentally. Well, there's no need to bury the mate alive in the bottom of your drawer or jewelry box. Instead, just convert it by mounting it on a pin backing. It may look more attractive on your blouse than it ever did on your ear!

If you would like to convert a piece of jewelry you own to something more in style with your current way of life, come in and talk to us at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., East Milton, 696-1490. All work is done by our experts, here on the premises. Open: Mon. thru Sat., 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.

Filene's Expected To

Sears Departure May 'Enhance' Chances Of East-West Connector

By TOM HENSHAW

The departure of Sears Roebuck and Co. from downtown Quincy may enhance the chances of an East-West Connector under Hancock St. that will satisfy the objections of Quincy Center merchants.

The connector, which would join Granite St. with McGrath Highway, was to have taken a loop around the Sears building and merchants protested that it would destroy too many downtown stores.

"Our original proposal was to go underneath Hancock St. through Kincaid Furniture store to preserve Sears," said the Rev. Bedros Baharian, citywide development coordinator.

"The proposal that we're studying now since Sears announced it's going to leave is to straighten out the road a little bit and go through part of the Sears store and down Revere Rd.

"This would cause less displacement of merchants in the Hancock St. area.

"But we have made a commitment to the merchants in Quincy that until we can sell them the idea that the road is worthwhile we will not proceed with it and that agreement still stands."

Baharian said it is not likely that the 80,000-square feet of space being left behind by Sears will be rented out as a single unit.

"My personal opinion is that it's going to be extremely difficult to get a general merchandise store to come in and occupy a building the size of the old Sears store," he said.

"The probable solution to the use of Sears space will be that it will have to be subdivided and probably used by several specialty shops that we hope to entice into the city."

Baharian said the Boston real estate firm of Meredith and [Cont'd on Page 14]

Grant May Be Cut To $2.6 Million

City Officials 'Optimistic' After UDAG Washington Mission

Mayor Tobin led a delegation to Washington Tuesday in support of a $3.7 million Urban Development Action Grant and members of the party described themselves as "optimistic" after a two-hour meeting with officials of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

"The man from HUD said he is well going to remember Quincy, and that was his quote," said Cong. Brian J. Donnelly [D-Boston], who set up and attended the meeting between the visitors from Quincy and Philip Comeau, a senior HUD official.

In an earlier interview, Rev. Bedros Baharian, citywide development coordinator, told The Sun that the original UDAG request had been scaled down from $4.5 million to $3.7 million and "I wouldn't be surprised to see it cut to $2.6 million."

"If it is cut further from the $3.7 million," he said, "we're going to have to float approximately a $1 million bond issue to help pay for the garage. The banks in the city already have agreed to buy the bonds and the revenue from the garage will pay for the debt service."

The UDAG is being sought to construct a parking garage over the MBTA tracks near Granite and Hancock Sts. to go along with a $10 million, 10-story office building that is proposed for the Della Chiesa Parking Area.

Tobin called the Tuesday morning meeting with Comeau "a good working session."

"We're in a real risk factor because of the competition across the country," he said. "Some of the cities we're in competition with have more private investment involved than we can ever have."

The Mayor said HUD is looking for ratios of five and six to one private investment to federal funds while Quincy has been able to muster only a three to one commitment from the private sector.

"We have to work harder to [Cont'd on Page 14]

American Indian Gets $17,805 Job

Charge Of 'Fix' Raised, Denied In QHA Carpenter Minority Hiring

The Quincy Housing Authority has hired an American Indian from Hanover for the $17,805 job as carpenter amid charges that the selection process was "fixed" for a minority candidate.

"The decision of hiring this minority had already been made before the Board had even interviewed the last six candidates," said John R. Spanks Jr. of North Quincy, one of those candidates.

"The thing was all set in the front office before they even walked in here," Lenny Ducey, a member of the Harborview Residents Council, was quoted as saying.

"He's got evidence of that, has he?" said an angry Carmine D'Olimpio, vice chairman of the QHA Board of Commissioners. "I say that he doesn't. That's simply not true."

"I don't believe that any governmental agency ever held a more open process than the

Richard Koch, Jr. Candidate For Council

Richard J. Koch Jr., 24, of 38 Whiton Ave., Quincy Point, a member of a family long active in civic affairs, has announced his candidacy for city councillor-at-large in the fall elections.

He is the son of Richard J. Koch Sr., executive secretary to the Park and Recreation Board and founder of the Koch Club with social and athletic branches in several parts of the city.

Young Koch, who will receive a degree from Northeastern this year, was recently married to the former Nancy Kelly of Wollaston and works as a claims representative for the Kemper Insurance Co. of North Quincy.

He said his participation in community activities inspired him to seek "to serve as an elected official to contribute time and energy in an effort to help resolve the problems confronting local government."

A lifelong resident of Quincy, he attended Sacred Heart Elementary and Junior High Schools and was graduated from North Quincy High School in 1973. His degree field at Northeastern was criminal justice.

Koch is a graduate of Koch Club recreational activities, including baseball, basketball, bowling and softball. He is presently director of the club's North Quincy District Basketball Program.

He is also manager of the Koch Club Men's Softball Team and president of the Koch Club's Men's Bowling League. He is a member of the City Club and co-founder of the South Suburban Men's Softball League.

In addition to his work as a volunteer for the Heart Fund, Cancer Crusade, Kidney Foundation and Muscular Dystrophy Telethon, Koch is a former member of the Ward 6 Democratic Committee.

Pending Proper Drainage

License Approved For Wendy's

Wendy's Restaurants have been granted a common victualer's license at 191-201 Newport Ave., Wollaston, contingent on approval of drainage conditions by the zoning board of appeals.

Atty. Peter Eeley, representing Wednorth Corporation, the franchisee, assured the City Licensing Board Tuesday that the problem of water run-off has been discussed with the city engineer and plans have been drawn up to handle the drainage.

Robert Booth, engineer for Wendworth, explained the plans for a swale to carry the water down to Arlington St., to a catch basin. He told the board the company will maintain the trench and keep the pipe clear of litter to allow a free flow.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald, a member of the board, told Atty. Eeley, that a letter from the zoning board of appeals will have to be filed with the licensing board.

Fire Chief Edward Barry made a motion to approve the license with several stipulations. In addition to the approval of the zoning board, the license must have landscaping approved by the building inspector, install an in-ground sprinkler system, maintain the swale for drainage and provide granite curbing and a fence at the property.

Wendworth is the exclusive franchisee for Wendy's International in Norfolk, Essex and Middlesex Counties. The national restaurant chain has six facilities in the area and hopes to have 35 to 40 within the next eight years.

Eley told the board that once the firm obtains the final go-ahead the restaurant will be constructed in five to eight months.

In other action the board:

• Approved a request of Harold W. Little, doing business as Houghs Neck Package Store, for a change to a corporation with Priscilla H. Little as manager.

• Granted a one day all alcoholic license to St. Boniface Church, Germantown, for a dance Friday, March 16.

• Approved a request from Rocco Fabiano for a common victualer's license at John's Fruit Store, 59-61 Franklin St.

• Granted request of Quincy Youth Hockey Association for a one-day all alcoholic license for dance on Friday, March 31 at Blessed Sacrement parish hall.

• Continued a hearing on request of Highway Auto Body, 481 Quincy Ave., for permit to store 250 gallons of gasoline in tanks of cars and for an auto body repair license. The board said the hearing will be continued until members make inspection of the property.

Hit 6 Times By Cars

Beale St. House To Get Guard Rail Protection

The City Council's Public Safety Committee moved Monday night to erect a guard rail on Beale St., Wollaston, to protect the house at No. 381 that has been struck by cars six times in six years.

Robert Casagrande, who owns the house, said he wanted a steel barrier erected because "I'm not going to rebuild the property and have it torn down again. My house is like a pit stop."

Only last week, a speeding car crashed into Casagrande's front porch and tore out a section.

Mrs. Frances Nihil, who lives nearby at 192 Samoset Ave., told the committee that the 30 mile-an-hour speed limit on the street is worthless.

"They still go by at 55 miles an hour after the taverns close," she said. She recommended a guard rail plus a patrol car in the area when the bars close.

Mrs. Jean Walsh, who lives at the intersection of Beale and Milton St., said she has a barrier in front of her house and "It's a shame to have to live that way, like a fortress."

"The barriers will protect the property but will not solve the problem," she said.

When a minor dispute arose over the aesthetics of a barrier, Abe Itkin of 176 Presidents

Lane, who works at City Hospital, said that such barriers were "not as hideous a sight as having to deal with the carnage of broken bodies. I see the end result."

Police Lt. John Morton told the committee that the city now has three new radar guns and will employ one of them as a radar trap for speeders in the area.

Committee Chairman John J. Lydon Jr. took a vote of the residents in attendance to see who preferred a steel barrier and who wanted a wooden barrier backed with steel. Wood won.

DPW Commissioner James J. Ricciuti said bids for the construction of the barrier will be advertised as soon as possible.

Ward 6 Democratic Caucus Scheduled For March 24

A Ward 6 Democratic Caucus will be held March 24, at 2 p.m. at the Charles J. Cavanagh DAV Hall, 97 Newbury Ave., North Quincy.

Joseph M. Lydon, chairman of the Ward 6 Democratic Committee, said 12 delegates will be elected to attend the Massachusetts Democratic State Charter Convention May 19, at the Springfield Civic Center.

The meeting is open to the public. Only registered Democrats residing in the ward are eligible to participate in the proceedings and election of delegates.

Hope To Block Construction W. Quincy Apartment Opponents May Seek Court Action

Residents of West Quincy and City Councillor James A. Sheets, are moving in several directions to block construction of 184-units of moderate and low income housing on Willard St.

The St. Moritz Association scheduled an informational meeting for last night [Wednesday] at 8 p.m. in Mullarkey Hall of St. Mary's Church to lay plans for fighting the project.

"We are preparing for all eventualities, including a court case," said Robert Meenan, president of the association.

Sheets said he has asked City Solicitor Robert Fleming to draft a zoning ordinance that would bring under control the construction of multi-family dwellings in Quincy.

"This zoning ordinance is necessary," said Sheets, "because of the obvious failure of the Planning Department to show any planning responsibilities whatsoever in allowing this construction."

"The impact of such a project on schools, flooding, sewerage, water and wetlands has not been studied."

"It is very clear that the Council must take action to protect the local residents against such arbitrary and unplanned construction efforts."

Sheets also asked the Water Department to investigate the cause of "rusty brown water that has concerned residents of Woodcliff Rd., Bunker Hill Lane, Ames St., Wesson Ave., and Willard St."

"Residents are also concerned," he said, "about the impact that the proposed 184-units of low income housing on Willard St. will have on that water supply."

The Rev. Bedros Baharian, chairman of the Planning Board, told The Sun that the City Planning Department has nothing to do with the Willard St. development.

"The land there is zoned Residence C," he said, "which means that a builder can come in and build apartments as long as he conforms to the zoning regulations. This is state law."

"A property owner has the right to use his land within the provisions of the zoning laws. The project in West Quincy is completely in accordance with the law. No Planning Board hearings need be held."

"The project is a viable, clean one and the only question hanging over it at the moment is whether it will alter the drainage flow in a way that will be detrimental to other people downstream."

The Conservation Commission at this moment has this under consideration."

It was at a Conservation Commission hearing last Wednesday that residents of the area accused Mayor Arthur H. Tobin and Planning Director Walter J. Hannon of "selling us down the river."

Sheets said that Tobin and Hannon knew about the project last September but did not inform him because they were afraid of the reaction from area residents.

Strand Turns Down 'The Warriors'

The controversial film "The Warriors" will not be shown in Quincy although it was offered to Joseph O'Connor, owner of the Strand Theater for a first run suburban showing.

"After having talked with people in 'the Square' and civic leaders, I decided that 'The Warriors' is a film we can do without," O'Connor said.

He admitted the film is a good money maker, but said that it has caused violence wherever it has been shown.

"We don't want that kind of thing in Quincy," he said. "I certainly don't want trouble in Quincy Center. I know the element that would be attracted to this type of picture and frankly, I don't want to encourage trouble."

The film depicts a New York gang which declares war on other gangs and seeks to take over the city. Several deaths, one in Dorchester, have been blamed on local gangs who have witnessed the film.

Mayor Arthur Tobin announces that 500 persons must be hired by Quincy CETA between now and the funding deadline of March 31.

"It is imperative that all CETA-eligible persons apply immediately to be hired by that date, as hiring will not be resumed until the fall" he said.

Job openings include administrative assistants, bookkeepers, graphic artists, laborers, public relations officers, shipper receivers, teacher's aides and many others.

Applicants must meet eligibility requirements and, in accordance with CETA's affirmative action program, minorities, women and handicapped persons are encouraged to apply.

Qualified candidates, as well as former Public Service Employment participants who may be eligible for rehiring, should apply at the South Shore Job Center Division of Employment Security, 1433 Hancock St., Quincy.

Brownell Seeks More Merrymount Street Lights

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell (D-Quincy) has urged approval of a bill that would direct the MDC to install additional street lights on Quincy Shore Drive in the Merrymount section.

Brownell told an Urban Affairs Committee hearing that the area has been plagued by numerous traffic accidents in recent years due to the lack of proper lighting.

Last year, he said, the MDC installed street lights on one side of the road but too many cars are still leaving the road and crashing into fences, lawns and even homes. Serious personal injuries have resulted, he said.

Career Night To Focus On Non-Traditional Jobs For Women

In the past, the great majority of working women chose careers as nurses, teachers, librarians or secretaries.

Although these fields still remain predominantly female, many women are choosing a career that has previously been thought of as a "man's job." Many women have discovered that they enjoy and have the skills necessary to become dentists, carpenters, police officers. They may also be struck by the fact that jobs in the skilled trades pay more than office work.

On Tuesday, April 3 the Quincy Public Schools will sponsor a Career Night for junior high and high school students and their parents from 7-9 p.m. at Broad Meadows Junior High School. The program will emphasize women in non-traditional careers to acquaint students with the expanding opportunities in the world of work. Girls and boys from all the junior and senior high schools are encouraged to attend. All parents of secondary level students in Quincy will receive a letter this week inviting them and their children to attend the program.

The panel of the Women in Construction cluster will include Patricia Alvarez of Quincy, an apprentice carpenter, Gwen Friend of Jamaica Plain, a construction overseer, Paula LaPierre, a welder at General Dynamics, and Margaret Gove of Jamaica Plain, an apprentice electrician.

Mary Anne DeCupolo, a North Quincy High School graduate who is a practicing dentist in Quincy, Tina Buckley, a dental assistant, and Debra Mendes of Hingham, a dental laboratory technologist, will comprise the panel of Women in Dentistry.

The Animal Services cluster includes Patricia Fiorelli, head trainer of dolphins at the New England Aquarium, Katherine O'Rourke of the Franklin Park Zoo, and Theresa Brim of South Shore Veterinary Associates in Shore.

Students will be able to choose four out of the 10 clusters presented to attend and will move from one classroom to the next every half-hour. The panelists will discuss backgrounds, job opportunities, interests and skills necessary for success in their fields. They will then respond to questions from the students and parents.

Alicia Coletti, Title IX 622 Coordinator, said: "This is a unique opportunity for students and their parents to meet and talk with people in a variety of careers to broaden their awareness of future possibilities in the world of work."

This program will be cosponsored by the Director, Pupil Personnel Services, Director, Career Education, and Coordinator of Title IX 622.

Taken By Surprise

Claire Collins Honored For Head Start Program Efforts

Mrs. Claire Collins of Presidents Lane, Quincy, was guest of honor at a surprise testimonial dinner held recently at Houghs Neck Legion Post, by the board members of the Head Start Program for pre-schoolers.

Mrs. Collins, who was honored for her outstanding efforts for the program over the past three years, attended the dinner thinking it was for her son, Frank Collins Jr., also active in the organization.

She was presented a plaque by the Head Start Program in recognition of her efforts.

Among those attending were Mrs. Collins family, husband

Frank Collins Sr., her five daughters, Mrs. Marie Coady, and Mrs. Kathleen Rogge, of North Attleboro; Mrs. Marsha Pratt, of Norton, Claire Collins and Caroline Collins of Quincy, and her two sons, Albert Collins, of South Boston, and Frank Collins Jr., of North Quincy.

Mrs. Collins has served on the Head Start policy council and represented it on a state-wide and regional level. She is past chairwoman of Head Start and headed up pre-schooler nutrition classes for parents. She has held meetings at her home and played Santa Claus at Christmas time.

Her contributions also include making caps and gowns for the program's graduating class; Halloween costumes for the staff and children, and turkey outfits to celebrate Thanksgiving.

In addition to her work with the Head Start Program, Mrs. Collins has been a foster mother for 15 years, raising state children along with her own.

MARJORIE and other news from the quincy cooperative bank

Our oldest employee in terms of service recently decided to retire. Miss Marjorie Caswell, who came to our Bank on December 1, 1932, felt that after 46 years, she should try to experience the joy of retirement. It was her decision—because with Marjorie as such an integral part of our operations, we figured she might stay with us another 46 years. Marjorie started as a teller and when she retired she was one of our vice presidents. When we had a party for her completion of 45 years with the Bank, President Herbert said: "Marjorie's career with us exemplifies everything good about co-operative banking. She is kind, concerned, hard working and intelligent. What more could we ever want in a bank executive?" All of us here at Quincy Co-operative wish Marjorie well in her new career which should give her a chance to catch up with some of the things she never quite did while serving as a bank vice-president.

MARJORIE CASWELL

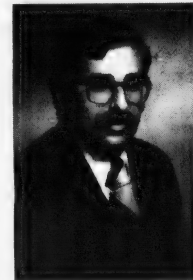

Taking Marjorie's place at the Bank is Mrs. Doris A. Morford of Weymouth, who has been promoted from Assistant Treasurer to Assistant Vice President. Doris graduated from Weymouth High School in 1964 and joined the Bank shortly afterward as a bookkeeper. Later she joined the savings department and served as a teller, a new accounts representative and savings supervisor. In 1976 she was elected by the Board as Assistant Treasurer. She has participated in courses at both the American Institute of Banking and the Institute of Financial Education. Last year she was Bank Representative for the United Way. She is the wife of Donald A. Morford, a Quincy Police Officer.

When the Board of Directors elected Doris as Assistant Vice President, it was also voted to promote Carl R. Abramson from Assistant Treasurer to Assistant Vice President. Carl joined our Bank in 1973 after his graduation from Milton High School in 1969 and University of Massachusetts in 1973 where he received a BA Degree in Psychology. During his college years he worked for the First National Bank of Boston doing customer relations work in the Mastercharge Division. From Teller Trainee he moved rapidly upward as Savings Department Supervisor, and when he was elected as Assistant Treasurer, in 1975, he was named Personnel Officer. His other duties include responsibilities as Security Officer. He has served as Branch Supervisor. Carl is a member of the Probus Club of Quincy, the Massachusetts Police Fraudulent Check Association and the Young Executives Club of the Massachusetts Co-operative Bank League. He has served as Bank Representative to the American Institute of Banking, the Institute of Financial Education and the Co-operative Banks Employees Retirement Association. He is married to Arlene Abramson, a clinical audiologist affiliated with Dr. Richard H. Fitton in Fall River. The young couple lives in South Easton.

CARL R. ABRAMSON

And the Board voted to name another officer: Charles H. Walker of Green Harbor, Marshfield, Manager of our Installment Loan Department, has been named as an Assistant Treasurer. Charlie was born in Weymouth and after graduating from Weymouth High School in 1969, he went on to North Adams State College where he received a BA Degree in 1973. Charlie began as a teller trainee, then Head Teller, Loan Interviewer, Assistant to the Treasurer and finally, Manager of the Installment Loan Division. He became a Notary Public in 1976. Charlie is a member of the Young Executives Club of our Co-operative Bank League and he has attended classes at the American Institute. His interests include composing music, and playing the guitar, piano and drums. And on a far different "note" he managed our Bank's Softball Team in 1976. Charlie is married to Ellen L. Walker and they have two children: Lauren, three years, and Vicki, four months.

CHARLES H. WALKER

The Board of Directors is happy to announce these promotions of three of our younger employees. Their spirit, enthusiasm and goodwill have helped to make our Bank a friendly place for our customers and a successful institution oriented to today's banking operations. And we know Josiah would have liked that!

Jewels & Gems

by Stan Manin

Opals, superstition says, make better gifts for someone else than for yourself. They are supposed to be good luck when given as gifts, but bring bad luck if bought for yourself. Opals are relatively soft stones but very popular, especially in rings. Be sure that your settings are secure. Now that the Japanese have recently opened many new opal mines, more are available on the market and more people will be able to give a gift of luck when giving this beautiful stone.

When you're ready to give a gift be sure to stop by and see our fine selection of jewelry, and other items, at GROW & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., East Milton, 696-1490. We have a lovely selection of pewter by Reed & Barton and Royal Holland, Waterford full lead crystal and Bealek china. Hours: 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. Mon. thru Sat.

For more information about Pay-by-Phone, call Colette Duffy at 471-3500. She's one of our customer service representatives and can explain how Pay-by-Phone can save you time and money. Time, because paying bills by phone is quicker than paying them by check. Money, because each transaction only costs 13¢. That's less than the stamp alone!

Only you have access to your account and can authorize payments. Every month, your complete statement shows all of your bill-paying transactions. Individual slips, like cancelled checks, are included for each transaction, which the IRS accepts as proof of payment.

Find out about Pay-by-Phone and the bill system by calling Colette or visiting any of our six REDI-BANKSM offices in Quincy: 371 Hancock Street, 1200 Hancock Street, 1374 Hancock Street, 138 Franklin Street, 461 Washington Street and in Hanover, Rte. 53 and Broadway.

City Club Plans Poster, Essay Contest On Energy Conservation

The Quincy City Club will conduct its fourth annual Poster and Essay Contest for students who are residents of the city and attend Quincy Public and Private schools.

The 1979 theme is "Conservation Energy". The poster subject will depict how energy can be saved in the home while the essay contest subject matter will be "What Energy Conservation Means To Me."

The posters entered may be no larger than 22 inches by 28 inches. Any larger will be disqualified. The essays submitted must not exceed 150 words.

The first place winner in the poster contest in grades one through three will receive a $100 U.S. Savings Bond and the runner-up will receive a $25 Savings Bond. Students in grades four through six in the poster contest will also receive a first and second prize.

First and second place winners in grades seven through nine participating in the essay contest will also be presented a $100 bond for top spot and a $25 bond will be provided in the runnerup.

Three honorable mention certificates will also be given in each category.

Teachers are requested to select the top three posters and essays from each classroom and submit the same to the Quincy City Club Committee for the final judging.

Richard J. Koch, Club President, has appointed to the committee David J. Donaghy and Robert I. Woodman, cochairmen, Richard Meade, Thomas G. Bowes and Gordon MacPhee.

Deadline for poster and essay entries to be submitted for final judging is no later than April 27. Entries may be left at the Park Department Office, Nike Site, 100 Southern Artery, Merrymount Park, Quincy, attention of Richard J. Koch.

New Test For Prostate Cancer

Cancer of the prostate gland - a frequent cancer in men over 60 and a notorious "widow maker" - has always been especially hard to treat because it so seldom can be detected before distant spread has occurred.

Now researchers believe a new screening test for enzymes in the blood may enable doctors to spot many prostate cancers very early, before spread, so there can be a far greater chance of curing them. What's more, the test - known as counter-immuno-electrophoresis or CIEP - is (despite its formidable name) so inexpensive and easy-to-do that it could be performed almost like a routine blood test on any adult male going to his doctor for a comprehensive physical exam.

Already, the test is used at several major medical centers and will soon be available in larger cities all around the country. Hats off to our medical researchers who are chipping away at deadly cancer. If cure is not at hand yet - early detection is the next best thing.

1,500 Expected To Compete

Jerry Lewis Spelling Bee Starts April 2 In 10 Schools

An estimated 1,500 students in 10 Quincy public and parochial elementary schools are expected to compete in the first local Jerry Lewis Spelling Bee which starts April 2.

Seventy-one principals and teachers have volunteered to assist in the competition to determine the best spellers in grades four through six.

Participants will seek sponsors to pledge five cents or more for each word spelled correctly during the spelling bee. All proceeds will go to the Muscular Dystrophy Association to continue its fight against the dreaded disease.

Jerry Lewis wristwatches will be presented to the two best pledge collectors in each school with handsome large trophies going to the best three spellers in the All-School Final Spelling Bee with runners-up receiving smaller trophies.

Each participant will receive a Jerry Lewis spelling bee button to be worn while soliciting sponsors. Jerry Lewis T-shirt iron-ons and shoulder patch sew-ons will be presented to each participant who turns in his or her pledges.

The event, first to be held in the South Shore area, is sponsored by the Quincy Public School System and the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee to help raise funds to fight muscular dystrophy and to spotlight the importance of good spelling.

The committee is headed by Quincy Sun publisher Henry Bosworth and Richard J. Koch.

executive secretary Quincy Park Recreation Board.

School Committeewoman Mary Collins is chairman of the spelling bee and Janet DiTullio, Language Arts Coordinator, Quincy Public Schools, will coordinate the event.

Participating schools are Massachusetts Fields, Atherton Hough, Montclair, Thomas Pollard, Quincy, Squantum, Wollaston, St. Ann's, Sacred Heart and St. Joseph's.

Sponsor forms, instruction sheets and buttons are now available for the participants at these schools.

Principals and teachers who have volunteered to assist are:

MASSACHUSETTS FIELDS: Principal Frank D'Andrea, teachers Joan Youngman, Patricia Landi, Linda Jones, Susan Vingiano, Patricia Mailbach, Sandra Weatherhead, Paul Bregoli, Warren Lewis, Marguerite Gaughan, Franklyn Snook and Margaret Daly.

ATHERTON HOUGH: Principal Edward Baccari, teachers Elly Papile, Susan Devlin, Paul Boston, Rick DeCristofaro and Henry Marani.

MONTCLAIR: Principal Leon Gould, teachers Ellen Dunn, Janet Hassler, Carolyn Sullivan, Helen O'Rourke, Barbara Kelley, Geraldine Herbert, Maureen McKenna, Maura Monahan, Theodore Karalekas, Aloyse Corrigan, Richard O'Brien and Louise Keefe.

LaRaia Moving Toward Mayoral Bid?

Quite a few political observers are getting the feeling that former Mayor Joseph LaRaia is seriously considering another bid for the mayor's office.

Until recently, the thinking was that LaRaia would try a political comeback attempt as a candidate for one of the three City Council at-large seats especially since there will be no incumbent running for the seat vacated by Senator Paul Harold.

Joseph Brett was named to fill out the Harold term but even if he decides to run for the seat, he won't be an incumbent.

LaRaia, who was a virtual political recluse after his defeat at the hands of Arthur Tobin, has been popping up like popcorn all over Quincy lately as previously noted here.

Most of his appearances had been at social-political events. But last week he was at the stormy hearing on the proposed Willard St., West Quincy 184-unit low and moderate income housing facility. That was the night Planning Director Walter Hannon, a LaRaia foe, ran into a windmill of criticism and LaRaia seemed to be enjoying it.

Observers think LaRaia is now making the rounds to take "political soundings" on the Tobin administration. And if it looks like he could make a good run of it, he'll enter the mayoral ring.

The fact that no anti-Tobin candidate has emerged so far, is another indication, observers think, that LaRaia is seriously considering challenging Tobin himself.

ATTY. TOM BARRON who ran as a dark horse mayoral candidate two years ago, apparently will sit this one out. Barron's fresh face appealed to a lot of people but he was unable to raise enough money to wage an effective campaign. It will cost a minimum of $70,000 to launch any kind of a campaign this year.

BARRON

BERNICE MADER, chairwoman of CAAN, the citizens group that is fighting a continuing battle against noisy jets over Quincy, reportedly is toying with the thought of running for a City Council at-large seat. She knows her way around the political scene. She was the campaign manager for Mary Collins who topped the School Committee race two years ago.

MADER

IF YOU HAPPEN to see flames and smoke rising over Long Island, off Squantum, today, don't be alarmed. A film crew from Ch. 4's "Evening Magazine" show will be video taping a feature on the fire fighting academy on Long Island sometime between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. The program will air in three to four weeks.

KAY KYSER, the former big band leader, seems to really enjoy his present career as manager of film and broadcasting for the Christian Science Church.

Win Bettinson of WJDA, Frank Mitchell of the Quincy Cooperative Bank and this writer met Kay last December and had lunch with him at the Quincy Neighborhood Club. A few days ago, we were guests of his for a tour of the Christian Science Center in Boston. Kay guided us through the magnificent Mother Church where we marveled at the huge organ with over 3,000 pipes. And, at the publishing house we were fascinated by the global stained-glass mapparium where you step "inside" the world.

In person Kay's a down-to-earth, no fancy airs guy—the same image he projected on radio, in the movies and in early TV. He recalled, for instance, the time he was looking for a girl singer for his TV show and turned down an applicant because he was told she couldn't project. The singer, who later became well known: Rosemary Clooney. "A real smart decision," Kay mused, thumping a finger against his head.

A humble man, he enjoyed telling this other story on himself. Arthur Godfrey once said some nice things about him on Godfrey's show and Kay wrote him a letter thanking him for the kind words. Back from Godfrey came a note written by Godfrey aide and an obvious non-big band fan addressed to "Miss Kay Kyser".

KYSER

Recommendations For The Drinking Habits Of All Ages

By JOHN W. MAHONEY

Since there is a great deal of discussion relative to the drinking age and whereas every legislator has an opinion on this much debated topic, I wish to express my feelings so that eventually we all can accomplish some very simple goals in order to have a direct effect on the drinking habits of all ages.

I would recommend on a state-wide level the following:

- That every person who owns, operates or works in a package store be required to participate in a 12-week course highlighting the concerns of drinking, drunkenness and alcoholism. Naturally, a period of time to acquire this license or certification and other logistics of the program, could be determined by a state agency.

- That a similar program for certification be required for owners and employees of bars, restaurants and taverns.

- That a strict fine and penalty be required for those individuals failing to comply, or in violation of this proposed law.

- That all persons applying for a Massachusetts driver's license, regardless of age, be required to participate in an educational program that would be sequential in nature and emphasize those educational concepts that relate to responsible driving and drinking. Failure to participate in this program would eliminate a persons eligibility for a Massachusetts Drivers License.

- That the Department of Education undergo a comprehensive evaluation of alcohol education in our school systems and to require all school systems to meet minimum state educational standards regarding training for teachers, implementation of curriculum and community workshops.

- That a Massachusetts Advisory Council on Alcoholism recommend to the Governor and state legislature that:

- All persons purchasing alcoholic beverages from package stores be 21 years or older.

- All persons wishing to purchase alcoholic beverages in dining areas [restaurants] to be at least 20 years of age.

- Local communities be more selective in issuing one day alcohol licenses for outings, picnics, etc.

- Local communities review the total number of alcohol licenses and begin to reduce the maximum number through natural attrition. [Bars and restaurants closing down for various reasons.]

I believe these are realistic goals and require very little debate, while at the same time, deal directly with the issues of irresponsible drinking.

[The writer is coordinator of Social Health for the Quincy Public Schools].

Ambler Explains Position On Wollaston Recreational Liquor License

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

In way of an explanation to the citizens of Norfolk County and the readers of the Quincy Sun, I would like to explain my position on the issuance of a liquor license to the Wollaston Recreational facility. My position was inaccurately reported in a recent article by a major Boston newspaper and I would like to take this opportunity to set the record straight.

First, that I, in conjunction with the Norfolk County Commissioners, am trying to ram the bill through the legislature is pure fabrication. In reality, as Co-Chairman of the Joint Committee on Government Regulations which studies all liquor legislation, I have held two hearings on this bill. Another hearing is scheduled for March 14th after Quincy officials and the County Commissioners conduct an on-site meeting at the complex with abutters and neighbors. To suggest that I am attempting to "ram through legislation" which has not yet reached the House floor for debate, is nothing more than a blatant exaggeration.

I support granting of a limited club license only, with service ending with the closing of the facility at 10 p.m., and insuring that primary service is to the members of the facility. This was the arrangement under which the previous owners of this club operated, holding a license for nearly half a century in the same location as the present recreational facility.

Secondly, the article infers that I originally supported the legislation filed in 1972 to authorize the purchase of this golf course by the county. In point of fact, I was one of the few Norfolk County legislators to oppose the original purchase of the property. It was the support for the bill given by the majority of the Norfolk County legislators and their subsequent lobbying efforts with those representatives living outside the county which resulted in its eventual passage.

To provide further background, the original purchase of this facility by the County Commissioners was applauded by the residents and legislators of Quincy because it precluded industrial and residential development of the property. It is ironic that these same citizens and, in certain instances the same officials, now actively oppose granting a liquor license which could potentially save the complex from going under.

The article states that the Wollaston Golf Club's annual deficit, which must be assumed by the county taxpayers, is in the neighborhood of $300,000. Simple logic dictates that a liquor license would cut into this deficit and lessen the burden on the Norfolk County taxpayers by increasing income to the facility along with income from rentals, tee fees, etcetera.

Although I have heard none of the "scare tactics" which Senator Harold refers to in the Boston newspaper article, I believe the Wollaston Recreational facility should not be allowed to operate at a deficit. If it continues to do so, I will take whatever steps necessary to require the Norfolk County Commissioners to sell this property. It is grossly unfair that the individual cities and towns in Norfolk County must suffer under this financial burden. I don't totally understand and, in fact take exception, with Senator Paul Harold's critical remarks of this legislation.

It would seem to me that a legislator representing the taxpayers of four communities [Quincy, Holbrook, Braintree and Avon] would be more concerned with the collective county deficit of $18,090.00 which these communities must assume.

His vigorous opposition to the bill contradicts his obligation to his entire senatorial district. Quincy is assessed at $15,070 yearly share of the deficit, Weymouth $10,000, Braintree $9,458, Canton $4,795, Cohasset $2,192, Dedham $6,439, Foxboro $3,288, Holbrook $1,918, Milton $6,165, Norwood $6,302, Randolph $4,932, Sharon $3,014, Stoughton $5,063, Walpole $4,521, and Westwood $5,063.

These communities cannot be asked to continue to bear the tax burden, which will undoubtedly increase in the future, of a recreational facility which is being denied a means of self-sufficiency.

I have always opposed, as a check of my voting record will indicate, the usurping of local licensing autonomy. This, however, is a unique case.

The local authorities of Quincy are, in effect, holding hostage a county facility and projecting the rising costs of their action on the entire county. If they are intent in this course of action, then Quincy should either assume the entire operating deficit of the golf club or purchase the facility outright and run it to the benefit or detriment of its own residents.

Hopefully I have explained my position and adequately answered the questions raised in the Boston newspaper article. Thank you for granting me the opportunity to present my position on this issue.

Charge Of 'Fix' Raised, Denied In QHA Carpenter Hiring

Quincy Housing Authority held for this particular position," said Rosemary Wahlberg, the chairwoman.

The newly named carpenter, Elwood O. Mills, was the only minority applicant among the original 32 to seek the job from the Board, which has been under federal fire for its minority hiring practices.

"Obviously," said Spanks in a letter to Administrator Clement O'Brien, "the QHA went through the steps of interviewing, eliminating candidates, picking out the last few finalists to come to a decision of hiring one of the least qualified candidates just to hire a minority."

Spanks noted that he had once been employed by the QHA as clerk of the works for a $4 million apartment building for the elderly, which called for higher qualifications than carpenter.

"I'd like to know why I wasn't hired for this position as my qualifications were the best of all six finalists," he said. "Is Mr. Edward Mills a true American Indian? Was it for that reason he was hired?"

"I can't believe this was the fair or correct way to hire for this or any other position."

"If there is a candidate already chosen for a particular job opening, why bother going through the procedure of interviews, reading applications and eliminating candidates when there is no intention of hiring any of the other applicants?"

"This particular position had already been filled before I ever walked in the door.

If Mills was chosen because he is the member of a minority, Spanks said, "I'd like actual proof that he is a true American Indian. If he was chosen because he was best qualified, I strongly object."

The Harborview Residents Committee backed Edward J. Quinlan, a handicapped tenant of public housing, for the job but the boards selection of Mills was unanimous.

Mrs. Wahlberg said that to insure an open selection process the QHA set up a special panel to interview and recommend from the list of six finalists.

The panel consisted of the five board members, three members of the administrative staff, two members of the HRC and two members of the Senior Residents Council.

"The panel interviewed each of the candidates for 15 minutes," she said.

"At the end of the questioning period, I asked the board members if they wished to make their decision then or wait for the regularly scheduled meeting. They unanimously voted to proceed."

"I said we will caucus for a period of time to allow the tenants and the staff to caucus and then come back to the board with their recommendations."

She said Mills was recommended by three members of the panel while Quinlan got two votes from the HRC representatives and no other candidate got more than one vote. Spanks, she said, got none.

"At that point," she said, "The QHA, which had not caucused, accepted the recommendations and took a vote."

"On the motion of Carmine D'Olimpio, seconded by Alphonse Papile, the name of Elwood Mills was presented to the board and was unanimously voted the job."

"The press was there; the public was present."

"As a matter of fact, one of the seniors was a bit skeptical and said, 'Here is our recommendation but I bet this man won't get it because he doesn't know anybody in the city.' Her recommendation was Mills."

"Furthermore," Mrs. Wahlberg went on, "there had been an affirmative action meeting held by the tenants and their legal counsel said it was incumbent on the housing authority to remove the chilling effect of not having employed women and minorities."

"An he said that in order to remove that chilling effect we had to take aggressive affirmative action."

"I know that Carmine D'Olimpio and I contacted all kinds of outside groups, union and community, to urge qualified minorities to apply and we would assure them of a hearing."

"If that work on our part is seen by Mr. Spanks as a bag job it is unfortunate because what we were attempting to do was to comply with the affirmative action requirements of DCA and HUD."

Mills was referred to the Housing Authority by the Hingham local of the Carpenters Union, which has jurisdiction in Quincy.

$2,500 Remick Bequest For Library

The Thomas Crane Public Library has received a bequest of $2,500 from the estate of the late Mary C. Remick of Milton.

Library Director Warren Watson said the money probably will be used for a long-needed renovation of the art gallery, in the main library on Washington St.

Miss Remick's will specifies that the money be used for such special projects and not for on going maintenance of the building.

"It will cost about $5,000 to pay for a new ceiling, rugs and improved lighting of the art gallery," said Watson. "We feel this money can be used as a start."

Funeral Thursday For A. Everett Goodhue, 68, Owner Of Religious Store

A funeral Mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. today [Thursday] in St. John's Church, Quincy, for A. Everett Goodhue, 68, of Dysart St., Quincy, owner of A. E. Goodhue Company, specializing in religious goods for more than 30 years.

Mr. Goodhue was stricken at his store, 1163 Hancock St., Quincy Center, on Monday and died at Quincy City Hospital. Burial will be in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

A lifelong resident of Quincy, Mr. Goodhue attended the Quincy public schools and graduated from Suffolk Law School in 1934.

He was the son of the late Quincy Police Chief Alfred W. Goodhue and Ida [Blair] Goodhue.

His store, previously at 1423 Hancock St., moved to its present location nine years ago. In addition to church goods he also sold various types of trophies and jackets.

He was the husband of the late Mrs. Anne M. [Murray]

A. EVERETT GOODHUE

Goodhue. He is survived by a son, James B. Goodhue of Quincy, who is employed by Goodhue Company; two daughters, Mrs. M. Virginia Chaplick of Topsfield, and Mrs. Diana Mahoney of Norwell; a sister, Miss Alice M. Goodhue, former music supervisor of the Quincy schools, and four grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are being handled by the Joseph Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St., Quincy.

Houghs Neck Lenten Service To Feature Folk-Gospel Music

The third in a series of Lenten Services will be held Tuesday, March 20, at 7:30 p.m. at the Houghs Neck Congregational Church with Dr. Carol Lee Griffin as worship leader.

This Lenten program continuing on the theme of "In Steps of the Master: Our Lenten Journey" will feature contemporary folk and gospel music by Rob and Sue Moulton.

The Moultons, students at Eastern Nazarene College, have been performing together for the past four years at churches, coffee houses and retreats from Maine to New Jersey and on radio and TV and in the Boston area. Both play the guitar and sing, blending familiar religious songs and contemporary as well as original gospel music.

The Lenten Services are sponsored by the Boards of Deacons and Deaconesses who invite all interested persons to attend.

Italian Mass At St. John's March 19

St. John's Church, School St., Quincy Center, will have a special mass in the Italian language Monday, March 19 at 8 a.m. to commemorate the Feast of St. Joseph.

This is a holy day in the universal church and it is a special feast in all of Italy.

The mass is in recognition of the Italian heritage of many Quincy residents.

Rev. Walter Cuenin of the Marriage Tribunal will be the celebrant-homilist. Coffee and repellis will be served after the mass.

Grew, which is managing the property for the Faxon Trust, is in no particular hurry to find a tenant for 1980 when Sears leaves.

"The Sears lease still has six or seven years to run and that rent is going to come in for the next six or seven years," he said. "The price of that rent is something that Sears has taken into consideration with their move."

"Sears itself is, of course, interested in renting the store. They've already talked to a furniture store but from the administration's point of view a furniture store is not terribly desirable because it doesn't generate a great deal of foot traffic."

Baharian said he is still trying to interest someone in moving into the store on Hancock St. that was left vacant when Milton's moved to South Shore Plaza in Braintree.

"Milton's has been a problem because Milton's lease did not run out until Feb. 28," he said. "They were rather adamant in not allowing another men's clothing store in there. I suppose you can't blame them."

"We did have a men's clothing store that wanted to come in but at the present time they're not interested. They opened a store elsewhere."

"A ladies' clothing store also wanted to come in but the landlord apparently does not want to offend Cummings; the ladies' clothing store he has in his building at the present time."

The old Hancock Bank building at the corner of Hancock St. and Cottage Ave. probably will be torn down and replaced, said Baharian.

"It's an extremely difficult building to rent," he said. "It's biggest problem is that it sits on only 5,000 square feet of space."

It's an attractive building architecturally but unfortunately it's virtually unrentable."

Baharian also made these points on development during an interview with The Sun:

- Engineering work on the Burgin Parkway Extension probably will be finished in September and the target date for the first traffic on it is June, 1981, when the ramps to the Southeast Expressway in South Quincy are also scheduled to be finished.

- "We are hoping to get a footbridge across the MBTA tracks near Paparoma this summer so people will be able to cross the tracks to shop in both areas without having to move their cars," he said.

- The footbridge will be replaced by a road, hopefully in January, 1981.

- "We are pretty confident that Filene's will open in August occupying about 40,000 square feet in the basement and first floor of the old Gilchrist Building. Garland will occupy the rest."

- The plans for a hotel or a motel are still alive with more than one company interested in locating in the Ross Parking area.

- But they won't make a move until construction of the Burgin Parkway Extension is underway and we see a final date in sight because without it they wouldn't be able to do the kind of business they need to do to survive."

- The proposed Norfolk County courthouse on the site of the Bargain Center will have to mark time for a while.

- "The new state administration is determined to pinch pennies as much as it can and, as a taxpayer, I don't have any fault with that. But it could mean that the courthouse might never come off the drawing board."

Lawrence Sava

Granite Co-operative Contest Winner

The name of Lawrence Sava of 17 Holyoke St., North Quincy has been drawn as one of 12 weekly winners in a contest being held by the Granite Co-operative Bank of Quincy.

Sava won a Panasonic AM FM Clock Radio.

Next week the bank will offer a Panasonic AM FM Cassette Player as the weekly prize.

The public is invited to guess the amount of cash handled by the bank between Feb. 1 and April 30. The person guessing the closest will win a Panasonic Console color TV set worth nearly $700.

Each week the bank draws one of the entries submitted and awards a prize from amongst other Panasonic merchandise.

City Officials 'Optimistic' After UDAG Mission overcome other obstacles in order to stay in that competition," said Tobin, "but everyone's optimistic and we're going on a positive note."

Donnelly explained that, due to economic conditions in the northeast, southern and western cities are able to put together a more attractive private investment package but he indicated that HUD often takes that into consideration as a "mitigating factor."

"I think they were impressed with Quincy," said Donnelly. "I don't think any city in this nation is working any harder to put together a UDAG."

"I'm cautiously optimistic," said Baharian. "My feeling is that they want to give us the grant but we've got to prove that we are working at it."

"Other than the ratio problem," said City Councilor Leo J. Kelly, "it looks like there's a pretty good chance that we'll get it. I came away from the meeting with a much better feeling."

"I felt the meeting was very good," said City Councilor Joanne Condon. "I'm very optimistic."

"This is different from other grants I've been involved in. The process seems to be that you work with HUD in developing exactly what they want."

"They made it very clear to us that they have some additional wants from the city of Quincy. Some questions weren't answered that we will have to gather some information on. "One of the comments made was that everybody in Washington knows about Quincy and that we are one of the communities that rates that kind of funding to help our downtown."

In the earlier interview with The Sun, Baharian explained that Quincy's request was trimmed from $4.5 million to $3.7 million because "there are $400 million worth of projects in the pipeline and only $100 million to distribute."

"HUD is trying hard to give as many cities some funds as possible," he said. "It seems likely to me that there will be a further cut in our request. I wouldn't be surprised to see it cut to $2.6 million."

The original $4.5 million, he said, included funding for engineering work on the Burgin Parkway Extension and the cost of taking five stores on Hancock St. to make way for the office building.

"The engineering work is underway," he said. "We've spent some community development money on it but we were hoping to get it back to use elsewhere. The funds for the land-taking would be paid back by the developer for use on other capital projects."

He said he did not consider the cut in Quincy's request as a setback.

"But if they cut it further," he said, "we're going to have to ask the City Council to float a bond issue for part of the garage."

Koch Named City Energy Coordinator

Richard J. Koch, executive secretary of the Park-Recreation Board, has been named Director of Energy for the city by Mayor Arthur Tobin.

Koch, who will coordinate all energy matters for the city as of Feb. 1, 1979; contacted Congressman Brian Donnelly in Washington asking the assistance of his office in obtaining knowledge of energy conservation and Federal guidelines.

He noted that the McCluskey Amendment allocated $900 million to the country, including $22 million for Massachusetts, for programs of engineering auditing and purchase of equipment to conserve energy.

Koch asked the Congressman's staff to provide him details relevant to the McCluskey Amendment as it would relate to local governments.

Quincy Fire Auxiliary Seeks New Members

The Quincy Auxiliary fire department announces that limited applications are being accepted for persons interested in joining the organization.

Eligible applicants must be between 18 and 32 years of age and be residents of Quincy. LMI training is not required, but will be a factor in choosing applicants.

Those interested may contact James McIzard, secretary of the Quincy auxiliary fire department, civil defense headquarters, 55 Sea St., Quincy, or call 472-6118.

the 70's BRIDES

Individuality Key To Modern Wedding Services

Of all the ceremonies of life, the wedding is without a doubt the most festive, joyous, and the best-loved. No matter how much times may change and customs vary, the expression of love, faith, and trust found in the wedding ceremony is a constant source of inspiration.

Even with the current trend toward alternate lifestyles that do not involve the commitment of marriage, statistics prove that marriages are as popular as ever, and there has been an increase in the 70's in people "tying the knot."

Today's couples have more opportunities than ever to enrich this vital ceremony of life with their own personal expressions, and make their wedding truly the most meaningful event of their lives.

Gone are the days of the standard-looking bridal gown, the days when Lohengrin was the only bridal march to be heard, the days when couples had little choice but to promise to love, honor and obey — even though they felt there was so much more to be said.

The clergy and marriage counselors alike now encourage couples to find the music and words for their wedding ceremony which truly express what they feel for each other and their future together.

If they decide that the traditional bridal chorus and church vows are just what they want, that's fine. But in their search they will have gained from the rewarding experience of creating a joint definition of their own future plans.

This new freedom to

of today's newlyweds.

Color is appearing in today's wedding dresses, dresses which may vary from very formal to short and simply smashing, from frilly and laced to tailored and sleek.

Receptions range from simple tea and cake gatherings to exotic banquets — even sit-down dinners — with all kinds of new and different delicacies, but whatever the budget

Your Bouquet Flowers Tell Your Love Tale

The flowers found in wedding bouquets generally either signify the particular qualities of the love shared by the bride and groom or symbolize the purity of the bride.

Flowers have a language all their own, to express feelings when words are just not enough.

What could be more appropriate than to choose those flowers for your bridal bouquet which say exactly what you want them to, those which contain the special messages prompted by your deepest feelings and which express your hopes and aspirations for the future?

Bluebell — constancy.
Buttercups — desire of riches.

Camellia Japonica, white — perfect loveliness.

China Rose — beauty always new.

Daisy — innocence.
Forget Me Not — true love.

Jonquil — I desire a return of affection.

Lemon Blossom — fidelity in love.

Lilac, white — youthful innocence.

Orange Blossom — your purity equals your loveliness.

Peach Blossom — I am your captive.

Rose, Bridal — happy love.

Rose, Red — love.

Rose, White — I am worthy of you.

Sweet Pea — departure.

Violet, Blue — faithful-ness.

The four most popular bridal bouquet arrangements are:

- The Cascade Bouquet, featuring roses and delphiniums.

- The Prayer Book or Muff, with orchids and lilies-of-the-valley.

- The Colonial Bouquet, with sweet peas, roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

- The Bridal Cascade, a flow of gardenias, orchids and lilies-of-the-valley.

Discuss your wedding gown design, your color theme for the bridesmaids and your personal preferences in flowers with your florist.

Cleaning tips for busy brides

As a new bride, chances are that you'll hardly have the time to catch your breath from the wedding and honeymoon before you must begin to juggle a whirlwind of social engagements, new responsibilities and, of course, your job.

But, while your busy new life is cluttered with work, errands and play, dirt and grime are busy, too.

If you are uncomfortable with the prospect of dirt and chaos in your new home, but refuse to substitute scrubbing time for valuable living time, your load will be lightened by these tips from the houseware experts at The Eureka Company:

- A well-stocked, centralized cleaning center is the hurried housecleaner's best friend. Everything you need should be on hand: clean rags for dusting, all-purpose cleaners and detergents, brushes of all sizes, a basket to accumulate dust and grit on floors, furniture, walls

- You can make short work of accumulated dust and grit on floors, furniture, walls and ceilings with the aid of a vacuum cleaner correctly equipped for your home and lifestyle. In general, an upright vac with agitator brush-beater bar is best for wall-to-wall carpeting, while a canister recommended for bare floors.

- Clean a room from top to bottom. First, gather all the cleaning supplies you'll need, to save extra steps between cleaning closet and excavation site. Then, clear the room of messy clutter—redistributing bric-a-brac after you've cleaned. Pull furniture away from walls, turn back carpet edges, choose a starting point, and simply work your way around the room. Dust settles downward, so door frames come first and floors last.

- Quick-clean the bathroom and kitchen every day. Their tile and porcelain surfaces are fairly stain resistant if the dirt and scum is not allowed to build up. Hint: Rinse out the tub and/or shower stall immediately after using, while you are still inside.

- It's best to leave the big jobs—like window washing, floor waxing and rug shampooing—to a time when you can do it all at once, with vim and vigor. If you're rushed or tired, you might have to abandon these jobs in the middle, which makes the remaining dirt more noticeable.

- Cleaning is hard work. But, if you follow these shortcut cleaning methods, cleaning reaps its rewards: a neat living environment and extra time to devote to yourself and your husband.

A happy bridesmaid makes a happy bride.
—Alfred, Lord Tennyson

THAT GLORIOUS GLOW of the bride-to-be is often beautifully mirrored in the gifts of gleaming silver holloware she receives, reports the Jewelry Industry Council. Handsomely elegant coffee services and wonderfully convenient bake and serve silver casseroles or a set of handsome heavy silver salt and pepper shakers make perfect gifts for the soon-to-be-wed's dream home.

A gleaming treasure for the bride's table

Nothing lights up your home as brightly as sterling and silver plate holloware. At table, it's the perfect complement to the richness and elegance that begin with sterling flatware.

Experts at the Jewelry Industry Council advise that silver holloware is as practical as it is beautiful. After all, a toaster is only a toaster, but a silver bowl can be a serving piece, a vase, an ice bucket, a centerpiece, a wine cooler, or a cachepot. That kind of versatility counts for a lot, especially for the new homemaker.

Unlike flatware, holloware needn't be collected in a matched set. A mixture of styles and patterns makes for a lively and harmonious effect. But if you have your eye on something special, be sure to register your preference with your jeweler's Bridal Gift Registry.

There may be certain basics, like candlesticks, salt and peppers, or a favorite coffee or tea service that you would just give anything to own. Don't leave it up to chance—your friends and relatives will never know unless you register your choices.

If you are lucky enough to receive silver holloware, you'll get the most pleasure out of it if you use it often. You'll find that certain items are particularly useful, such as the double vegetable dish with a cover that can be used as a separate serving piece if needed.

A simple Revere bowl can float a single camellia or hold your favorite snack food.

Many of the newer silver casseroles come with pyrex liners, so your culinary creations can slip into an elegant holder while staying fresh-from-the-oven hot.

A frosty mint julep served in a silver mug can go a long way towards keeping you cool in warm weather. When you're not drinking juleps, the mugs are perfect for any other beverage—and they're unbreakable.

From your dressiest dinner parties to intimate meals for two, you'll find that silver holloware adds a glow of warmth and elegance to your table that will make entertaining—and just being together—more fun.

Keep your memories alive and beautiful!

First it's a dream... of a white lace dress, a spring bouquet and the man you love waiting at the end of the aisle.

Before you know it... it's a reality with months of planning, preparation, dress fittings, meetings with caterers, musicians, florists and photographers. There is an overwhelming excitement and anticipation of your big day.

And in a flash, it's a memory—an album filled with pictures, a bunch of pressed flowers and a dream come true!

Your wedding day is a unique and very precious time. Keep the magic alive by taking time to do all those little extra things for yourself—and for him—that will make every day just as memorable. Here's how:

- Don't save the romantic moments just for the honeymoon. Bring on the candles, wine and soft music for dinner every night. Make this a special time together to talk, plan and consult one another.
- Celebrate your one month, two month, three month, etc., anniversary by experiencing something new together. Try fishing or tennis, take a hustle lesson or see an opera. It will be something special to look forward to each month.

• Don't get lazy about the way you look. He'll appreciate a life-long companion who cares enough to look her best when she's with him alone. For those quiet evenings together, try simple, casual hairstyles and soft makeup that will look naturally pretty. Splurge on some flowing, feminine at-home outfits—a floral caftan, silky pajamas or a soft, body-hugging robe.

• Choose a delicate, romantic fragrance for your wedding day—one that is memorable and beautiful—so that every time you wear it, you will be a "bride" all over again.

• Plan a surprise trip for just the two of you—to a place you know he'd love to go—perhaps to a nearby ranch for a week-end of horseback riding or a cabin lost in the woods for a few days to get away from it all. Keep it a secret till you actually arrive. Even pack for him.

There are lots of other ways to make each day an occasion to celebrate and one to remember. Be imaginative and creative and the spirit and excitement of your wedding day will stay on his mind—and on yours—for years to come.

Birthstone engagements

Today a diamond engagement ring is no longer de rigueur. Many brides, when faced with the choice, will in fact opt for their birthstone.

- January — Garnet or Hyacinth.
February — Amethyst.
March — Bloodstone, Aquamarine or Jasper.
April — Diamond.
May — Emerald.
June — Pearl, Moonstone or Agate.
July — Ruby or Onyx.
August — Sardonyx, Peridot or Carnelian.
September — Sapphire.
October — Opal or Tourmaline.
November — Topaz.

December — Turquoise or Lapis Lazuli.

Hand-me-down decor has definite advantage

Decorating your first apartment with hand-me-down furniture from parents and relatives can be a challenge to newlywed couples.

However, decorating with "conversation pieces" when you first set up house is definitely to your advantage; it gives you time to determine your long-range wants and needs, and allows you to budget for those items you'll want to keep for years to come.

Here are some handy do-it-yourself decorating hints to help beautify your home:

Large bureaus or dressers can take on new life by simply refinishing or repainting them. Often, professional decorators will blend such pieces with the walls so they seem to disappear.

This can be done by painting the walls with geometric lines or patterns and extending this pattern onto the dresser itself. Or, paper the dresser with the same wallpaper you are using on the walls, then cover with varnish or plastic sealer.

Hand-me-down pieces can be simple to care for, too! To quickly and easily clean washable surfaces such as formica, vinyl or painted wood furniture, just spray Fantastik® spray cleaner on them and wipe with a clean cloth or damp sponge.

Old mirrors can be modernized by refinishing or by covering borders with fabric glued over padding and stretched over to the back. Renew dinette sets either by painting or by covering the table with a pretty floor length linen table cloth. Chair cushions can be covered to match!

Take advantage of accessories to brighten up your new abode. Throw pillows are always good for accenting a couch—try several in a variety of hues if you wish to make your living room really colorful. Some small curios and favorite knickknacks also can add interest and provide new focal points to "borrowed" tables and shelves.

Also, be sure to grow lots of plants. They look great in every room; many are inexpensive and easy to care for—and they never go out of style.

Very chic

CLASSIC LINES and modern chic are combined in this simple—and simply stunning—bridal gown of fluid jersey from the French house of Colombine.

Frosty weather inspires spring rites

Thinking of spring, we envision green, growing vital things. Flowers rinsed by crystal clear showers grow at the end of the spring rainbow—as do beautiful spring weddings.

This time of year, hard in Jack Frost's embrace, it is literally heartwarming to recall the bounty and beauty of spring—and to plan toward spring nuptials. Rebirth across the earth has traditionally been a most meaningful time to exchange vows.

When Mother Nature smiles on those soft easy months of 1979, there is the promise of visual feasts to bring joy for participants for many seasons through the years ahead.

Young couples who have courted through this fall are ready to begin making plans. The humdrum of grey days laced with sleet and snow are no hindrance to these happy planners. In homes from Maine to California, indoor confinement can be made pleasant looking at sketches and swatches, selecting patterns, making invitation lists, thinking of gowns and tuxedos. This anticipation is all part of the pleasure a spring wedding affords.

Designers and manufacturers of bridal gowns, formalwear, and all those other essentials to the well-planned wedding have not been idle. Starting during the summer, they have worked with fabrics, colors, and inspiration from Europe and, more recently, the Far East. Finished styles were made up in samples to be tried on in different settings and in different lights. Buyers and fashion press were invited to showings. The results were breathtaking.

Switching by, young models wear tiers of French Alençon lace ruffles and gathers of silk chiffon with a regal, princess-like quality. Veils are so soft, they look like early morning spring cobwebs. Crowns and headpieces have surprises of seed pearls and bits of flowers. The hat is definitely back and gloves are more elegant than ever, the perfect finishing touch.

Models wear subtle but defined make-ups and hair styles. "Pretty" in the sense of Ann Sheridan or Paulette Goddard or Claudette Colbert is definitely IN—a touch of nostalgia for brides of the late '40's whose own daughters wed this spring.

and size, all is done with a special personal flair.

Guests are spending more time in the selection of a gift for the newly-wedded couple, concentrating on individuality and seeking out presents that are true reflections of the new couple's lifestyle.

All in all, the key word for today's wedding is personal, with all the emphasis placed on making each and every aspect of the wedding ceremony a vital expression of the two distinct personalities who have decided to make that most loving and giving of commitments.

It is a delightful occasion for all involved, and should reflect both the joy and dignity which have always marked this special ceremony of life.

Niagara Falls still beckons

Niagara Falls...surely one of the most beautiful and romantic spots in the world and synonymous with the word "honeymoon" since the time, according to legend, that Napoleon's brother and his bride visited the Falls on their honeymoon, traveling the whole distance from New Orleans by stagecoach.

Located in an area of North American resonant with history and tradition, this scenic wonder, which is equally gorgeous both summer and winter, combines the best of all worlds.

There is nothing more awe-inspiring or breathtaking than the rush of water over the Falls, viewed from a multitude of angles, in all of its glorious "infinite variety."

And, for a change of pace, there are numerous attractions of cultural, historic and scientific value nearby to interest even the most devoutly solitary of honeymooners.

There are numerous hotels, of course, on both the American and Canadian sides of the Falls, that cater to honeymooning couples and as formalities for crossing the border are minimal it is easy to go back and forth to visit the attractions on both sides.

Probably the first thing visitors to the Falls will want to do, after gazing at them from eye level or above (from one of the several towers that flank the Falls), is to see them from below. From one of the Maid of the Mist boats that have plied the river since 1846, affording spectacular views of the American Falls and coming thrillingly close to the base of the Canadian, or Horseshoe, Falls.

The boats leave frequently from both the American and Canadian sides from the middle of May through the middle of October, providing memories sure to last a lifetime.

Another highlight of any visit to the Falls is the descent from Table Rock House on the Canadian side, through the scenic tunnels behind the Falls.

Visitors are carried by elevator 150 feet down through solid rock to the viewing portals where the majesty and power of the Horseshoe Falls can be admired close up, an unrivaled experience.

On the American side, the Cave of the Winds trip, allowing access to a walkway at the base of Bridal Veil Falls, is a must.

For those who will be satisfied by nothing less, helicopter trips over the Falls are offered from the Canadian side.

And, for breathtaking views of the rapids and river, there is the Spanish Aero Car that spans the river over the swirling Whirlpool Rapids, and the boardwalk alongside the rapids which is accessible on the Great Gorge Trip.

THE MAGNIFICENCE OF NATURE is nowhere more apparent than at Niagara Falls, where the sight of the rushing waters, the feeling of spray which permeates the air and the sound of the cataracts roaring are a glorious feast for the senses and form the perfect backdrop for the most romantic of honeymoons.

For those who can drag themselves away from the transcendent splendor and drama of one of Nature's Seven Wonders, there are many places of interest in the vicinity.

Chief among these is Niagara-on-the-Lake, one of the prettiest 19th century towns to be seen anywhere. Located on Lake Ontario, at the mouth of the Niagara River, this charming spot is well worth visiting.

There are several inns, ideal hide-aways for the honeymooning couple, which abound in tradition and tranquility, and which provide a charming alternative for those who truly want to get away from it all.

Queen Street, with a plethora of shops that date back over 100 years, is the place for strolling.

In addition, Niagara-on-the-Lake is the home of the Shaw Festival (mid-May through September), featuring the plays of George Bernard Shaw, and his contemporaries, which draws theater-goers from all over.

These highlights, plus many other places of interest, make this town the ideal destination for a honeymoon excursion.

It is a place, certainly, of which memories are made, a place whose quaintness and charm complement perfectly the scenic beauty of the nearby Falls.

And, as for the Falls—what better place to be alone and discover the beauties of Nature and of each other, amid scenery that is so splendid that it is the perfect setting for that once-in-a-lifetime vacation...your honeymoon.

Men Have The Right To Look Their Very Best

Men have their rights too! Especially on their wedding day. It's always the bride that's the center of attraction. Lord West, an innovator of refinement, superb quality and design in formal wear, changes that now.

All year you've seen today's men casual, conservative, contemporary, traditional, countrified, westernized... but never as formal as in the inimitable Lord West manner.

It's Lord West's Compose look that permits the groom to share the spotlight. He will be set apart from his groomsmen, making him as individual as the bride. The groom wears the matching tuxedo coat and pants while his groomsmen wear the Compose version... contrasting pants, vest and bow. The difference is subtle as it creates a totally coordinated male wedding party.

Your local formalwear specialist has a complete collection of formal attire. He is a professional in his field and respects your taste whether you select the Compose look in tuxedos, tail coats, white tie and tails, contemporary or traditional designs. He has everything to meet the needs of today's individual man, to assist the bride and groom in planning a fashionable wedding that's uncommon by design and reflective of their unique personalities.

The specialist offers Lord West formalwear in a full range of colors that include sterling silver grey, warm earth tones of ivories and sandalwoods, black, white and a variety of pastels for Spring and Summer. He has the know-how to coordinate the entire wedding party.

Your formalwear specialist has a staff of experienced fitters who understand your needs and have the expertise to tailor the Lord West formalwear of your choice in a manner that creates a true custom look and fit. He takes pride in helping you look your very best on that very special day.

The perfect wedding day begins at your local formalwear specialist.

For the traditional wedding the groom stands out handsomely in his Lord West Byron Cutaway while his groomsmen compliment him in the Browning Stroller.

Snowball wedding is all-white delight

One wedding phenomenon, particularly popular in the winter months, is the "Snowball Wedding," in which the bride and all her attendants are dressed in white.

The male attendants and groom can wear all white, or they can wear white tie and black tails for a formal evening affair, gray cutaways during the day.

Pastel flowers traditionally add a touch of color... beautifully!

Greek Orthodox wedding beauty

The Greek Orthodox wedding ceremony incorporates a great deal of symbolism and tradition into a series of five elaborate and very beautiful rituals.

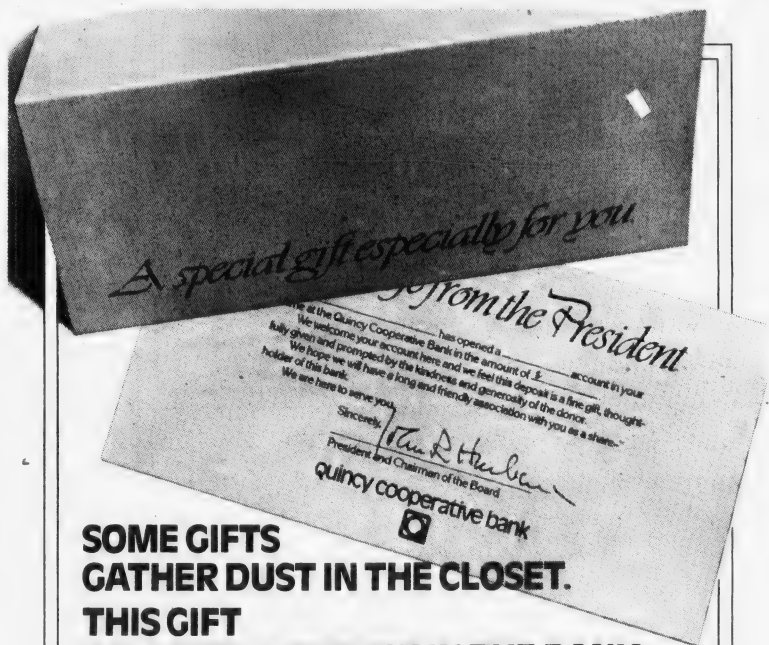

First, the bride and groom are joined for life in the ring ceremony, which symbolizes eternity.

The second is known as the "Steffana" or "double crown" ceremony, because both bride and groom wear headpieces, or crowns, which are the symbols of their equality.

The wine ceremony, which symbolizes both the first miracle of Christ and the sweet and bitter which the newlyweds will face during their life together, is the third.

In it, the priest raises a golden goblet of wine which has been supplied by the best man, and asks the bride and groom to drink of it.

The fourth part consists of the reading of the holy scriptures and the fifth, the dance of the Prophecy of Isaiah, in which the officiating Priest leads bride, groom, best man and maid of honor about the altar three times, celebrates the fact that God will send the Messiah to save the world.

The groom's six month time schedule

While the bride-to-be is busy with a myriad of details, the groom-to-be, too, should be preparing for his big day! He, like his fiancée, should begin wedding and honeymoon preparations six months in advance.

At that time, the groom should order the bride's engagement and wedding rings; start making out his guest list; select his ushers and best man; arrange to see whoever will be officiating at the wedding; and begin discussing honeymoon plans with his fiancée.

Three months
Three months before the wedding, the guest list should have been completed and given to his fiancée so invitations can be sent out in time.

At this point, wedding attire should be ordered, and the groom should discuss wedding attire with his attendants.

One month

One month in advance, the groom should order flowers for the bride, both mothers' corsages and boutonnières for the men in the wedding party.

He should also select presents for the bride and his attendants, order gloves and ties for ushers (making certain, of course, that they have ordered their own attire) and see that all necessary documents are in order.

Two weeks

Two weeks before, the groom should check honeymoon arrangements and make final payment, arrange for transportation from the wedding to the honeymoon departure point, check on arrangements for bachelor dinner, and go with his fiancée to get their marriage license.

One week

One week before, the groom should pack for the honeymoon, move belongings to new home, inform attendants of time and place of reception, and put fee for judge or clergyman in a sealed envelope, giving it to his best man to deliver.

W.Q. Apartment Opponents May Seek Court Action

Baharian said Sheets was told about the project, but not in detail, about four months ago.

"I told him there were no hearings that would be held on it because at that time we didn't know that the MDC would require the Conservation Commission to hold a hearing," he said.

"He replied that if there was no way he could get any input in it then he might as well not know about it. I agree with Jim. But in the heat of argument, with a lot of people who vote around, it's easy to get a little more emotional."

"It was unfortunate that at the public hearing Walter Hannon took such a beating on that issue because there's no way in which Walter is involved."

Meenan denied the fact that opposition to the apartments was turning into what he called "a political issue."

"I'm sure there will be politicians at Wednesday's meeting," he said. "But it's basically a people's meeting. We will bring every body up to date on what we've learned and what we plan to do."

Meenan said his group has researchers out "and I have one report already that says they think part of the rezoning of the land a few years ago was illegal."

"Right now we're fighting it through conservation," he said. "We'll be going on to sewerage, water, zoning, the whole gamut will be attacked at one time."

He said the residents' basic objection to the project is that the planners would shift water from the east side of Willard St. to the west side and into St. Moritz Pond.

"They call it a water storage area but it's going to wind up in St. Moritz Pond," he said, "and St. Moritz Pond has flooded two times this year alone. When the ponds floods you're going to have floods all the way down Furnace Brook."

A second objection, he said, "is uncontrolled growth."

"We've always been a residential area," he said. "It seems like they're trying to turn Willard St. into another Southern Artery. It's not a big enough street."

Meenan conceded that there are some objections from residents to low income housing in the area.

"I'm trying to avoid the issue like the plague," he said, "but I'd be naive to say it does not bother some people. They are putting low income housing into what was once an absolutely residential area."

"A lot of people who live in that area are people who moved out of the city of Boston. If you want to say it, they escaped. They worked hard and they bought this property and they think, 'Here we go again.'"

"Low income is in a lot of people's heads but not out front. No. 1 is the fact that it's another apartment building. No. 2, it's adding to the problems that already exist."

"We have people who are afraid that the flooding condition is going to get so great that they're going to lose everything."

Nigerian Legislative Administrators To Visit QHS, NQHS Classes

Four Nigerian Legislative Administrators will visit classes at Quincy High School and North Quincy High School Friday through the efforts of Project LINC and The Distinguished Visitors Program of the Center for International Visitors, Boston.

The visitors, Miss Kindin Loskurima, Mustafa Madu, Usen

Obong Edet, and Joseph Efiog Nyambi, will discuss the problems preceding a new era of political freedom in their country.

The problems are similar to those of the United States 200 years ago.

The Quincy Schools were invited to participate in the center's Distinguished Visitors Program, and over the past two years visitors from all parts of the globe have exchanged ideas with local students.

Project LINC was designed to bring the learning treasures of the community into the classroom and the subject of the classroom into the community. Michael Hurley, former political science teacher at North Quincy High School, is director of the program.

Students 'Run' City On DeMolay Day

David Hall, a student at Quincy Vocational Technical School, was "Mayor of Quincy" Tuesday as the city observed Student DeMolay Day with eight students from Quincy public schools serving as city officials for the day.

Taking part in the activities along with Hall, who lives at 61 Broad Reach, North Weymouth, were: Steve Olson, 50 Brook St., of North Quincy High School, executive secretary; Ken Olson, 50 Brook St., North Quincy High School, police chief; Kurt Johnson, 36 Garfield St., Quincy Vocational Technical School, fire chief; Robert Peterson, 23 Pratt St., Sterling Junior High School, public works commissioner; Kurt Olson, 50 Brook St., Central Junior High School, wiring inspector; Karl Olson, 50 Brook St., North Quincy High School, planning director; Don DeCristofaro, 17 Murdock St., Quincy High School, city solicitor.

Councillor Steven McGrath was acting mayor in the absence of Mayor Lobin and Executive Secretary George Riley was host for the day.

Heart Fund Theater Party Reaches $1,700 Mark

Richard J. Koch, Quincy Heart and Special Events Chairman, announces that the 10th Annual Theatre Party, known as the John J. Daniels Memorial Night in memory of the co-founder of the event has netted $1,700, just $50 less than last year's total amount.

Koch said the official closing date for contributions to the fund raising event is Friday, March 30.

Following which a check for the total amount received will be forwarded to the Southeast Massachusetts Division of the American Heart Association for education and research programs.

Committee members are requested to make final returns. Those wishing to contribute toward the Quincy Heart Fund Special Events Program should make checks payable to the Quincy Heart Fund, c/o John J. McVee, Hancock Bank, 415 Hancock Street, North Quincy, MA 02171.

The single event has resulted in over $14,600 presented to the American Heart Association for the past decade in an effort to help find a cure for the disease causing the greatest amounts of deaths in the United States each year.

Quincy Bows To Stoneham In 2-Team Girls Tourney

Only two teams, The Quincy B team and Stoneham, took part in last weekend's New England Girls' Regional hockey tournament at the Quincy Youth Arena and Quincy was eliminated in two straight games.

There usually are six to eight teams in the tournament but, due to various circumstances, most had to pull out. The teams are members of the Mass. Teen Division.

Stoneham won the first game,

3-1, with Sheila Connolly scoring for Quincy, Laurie Barba and Maureen Allen assisted.

The second game went into overtime before Stoneham won,

4-3. Kim Alberti had two Quincy goals and Nancy Toland one. Maria Burke, Karen Cullen, Bonnie McMurdo and Barba had assists.

Track Club Winds Up Indoor Season With Win Over Taunton

The Quincy Track Club finished its regular indoor season with a big win over the Taunton Track Club last week at Taunton High School.

Quincy girls scoring included Deirdre Murphy, Clare Murphy, Geraldine Murphy, Bernadette Murphy, Jeannie Roche, Maureen Roche, Lorrie McNeill,

Although no records were set, most of the Quincy girls and boys ran personal best times. Coach Jeff Hennessy was particularly pleased with new member Jeanine Cox, only 8, who placed in the high jump and the 1000.

In the final meet of the season at Franklin, Michelle Millane won the shot put with a 36-11 toss. Kevin Wood took third in the high jump and Hennessy won the men's 600.

ENC Champs Move To Chattanooga

The Eastern Nazarene College basketball team this week is playing in the National Christian College A. A. championship tournament in Chattanooga, Tenn., after winning the Eastern Regional title last Saturday.

The Crusaders, 22-9, who won the district crown the past two years but lost in the regional title game, defeated Messiah, Pa., College, 65-54, to gain a berth in the national championships.

ENC had earned the right to seek the regional crown by topping Barrington for the district title.

The Crusaders' hopes in the nationals received a severe blow when they lost Howie Carr, one of their top players, but Coach Ron Bradley, himself a former ENC star and a small college All-American, has several other fine players to carry on.

All-American nominee Jerry

Perara, who received Div. 2 and 3 honorable mention, sparked the win over Messiah with 20 points and Barry Jones scored 17 as ENC broke open a close game with an early 12-2 spurt.

Bradley has a 59-25 record in three years as ENC coach. He was 20-6 his first year and 17-10 last season.

The Crusaders had defeated Barrington, 70-67, to win the District One crown.

St. Joseph's Goliath A's Bomb St. John's In Playoffs

In the first round of the YMCA Church Basketball League playoffs the undefeated St. Joseph's Goliath A team walloped St. John's A, 36-10, to improve its record to 12-0.

St. Joseph's played strong defense and its balanced offense saw every player join in the scoring. St. Joseph's jumped away to a 15-4 halftime lead behind Jim Bandera's eight points and cruised the rest of the way.

Bandera and Billy Foley dominated both boards, combining for 17 rebounds and each scored 10 points. Jim Jaehnig had five points and played a fine floor game and Chris Shaughnessy, John Burn, Ricky Mahoney, Chuck Jaehnig and Billy Harte had a basket apiece. John Comer had the other point.

St. Joseph's will face Quincy Point Cong Saturday while St. Joseph's B will meet Bethany.

In an earlier game: St. Joseph's Goliath A basketball team defeated Temple Beth El, 35-17, to finish unbeaten (11-0) as champion of the Quincy Division in the YMCA Church League.

St. Joseph's will face St. John's

C, fourth place finisher in the Braintree Division, in the first round of the league playoffs.

John Comer's tough defense sparked St. Joseph's, which had to come from behind in the final period to win. It trailed, 17-15, after three periods but poured in 20 unanswered points in the finale.

Jim Bandera had 12 points for St. Joseph's. Billy Foley had 11, Jim Jaehnig seven, Comer and Chuck Jaehnig two each and John Burn one. Ricky Mahoney, Jim Quinn, Chris Shaughnessy, Joe Godfrey and Billy Hart also played well. Greg Berman led Temple Beth El with eight points.

You Can Still Sign Up For St. John's Little League

By PUTNAM BORDEN

It is sign up time again for the St. John's Little League and for the past two weeks boys from 8 to 12 have been enrolling downstairs at St. John's Rectory for the approaching season.

The league, formed 20 years ago, offers youngsters the chance to learn and play the game. It has traditionally been open to youngsters living in the St. John's parish area regardless of church affiliation. This year many from the outside have been welcomed and are encouraged to participate.

A four-team farm league for 8 and 9 year olds and a 10-team major league from those 9 to 12 provide playing opportunities for the skilled and not so skilled. League rules require that every boy play at least two innings of every game.

Signups for those who might

Quincy Girls Track Team Looks To Next Year

Although the Quincy girls' track team was winless in the strong Suburban League this winter, Coach Jim Piccini was pleased with the improvement shown each week by his smallsquad and hopes to interest more girls in coming out for the team next year.

"I was pleased with many of the performances and all the girls showed a lot of spirit and enthusiasm throughout the year," Piccini said.

The first ladies lost their final league meet to North Quincy, 48-32, but several of their performances were outstanding.

Donna Reardon won the mile in 5:46.0; Paula Church won the 1000 in 3:08.69; Rita Pasquolone won the shot put with a toss of 32-4, and Chris Fitzpatrick won the high jump at 4-2. Lois Guglielmi was second in the 600 at 1:39.3, Clare Lynch third in the 300 at 17.6.

Guglielmi third in the shot at 24-9½ and Ann Hannon third in the hurdles at 7.75.

The Quincy relay team also won. In last week's Suburban League meet at Newton Guglielmi was fourth in the 600 with her fastest time of the year, 1:38.4; Reardon was fifth in the mile with her fastest time in league competition, 5:42.3; Church, although not placing in the top five, ran her fastest 1000, 3:07.6. Pasquolone placed sixth in the shot with a toss of 31-8 and Hannon, although not placing in the top six, did well.

Tara Prince was enjoying an excellent season in the hurdles and two-mile until she was injured three weeks ago.

Church, Guglielmi and Reardon will compete in the state meet Saturday.

Atlantic Rolls By Broad Meadows

Led by the all-around performances of Chip Bunker, Paul Murphy and Dave King, Atlantic Junior High's basketball team exploded in the final period for a 53-35 win over Broad Meadows to improve its record to 7-3.

The game was close for three periods but BM ran into foul trouble and Atlantic took advantage to run off 23 points.

Jeff Morrison led Broad Meadows with 13 points.

Atlantic's junior varsity also won, 38-23.

Central edged Sterling, 24-23, with Wes Paul scoring 15 points while he and Mike Burnes played excellent two-way games.

Cheerleading Course Starts At YMCA

A six-week course in cheerleading will be offered at the Quincy YMCA Saturdays from 1 to 2:30 p.m. beginning March 17.

Boys Basketball Championship Action Continues

Second round action of the Quincy Recreation Department's annual boys elementary and senior high basketball championships were held Saturday with five games played at Broad Meadows.

In elementary action, Snug Harbor defeated Merrymount 37-20. Pat Lynch scored 12 points to lead the winners. Teammate Keith Burt added 10 while Matt Hanley chipped in with seven. Merrymount was led by Timmy Lynch's six points. Other Merrymount scorers were Larry Taglieri, John Kelleher and John Kelley with two points each.

Beechwood Knoll, with five different players scoring, defeated Sterling, 20-10. Leading scorers for Beechi were Mike Kiely, John Spring, Larry Leonard and Pat Marchom. Sterling was led by Mark Callahan, Kevin Drake and Jim Dargon.

The day's final game saw Central behind the 15 points of Jim Sheets, defeated Point, 40-32. Other scorers for Central were Matt Flolson with nine, John Christiani with nine, Al Martell with five and Tad Sheets with four. Billy Shaughnessy led the Point scorers with 15 while David Britt added eight. Other Point scorers were Richie Pettinelli and Jeff Burm with four each.

Saturday's semifinal action will see Central tapping off against Snug Harbor at 8:30 and Atlantic squaring off against Beechwood Knoll at 9:30. Both games will be played at Broad Meadows Jr. High.

Senior High action saw Snug Harbor defeat Broad Meadows, 52-26, and Montclair used a strong second half to overcome Point, 61-49. Snug Harbor's Dave Austin topped all scorers with 22 points. Fran Donovan added 13 points for the winners.

Other Snug Harbor scorers were Jim Megina with eight and Dave Picard with four. Broad Meadows was led by the 17 points of Darrin O'Neil. Other scorers were Mike Ducey with five and Chris Loeb with two.

Montclair got 18 points from Benny King and Bill Murphy to pace the win. Larry Baker and Chris Sullivan each scored eight points for the winners.

Point was led by the 11 points of Patrick Fay while teammates Danny Whyte and Gary Dinardo added 10 each. Other Point scorers were Jim Paolucci and Steve Whyte with six each.

Saturday's action will pit Squantum against Beechwood Knoll at 10:30 followed by Sterling against Point "B" at 11:30. Both games will also be played at Broad Meadows.

Quincy Wrestlers Lose In State Tourney

Quincy's best wrestling season came to a close last weekend on a disappointing note at Chelmsford when the Presidents failed to place anyone in the semifinals of the state championships.

Coach Carmen Mariano, named the Division I Coach of the Year, had piloted the Presidents to a 19-1 regular season record, including their first Suburban League championship (8-0).

Quincy then dominated the South Sectionals, easily winning with 192 points and qualifying nine for the states.

Seven Quincy wrestlers survived the opening round in the states but all bowed in the quarterfinals.

Tony Akoury was forced to default due to an injury and also losing in the quarters were Jim Mullarkey, Kurt Braun, Steve Notarangelo, Steve Venturelli, Rennie Crowe and Mike Gordon.

The Presidents refused to quit, however, and in the consolation round came back to take seven out of eight places and finish sixth overall.

Crowe won four bouts to finish third in the state at 147 pounds, Braun [158] and Gordon [169] placed fifth in the state and Mullarkey finished third at 134.

"I am disappointed we didn't do better but I am proud of the way the boys came back and finished sixth in the state," Mariano said. "These boys worked very hard all year long and it was a really successful season. With a large number of underclassmen, we will be heard from again next year."

Olympic Free-Style

Wrestling Tourney Saturday

The Massachusetts Wrestling Federation will sponsor an Olympic free-style tournament at the Quincy Vo-Tech's McLean gym Saturday open to all wrestlers in grades 9 to 12.

Wrestling will start at 10:30 a.m. following weighing from 8 to 9:30.

294 boys taking part.

Mike Burt of Quincy placed second and Joe Madden third in the 84-pound class. Mike Notarangelo won at 94 pounds (grades 7 and 8). Matt Fallon was second at 104 pounds (grades 7 and 8). Jerry Burt was third at 104 (grade 9). John Koslowski won at 120 (grades 7 and 8), and Mark Picot won at 159 pounds (grade 9).

Rag Dolls, 8 O'clock Rollers In Women's Candlepin Showdown

The Rag Dolls and Fight O'Clock Rollers will meet in the finals of the 24th annual South Shore Women's Candlepin Bowling Tourney sponsored by the Koch Club Sunday, at noon at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowldrome.

The stage was set Sunday in semi-final round action as 100 spectators watched the Rag Dolls out the DCASR of Lucky Strikes 1505 to 1445 while the Fight O'Clock Rollers defeated the Monday Night Women 1458-1435.

A consistent scoring attack by the Rag Dolls in the first two strings gave the winners a 98-pin lead going into the final assuring the victory, as DCASR captured the third string to no avail.

The Rag Dolls were led by Dory DiGrazia, 313, followed by Susan Burke, 308; Barbara DiChristofaro, 302; Mary Jane Poch, 297 and Sandy Colarusso, 285.

Top scorer for DCASR was Maureen MacPherson with 323 while Lorraine Kaime had 282.

The Fight O'Clock Rollers lost the opening string to Wollaston by 5 pins and dropped the second by an additional 11 pins but put it all together in the third string to win it by 39 and assure the victory.

McInnis, 315. Ellen Piccini had 1294, Debby Davis, 289 and Norcen Mastroianni, 285.

Linda Coughlin was high for the losers with 301, Angie Mila followed with 294. Joanne Henderson, 291 and Pat Blichen, 284.

Following the final match Sunday, Richard J. Koch, tourney director, will present individual trophies to the championship team on behalf of the Koch Club.

A $50 cash award will also be awarded to the winning team and a $15 consolation prize to the runnerup.

Thirty teams were entered in the elimination tourney in its 24th years of competition.

Norfolk County 5th In Tourism

Norfolk County moved into fifth place in visitor-days and travelers' expenditures in 1977, according to a study recently published by the University of Massachusetts.

While tourism was declining slightly in the state as a whole, travelers' expenditures in Norfolk County increased by about 25 percent, from $60,185,000 in 1976 to $72,939,000. Visitor-days increased by about 15 percent, from 2,454,643 to 2,865,015.

Dale A. Pedersen, president of the Norfolk County Development and Tourism Council, in releasing the figures, commented, "There is no doubt that at least some of the increase must be due to our tourism promotion program, the Patriot's Trail."

The Patriot's Trail was introduced in 1975. Basic elements of the program are a map-brochure guiding visitors to major tourist attractions throughout the county and a companion Vacation Guide, which carries listings and advertisements for motels, hotels, restaurants, attractions and other facilities.

Each year, approximately 150,000 copies of each publication are printed and distributed at tourist information centers and other high-traffic areas in and around the county.

According to Joanne Creighton, director of the Massachusetts Visitor Information Center, Interstate 95, Mansfield, just south of the county, the Patriot's Trail brochure is one of the fastest-moving brochures available at the center.

The recent report is the third annual study conducted by the university's Department of Hotel & Restaurant Administration. The computerized study is based on information compiled from a number of sources, including questionnaires filled out by visitors to the state.

The annual studies are commissioned by the state Department of Commerce and Development.

New Teleserve System

Police Dept. Steps Up Communications To Fight Crime

By PETER BARNICLE

The Quincy Police Department has installed a Teleserve communications system, designed to upgrade the efficiency of the department and speed communications between dispatchers and patrol cars.

The communications center control has been moved from the first floor at headquarters to the seclusion of the third floor where telephone operators and dispatchers work in relative quiet.

"The old location could become more or less chaotic, particularly when shifts were changing," said police Chief Francis X. Finn.

Quincy is one of 41 cities across the country taking part in the Integrated Criminal Apprehension Program (ICAP). Cambridge is the only other Massachusetts community participating in the program.

In February the Quincy ICAP received an 18-month grant of $454,000 from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration to carry out the project. Teleserve is part of an overall program which covers crime analysis, case management and crime prevention.

Don Hansen is director of the Quincy ICAP project, and Michael Belmont is director of the Teleserve section, with supervision of the civilian personnel.

"We have three operators and two cadets on each shift," Belmont explained. "They are all paid out of the ICAP funds." Most of the personnel are college graduates and majored in criminal justice."

According to Belmont the operators obtain as much information as possible when a citizen calls in with a report. An "incident card" is made out and placed on a conveyor belt which carries it to one of the two dispatchers who work beyond a glass partition.

"There are often calls which do not warrant the dispatching of a car immediately," Belmont said. "In some cases a telephone call suffices. However, if the

Big Conservation Push

Energy 'Summit' For City Conservation

By TOM HENSHAW

A big push, backed by the possibility of federal funding, is on to conserve energy, first in Quincy schools and the hospital, later in stores, offices and homes.

City department heads will meet today [Thursday] in an energy summit at the Park and Recreation office in the old Nike site at 100 Southern Artery to discuss formation of a conservation policy for the city.

The meeting will be chaired by Richard J. Koch, the newly named director of Energy Conservation of Quincy, and George R. Riley, the Mayor's executive secretary.

An energy audit of City Hospital has already begun under the direction of Frank Baker of the Maintenance Department and the Hospital has filed for a $25,000 federal reimbursement.

Both Mayor Arthur H. Tobin and Koch have been in touch with Washington in connection with a recently enacted National Energy Conservation Policy Act.

The law authorizes matching grants to schools and hospitals to assist them in identifying and implementing energy conservation maintenance and operating procedures.

Koch said Cong. Brian J. Donnelly [D-Boston] has informed him that preliminary estimates of funds that will be

Board Called Unconstitutional

City Sued Over Wollaston Liquor License Denial

Richard J. Mulvee of Marshfield, concessionaire at the Norfolk County Recreational Facility in North Quincy, has filed suit to force the Quincy Licensing Board to issue him a liquor license.

Mulvee contends, among other things, that the composition of the five-member Board itself is unconstitutional, therefore its four refusals to grant the license should be declared null and void.

The suit also seeks an injunction ordering the Board to grant the license before April 1, the deadline set by the county for reconsideration of its concession lease agreement with Mulvee.

Mulvee claims the license is needed to offset an annual operating deficit for the facility which has reached $137,000 and is paid off through the county's assessment on its cities and towns.

Sheets Asks Controversial W. Quincy Apartment Site Be Re-zoned

City Councillor James A. Sheets in absentia Monday night suggested that the proposed site of a controversial apartment project in West Quincy be rezoned from Residence C to Planned Unit Development [PUD].

The 184-units of low and middle income housing has drawn the protests of nearby residents but city agencies are unable to touch it since it meets all the requirements of Residence C zoning.

PUD designation would mean that the City Council would have a vote in deciding what is built on the site. Sheets' proposed zoning change was passed on to the Planning Board for consideration.

The order was introduced by Council President John J. Quinn for Sheets, who was vacationing in Florida.

Sheets on his return said he filed the order at the request of

LaRaia Loses Suit For $5,000 Vacation Pay

Former Mayor Joseph J.

LaRaia has lost his suit against the city for $5,000 in back pay for vacation time he said he was unable to take during his two years in the front office at City Hall.

In dismissing LaRaia's suit, District Court Judge Mel Greenberg agreed with the city's claim that the Mayor's compensation is set by ordinance and he "may receive no other compensation, including payment in lieu of vacation time."

An ordinance passed by the City Council on Dec. 4, 1972, sets the Mayor's salary at $25,000 a year.

"There is no allegation in the complaint that the plaintiff failed to receive the full amount of the salary of $25,000 authorized as compensation for his office," said Lawrence W. Crowley, attorney for the city.

LaRaia had alleged that "as a department head, he was entitled to annual vacations; and that because of the demands of the office, he was unable to take vacations and he is entitled to payment in lieu of vacation time."

6 Stores Guttled, 4 Firefighters Hurt

Suspicious Downtown Blaze Under Investigation

Fire officials are investigating a two-alarm fire of suspicious origin that destroyed six stores on Hancock St., Quincy Center, late Sunday and caused injury to four firefighters battling the blaze.

Deputy Fire Chief Carl Valente, head of the fire prevention bureau, said debris found in an alley at the rear of Clifford's Florist Shop has been sent to the state chemist's office for analysis.

"We're sure it was not wiring and we've ruled out other accidental causes," Valente said. "We are carrying it as 'of highly suspicious origin.'"

Firefighters who were treated at Quincy City Hospital and released were: Henry Schaffer, who suffered a strained back;

Ralph Buccianeri, who reported chest pains; Joseph Ceuralis, who fell through a shed roof, and Ernest Leonard, who suffered a lacerated hand.

The fire which broke out about 10 p.m., spread rapidly from the flower shop to the two-story adjoining building housing Gina's Sub Shop, Quincy Hearing Aid Dispensers, Banana's Hair Salon, Quincy Fashion Exchange, Aviary and Aquarium pet shop and a men's clothing shop.

Valente said damage to the property and contents was "extensive" but no estimate can be given until the value of the contents is determined by the shop owners. It is known that many valuable birds, including two parrots worth about $2,400 each, perished in the blaze.

The fire was discovered by Lori O'Brien and Robert Monaghan, workers at Survival Inc., a halfway house for adolescents at 1230 Hancock St. The first alarm was sounded at 10:02 p.m. and the second five minutes later.

The flames spread from the one story florist shop to the adjoining two story structure. Firefighters had to vent the roof and walls.

James Clifford, owner of Clifford's Florist Shop, said his business will be carried on at the two other shops he owns in Quincy.

The florist shop structure and the two story building are owned by Goldman Brothers of Brookline, according to fire officials.

Blue Cross Increase Held Up

$32.9 Million School Budget Approved

By PETER BARNICLE

The Quincy school committee Monday approved the 1979-1980 budget of $32,941,860, a decrease of 1.1 percent from last year's figure, but held up action on Mayor Tobin's request for addition of $87,500 to cover an expected increase in Blue Cross-Blue Shield payments.

The request was made at a sparsely attended public hearing at Quincy High School, called for a discussion of the proposed budget.

It came as an obvious surprise to members of the committee, who questioned the Mayor, who is chairman of the school committee, and City Auditor Charles Shea, on its implications.

Tobin explained that under pending "tax cap" legislation a four percent limit may be placed on the increase in local taxation.

Shea said that under the legislation now being considered there would be certain exemptions. He mentioned pensions, and general bonded indebtedness.

"Blue Cross-Blue Shield payments are not exempted," the auditor said. "Quincy pays 75 percent of Blue Cross premiums of employees. The cost to the city is $2,750,000 and we expect that cost to go to $3 million during the next year."

He said that payments for school employees account for $1,050,000 or 35 percent of the total.

Tobin told the committee that in going over the Quincy City Hospital budget it was found that a considerable portion of the overall health insurance costs is attributable to the hospital, the general city budget and the school department.

It was pointed out that in the past all money for the health insurance has been kept in an "unclassified" fund because "it was easier bookkeeping procedure."

In pressing for inclusion of the $87,500 in the school budget Tobin said he did not know what action the city council would take on the matter.

"If they refuse to fund Blue Cross-Blue Shield for all city employees through the general budget, somebody is going to have to pay for it," Tobin said.

School committee member Mary P. Collins, commented she could see the reasoning behind including the health insurance costs in the school budget "but I strongly object to this 11th hour proposal."

Committee member Christopher Kennedy said that if health insurance costs were to be included in the school budget, that figure should be reduced by $8 million to reflect state education reimbursements that go directly into the city treasury.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon pointed out that the schools were accountable for all but $3 million of the $11 million received from the state last year on the cherry sheets.

Vice Chairwoman Patricia Toland made a motion to approve the budget and discuss the $87,500 item at a later time.

Tobin objected that he has an April 3 deadline to meet and must under the law hold a public hearing on the budget before submitting it to the city council. However the motion carried.

Committee man John Sullivan, who arrived during the rollcall protested that he had not been properly informed of the hearing. He said he had been in Florida and learned about the meeting on his return on Sunday. He abstained from voting.

WAXING ON EAR WAX

You can find products to take care of the wax build up on your furniture. But what should you do about wax in your ears? Nothing.

Ear wax is normal, healthy, clean and non-toxic. But if you want to remove it anyway, do not use cotton-tipped sticks. The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) warns that daily use of these products can damage the protective skin barrier, push the wax deeper into the ear canal and pave the way for infection.

To get rid of the wax build up safely and effectively, the FDA recommends using preparations containing glycerin or carbamide peroxide in glycerin to soften the wax, then wipe it out with a wash cloth or plain cotton. No other ingredients have FDA approval. However, the agency cautions, glycerin products are not safe for children under 12 or for anyone experiencing dizziness, pain, perforations or drainage from the ear. If these conditions occur, be sure to see your doctor immediately.

Today's Women

At Broad Meadows April 3

Women In Law Enforcement Jobs To Speak At Special Career Night

Parents of all students in the junior high and high schools of Quincy received a letter mailed to their homes last week, describing a Career Night to be held Tuesday evening, April 3, at Broad Meadows Junior High School featuring women in non-traditional careers.

The Law Enforcement cluster will include Barbara DiNatalie, detective with the Quincy Police Department; Pat Nigrelli, a Deputy Sheriff with the Norfolk County District Attorney's office; Patty Crowell, a coordinator with the Earn-It Program; Ellie Regnetta, a court officer; Bobbi Caulfield, Probation Officer, the latter three at Quincy District Court.

Since many women are going into business for themselves, a group of women who have done so will also be participating in the Private Business career cluster. Those who will explain the problems and satisfactions of owning their own business included: Vicky Thomas, Quincy, owner of Blazing Salads; Joan Olinto, Quincy, owner of Sew-phisticated Fabrics; Jane Sullivan, Quincy, co-owner of an antiques business; Gloria George, Quincy, co-owner of Jenelle Gourmet; and Lucille Maymie of Norwell, owner of Pamela's Place.

The Women in Business cluster is comprised of Kathy Melia of Quincy, who holds a management position with First National Stores; Patty Finnegan, a Prudential Insurance Agent; Eileen Ruane of Wollaston, a Vice President with the First National Bank; Mary Josephs, a Loan Review Officer; and Fay Joseph, a Vice President with the Rockland Trust Company.

Students are asked in the letter to choose four of the 10 career clusters to attend. Buses will be provided at each junior high and high school to transport students and parents to Broad Meadows.

The women who have agreed to participate voluntarily are enthused about the prospect of talking to students about the education necessary, job opportunities, salary level, and job satisfaction in their particular careers. The classroom setting will allow informal questioning of the panel by students and parents.

4 Quincy Women Educators

Initiated Into Nu Chapter Society

Four women involved in education in the Quincy schools were among the new members initiated into the local Nu Chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma Society, at a dinner meeting held recently at Valle's, Braintree.

The new members include Lois O. Brandes, a teacher at Squantum School; Alicia Dunn

Coletti, director of the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College; Maureen Mellor, Title I teacher at the Lincoln Hancock Community School, and Mary Jo Riley, community school coordinator, Quincy Public Schools.

Also initiated were Terry E. Deutch, of Milton; Mary A. Doyle, of Weymouth, and Marianne Monacchi, of Walpole.

Clista Dow, past president of the Norfolk County Teachers Assoc., presented an illustrated lecture on "Education in China - a Prelude for Change".

Kathleen E. Kelly, a teacher in the Quincy School system, is president of Nu Chapter of the international society for women in education.

'Orthopedic Trauma' Program For S.S. Nurses

April 3 is the deadline for R.N.'s and L.P.N.'s to register for the South Shore Registered Nurses Association's "Orthopedic Traumas" program April 10, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Ridder Country Club, Rte. 14, Whitman.

Topics will include Sport Injuries, Traumatic Orthopedic Injuries and Fractures in the Elderly, Joint Replacement, by Arthur J. Bowman, Jr., M.D.; Nursing Role in Orthopedic Trauma; and Physical Therapy, by Elaine Greenblatt, R.P.T.

A buffet lunch will be served.

The durability of a gem stone refers to its ability to resist scratching or breaking. Durability is in direct proportion to the hardness of the gem; the harder the gem, the more durable it will be. Hardness is measured on the Mohs Scale, with the diamond, at a hardness of ten, topping the list. Quartz, for example, comes in with a hardness of seven. Experts agree that seven is the lowest practical hardness rating for a gem suitable for everyday use, especially in rings, which tend to take more wear and tear than most other pieces of jewelry.

For expert advice on the purchase of a diamond be sure to talk to our knowledgeable people at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., East Milton, 696-1490. There is a fine selection of diamonds, both loose and mounted. Come in, choose your own diamond and then select the setting you like. We'll mount it for you, right here on our own premises. Open: 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. Mon. thru Sat.

HELPFUL HINT:
Be careful to avoid scratching other surfaces with your diamond ring. The diamond will not be hurt; others surfaces will.

Dinner Dance At Viking Club

Stenkil Lodge To Celebrate 50th Anniversary May 19

By KRISTEN JOHNSON

Stenkil Lodge of Braintree, second largest subordinate lodge in the United States in the Independent Order of Vikings and with Headquarters at the Viking Club, 410 Quincy Avenue, will celebrate its 50th anniversary Saturday, May 19th.

The celebration will include a catered prime-rib dinner followed by Scandinavian music and dancing. Several local as well as national dignitaries have been invited.

The Independent Order of Vikings is a national sick-benefit and fraternal organization with headquarters in Chicago. It is presently comprised of 60 lodges throughout the country.

Stenkil Lodge held its first meeting with 39 charter members May 17th in Clan MacGregor Hall, 34 Franklin St. Quincy. Shortly after the name "Stenkil" (pronounced "stain-she'd"), was selected, which in Swedish means "stone-wedge", or a wedge used in splitting stone. The name was appropriate because of the vast numbers of local residents who were associated with the granite quarries in the area. The first slate of officers was also elected and included.

Chief, Thure Karlstrom; Vice-Chief, Axel Nilson; Recording Secretary, Olaf A. Hollman; Financial Secretary, John O. Hedin; Treasurer, Gustav L. Ericson; Past Chief (a constitutional requirement), August Bergstedt; and Trustees, Edwin Larson, Axel Palm and Carl Johnson.

The end of 1929 found Stenkil Lodge with $477.82 in its treasury and although its membership dwindled to 29 during the depression years the new lodge was still able to pay out sick benefits to needy members and at the same time to enjoy some social activities.

For many years all lodge meetings were conducted in the Swedish language. In 1941, however, it was recommended by some members that it be changed to English. The majority of lodge members voted this proposal down, and it was not until 1944 that the subject was again brought up and finally agreed upon.

The year 1944 was a progressive one for Stenkil Lodge in another way also because it was then voted to allow women to become members. The majority of the all-male membership had been adamantly opposed to women joining their ranks up until this time.

A Junior Branch (for those younger than 16 years of age), was established in 1946. Membership in Stenkil Lodge was also increased by the merging in the early 1950's with two other subordinate lodges: Gothic Lodge in Dorchester and Vidar Lodge in Brockton. By 1954 Stenkil could boast of some 600 members.

In 1950 Stenkil Lodge decided to look into the prospect of acquiring its very own headquarters in which to hold its meetings and social get-togethers. Over the years they had been meeting in not only Clan MacGregor Hall but also Union Hall and the Johnson Building (at the corner of Maple and Hancock St. and today occupied by a stock exchange and restaurant), and the Italian Society Hall 64 Water St. and presently used by a warehouse distributor. The South Shore Viking Ass. Inc. was therefore established and the necessary monies accumulated by means of a bond drive in order to purchase the A. B. Lewis property at 410 Quincy Ave. in Braintree-better known today as the Viking Club.

Membership in the Club requires prior membership in good standing in Stenkil Lodge. In fact, the Viking Club itself is owned by its members, each being a share holder in the Association and with full voting privileges.

The first meeting of Stenkil Lodge at the Viking Club was held on Oct. 5, 1953.

At the present time Stenkil Lodge is the second largest lodge in the country with 1000 members. Although it is still basically an insurance and sick benefit organization, its members enjoy a busy social calendar ranging from regular Saturday night dinner-dances with authentic Scandinavian food and music to special events such as the annual Mid-Summer Festival (a true Scandinavian holiday), and annual Christmas bazaar (an event well known to Christmas Fair fans in the area), hosted by the Club's active ladies group.

The Great Hall of the Viking Club is also a popular spot for wedding receptions and other rental functions.

Now 50 years after its humble beginnings, Stenkil Lodge is proud to applaud its accomplishments with a special Golden Anniversary Celebration.

A committee has been meeting every month since October, 1978 to plan for this big birthday party.

The committee includes Chief of Stenkil Lodge, Roger Cook, Elaine Cook, Jean and Frank Jacobson, Roy Berggren, William Collins, Dorothea Lundin, Gertrude and Edward Myrbeck, Sr., Minnie Hanson, Jean Koski, Maggie and Arthur Erickson, Evelyn and Carl Erickson, Gloria and Fred Molander and Kristen Johnson.

Information concerning tickets may be obtained by calling Evelyn of Carl Erickson at 773-5870.

Kindergarten Registration Scheduled For April 10

Registration for kindergarten for the school year 1979-80 will be held Tuesday, April 10, from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. at all public elementary schools in Quincy for all children who will be five years of age in the calendar year of 1979.

Parents must present a birth certificate at the time of registration and evidence of immunization for D.P.T., polio, measles, mumps and rubella to comply with State Law, Chapter 590. A child may be admitted to kindergarten if in the opinion of a doctor he is not in a condition to be immunized and issues a certificate indicating this fact.

Appointment will be made on registration day for vision, hearing, and entry screening assessments as required by State Law, Chapter 766.

Children who will be five years of age on or before December 31, 1979 will be eligible for kindergarten.

Children who will be six (6) years of age on or before December 31, 1979 and who have not attended public kindergarten may be registered for grade one on the same day.

Dinner Cost Up 25 Cents At 1000 Southern Artery

Residents of 1000 Southern Artery, Quincy, Monday experienced their first dinner price hike in six years as the cost of a full course meal on the premises rises from $1.75 to $2.

The cost of meals for guests will now be $2.25.

The move was necessitated by rising food costs which produced a loss at a substantial rate at the old price.

At $2 a dinner, the complex's Senior Center is still subsidizing the meal program.

The program is maintained so that people who are alone have the opportunity to secure at least one well-balanced meal a day on the premises.

Harold Would Make Parents Responsible For Vandalism

Sen. Paul D. Harold [D-Quincy] has urged the Judiciary Committee to act favorably on a proposal that would make parents responsible for their children's vandalism.

The bill, filed by Harold on behalf of the Quincy School Committee, would make parents responsible for restitution of up to $300 when their children vandalize public buildings, historical monuments, public library books, signposts, traffic signals, schoolhouses, churches, or furniture in those buildings, or playground apparatus.

The restitution would be imposed in addition to fines and penalties already provided for in the law.

Harold noted that although there is already a provision for civil liability of parents, it requires that city or town officials bring suit against parents in order to receive restitution.

"Clearly, legal fees, costs, and expenses could easily exceed the recovery with this procedure," Harold noted. "It should not have to cost the taxpayers money to recover money for damage to public buildings and places."

Harold said the restitution bill would provide a much less complicated method of obtaining restitution, since local district courts could then impose restitution requirements immediately at the trial.

The bill was originally proposed by School Committeewoman Joan Picard.

A Black Robe For Tobin?

Reports are circulating again that Mayor Arthur Tobin will one day have a black robe hanging in his closet.

Those who move around in political circles think Tobin will be offered a judgeship by Gov. Edward King. And believe it could be in the near future.

He is being mentioned now for the vacancy at Hingham District Court created by the retirement of Judge Martha Ware.

Whether Tobin would be interested in Hingham is questionable. A Quincy District Court opening would be more attractive for someone who was born in Quincy and grew up to become mayor of his native city, and could remain in the Quincy spotlight.

Tobin's name was mentioned earlier this year for a possible judgeship appointment but that speculation soon cooled off. Current reports, however, may have more strength to them.

The key question as to whether Tobin would actually accept a judgeship—or some other top appointment—if offered to him: how happy is he as mayor?

Probably the last real happy mayor of Quincy was Amelio Della Chiesa who spent 12 years at it under both Plan E and Plan A and enjoyed just about every minute of it. Life was simpler then. Problems were smaller and easier to solve. Political foes differed but could still shake hands whenever they met.

Now the chair behind the mayor's desk is a hot seat and has been since it was occupied by James McIntyre. It was during his time at City Hall that Quincy entered its era of change—both judicial and political.

Whatever a mayor does—or does not do—these days, he's the prime target of political flak. If George Washington was sitting in that office at City Hall today, there would be an automatic 10,000 to 12,000 negative votes against him if he decided to run for reelection.

The mayor's salary is $25,000. With all the aggravation that goes with the job, there are days when $10,000 must seem to go for aspirin.

And if Tobin should have a couple of aspirin tablets and a glass of water in his hand the day Ed King calls, well...

PLANNING DIRECTOR Walter Hannon definitely is leaving for a development post with the Boston Harbor Marina, Inc. of Squantum as reported in The Sun two weeks ago. He will depart by early April. Meanwhile, City Hall insiders think another top level Tobin appointee will soon bid a farewell, too. They wonder if George Riley, the mayor's executive secretary, may be longing to return to his private business.

AND, some people are beginning to wonder how long Rev. Bedros Baharian, Quincy's $1 a year citywide development coordinator, will stay on. He has been taking his lumps from critics the past few weeks. How many lumps do you take for $1.00?

REPORTS OUT of North Quincy have Mary Ann Mahony thinking of challenging incumbent Joanne Condon for the Ward 6 City Council seat. She's chairwoman of the North Quincy High School Parents Advisory Committee and active in the Atlantic Neighborhood Association and the Myles Standish PTO. She supported Walter Hickey when he ran for the seat two years ago.

INCIDENTALLY, those "Jim Brett for Councillor" bumper stickers seen around North Quincy continue to stir curiosity. But they have nothing to do with Joe Brett or with the Quincy City Council race. This Brett is a candidate for the Boston City Council.

SENATOR Paul Harold and Mayor Arthur Tobin will have lunch at the White House with President Jimmy Carter Friday. They are among some 75 political leaders from Massachusetts invited by the President for a briefing on current administration policies. This is one of a series of such luncheons Carter has been holding for leaders of various states.

STORK REPORT: It's a girl for Allison and Ron Kaufman. Pop is the former aide to City Councillor Jim Sheets. Mom is the sister of Rep. Andrew Card (R-Holbrook). Carlin Campbell Kaufman weighed in at eight pounds, six ounces March 18 at Goddard Hospital in Stoughton.

"Just think, she could have been baptized in the Potomac," mused Pop who was a key figure in Sheets' losing campaign for Congress last fall.

Pizza The Favorite

They Whip Up 8,000 Meals A Day For Students

By EILEEN NEHILEY

An average of 8,000 meals are served to students in the city's 29 public schools each day, plus 500 lunches for senior citizens.

Pizza, the most popular food item, is served every 10 days, because the kids like it. And, the money it brings in helps to pay for variety in the menu.

A lot of time-saving equipment is used to cook and deliver the food to the students.

"My philosophy is to keep labor costs to a minimum," says George Cole, Food Coordinator for Quincy Public Schools. "The lower the labor costs, the more variety can be afforded."

In the past 10 years the cost to the student has increased 28 percent, while food prices have doubled and tripled, notes Cole. "We've become more variety conscious," he says.

His task is to provide variety and incorporate costs, nutrition, preferences, and government commodities into the lunches.

It is a fallacy that school lunches are entirely government commodities, according to Cole. Eleven cents per meal is government food, including all flour, butter, oleo, powdered non-fat milk, rice, peanut butter, beans, some fruits, and sometimes hamburger and turkey.

Everything else is purchased from major food suppliers in the state. Some foods, such as tomatoes, are purchased once a year to save money. Although freezer space is rented in Boston, there just is not enough room to buy and store everything in such large quantities.

The bill for milk averages $25,000 a month.

Students pay 40 cents for a meal that costs 82-86 cents to serve. About 26 cents is government money plus 11 cents for commodities. About six cents is hidden costs for heat and utility services.

About nine percent of Quincy's students are subsidized. This is low compared to 90 percent in Boston according to Cole.

Planning the menus is quite a job. Cole meets with a nutrition council of two students from each junior and senior high school each month to design and regulate menu ideas for about 20 days.

"Ellen Joseph is my right arm," says Cole. She helps him coordinate the whole program.

Much of the planning is COMMISSARY CONVEYER -- Eileen R. Nehiley, Quincy Sun journalism intern from Simmons College, and Food Coordinator, George Cole look on as Isabel D. geared toward the workers.

For Mondays, something easily prepared, such as pizza or hamburger. The more complicated meals such as turkey, veal, spaghetti, meat loaf, are served in the middle of the week. Fridays menu, grilled cheese or fish, makes for easy cleaning up.

The operation is different at each age level.

Quincy's three senior high schools have a serve-and-select system. The type "A" lunch is advertised in the newspapers, but the students know there are always four alternatives. About 30 percent of the students buy the "A" lunch, while the rest choose one of the four "junk" food entrees -- hamburger, hot dog, and french fries. The experiment with the COMBO system was unsuccessful.

At the five junior high schools Tom Farley's Milwaukee lunch program is in effect. "It's the finest school lunch program in the country," says Cole. All the baking is done on site, and there is no junk food. It's all straight "A". There is about 56 percent participation at the junior highs now, as opposed to 33 percent five years ago.

Quincy's 21 elementary schools are served by the "satellite" program that was designed by space engineers in 1966 when space programs were slowing down.

Approximately 4,200 meals are cooked and packaged each day at the commissary at 100 Brook Ave., South Quincy, then delivered to the elementary schools and reheated. The employees at the commissary eat these meals every day. "We are the guinea pigs," says Cole with a smile.

Participation at the elementary schools is the highest at 62-64 percent.

There has been talk of setting up a satellite program for the junior and senior high schools that would operate out of North Quincy High School. Cole says the consolidation is not likely.

Cole, a former teacher, strives to expose the students to a variety of foods prepared in different ways. The menu cycle for the elementary schools includes 16-18 menus, while there are 26-28 for the older students. The younger students do not understand terms like de Jour, and a la carte, but the older students need to become accustomed to such terms that they will confront in restaurants.

Cole foresees nutrition consciousness penetrating the fast food chains which he believes will help make planning and preparing school lunches easier.

Father Has Personal Reason To Oppose BB Guns

Editor, The Quincy Sun and an Open Letter to the Honorable Members of the Legislature of Massachusetts:

I am sure you read about the death of my only son last summer in Stoughton, Massachusetts. I accidentally shot the boy with a BB-Gun. It penetrated his heart and after several weeks, he passed away.

As a result of this tragic accident, I have lost my wife, my home and my only child. Never in my wildest dreams, did I realize how dangerous these BB-Guns really are. I urge you from the bottom of my heart to kill House Bill 2966 and Senate Bill 1065, which would liberalize the use of BB-Guns in Massachusetts. It is my understanding that in the State of Florida, all BB-Guns are banned. I would think that instead of de-regulating BB-Guns, legislation should be filed to ban all of them.

I thank you very much for taking the time to read my letter.

Revitalization Study Report:

Wollaston Center: Has Greater Sales Potential But Must Correct Deficiencies

"Wollaston Center has potential for greater sales, but is hampered by inadequate parking, traffic congestion and underused properties in prime locations."

That is the key finding of a revitalization study made of the Wollaston business center by Sasaki Associates, Inc., of Watertown and J. L. Schatz Research, Inc.

"The Wollaston Center Business Association can help to correct some of these problems by setting priorities on objectives and working with local merchants, residents and city officials to implement specific programs," the report said.

"Wollaston will lose out to competing areas unless it corrects its own deficiencies.

Downtown Quincy is gaining better highway access, new offices and stores and the North Quincy Business District has also organized to make a number of improvements.

"Food, drug, liquor and restaurant establishments are sources of retail strength in Wollaston, although inadequate parking, street congestion, poor lighting, and the absence of apparel stores limit the area's attractiveness."

The report said that an analysis of customer origins showed that some Wollaston retailers draw up to 85 per cent of their sales from Quincy customers who live north of Furnace Brook Ave., while others derive more than half their sales from outside the area.

"This diversity in customer drawing power is a good indication of the area's strength and suggests that a wider market can be tapped," it said.

"On the other hand, surveys have shown that 11 per cent of nearby residents do little or none of their convenience shopping in Wollaston and that Milton, with few stores of its own, is a potential source of shoppers if access over existing streets is improved."

City Councillor Stephen J. McGrath said that the report is only Phase One of the Sasaki study. Phase Two, he said, will recommend ways of dealing with Wollaston Center's weaknesses.

Burgin Leaves City Political Ring

City Councillor Thomas S. Burgin announced that he would not run for reelection or for Mayor but that he might go for Governor's Council if Charles J. Gabriel (R-Hingham) decides to give up the seat.

The 54-year-old Burgin has served Quincy as a city councillor, state rep and mayor since 1924 when he was first elected as one of the youngest councillors in the city's history.

"Possibly, at some future time, should it be the desire of our citizens, there may be a further opportunity for added responsibilities in either our state and national governments," said Burgin.

Burgin was considered the only possible strong candidate against Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa, twice chosen by his Council colleagues but who would have to face the electorate when Plan A replaces Plan E on Jan. 1.

Gabriel was reported ready to abandon his post on the governor's council to run for the Congressional seat held by Cong. Donald W. Nicholson (R-Wareham).

OLD-TIMERS WIN

Pete Ramponi, star of the 1951 Tech Tournament team, showed the youngsters what it was all about with 27 points to lead the Old Timers to a 69-66 victory over the Quincy High School varsity team.

The Old Timers lineup included: Pasquale and Page, forwards; Drake and Fertile, centers; Ramponi and Finnegan, guards; plus Allsop and Fallon on loan from the Varsity.

10 PER CENT RAISE PROPOSED

Mayor Della Chiesa announced that the City Council reached agreement in closed session on a 10 per cent raise for city employees, effective July 3, with no raise more than $500.

The Mayor said the increases for all but teachers, engineers and some city hospital workers, would bring the 1957 tax rate up to a little under $66 compared to $60.60 for the previous year.

Patrolman William H. O'Donnell, chairman of the wage increase committee, said the city policemen were dissatisfied with the proposed 10 per cent hike and "some of the fellows are looking around now."

MSGR. MORAN HONORED

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Stephen F. Moran, pastor of St. John's Church, was given a surprise "This Is Your Life" testimonial, attended by former Gov. Paul A. Dever, Boston College football Coach Mike Holovak and Mrs. James Michael Curley.

Tobin Returns To Washington To Further Pursue UDAG Grant

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin was scheduled to head back to Washington yesterday [Wednesday] in further pursuit of a $3.7 million Urban Development Action Grant [UDAG].

Tobin, who was in Washington last week for the same purpose, said that he and Planning Director Walter J. Hannon were going down to present some additional documentation to HUD.

"I'm just a little nervous about it because we're in a high risk factor," he said.

The Mayor explained that HUD is looking for a 5 or 6-1 ratio of private investment into the projects before committing federal funds. Quincy's ratio is only about 3 1/2 to 1.

The UDAG grant is to be used for construction of a parking garage over the MBTA tracks near Granite St. in conjunction with a $10 million office building on the Della Chiesa Parking Area.

Tobin said that he and Hannon plan to bring some of Quincy's downtown problems, like the coming departure of the Sears store, to HUD's attention.

He said Lt. Gov. Thomas P. O'Neill III has set up a meeting with his father, the Speaker of the House, "so we can impress upon him the economic problems of Quincy."

Tobin said Cong. Brian J. Donnelly [D-Boston] will accompany him to the meetings with HUD and O'Neill.

8th (Final) Applicant To Be Interviewed For QHA Commission

The State Department of Community Affairs will interview the last of eight applicants today [Thursday] for the post on the Quincy Housing Authority Board of Commissioners that is reserved for a state appointee.

Mrs. Rosemary Wahlberg, whose five-year term on the Board expired Sunday, March 18, is one of the candidates for the spot on the five-member Board. The other four are appointed by the Mayor.

Other candidates for the state seat include:

- David J. Crowley Jr., 882 Sea St., Houghs Neck, son of former City Councillor David J. Crowley.

- Hugo Fabrizio, 11 Emerald St., West Quincy, who was ousted by Mayor Tobin from the Board of Assessors last October.

- James St. Angelo Jr., 14 Sextant Circle, Germantown, chairman of the Harborview Residents Committee, the tenants' organization.

- J. Edward Grindle, 68 Utica St., Adams Shore, first chairman of the HRC.

- Thomas E. Wood, 81 Kemper St., Wollaston, an aide in elderly affairs assigned to Quincy District Court.

- Lolita C. Harris, 185 Quincy Shore Drive, North Quincy, secretary to the State Public Works Commission.

- Adrienne Clark, 1421 Quincy Shore Drive, administrator of the County Defenders at District Court and a member of the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women.

The applicants' resumes are also being studied by a screening committee of the HRC, headed by Thelma Rogers.

A spokesman for the DCA said Mrs. Wahlberg will continue as a member of the Board until she is either reappointed or replaced, which may not be until April 1.

Lenten Mass At St. John's For Divorced Catholics

A Mass for separated, divorced and remarried Catholics will be celebrated Tuesday, March 27 at 8 p.m. in St. John's lower church in Quincy.

The celebrant, Rev. Robert Deely, from the Archdiocese

Marriage Court, will preach on "Christian Renewal in Preparation for Easter." Anyone who is interested in the place of the separated and divorced Catholic in the Church today is welcome to attend.

Boston Archdiocesan Choir Concert At First Parish

The Boston Archdiocesan Choir will present a concert Sunday, March 25 at 4 p.m. at United First Parish Church, Quincy Sq.

The choir of 20 boys and 10 men, including a handbell choir and recorder-flute ensemble, is directed by Dr. Theodore Marier with John Dunn at the organ.

The choir has sung with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the Handel and Haydn Society, the Harvard Glee Club, the M.I.T. Choral Society and has made many appearances throughout the USA. In 1972, its European tour included singing at St. Peter's Basilica in Rome, and Westminster

Coffee and cookies will be served in the parish hall after the Mass. Participants will have the opportunity to meet Fr. Deely and to ask questions on the Church's position regarding divorced Catholics.

Cathedral in London.

The choir has recorded Bach's Lutheran Organ Mass for Columbia with organist Anthony Newman, and also the "Damnation of Faust" by Berlioz for Deutsche Grammophon with the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Seiza Ozawa.

Pearce, Zooleck Elected To Board At St. Coletta's

Two South Shore business leaders have been elected to the board of directors of Braintree St. Coletta Day School.

Charles A. Pearce, president of Quincy Savings Bank and Ronald E. Zooleck, executive vice president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, will serve three-year terms, announces John W. Blake, chairman.

"Both these men have demonstrated a strong interest in the community," Blake said. "Pearce has a background in education which will be particularly helpful, and Zooleck has developed distributive education programs for schools in Connecticut."

Pearce has served as president of the Quincy Savings Bank since 1968, and is currently chairman of the executive committee of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks. He is a past president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

Zooleck took over as chief administrative officer of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce in 1978. He came to the position from the Northwest Connecticut Chamber of Commerce.

Other members of the board of directors of St. Coletta's are: John

RONALD ZOOLECK

CHARLES PEARCE

W. Blake, chairman of Colony, Inc.; William E. Kelley, president Hancock Bank; Judge Paul King; George M. Ford of Burns & Levinson; Sr. Agnes Lee, CSJ; Sr. Marilyn McGregor, CSJ; Mrs. Lorraine Sullivan; Eric Swider, president of the New England Council; John F. O'Connor, M.C.; Robert F. Findlen; John J. Connolly and Joseph S. Harry.

The Braintree school, founded in 1957, serves some 140 special needs students from 32 Boston area communities. Owned and operated by the Sisters of St. Francis of Assisi, Braintree St. Coletta Day School programs place emphasis on small classes and individual attention.

The purpose of the school is to assist handicapped students to become productive and self-sufficient. In addition to academic subjects, students learn how to develop job skills. For those over 16 years of age, Braintree St. Coletta's offers a Cooperative Work Experiences Program which includes special training, as well as actual on-the-job experience.

Sr. M. Johnnie Flanagan, OSF, is administrator of the Braintree St. Coletta Day School.

Your Dental Health

by Daniel P. Sweeney D.D.S.

Wise parents make a practice of having routine examinations of their child's teeth beginning as early as two to three years of age, although some dentists feel that unless there are problems, five or six years is sufficient. Such procedures serve to acquaint the child with the dentist and the dentist with the oral health of the child. It can be a happy and rewarding experience for both. Although we advise selection of a personal dentist in private practice, where it is not possible baby clinics, conducted by local health departments have been a great boon to the oral health of children.

As a family dentist, Dr. Daniel P. Sweeney, D.D.S., 539 Adams St., East Milton Square, recommends that young children be brought to the dentist's office to become acquainted with dental procedures. He works with children to instill good oral hygiene habits. All family members, from the very young to older citizens, are urged to have regular dental check-ups so that small developing problems can be corrected before they become serious. Call our office at 698-3636 for an appointment. Master Charge, Visa, and insurance plans are honored.

DENTAL TIP:

Cut down on foods containing sugar, especially between meal snacks.

Gr^{anite} your co-operative
Bank

Once each month it is our practice to calculate how much cash is handled by our bank. So, we've decided to make a contest of guessing the total of our cash transactions. The period covers three months beginning February 1st and ending April 30th. If your guess is the closest we will award you first prize... a $700.00 Panasonic Console Color TV. Please be precise, and to the penny. You may guess each time you enter the bank. No deposit is necessary. Enter often. Each entry increases your chances of winning. The official contest rules are printed on the entry blanks. Take into consideration that "cash" also includes all checking transactions... and... into our total goes mortgages that are granted or payments that are made, all loans and loan payments, the bank's operating expenses, all deposits and withdrawals, the fees for traveler's checks or money orders. Any money the bank takes in or pays out will be calculated in the total. Here's a hint: Our total cash flow runs from twelve million dollars to fifteen million dollars each month. Good Luck!

'Especially Wonderful Days' At Snug Harbor

Twenty first grade students at the Snug Harbor Elementary School in Germantown have been experiencing some "Especially Wonderful" and exciting days this year.

The students and their teacher, Diana Weiner, have become involved in L.E.I.R.; a child-centered reading and language arts program, which combines all facets of language for the learner.

The units in grade one revolve around the child and his world. The first unit, entitled "M-E Spells Me", seeks to help the child learn more about himself both physically and emotionally. Unit two, "Familiar Faces and Places", explores all of the people and places that are important in the child's life experiences. The third unit, "Especially Wonderful Days", encourages the children to explore and discover ways in which they can make an ordinary day into a "Razzle Dazzle Expialidocious Day".

As YOU read THEIR stories and delight in their illustrations, you will be sharing the L.E.I.R. communications process with them. "What I have written, I can share with others. As they read my words, they learn about me."

When the children see and read their stories in this edition of The Quincy Sun, it will indeed be a WONDERFUL culmination of the efforts they have made in learning about their language. For them and their teacher, it has been a truly "Razzle Dazzle Expialidocious Experience" that they have learned from and worked hard to achieve.

Applications must be completed and returned to the respective school Guidance Offices no later than Thursday, April 12.

The Koch Club will again provide a total of $500 in scholarship funds including $100 to a boy and girl graduate of North and Quincy High School and $50 to a boy and girl graduate of the Vocational Technical School.

Founded in 1959 with a boy and girl graduate of North Quincy High School, the program was expanded in 1964 with coed graduates of Quincy High School added and in 1968, a senior boy of the Vocational Technical School was recognized. In 1970, the program was completed with a girl graduate of the Vocational Technical School included.

During the past 20 years of the Koch Club Scholarship Fund program, a total of $8,000 has been provided to 88 student graduates in Quincy.

Although the Koch Club is largely involved in athletic and recreation programs, the prime purpose of the scholarship fund is to impress upon the boy and girl participants in the activities the fact that the organization is interested and concerned with the education and scholastic ability of youth.

The active scholarship fund committee members include:

Anthony T. Delmonico, chairman, Thomas F. Nestor, vice chairman, Howard F. Crowley, Mrs. Gerry Delmonico, Mr. David J. Donaghue, Mrs. Simone Koch and Mr. Richard J. Koch, Jr.

The Koch Club established a permanent scholarship fund on the 25th anniversary of the organization in 1973 with a $5000 grant established in the City of Quincy. The perpetual scholarship fund has increased to $8800 from gifts and interest accrued. Persons interested in donating to the fund may make checks payable to the Koch Club Scholarship Fund, c/o City Treasurer, City Hall, Quincy.

In 1998, on the 50th anniversary of the Koch Club, the interest accrued annually from the principal will each year provide scholarship awards to boy and girl graduates of the Quincy Public Schools.

Should the Koch Club no longer exist as an organization, the heritage and principals established will continue to exist.

VO-TECH PRIZE WINNERS -- Stephen Salvatore [seated, left] and Robert Arey will represent the electrical department of Quincy Vocational-Technical School in the state competition sponsored by the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America. Arey placed first and Salvatore was second in local competition at the school. Judges for electrical contest were [standing], Carl Renken, William Comer, Ted Crocker, Lawrence Scarnici, Edward Jensen and James Comer, electrical instructor at Vo-Tech.

Brownie Troop 150 Visits Quincy Sun

Members of Brownie Girl Scout troop 150 of Wollaston visited The Quincy Sun recently to see first hand how a newspaper is produced.

Making the tour were Kim Damigella, Gillian Davidson, Amy Davis, Heather Hartford, Kristen MacDonald, Alison Morash, Carolyn O'Brien, Elizabeth Roberts, Dawn Sullivan, Kara Sullivan, Sheila Sullivan, Andrea Kelly, Kathleen Watt, Elaine Joseph, Kris Morris and Marisa Zona. The girls were accompanied by their troop leaders, Annemarie Boness, Diane Mattemueller and Jean Sullivan.

The scouts were shown how newstories are written, set in type and placed on a page, including the story of their visit.

They saw an IBM computer typesetter, a Compugraphic photo typesetter, and a Compugraphic headline photo typesetter in action. They also saw how a stat camera reduces, enlarges and screens original photographs so they can be used in The Sun.

They were also shown how pages of The Sun are put together for printing.

The scouts were presented with copies of the current issue of The Sun at the end of their tour.

Quincy Women Aid BSO Fund Raising Drive

Mrs. Hugo Mujica of Squantum, chairman of the South Shore unit of Friends of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, is active in preparing for the Musical Marathon this weekend on WCRB (102.5 FM) to raise funds for the orchestra.

Other members of the committee from Quincy include Mrs. Norma Wilson, and Mrs.

Davenport Jackson, Jr.

The marathon will start at noon tomorrow (Friday) and run non-stop through Sunday, March 25. The marathon will feature a special televised broadcast from Symphony Hall by the BSO, just back from a tour of China. The broadcast will be televised over WCVB-TV (Channel 5), 6:30 to 8 p.m. on Sunday.

Other broadcasts, with special guests, will originate from Quincy Market rotunda in Boston.

The three-day program hopes to raise $175,000 for the orchestra. More than 275 gift premiums will be given to those pledging a contribution. They range from a BSO Mylar Kite for a $10 contribution to the entire Boston Symphony Orchestra or Boston Pops Orchestra for a favorite charity with a pledge of $50,000.

Wants Squantum Monitoring

Morrissey Seeks Hearings On Air Flight Changes

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) testified at a hearing of the Committee on Natural Resources on two bills concerning Massport and aircraft flying over Quincy.

The first bill, filed jointly with Rep. Thomas F. Brownell (D-Quincy) would direct Massport officials to hold public hearings before making changes in aircraft flight patterns.

The second bill calls for Massport to construct a noise monitoring station in the Squantum section of the city.

"If these bills are passed," Morrissey said, "it will give us in Quincy a firmer ground to stand on with Massport. We won't have to deal with the noise in the same light."

Morrissey said the bills should be reported out by the committee sometime this week. He said there was a good chance that both would receive favorable reports.

27-1 Overall Record

Sorkin, Aronson Jewels In Thayer's Class C Crown

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Thayer Academy basketball team has completed its most outstanding season, going 14-0 to win the Independent School League championship, finishing 27-1 overall and winning the New England Class C Prep School crown.

Playing prominent roles in the Tigers' success were two Quincy players, Steve Sorkin, 5-9, 155-pound senior, and Eric Aronson, 6-2, 170-pound junior.

Thayer, coached by Bill Elliott, lost only to Tabor Academy, a Class A post graduate school this year, and was involved in numerous one and two-point games, which Elliott feels paid big dividends in the Tigers' New England title drive.

"We played in so many close games the experience proved invaluable in the New England," he said. "The boys were used to playing under extreme pressure."

Thayer won its final regular season game over Gov. Dummer, 66-65, to clinch the league title. In the N.E. playoffs it edged Brooks Academy, 68-67; St. Paul's, 57-55, and Gov. Dummer again, 74-73, for the crown.

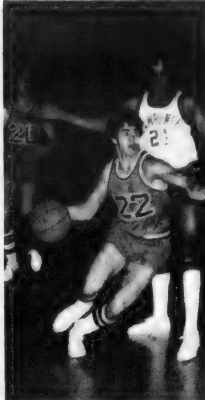

"I think all our close games late in the year were due to a large extent to our 'long schedule,'" Elliott said. "The boys were getting pretty tired but they certainly came 'tough when it counted. This was an outstanding group of boys to work with."

Sorkin, an honor student who is being sought by many colleges, has been a varsity letterman for three years. He was the point guard on the basketball team, a fine playmaker and one of the top defensive players for the Tigers who was always assigned to cover the opposition's high scorer.

In addition to his defensive prowess and having an average of 10 assists a game, he also averaged seven points a game. He was selected to the all-tournament team at the Rivers Christmas Tournament, won by the Tigers.

"Steve is a really outstanding player whom I've had for five years, starting in the eighth grade," Elliott said. "I was the junior varsity coach then and I could tell right from the beginning he was an unusual boy and player. I've never seen anyone develop faster than he has."

In football Steve was also varsity for three years and helped spark the team to an undefeated 1978 season. He was selected to the first team All-Independent League team as a defensive back in both his junior and senior years. He also received the Seymour Stadfeld Award for his outstanding performances.

Sorkin also earned a varsity letter in track as a sophomore.

He is vice president of the Varsity Club, chairman of the Judiciary Board, sports editor of the yearbook and was named to the Cum Laude Society.

He prefers to enter a New England College and among those he is considering are Williams, Bowdoin, Colby, Trinity and Tufts.

Aronson who, like Sorkin, was a regular starter, also is a three-year varsity performer and this year the 16-year old was the third leading scorer and averaged six steals a game. He was the only starting junior.

"Eric is another outstanding boy and player and he certainly will be one of our key men next year," said Elliott. "He is a forward, an excellent shooter and his steals show what a hustler and defensive performer he is."

Eric was an offensive end on the unbeaten football team and made all-league honorable mention.

Both Sorkin and Aronson began playing in the Quincy YMCA Church League when only eight years old.

Thayer's top scorer this year was Robin Dixon, who averaged close to 30 points a game. His foul shot in the final seconds won the Brooks game. His sister, who stands 6-1, is the outstanding player for the outstanding Cambridge Ridge and Latin girls' team which won the Eastern Mass. Division One North title.

Also playing key roles in Thayer's success this year were Maurice Mitchner, whose foul shot with four seconds won against St. Paul's; Steve Roundtree, a sophomore who hit a twisting bank shot while falling down with 20 seconds left to win the championship game against Gov. Dummer; Chris Barry and John Guenard.

Sports

Rugby Club To Open At Groton Saturday

The Quincy Rugby Club will open its spring season on Saturday, March 24, in Groton, Conn., against the Groton Rugby Club, President John Kennedy announces.

The Quincy club will play a nine-game schedule against the top clubs in New England and is looking for new players.

Anyone interested in playing should contact the team's secretary-treasurer, Pete Barbadoro at 479-0122.

Last spring the club enjoyed the second undefeated season in its six-year history.

Further information on the club can be obtained by calling.

The schedule:
March 24, at Groton; March 31, Old North Bridge; April 7, Boston University; April 14, at Beacon Hill; April 21, Central Conn. State; April 28, at Dover, N.H.; May 5, at Norwich Tournament; May 12, Coast Guard; May 26, at Charles River. All games start at 1.

Graham Elected NQHS Football Captain

For the first time in a number of years North Quincy's football team will have only one captain next fall.

Leo Graham, a standout two-way player, was elected and was introduced at the recent Captain's Dinner sponsored by the North Football Boosters Club.

Among the awards given at the dinner was a new Sportsmanship trophy given by the Boosters Club and won by Jim Kenney.

Pete Zoia, a club member, presented a special plaque to Rev. Cornelius Heery, pastor of Sacred Heart Church, for being a good friend, to the team. The award was accepted by North Principal Peter Chisom in the absence of Fr. Heery, who was in Rome.

2 Wollaston Boxers 'Coming Along Fast'

Two Wollaston youngsters, members of the Milton Boxing Club, are coming along fast under handler Dick Mullaly.

Brian Federico, 13, pounded out a unanimous decision in the 90-pound class over 1978 Junior Olympic champion Richie Grenier last Friday at McDonough's gym in South Boston.

Twelve-year old Barry Holton was scheduled to fight in the 75-pound class but was out of action with the flu.

Earlier both boys had won decisions in a show sponsored by the K. of C. in Glens Falls, N.Y. Barry won the Outstanding Boxer trophy in his class.

Both youngsters are students at Central Junior High School.

Donovan On All-Suburban Team

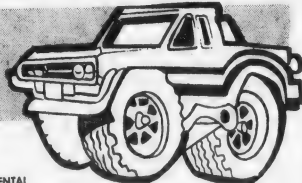

Junior Brian Donovan of Quincy, the league's number two scorer, was named to the All-Suburban Basketball League first team.

North Quincy's Jim Holleran, the league's number three scorer, was selected on the second team and the Raiders' Kevin Cobban was named to the third team.

As expected, undefeated Cambridge Rindge and Latin, the league, Eastern, Mass and state champions, dominated the team selected by the league coaches.

First Ladies City Champs

The Quincy girls' basketball team just missed qualifying for the state tournament but the First Ladies did clinch the city championship with a 40-32 win over North Quincy recently in their finale.

Quincy defeated the Raiderettes in both games this year.

It was a successful season for Coach Barbara Webster's Quincy team, which finished 12-7 overall and 10-6 in the Suburban League.

Several one and two-point defeats early in the season cost the team a tournament berth. It lost twice to Newton North, once by one point in regulation time and the other in overtime.

"It was the seniors' last game and they all got to play," Miss Webster said. "Things look promising for next year as we had only one senior in the starting lineup. We will have an excellent nucleus to build around next year."

It was a frustrating season for North Coach Brian Tilley, whose team had only a 2-14 record but lost several close decisions.

"Our biggest problem was offense," Tilley said. "We scored over 40 points only once. The defense did a good job and we forced a surprising amount of turnovers today against Quincy."

Quincy utilized its height advantage against North and also used its fast break effectively, as it did all season.

Despite its disappointing season, North did have one of the league's top scorers in Patti Bellotti. She was in early foul trouble and sat out much of the Quincy game, which hurt North's chances.

The score was tied at six after one period but Quincy moved ahead, 18-13, at halftime and took 28-19 advantage into the final period.

Quincy had nobody in double figures but Maureen Walsh, Sue Callahan and Laura Riley all had seven points as eight First Ladies scored.

For North Bellotti had 12 points and Cheryl Ayles, who fouled out in the final period, had 10. She was the Raiderettes' best rebounder.

Old Colony Wins DeMolay Division A Title

Old Colony DeMolay basketball team of Quincy won the Division A championship with a 66-50 win over South Shore in a playoff for the crown. The teams had finished in a top tie necessitating the playoff game.

Both teams move on to the state championship which starts Friday night at Breed Junior High in Lynn. Old Colony will play Lynn Friday night at 7 and South Shore will meet Boston at 8:30.

The winners will play for the state title Saturday, March 31 at 8:30 at the same site.

David Abbott sparked Old Colony to its win with 24 points and 15 rebounds, while Ken Olson had 14 points. Steve Olson had 12. Don DeCristofaro nine and Doug Eisan nine. Bobby Peterson, Kurt Olson and Bruce Hultunen also played well.

The Old Colony team is coached by William Abbott, assisted by Robert Peterson Sr., and Bryant Carter Jr.

Quincy Expected To Compete In Fall River Tourney

Quincy is expected to be represented in the Fall River Open Basketball Tournament which will begin Saturday, April 14, and continue throughout the schools' Easter vacation week.

In addition to the open division, Juan J. Deleon, executive director of the Community Development Recreation Program, announces junior and senior brackets this year.

Sixteen teams will compete in the junior division, 16 and under; 16 in the senior division, 19 and und, and 16 in the open division with no age limit.

Further information can be obtained by contacting the Fall River Community Development Recreation office, 74 Corneau St., or calling 679-0059.

Set For May 6

Road Race To Benefit Hospital

The Quincy City Hospital Roadrace Committee will hold its first annual "Run for Your Life Roadrace" Sunday, May 6.

Goal of the NEAAU sanctioned, five-mile race is to raise funds through pledges and donations for improvements in the cardiac and intensive care unit and to increase peoples' awareness of Quincy City Hospital, its facilities, programs and services.

Councillor Joanne Condon said:

"As chairman of the Council's Hospital Committee, I saw the many excellent services provided the community by the hospital. I also became aware through doctors' requests that even more comprehensive services could be provided with additional equipment.

"The Mayor has indicated a willingness to appropriate equipment funds in next year's hospital budget to address some of these needs. This committee of friends of the hospital was formed to raise more funds to help in the battle against cardiac disease, the leading cause of death and disability in adult Americans."

The committee decided on a roadrace as the vehicle to raise funds because it will involve large numbers of people of all ages and interests and can lead to widespread community involvement in support of the hospital. In addition, the committee is requesting the governor, attorney general and other well-known people to participate and support their efforts.

A trophy will be presented to the winner of the race as well as awards to the first three men and three women in each of the following categories: 18 and under; 19 to 29; 30 to 39; 40 to 49; 50 to 55; 56 to 60; 61 and over. Also, the runner having the highest amount of money pledged will receive a prize of an expense-paid week-end for two on the Cape.

Entry fee is a minimum of $10 dollars in pledges and donations. Participants must register by Thursday, May 3. For more detailed information, contact Jane Ford, 156 Connell St., Quincy [773-0633] after 6 p.m. or any of the committee members.

Councillor Condon, Chairman; Louise Brabazon, secretary; Rhonda Merrill, treasurer; Richard Meade, James McIntyre, Dr. Thomas Quinn, Councillor Stephen McGrath, Dr. Peter Barrett, and Mayor Arthur Tobin, honorary chairman.

Venturelli, Crowe On All-Star Wrestling Team

Steve Venturelli (21-4-0) and Rennie Crowe (24-2-0) were named to the Suburban League wrestling all-star first team as the Presidents won their first league championship and added the South Regional Division 1 title. Quincy's Ron DiCesare (8-6-1).

Steve Notarangelo (13-5-0), Kurt Braun (22-4-0), Mike Gordon (17-4-1) and Tony Akoury (18-4-1) were selected on the second team, while Jim Mullarkey of Quincy and Dave Howley of North Quincy were given honorable mention.

Montclair, Central To Play For Title At Boston Garden

This year's Quincy Recreation Department's all-city boys' Junior High basketball finals will be played at Boston Garden Sunday, April 8, between Montclair Center and Central in a preliminary game to the Celtics-New Jersey Nets game.

This game has been an annual tradition in Quincy for more than 20 years but this is the first time the finals have been played at the Garden.

According to Charles L. Alongi, director of recreation, more than 300 Quincy residents have purchased tickets and will travel with the Recreation Department to the game.

The players advanced through the single elimination tournament to earn the privilege of playing in the title game.

The Montclair Warriors players are Joe Dudek, Chris

Bunker, Paul Ceurvals, Jimmy Kennedy, Steve Evans, Steve Higgins, John Grenier, Danny Baker, Peter McGillicuddy and Paul McCabe. The team defeated Squantum and Broad Meadows to reach the finals. The team is coached by Jerry Pratt, Tom Burke and assistant Ron West.

A Celtics player will present trophies to the championship players and certificates to the runnersup.

Squantum, Sterling Advance To Semi-Finals

Squantum and Sterling advanced to Saturday's semifinals in the Quincy Recreation Department's boys' Senior High basketball tournament.

Squantum had seven players scoring in its 43-30 win over Beechwood Knoll, with Jim Badger scoring 13 points and Jim Coughlin nine. Also scoring for Squantum were Paul Graham and Mike Quinn with six apiece. Beechwood Knoll was led by Steve Tuoma and Steve Belcastro with 14 points each. Jim Kenney stood out defensively.

In the second game last week Sterling held off Point for a 58-56 win. Chuck Sylva paced Sterling with 14 points, while Ed Tinney and Scott MacLeod had 13 each. For Point John Costigan scored 14 and Peter Memmola and Mike Cronin had 10. Jim Travers pulled down eight rebounds and was outstanding on defense for Point.

Energy 'Summit' Meeting Thursday For City Conservation Policy slated for Massachusetts are between $18 and $27 million. Guidelines will be ready in a month.

Tobin said the School Department will be filing for money jointly with the Hospital.

The School Department, which has been working on energy conservation since 1974, recently purchased a new system to control energy through a computer that turns on thermostats and controls lights and air conditioning.

Tobin said the goal of the energy conservation campaign at the Hospital is a one-third savings. He said the Hospital averages 300 patients daily with an annual cost of $440,000 for fuel and electricity.

Koch said that Quincy residents Robert Woodman, Joseph E. Burke, and Richard Meade have been named to an Energy Advisory Commission to gather information and make recommendations.

A subcommittee of various city officials will be appointed to assist in implementing a positive and effective method of energy conservation within the city.

Koch said a poster and essay contest, sponsored by the Quincy City Club, is planned for the schools to involve young people directly in the energy problem.

A series of workshops on energy will also be scheduled for Quincy residents in which they can learn ways of saving in home fuel oil, electricity, gas and gasoline.

Police Dept. Revamps Communications To Fight Crime citizen insists on talking directly with an officer, a car is dispatched."

A recent survey disclosed that it costs approximately $140,000 to keep a one-man patrol car on the road around the clock for one year.

"With all the emphasis today on conserving energy and keeping costs down it is essential that services, in this case those of the police be upgraded, and made to operate at the highest possible level of efficiency," Belmont said.

Teleserve communications operates with these objectives in mind. The incident cards record the date and time of each call, the action taken and the time spent in completing the assignment.

"The more sophisticated communications system combined with the crime analysis and other projects made possible by this grant will insure Quincy of adequate police protection," Belmont said.

"At the same time," he added, "a close check on the costs in money and time will give the municipal administration an opportunity to study just how the police department can be operated to provide citizens with the best of all possible services."

Government Regulations Committee that would enable the Norfolk County commissioners to issue their own license for the facility.

Opposition to the license for what was once the clubhouse of the Wollaston Golf Club has come from residents of the nearby Montclair area which is zoned for Residence A.

Neil M. Kerstein of Quincy, attorney for Mulvey, said the suit for the license was filed in Norfolk Superior Court Friday and hearing on the bid for an injunction was scheduled to be held yesterday [Wednesday].

Kerstein said the case will be fought on these two issues:

- The Wollaston Golf Club previously was granted an all-alcoholic beverage license from 1956 through 1974 as "an existing non-conforming use" under the Quincy zoning ordinances.

- The membership of the Licensing Board violates the separation of powers provisions of the State Constitution in that the individuals are called on to have other dealings with its licensees.

The Board is composed of City Clerk John M. Gillis, Police Chief Francis X. Finn, Fire Chief Edward F. Barry, Health Commissioner Dr. Samuel Solomon and Building Inspector Allan F. McDonald.

"The chief of police can be involved in problems at the bar and in paid details," said Kerstein. "The fire chief has an interest in fire regulations; the building inspectors in code violations."

"I feel that by definition they cannot separate their functions in those jobs from their duties as members of the Board. And those functions overlap."

Mulvey's suit said a liquor license was granted to the Wollaston Golf Club on or about Dec. 31, 1956 and annually thereafter until Dec. 18, 1974. It was discontinued in December, 1975, when Norfolk County bought the club.

Under the city's zoning ordinances, there is a two-year grace period following discontinuance of a license during which a new license may be sought without losing the "non-conforming use" exemption.

One Christopher L. Glynn applied for a license June 28, 1977, and the application was denied "because being a recreational area, it is conducive to many teenagers and it is very hard to govern the licensed area."

Mulvey in 1978 and 1979 three times applied for a license and each time he was turned down, the last time "because of improper zoning," since the two-year grace period had expired.

Mulvey's suit maintains that the first application for the license was filed well within the two-year limit "and but for the denial of said application by the Board, the two year period would not have run out."

The suit asks that the improper zoning decision be declared an "error of law," and the court establish damages, including costs and attorney's fees.

Meanwhile, despite an expected favorable report from the Government Regulations Committee, the bill sponsored by Rep. Robert B. Ambler [D-Weymouth] that would grant the license over the objections of the Board apparently faced tough going in both the House and the Senate.

"The legislation is in direct violation of the home rule provisions," said Sen. Paul D. Harold [D-Quincy]. "To allow the legislature to grant a liquor license would set a dangerous precedent."

"I am confident that I have enough votes in the Senate to kill it on the home rule and precedence issues."

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey [D-Quincy] was not that confident in the House but, he added, "I'm still going to fight the bill."

"I don't think I have the votes to defeat the bill," he said. "If you can't defeat it the next best thing is to water it down as best you can and hope that it's defeated in the Senate."

Morrissey said he will offer a series of amendments when the bill reaches the floor, including changes to make it a seasonal license, a club license and impose a 10 p.m. closing time.

Morrissey conceded that a majority of the people who attended an informal hearing on the bill last Wednesday at the facility were in favor of the license.

"But the abutments were about 90 per cent opposed," he said. "Those are the people I'm most concerned with. It's a case of protecting the minority from the majority."

Sheets Asks Apartment Site Rezoning

some of his constituents. He said that in 1975 he had opposed the planned sub-division of the area.

"It is my understanding that if a sub-division plan is accepted the zoning cannot be changed for seven years. However, in this case, the developers have chosen only one parcel of the entire area. This raises the question as to whether or not we can rezone during the seven year period."

Reception April 5

300th Anniversary Of Public School Teaching To Be Observed

By HAROLD CROWLEY

The 300th anniversary of public school teaching in Quincy will be marked Thursday, April 5 at a reception at the Adams Academy, the Library-Museum of the Quincy Historical Society.

The Quincy Historical Society, the Quincy Education Association, and the Quincy Public Schools will participate.

On March 3, 1679, the Town Meeting for the old town of Braintree (now Quincy, Braintree, Randolph and Holbrook) voted a salary and a piece of land on which to set a house to Benjamin Tompson, the town's first official schoolmaster.

There had been school teaching here since 1647 as the law required, but this action of the town meeting to support the education of its children with public funds marked the beginning of a three-hundred year period in which the town and now the city has maintained schools for the education of its young people.

Benjamin Tompson, the son of Reverend William Tompson, the first minister of the town, held school close to his home on the east side of the Old Boston and Plymouth Highway (now Hancock Street just south of present Quincy Center) from the time of his appointment until 1700. In addition to his position as schoolmaster he also was a physician and served as Town Clerk. In his "spare time" he wrote poetry and is generally recognized as America's first native poet.

The reception at the Adams Academy, which will launch a year-long program of activities to commemorate the anniversary, will be attended by teachers, school officials, and historical organization members from all of the towns and cities that once made up Old Braintree as well as representatives of the Massachusetts Teachers Association.

The program will include brief remarks by officials of the sponsoring organizations, an historical sketch of Benjamin Tompson by Dr. James R. Cameron, head of the history department at Eastern Nazarene College, and a reading of Tompson's poems by Mrs. Doris Oberg, Vice-President of the Quincy Historical Society. Light refreshments will follow.

For additional information contact Lawrence Yerdon at the Quincy Historical Society (773-1144) or Jack Harrington, Reception Chairman, at 471-0100.

FIRST ANNUAL BALL of Quincy Historical Society, "An Elegant Interlude", will be held Saturday, with a cocktail party at Adams Academy at 6 p.m., followed by dinner and dancing at the Neighborhood Club. Preparing floral arrangements for the tables are Lawrence Yerdon, curator-director of the historical society, and Nancy Alvord, corresponding secretary, in charge of the flower settings.

Recreation Dept. Ceramics Display In Sun Window

The colorful ceramic art work of 21 second through sixth graders from the Quincy School, Fore River and Lincoln Hancock Community School is on display this week in The Quincy Sun window, Quincy Sq.

The pieces are the end result of a 22-week program run by the Quincy Recreation Department and under the supervision of Mary Anderson.

The children attended the program after school and on Saturdays and progressed from learning the basics of ceramics to producing the first rate plaques, miniature cars, planters and figures that are on display.

Participating from the Quincy School: Stacey Barnes, Steven Brooks, Richard Brooks, Herbert Parsley, Diane Connolly, Janice Avalon, Joseph Boti, Sheila Egan, Robert Flannery, Kim Rudnisky, Susan Coutts and Louis Guarante.

Fore River: Timothy Hodges, William Hodges, Jodi Farrell and Mimi Ryan.

Lincoln Hancock: Linda Luiso, Alyse Zacheo, Alice Kavanaugh, Lynne Fullerton and Deborah Herron.

Instructors were Catherine Anderson, Maureen Kelly, Deborah McCarter, Maryann Picardi, Janice Sidders and Nancy Trifone.

S. Quincy, Braintree Have Say But . . .

MBTA Access Dispute May Go To Court

By TOM HENSHAW

Braintree Selectman Donald J. Laing best stated the dilemma that confronts Quincy and Braintree in their dispute over pedestrian access from Independence Ave. to the new Quincy Adams MBTA station.

"Quincy may have a promise from the MBTA that there'd be no access," he said "but the citizens of Braintree have a promise from the federal government that the access is going to be there.

"Now, if we can negotiate one that's acceptable to both, fine. But we are as adamant in our position as your officials are in theirs."

Laing was one of several officials from Braintree and Quincy who spoke at an informal access hearing, sponsored by the South Quincy Civic Association, Monday night at the Lincoln-Hancock School.

The nearly two-hour hearing, attended by some 150 people, was polite and quiet but there were hints from both sides of possible legal action to come if their desires are not satisfied.

"I think it might come to the point," said City Council

President John J. Quinn, "where we have to institute a suit, which I hate to do, to get an injunction that would prohibit any accessway off Independence Ave."

"There is a commitment by the Urban Mass Transportation Administration (UMTA) by which the funding was committed," said Braintree Selectman Carl R. Johnson, "and that is something that can be enforced by litigation."

"That's why the MBTA finds itself in a precarious situation. If they endorse a no access position there's going to be liability and the federal government could pull out the funding."

Both Johnson and fellow Selectman Saran E. Gillies said they would favor a pedestrian access ramp that began on Independence Ave. in Braintree instead of Quincy as originally

Tobin Blasts 'Racial Overtones' In W. Quincy Apartment Issue

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin says the Quincy Planning Department has received telephone calls "with racial overtones," attacking the city government for permitting low income housing to be built on Willard St. in West Quincy.

"The callers are complaining that the Mayor and the Planning Department are subjecting West Quincy to racial overtones just to get federal monies and this is absolutely not so," Tobin told The Quincy Sun.

"It's unfortunate that these matters were not cleared up when we had the public hearing."

The Mayor and Planning Director Walter J. Hannon were accused by some West Quincy residents of "selling us down the river" during a Conservation Commission hearing three weeks ago in St. Mary's Hall.

The residents were incensed that the city was using the 184-unit low and middle income housing complex to show that the city is committed to low income housing in order to obtain federal funds.

"Unfortunately," Tobin told a luncheon meeting of the Quincy Taxpayers Monday, "we have people in our city who are turning this into a racial issue

Petitions Being Circulated To Halt Willard St. Apartment Facility

Petitions are circulating in West Quincy asking the City Council and the Conservation Commission to halt a planned 184-unit low and middle income apartment building off Willard St.

Rene Lumaghini Jr. of 75 Woodcliff Rd., one of the leaders of the petition drive, said the group is aiming for 2,000 names to present to the City Council at its April 2 meeting.

The petition says that its signers "wish to make it known that the decision to build the project was made without their knowledge or any consideration to the problems of the area."

The signatures drive started Thursday, March 22, said Lumaghini. About 10 people have been going door-to-door with them and copies have been placed in several stores.

Neighborhood Watch Cited

Burglaries Down 38% Since 1973

Residential burglaries in Quincy have decreased every year since January, 1973, when the Neighborhood Watch program was inaugurated, reports Police Lt. William Murphy of the crime prevention division.

The total reduction in burglaries over the six year period is 38 percent, he said.

"Although this reduction cannot be attributed solely to the efforts of Neighborhood Watch participants, it is felt that a significant part of the reduction is the result of increased awareness of residents and their adherence to security recommendations," Murphy said.

There are approximately 3,000 Neighborhood Watch families in Quincy, but there is always a need for increased participation, Murphy said.

Neighborhood Watch residents are encouraged to take proper security precautions and to call police if suspicious activity is observed in their neighborhood.

On formation of a Watch group the neighborhood families hold two meetings. At the first a film is shown followed by a lock demonstration and a discussion of the Operation Identification engraving program. At the second meeting a police officer gives a slide presentation on precautions to be taken and discusses details of the program.

Interested residents may call the Quincy Crime Prevention Division any day from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. and ask for Lt. Murphy or Mrs. Janice Molloy for details.

Funded By CETA

15 Civilians To Be Police Dept. Information Processors

Federal CETA funds will be used to employ 15 civilians as information processors for the Quincy Police Department, announces Mayor Arthur H. Tobin.

The Mayor said that the need for such help has become clear due to the number of information systems that have been or will be developed in the next 12 to 18 months.

Under the new Integrated Criminal Apprehension Program

(ICAP), which has been modifying existing records systems, information must be efficiently reported, processed, stored and retrieved.

The information processors will be deployed in several key areas of ICAP's centralized filing system.

During the past year, CETA workers have been used on an extensive basis at what was called "the desk area" as an alternative to using sworn personnel.

This proved to be a cost-effective method of relieving specially trained police officers from principally clerical duties, Tobin said. The same rationale can be applied to communications.

"The taxpayers of Quincy will benefit in reduced police budget and more effective crime prevention and detection," said the Mayor.

City May Soon Have 'Parking Authority'

Quincy may soon have a "parking authority" to help control the traffic problems in downtown Quincy and the streets around the three MBTA stations.

"It has been suggested to me that we may be at that stage of our growth when there is such a need," said Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, noting that Boston has one.

Tobin said the idea was recommended by Public Works Commissioner James J. Ricciuti and "once the UDAG grant and the budget are out of the way, we'll sit down and talk about it."

"We hope it would be self-supporting," he said. "It won't be another bureaucracy that will cost the taxpayers money."

"I don't think enough detailed concentration has been given to it in the past. The Traffic Department does not have the proper manning now."

Tobin said he envisioned the parking authority taking over operation of the Ross Parking Garage and the area around the MBTA parking lots.

Donnelly 'Cautiously Optimistic' Word On UDAG May Come Friday

Mayor Tobin says he expects to hear tomorrow [Friday] or early next week whether or not Quincy is successful in obtaining a $3.7 million UDAG grant to build a garage over the MBTA tracks at Granite St.

The grant is vital to the building of a proposed $10 million, 10-story office building on the Della Chiesa Parking Area and Tobin calls it a catalyst for revitalizing downtown Quincy.

"We're cautiously optimistic," said Cong. Brian J. Donnelly [D-Boston], who buddies with Tobin and other Quincy officials Monday in last minute efforts to press for the grant.

"Quincy has a problem with its ratio of 3 1/2 to 1 private investment to public money while HUD is looking for at least 5 to 1. But Quincy's figures are solid.

"In the long run it's going to help because you're dealing with experts. They knew from the beginning that Quincy came in with straight information. There was no puffery.

"There is nothing else to do now but sit tight."

Earlier Monday, Tobin told the Quincy Taxpayers Association that "the city is still hanging in there at 3 1/2 to 1 and that speaks well for everyone who was in the project.

"It's going to be real apprehension for us for the next few days to see if we're going to receive some sort of help or if we fail to make the final cut down.

"But the fact that we hung in there right up until now is encouraging.

Hearing April 4 On Great Hill School Closing

By PETER BARNICLE

The School Committee will hold a public hearing at the Great Hill School, Island Rd., Houghs Neck, Wednesday, April 4, to discuss with residents of the area reasons for the recommended closing of the school.

This will be the first in a series of four such hearings to be held. The second will be held at the Myles Standish School, April 9, the last two will be at the Cranch and Hunting Schools, which have low enrollments.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Crendon has told the school committee that if any schools in the city are to be closed because of declining enrollment, these are the ones he would recommend.

Residents of the area have already expressed opposition to the proposed action and contend it would be disruptive to the neighborhood.

The Great Hill School which has six classrooms for students and a capacity for 150 students in kindergarten through the sixth grade, now has an enrollment of 105 students. School department projections show that this enrollment will drop to 92 by 1981.

The decision to consider closing a number of the city's 21 elementary schools is the result of an in-depth study of declining enrollments and increasing costs.

The study was conducted over the past several years by a task force headed by Wilfred Nolan, coordinator of elementary education.

Should the Great Hill School be closed the students would be transferred to the Atherton Hough which has the capacity to absorb the additional pupils without overcrowding.

Atherton Hough has 18 classrooms for students and educational capacity of 500. Its present enrollment is 382 and the expected enrollment next year will be 364.

The school department's study shows that the closing of Great Hill would result in a gross savings of $116,583. Shutdown costs, such as draining the heating system and making the building secure, would amount to $8,103 and additional transportation for students would cost $20,712. The closing would result in a net savings to the school system of $87,768.

Similar savings in varying amounts would be realized in the closing of other schools mentioned and the transfer of the students to schools in nearby areas. Transportation, apparently, would be the largest cost involved

ARE YOU LOSING MONEY IN YOUR NOW ACCOUNT?

At some banks you lose an entire month's interest or pay an activity charge if your NOW Account balance falls below their minimum for just one day. Not at Old Colony. We don't think you should lose money just because your NOW Account has its normal ups and downs. You earn interest every single day you maintain a minimum balance of $200. And that means if your balance falls below the minimum for just a few days, you'll still earn interest for the rest of the month.

With free checks and a monthly statement, it all adds up to this:

3 Woodward Students Inducted Into National Honor Society

By EILEEN SPILLANE

Three students from the Woodward School For Girls, were recently inducted into the Katherine Bacon Chapter of the National Honor Society.

Mrs. Margaret Buck, Honor society advisor, presented pins to the following new members: Janice Barbour of Dorchester, Colleen Graul of South Boston, both 11th grade students, and Janine MacKinnon of Quincy, a 10th grade student.

Guest speaker was Mrs. Carole Neitlich, director of the South Area Jewish Community Center Nursery Schools, a Quincy Junior College instructor and a member of the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women.

Mrs. Neitlich, an executive board member of DOVE, spoke about opportunities for women in the future, stressing not only their rights, but also their responsibilities.

Carolyn Conser, Grade 12, of Hingham, and Sandra Williams Grade 11, of Dorchester, who became members of the honor society last year, began the ceremony, with a reading from the "Interpretation of Basic Ideals".

Quincy Junior College Secretarial Career Day

Secretarial Career Day, sponsored by the secretarial department of Quincy Junior College, was held Wednesday at Atlantic Junior High School.

Chairwoman Virginia Waller said the program was designed to acquaint secretarial students with the realities of the working world.

Former Quincy Junior College students Patricia Gillooly, Mary Jane Jolicoeur, Donna Carla Smith and Carol

Ohrenberger Weiler related their experiences in the business world.

They discussed job interviews, expectations of their first job, and expectations of their employers.

Kathleen Frost, Quincy Junior College student, moderated the panel.

Guest speaker was Jack Dugan, second vice president of South Shore Bank, who spoke on employers' expectations of their secretaries.

2 Residents On Dean's List At Worcester State

Two Quincy residents, Annemarie Donahue, of 96 Utica St., Adams Shore and Lisa M. Rizzo, of 53 Shore Ave., Merrymount, have been named to the academic dean's list for the fall semester at Worcester State College.

To qualify, students must earn a quality grade point average of 3.3 out of a possible 4.0 for the semester.

Mary McCarthy On President's List

Mary McCarthy, of Quincy, a freshman at Aquinas Junior College, Newton, has been named to the school's president's list for the first semester.

CAREER NIGHT - Committee members are shown working on plans for Career Night to be held April 3, at Broad Meadows Junior High School. April 3 At Broad Meadows

Career Night To Spotlight 'Non-Traditional' Jobs

Many junior high and high school students in Quincy are interested in examining some non-traditional careers.

Since the word "non-traditional" means careers which may in the past have been thought to be for one sex, a female carpenter and a male nurse are still considered non-traditional.

The Quincy Public Schools' Career Night which will be held at Broad Meadows Junior High School Tuesday evening, April 3, makes that point through the careers and people represented.

The Health cluster chaired by Frances McKillop of Great Hill School includes Kathy Holler of Quincy, a nursery aide, Joyce Buckley of Whitman, a respiratory therapist nurse, Marcia Mulligan of Norwell, an electroencephalograph technician, Maureen Smith of Quincy, a licensed practical nurse and Matthew Bellanick of Quincy, a male nurse.

Marie Hurley, of Quincy Vocational-Technical School will chair the communications cluster which includes Jan Holmes in public relations at Lesley College Graduate School, Pat Svirsky a broadcaster with WBFL in Brockton, Ellen Pfeiler and Valerie Morrison, reporters with the Boston Herald American and Sherla Wells, a broadcaster with WJDA in Quincy.

The Data Processing cluster chaired by Patricia Gorman of Quincy Point Junior High School will include Pamela Sinclair Barnard, Bedford, a computer systems manager, Pat Gillis of Burlington, a graduate services representative, Linda Belanger of Hopkinton, a marketing representative and Wayne Wegiel in data processing at Chamberlayne Junior College, Boston.

The Women in Construction cluster chaired by Barbara Guillot of Quincy Vocational-Technical School and Jane Dickson of Sterling Junior High School has been expanded to include Ida Degani, a train engineer, Sue Eisenberg, apprentice electrician, Debra Fly, apprentice plumber, Cindy Castro, a post-graduate electrical student at Quincy Vocational-Technical School, Sandy Bailey, a train engineer with the Boston and Maine Railroad and Kate Hallaren, a construction laborer and the first woman to join her union.

Other career clusters represented will be dentistry, chaired by Janet Doyle of Quincy, Vocational-Technical School, Animal Services chaired by Brenda Brown of Broad Meadows Junior High School, Women in Business, chaired by Alice Coombes of Quincy High School, Law Enforcement chaired by Linda Wilson of Quincy High School and private business, chaired by Eileen Cutler of the Pollard School.

The Career Night is co-sponsored by the Director, Pupil Personnel Services, Director Career Education and Coordinator of Title IX 622. Students will be able to choose four of the ten clusters presented and listen to and question the participants about their education, salary levels, job opportunities. Parents have been invited also because their attitude and influence is so crucial to a student's choice of a career. However, students may attend without parents.

Alicia Coletti, Title IX 622 Coordinator notes.

"Those who will be participating are contributing their time and effort because they are excited by the prospect of talking to students about their choice of careers. The Quincy Public schools are grateful to them for their generosity and hope that many more students and parents will take advantage of this unique opportunity on next Tuesday evening."

Meet Dr. Mary Ann DelCupolo

They're Surprised To Find The Dentist Is A Lady

By EILEEN NEHLEY

A dentist with no white lab coat, no dentistry WJIB music, no golf on Wednesday and no brown or beige walls.

That's Mary Ann DelCupolo, D.D.S., a practicing dentist at 21 Franklin St., South Quincy.

She will be among several women professionals at the Career Night for Quincy junior and senior high school students and their parents, Tuesday, April 3, from 7 to 9 p.m. at Broad Meadows Junior High School.

Mary Ann wants to "expose the students to dentistry and let them know it is available to them."

"Kids come in and ask a million and one questions about dentistry," she says. "I used to ask the dentist a million and one questions and he never answered me ... I like to answer them."

"As a child I said I was going to do something fantastic ... math teacher, artist, doctor, but never a dentist."

She began her college education at Stonehill College in 1969 as a liberal arts major, switched over to science and senior year decided to take a shot at dental school.

"The guy I was dating wanted to go to dental school. He's now my husband, and not a dentist. In the early '70's I never even heard of a woman dentist."

She took the dental boards late and sent out five applications at the last minute. "I really didn't think I was going to get in. It was a lark ... a shot in the dark."

"I wanted to try. I didn't know if I was going to like it ... It seemed like a good idea at the time."

Mary Ann considers herself lucky that it all worked out. She does like being a dentist. "It's an art and a service."

Her practice is just one year old this week. She decided to set up shop in Quincy since she and her husband are from Quincy. Although advertising is allowed now in the medical profession, it is frowned upon.

Her office is open three days a week morning until night.

"I have to be here when patients want to be here," she says. "I don't have the volume yet to keep open five days." The other two days she works in Arlington where she has worked for two years since graduation from Georgetown University Dental School in 1977.

That's her income. Her own practice is only breaking even now. Her mother is her secretary and she employs a dental assistant just on Mondays - the busiest day. She is looking forward to when she can spend five days a week at her own practice - probably within two years.

Being a woman has not been an obstacle for her. At Arlington the patients often don't know the Dr. DelCupolo they are scheduled to see is a woman until they arrive. Patient reaction varies, but usually is little more than surprise. However, one woman had so little confidence in Mary Ann as a dentist, that she wouldn't open her mouth very wide and her teeth dug into Mary Ann's hand.

Half way through the procedure, Mary Ann had to do something to relax the woman and save her hand. She gave the woman a choice: either leave now with holes in her teeth or open wider. Reluctantly the woman opened wide.

One thing Dr. DelCupolo will tell students at the Career Night is that: "To get through dental school you have to keep your cool ... It's a very pressured four years, especially sophomore year."

But she also wants to encourage them by stressing they can succeed. Says she:

"If I could make it after deciding so late and knowing little about what being a dentist entails, the secondary school students who have time to get out and work in a dentist's office and observe certainly have a greater chance to succeed."

[Eileen Nehley is a Simmons College student and a Journalism Intern at The Quincy Sun].

"OPEN PLEASE" ... Mary Ann DelCupolo, D.D.S., is shown in her Franklin St., Quincy, office with patient Janice DiCenso. Dr. DelCupolo will be among several women professionals at "Career Night" for Quincy junior and senior high school students and their parents April 3, 7-9 p.m., at Broad Meadows Junior High School.

Israel Consul To Speak Here At Bond Fund Raiser

Judith Beilin, a member of the Ministry for Foreign Affairs of the State of Israel, serving as Consul in New York, will be the guest speaker at a dessert reception on behalf of the Greater Boston Israel Bond program on Sunday evening, April 8, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Simmy Jacobs of Quincy.

The event is being held to raise development capital for Israel through the sale of Israel Bonds and Capital for Israel Investments.

Born and educated in England, Mrs. Beilin graduated from the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art in London and went on to achieve success as an actress on the stage and with the British Broadcasting Company. In the late 1930's, she gave up her career to marry an ardent Zionist and settled in the then-Palestine with her husband. She has made her permanent home there since 1938.

The Beilins participated in every phase of the establishment and development of modern Israel. In May, 1948, working for the underground radio station of the Haganah, when Israel's statehood was proclaimed, Mrs. Beilin announced the news in a historic broadcast over Haganah Radio Haifa.

For the following two years, she was in charge of the public relations office for the United Jewish Appeal in Tel Aviv and immediately after the establishment of the state, selected and trained young men and women of the Israel Defense Forces to speak at fund-raising events.

Prior to her appointment as Israel Consul in New York in 1961, she served as liaison officer for the Foreign Ministry in connection with the hundreds of foreign correspondents stationed in Israel to cover the Eichmann trial.

JUDITH BEILIN

In February, 1974, Mrs. Beilin represented Israel on the Economic and Social Council as an observer at the Commission on the Status of Women at the United Nations. She has lectured extensively throughout the United States and Canada on behalf of the Government of Israel for nearly two decades.

The Israel Bond Organization is the major source of funds for the economic development of the State of Israel. Established in 1951, the Israel Bond program has provided more than $4 billion to help build Israel's infrastructure and to advance every important aspect of its economy.

To date, more than $1.8 billion has been repaid to investors in the redemption of Israel Bonds. The Government of Israel has never defaulted or been late on payment of principal or interest on any Israel Bond in the twenty-eight year history of the Bond program.

Pamela Ann Elson Engaged To Alan Sinnett

Mr. Philip H. Randall and Winifred C. Randall, of Quincy announce the engagement of their daughter, Pamela Ann Elson, to Alan D. Sinnett, son of Mrs. Mary Sinnett, of East Boston, and the late Alan Sinnett.

Miss Elson, a graduate of North

Quincy High School and Katherine Gibbs Secretarial School, Boston, is employed by A.W.G. Dewar Inc., Boston.

Mr. Sinnett, a graduate of Milton Hersey School, Pa., is a computer operator for F.M.R. Service Co., Boston.

A fall 1980 wedding is planned.

Parker Collection Prints On Display For Library Week

Photo prints from the famed Parker Collection at the Thomas Crane Public Library are on display in various places in the city in observance of National Library Week.

The prints were made from negatives and lantern slides financed by donations from business firms, organizations and individuals.

They are on display in the windows of The Quincy Sun, Burgin Platner Insurance, Presidential Cooperative Bank, South Shore Bank, in Quincy Sq., the main Thomas Crane Library, Quincy Center; the Adams Shore Library Branch and Delano Camera Shop, Wollaston.

Donations to make the prints from the negatives and lantern slides have been received from:

Larry Antonelli, the George Bryan VFW Post, Burgin Platner Insurance Co., Roydon M. Burke, Delano Camera Shop, M. Louise Dinigan, Mrs. Harry Pavan, Presidential Cooperative

Bank, Quincy Cooperative Bank, Quincy Lodge of Elks, The Quincy Sun, Mrs. John D. Smith, and Edith Veale.

Also, Mrs. Mary Jane Bell, Edward G. McGinty, Mrs. John F. McGinty and Mary G. McGinty who donated money in memory of Dr. John E. McGinty.

All of the prints have been identified in captions lettered by calligrapher Madge Zecker who donated her time.

The work of selecting and sorting the pictures has been done by Dorothy Newton, who is retiring this week as assistant director of the library after 42 years service. She will volunteer her own time to continue the project.

Anyone interested in contributing to the project so that more prints may be made from the Parker Collection may do so by making checks payable to: Trustees of the Thomas Crane Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy, 02169.

ENERGY SOURCE -- Ann Koontz of Oak Ridge Associated Universities explains to John Cheusciel, head of the science department at Quincy High School, and two students, John Swanton and Richard Menconi, how electricity can be generated by pedaling a bicycle-built-for-two. Miss Koontz visited QHS to demonstrate many sources of energy and ways in which it can be conserved. She spoke at two assemblies and discussed aspects of subject in a series of workshops.

It has only been in the past 150 years or so that the general style of jewelry arrangement and adornment with which we are familiar became popular. A lot of this has some relation to the great expansion and inventiveness in almost all phases of life during the Victorian Period [19th century] in England. New mines were opened and new technologies made mining easier. The world was getting smaller and African and Indian gems, previously very rare in Europe, became more available in the west. The Victorian Period in England was a time of wonder and gems were not the least of wonders.

You'll find our store, GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., East Milton, 696-1490 a good place to visit when looking for gems, of all kinds. Of course, we have a fine selection of jewelry and other items for Easter, and will take the time to help you find just the right gift for your special needs. Hours: Mon. thru Sat. 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.

Services Held For Dr. Albert I. Davis, 69

Funeral services were held Friday at Temple Beth El, Quincy, for Dr. Albert I. Davis, 69, a practicing physician in Quincy for nearly 40 years.

He died unexpectedly in Quincy, March 20. Burial was in Sharon Memorial Park, Sharon.

Dr. Davis lived in Braintree for several years. He was born in Boston and graduated from Boston English High School and the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy. He was also a graduate of the Middlesex College of Physicians and Surgeons.

During World War II he served with the Army in the European Theater, retiring with the rank of major.

He was a staff member of Quincy City Hospital and was on the staff of the Serpess Clinic in Quincy. He also served as physician for the Quincy School Department.

In 1974 he was recipient of the Houghs Neck Community Council Award for outstanding service.

Dr. Davis was a member of the Jewish War Veterans, Quincy, the American Medical Association and the New England Medical Association. He was a fellow in the American Academy of Family Physicians and a member of Temple Beth El, Quincy.

Husband of the late Helen [Mausner] Davis, he is survived by a son, Harold R. Committee Planning Celebration Of State Constitution Bicentennial

A committee named especially for the occasion is entertaining three suggestions for Quincy to celebrate the bicentennial of the drafting of the Massachusetts constitution.

The document, the oldest state constitution now in existence, was drawn up in the fall of 1779 in the law office of John Adams at his home, now 141 Franklin St., South Quincy.

The committee, chaired by former Mayor James R. McIntyre, met recently at the Public Works Building conference room on Sea St. to consider these proposals:

- A commemorative plaque to be suitably placed in the city.
- Commemorative events relating to the bicentennial.
- Relocation of the bronze plaque images of the Presidents Adams now located at the birthplaces in South Quincy.

Members of the committee decided that the grounds of the Adams Birthplaces would be an appropriate place in which to hold the commemorative celebration.

McIntyre appointed John Harrington of the School Department to supervise the participation of the school children in the bicentennial.

Harrington suggested an oratorical contest on the theme of the constitution and the committee discussed the possibility of a school pageant or a recreation of the constitutional debates.

Members of the committee include School Supt., Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, City Councilors Joanne Condon and Leo J. Kelly, Richard J. Koch of the Park Department, Carl Johnson, selectman of Braintree.

Dr. James R. Cameron, chairman of the History and Government Department, Eastern Nazarene College; William O'Connell, president of the Quincy Historical Society; Historian Otis B. Oakman Jr.

Wilhelmina Harris, former administrator of the Adams National Historical Site; Pat Sheehan, park technician at the Adams National Historical Site; Louise Brabazon, City Council secretary.

Mrs. Margaret O'Connell of the Birthplaces; Nicholas Barbadoro, president of the Norfolk County Bar Association; H. Hobart Holly, historian for the Quincy Historical Society.

Patricia Toland, vice-chairwoman of the Quincy School Committee; Christopher F. Kennedy, School Committee member and Director of Admissions at Northeastern University; and Dr. Donald MacLeod, President of the Freedom Park Association.

At a recent meeting the committee voted to request the state to put on display in Quincy, during the bicentennial celebration, the original Constitution of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts which was adopted in 1780 and is the most prized document in the state archives.

"This document would require maximum security which I hope would be provided by the city of Quincy in order that this document could be displayed outside of the State House for the first time in 200 years," McIntyre said.

"In fact, at the present time it is not being displayed in the State House Archives because of its priceless heritage."

The following members of the committee were named to chair subcommittees:

Holly, to review plans and make recommendations on the type of plaque, site location and suitable wording.

Mrs. Harris, for a commemorative event with recommendations on the type of event, location, date and possible guest speaker.

Johnson, for a parade to take place on the date scheduled for the commemorative event.

Koch, for a social event to take place during the commemorative weekend.

O'Connell, to check possible sites and make recommendations for a relocation of the Adams' plaques.

Ugandan Evangelist To Preach At St. Chrysostom's Church

Rev. John F. H. Wilson, an associate of Bishop Festo Kivengere of Uganda, will be at St. Chrysostom's Church, Wollaston, Monday, April 2 at 8 p.m. in connection with the bishop's visit to the Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts.

On April 5, Bishop Festo will preach at St. Thomas' Church, Taunton. Bus transportation to Taunton is being arranged by St. Chrysostom's parish. Persons wishing to make the trip should call the church at 472-0737, before noon on Tuesday, April 3.

Bishop Festo and Fr. Wilson have both been exiled from their homeland. The bishop, recipient of Norway's International Freedom Award in 1977, heads the evangelical movement, East Africa Revival. He has been a bishop of the Church of Uganda (Anglican) since 1972.

Fr. Wilson is the director in Kenya of REFURN, the Ugandan refugee program organized in 1977 after thousands of Ugandans fled from Uganda to Kenya.

Veterans Council Meeting

The Quincy Veterans Council will meet tonight (Thursday) at 8 p.m. at City Hall.

Irving Isaacson is commander. Arthur B. McLean, past commander, is adjutant.

$400 Over Goal

First Church Of Squantum Raises $1,026 To Help Hungry

The First Church of Squantum collected over $1,000 Sunday morning in a special offering for "One Great Hour of Sharing", a Protestant campaign to help the hungry and others in distress overseas.

This was $400 over the goal. "I never had any idea that people would respond so generously," said Genevieve Todd, chairwoman for the church Missions Committee. "We wondered if $600 might be too high a goal when we set that. Even that was six times what we have been used to giving in the past. But this year...oh, this is wonderful!"

The final tally: $1,026.69! The service began with a call to worship led by Betty Ellis. Barbara Fluhr, Barbara Frazer, Don Frazer and Stewart Scott.

Music was by the junior and senior choirs and a new group called "The Cinnamon Toast Crowd". The group includes: Tommy Adams, Sandy Ahearn, Trevor Ames, Billy Cogswell, Barbara Colwell, Krista Colwell, Nancy Ellis, Laurie Galvin, Aaron Gerry, David Gerry, Lester Gerry, Kenny Kemp, Susan Midram, Mark Paul, Si Porter, Betty Jean Reid, Karin Reister, Marie Reister, Susan Scott, Chris Shionis, Lillian Shionis, Ruth Shionis, Donna Stevens, Debbie Stohberg, Jo Anne Warren, Janet Williamson and Tom Williamson.

The junior choir sang, "Go Down, Moses", a black spiritual. The senior choir sang, "God So Loved the World". The Cinnamon Toast Crowd sang, "Let Us Break Bread Together on Our Knees".

Bread was an important theme of the service. A display of all kinds of bread was arranged on the worship center. Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, preached on the subject, "Bread from Heaven". The Lord's Supper was celebrated, using a special unleavened bread. It all highlighted the fact that the money collected that morning for One Great Hour of Sharing would go to buy bread and other food for hungry people in foreign countries.

Contributions came from individuals and groups. They ranged from the pennies given by Sunday School children to the $400 donated by WILLPOWER, a Christian weight-loss group led by Dr. Langevin.

"Your loss is our gain and the gain of the hungry in the world," mused Mrs. Todd, as she received the gift from WILLPOWER.

The two youth groups of the church, Orange Crush and Seven-Up, raised $69.06 from a Sacrificial Lenten Meal two weeks ago. Tommy Adams, Sandy Ahearn and Donna Stevens presented that money.

Others who announced various amounts of money that had been raised were Scott Kemp, David Young, Stewart Scott, Don Frazer, Ken Johnson and Tore Wallin.

A special litany of dedication was read during the Lord's Supper.

Deacons serving the Lord's Supper were Don Frazer, Dave Midram, Ken Ray and Tom Williamson. Ellen Ogilvie and Marie Reister prepared the display of breads. Tore Wallin was the head usher. Edna and Leon MacIntyre were the greeters.

"The really remarkable thing about this offering," said Dr. Langevin, "is that we are in the middle of another fund drive here at the church right now for a new organ. Yet, as a congregation, we have taken the time to do something about the very pressing needs of others. I am very proud of our church!"

Tobin's Running Sheets May, Too

Arthur Tobin is running for a second term. Period.

He's running despite all the speculation that he is in line for (a) a judgeship (b) clerk of court appointment (c) a commission in the Chinese army and (d) _____ (fill in your favorite rumor).

In fact, he has already picked out his campaign headquarters at 1358 Hancock St. in Quincy Sq. And they're already moving the furniture in.

The burning question now left: will he have a major contender?

Some observers think they see Jim Sheets moving toward the mayoral ring. They're beginning to see signs indicating he will not seek re-election to his Ward 4 City Council seat.

If he doesn't he could run for either the City Council at-large seat vacated by Paul Harold (temporarily filled by Joseph Brett) or for mayor. Politician watchers think he is leaning toward the mayor's office.

And that triggers a new round of speculation about Joseph LaRaia, former mayor-author. LaRaia, who has been a virtual political Marco Polo traveling around town, has told friends he's "testing the waters."

Testing for what, though? A few weeks ago it looked like he would try a comeback bid as a candidate for a City Council at-large seat. That would be an easier road, it was reasoned, because he could pick up one of three votes instead of battling one-on-one.

Then, as he continued to move around, observers started to figure him as a mayoral contender instead. Now they think he may go for the City Council after all.

But some observers still think there could be three major names on the September preliminary election ballot: Tobin, LaRaia and Sheets.

A big question facing Sheets, however, is: Can he raise the estimated $70,000 to wage an effective campaign?

If Sheets does run, it will surprise some Tobin people who were among those helping him pay off his Congressional campaign deficit. He indicated at that time he would not run against Tobin.

And, despite the recent row between the pair over the proposed controversial West Quincy apartment project, Sheets has more recently been complimentary to Tobin over the latter's performance as mayor.

So, who's running for what, when and why?

WEST QUINCY observers think they see one sign indicating that Sheets will not seek re-election to his Ward 4 City Council seat. Gerard (Chip) Coletta will run for that seat only if Sheets doesn't. But Coletta has already organized his campaign team and is just about ready to order his bumper stickers.

Coletta, a Teleserve communications operator at the Quincy Police Department, is the son of Gerard Coletta (administrative aide to Dist. Atty. William Delahunt) who knows Quincy's political trails like you know your living room.

NICE THINGS SEEM to happen to Tracey Tobin, pretty daughter of Mayor and Shirley Tobin on her birthday. When Tobin was invited to last week's White House luncheon for Massachusetts leaders by Jimmy Carter, Mrs. Tobin and Tracey made the trip with him. It was Tracey's 19th birthday.

Coming back, the Tobins happened to be on the same plane with Gov. Edward King. King wished Tracey a happy birthday and chatted with her. And when they landed at Logan Airport, King escorted her off the plane as TV cameras ground away.

Last year on her birthday, Tracey was dining with her parents in a Boston restaurant when Bobby Orr and State Treasurer Robert Crane walked in, came over to their table and wished her a happy birthday.

AT THE RECENT South Shore Chamber of Commerce breakfast at which King was the keynote speaker, Charles Pearce, president of the Quincy Savings Bank presented him with the Chamber's traditional seagull emblem tie. And added a blue T-shirt with the Chamber's crest on it for him to wear while jogging.

YOU MIGHT SAY that Quincy has two state senators. One, of course, is Democrat Paul Harold who represents the area. The other is John Fitzpatrick, a Republican from Stockbridge but a former Quincy boy. He grew up on Dimmock St. and his family owned the downtown block where the old Lincoln store was located. Coincidentally, he and Harold have side-by-side offices on the fifth floor at the State House.

SMILE DEPT.: The Quincy Sons of Italy observed Irish Night with an Italian touch: green spaghetti. The green was from spinach. Quite tasty, everyone agreed.

Will Take 'Appropriate Action'

King Warns School Committees To Put Cap On Spending

By TOM HENSHAW

Gov. Edward J. King is prepared to take "appropriate action" against any school committee that fails to heed his admonition to place a cap on municipal spending.

"I think that problem is coming to a head very shortly," he told a breakfast meeting of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce at the Lantana in Randolph.

"I basically favor school autonomy," he said, "but if it is demonstrated that school committees are not willing to understand that the lid we're putting on applies across the board then the appropriate action will have to be taken. 'I think we're getting close to that.'"

The first time he heard that some school committees were not capping their spending, he said, was at a meeting of the League of Cities and Towns two weeks ago.

"I suggested that members of the League send the figures in, the budgets that they refused to alter, how much in dollars, the percentage of increase," he said, "but to date I haven't received one."

"If it is a fact and it is clear that we are going to have to address that question, then we will."

King said his administration has embarked on a campaign to change the business climate in Massachusetts that could mean 150,000 more jobs and income tax revenues of about $300 million.

"Massachusetts-based companies that started here and expanded into 17 other states," he said, "found that the taxes being extracted from them and their people were between 16 and 18 per cent higher here. More and more they were expanding out of state."

"What they said to me is that, if we are able to start our program and at the end of four years our taxes are basically comparable, then they will expand more here in Massachusetts."

"Specifically, they said they would provide 60,000 jobs direct which would result in an 90,000 additional indirect jobs, the total state income tax revenue from which would yield approximately $300 million.

"Some of these people who will be working and contributing to this $300 million would have been on relief, unemployment or some other government subsidy."

Gov. King also made these points to breakfasting businessmen:

- His first state budget, which is currently being considered by the legislature, "will yield an enormous amount of local aid; I believe the figure is $347 million more than the record amount of last year."

- Raising the drinking age to 20 [on April 16] will eventually reflect in lower auto insurance premiums and a decline in vandalism. The next attack will be on car theft, possibly raising it in class from a misdemeanor to a felony.

- His administration will push for mandatory jail sentences for major drug pushers, "who don't mind losing the substance or paying lawyers and others to stay out of jail. The one thing they do mind is the loss of their freedom."

- Boston Edison's Brayton Point plant in Fall River will be burning coal by 1980 and "we are moving ahead as fast as we can" on obtaining energy from coal and nuclear plants and exploring for off shore oil.

Evaluation Of All Quincy Teachers Planned

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon has informed the School Committee plans have been made for evaluation of all teachers within the system.

A 12-member committee chosen by the Quincy Education Association, the committee, and the administration will work out the details of the procedure, Dr.

Creedon told the last meeting of the committee.

Creedon said school administrators will meet with school principals and the QEA for discussions on performance indicators and the entire professional staff will receive copies of the 46-page criteria which has been set up as a working draft.

It is hoped the evaluation procedure can be completed by mid-May and work on the project carried out in the 1979-1980 school year.

Creedon said that teachers who do not achieve certain specified standards will be given special training in areas where they show weakness.

Protests Gov. King's Welfare Policies

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I am writing to protest Governor Kings proposed welfare policies, and to support the House Ways and Means Committee's decision to report favorably on the Committee's drafted bill to grant the full 6% cost of living increase for this year and to restore the Emergency Assistance Program. Inflation has affected everyone, but weekly wages increase at least occasionally to cover the costs. I find it absolutely appalling and outrageous to expect people to live on an income that hasn't increased in three years! The elimination of the cost of living increase will place a hardship on the low-income families of the State.

An AFDC family of four receives only $357.80 a month. An average consumer uses 10 gallons a day of oil during the winter months. At 60 cents a gallon or $6.00 a day, the cost of oil is $180.00 a month. Rent must be paid, lights must be paid, and gas for cooking must be paid. There is not enough left to buy aspirin, toilet paper or sneakers and mittens for the kids.

While we applaud the Governor's efforts to eliminate fraud in the Welfare System, we must remember that Governor King insisted throughout his campaign that cuts in welfare would be accompanied only through reductions in recipient ineligibility and provider fraud, not in levels of assistance already being provided. I feel that the Commonwealth of Massachusetts has not only a legal obligation to its poor, but a moral one as well! Do not forget we are talking about children. With all of the concern about abused and neglected children, how can anyone agree with Governor Kings proposed cut-backs? These cut-backs would impose painful hardships on poor children and their families who have no where to turn. It is ironic that the Governor would choose to deny families with children a decent standard of living during the International Year of the Child. Do not agree to reducing taxes at the expense of those who are in need.

As They See It

'Scared Straight' Tactics

By JOHN W. MAHONEY

I am writing this for the purpose of expressing my feelings and to shed some light on the general topic of juvenile delinquency prevention with respect to the recently televised show "Scared Straight" aired on Channel 56.

Obviously it was dynamic, graphic and impressive from many peoples viewpoint who are not involved professionally with the criminal justice system.

I have heard many individuals state that they felt this approach was effective and should be used more often with many more youngsters. I couldn't disagree more! Even though the "scared straight" technique may reach 1/2 of 1% (my guess), I hope we never reach the point in society where a child will only change his ways if he is threatened with rape and a physical beating by a convicted murderer.

To be sure, parents, citizens and people in general are frustrated with the high juvenile crime rate. Tired of being ripped-off. Tired of being the victims. I know, I share that frustration. My home was broken into, my vehicle vandalized, my rights violated. Does this mean we develop vigilante groups to act as policeman, judge, juror and executioner. If that proves to be the case, we might as well declare war on each other.

The study of juvenile delinquency, its causes and consequences, has long been of fascination to social scientists in the fields of psychology, criminology, sociology and political science. From the earliest investigations of the 19th century to the recent studies of the past decade, researchers have examined the problem of delinquency from a multitude of perspectives, searching for a common thread upon which to build a theory concerning the development and maintenance of deviant behavior in youth.

The field is a discouraging one; for example, M. R. Rutter and N. Madge, Cycles of Disadvantage: A Review of Research, 1976, stated "it has been demonstrated that delinquency appears to be associated with: poverty, educational disadvantage, genetic factors, marital discord, subcultural norms, hyperactivity, parental criminality, alcoholism, violence on television, the effect of government scandal, overcrowding, poor nutrition, disrespect for authority and the threat of nuclear war."

How can the average person understand delinquent behavior when the professionals can never say for sure: a broken home will positively produce a delinquent, a poor child will become a delinquent, children who fail in school will become delinquent? The fact is most of the previous mentioned children do not become delinquents. They make it in spite of our social inadequacies.

I am not saying that "Scared Straight" models are not effective in some small numbers. I can assume that the statistics regarding the low recidivism rate expressed on the show were correct. However, I would want to know the selective process regarding those youngsters participating in the program. What types of preventative programs, as well as educational efforts were directed toward the young people before they were sent to this type of program. I truly get concerned when somebody comes up with a simple solution for a very complex problem. Are we looking for a panacea in dealing with juvenile delinquency?

I could not help but reflect on the many community programs: [Quincy Youth Commissions Home for Girls, Home for Boys, Survival, South Shore Council on Alcoholism, Clinic Without Walls, Faxon House, Germantown Health Center] to name only a few, working every day and night helping youngsters through critical times. The Quincy Public Schools Pupil Personnel Services Department and their efforts to identify troubled youngsters and children with special needs. The Quincy Police Department effort is geared toward delinquency prevention, a heritage of almost 50 years. The Norfolk County District Attorney's Juvenile Diversionary Program: the East Norfolk District Courts Probation Department and alternative programs: the restitution program and the efforts of the Department of Public Welfare -- these are only a few agencies dealing with prevention. There are many other organizations concerned with primary, secondary and tertiary prevention. These professionals and paraprofessionals contribute thousands of hours effecting childrens lives.

Working in the field of juvenile delinquency on a day-to-day basis brings me into contact with people who are dedicated, hard working and, in my opinion, successful in turning kids around. Teachers, social workers, counselors, police officers, public defenders, probation officers, judges, outreach workers and all the rest may disagree on philosophical approaches and often argue.

However, I never saw one of those individuals in any profession stoop so low as to threaten a youngster with rape or a beating in order to change their life style. I do not believe that approach should be for public consumption.

I have, in the past, along with members of the District Attorney's staff, utilized the concept of lifters influencing young people positively. The idea is not new! At Walpole, M.C.I., there are lifer groups who are genuinely concerned and want to help kids. Did they threaten to rape young boys? Beat them? Definitely not! On the contrary, the counselors were carefully selected and trained in counseling skills and methods.

Their approach was not sensationalism. It was positive and factual. They were not making heroes out of themselves and, in their small way, helping to contribute along with everyone else, their fair share in keeping youngsters straight.

Abraham Lincoln, when talking about children, stated over 100 years ago: "He will assume control of your cities, states and nations. He is going to move in and take over your churches, schools, universities, and corporations...the fate of humanity is in his hands".

John F. Kennedy went on to state that, "Children are the world's most valuable resource and its best hope for the future".

In this "Year of the Child - 1979", declared by the United Nations in December 1976, let us build a nation of productive children based on love and affection, understanding and concern. Not based on fear! History, if nothing else, has shown us that nations that have been based and built on fear are short-lived.

Put scared types of programs in their proper perspective and begin to encourage approaches that are not counter-productive and short-lived.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Pyramid Club Falls Apart

One of the largest Pyramid Clubs on the South Shore collapsed after eight members had received payoffs ranging from $8 to $24K but no one got the full amount promised of $2,048.

"The club just ran away from us," said Mrs. Mary Patterson, proprietor of Bobbie's Beauty Shop, 24 Cottage Ave., Quincy Center, one of the club's leaders.

"We suddenly realized that only one out of 2,000 members could be paid and we thought that the best thing to do was to stop it immediately.

"We figured even if every single person in Quincy joined the club we could only pay off 40 people."

Mrs. Patterson said that the $947 remaining in the club's treasury would be donated to the Quincy Community Chest.

CONDEMNED BOOKS SOUGHT

The New England News Co. sent a letter to Quincy newsstand proprietors asking return of all copies of 20 crime comic magazines and paperback reprints condemned by the Quincy Literary Review Board.

The proscribed paperbacks included five novels by author Donald Henderson Clark described by the Board as "sexy and passionate with blunt and crude descriptions of sexual acts."

Crime comics, said the Board, were blueprints for juvenile delinquency — "all crime but comic in name only."

SCHOOL ADDITIONS PLANNED

School Committeeman A. Wendell Clark asked the City Council to expedite funds so that architects could be hired for nearly $250,000 in planned additions to the Wollaston and Atherton Hough Schools.

In the planning stage was a four-room addition to the Hough School at $20,000 a room, and addition of an auditorium at Wollaston School so the old one could be converted into classrooms at a cost of $150,000.

School Supt. Dr. Paul Gossard estimated the elementary school enrollment would jump from 6,500 to 9,500 in the next few years.

10 Schools Participating

Judges Selected For Jerry Lewis Spelling Bee

A panel of six judges has been selected for the first Quincy Jerry Lewis Spelling Bee to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Judges will be School Committee Vice-Chairwoman Patricia Toland, William Phinney, assistant superintendent of schools; Janet DiTullio, Co-ordinator of language arts, Virginia McEvoy, president of the City Wide Parent Advisory Council, former school committee man Charles Sweeney and School Committee member Mary Collins.

More than 1,500 students in 10 Quincy public and parochial elementary schools will take part in the competition to determine the best spellers in grades four through six. The preliminary tests will be written spelling bees conducted in the classrooms starting Monday, April 2.

The oral finals will be held before the panel of judges at the Lincoln Hancock Community School on Monday, April 10 at 7:30 p.m.

Seventy-one principals and teachers in the participating schools have volunteered to assist in the competition with all proceeds going to the Muscular Dystrophy Association for its continuing fight against the dread disease.

Students taking part will seek sponsors to pledge five cents or more for each word spelled correctly.

The two best pledge collectors at each school will be presented with Jerry Lewis wristwatches. Large trophies will be awarded the best three spellers in the All-School Final Spelling Bee and runners-up will be presented smaller trophies.

A Jerry Lewis spelling bee button will be given to each participant to be worn while soliciting sponsors. Jerry Lewis T-shirt iron-ons and shoulder patch sew-ons will be given each participant who turns in his or her pledges.

The spelling bee is sponsored by the Quincy Public School System and the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee to help raise funds to fight muscular dystrophy and emphasize the importance of good spelling.

Henry Bosworth, publisher of the Quincy Sun and Richard J. Koch, executive secretary, Quincy Park-Recreation Board, head the committee.

School Committeewoman Mary Collins is chairman of the spelling bee and Janet DiTullio, Language Arts Coordinator, Quincy Public Schools, will be coordinator.

Participating schools are: Massachusetts Fields, Atherton Hough, Montclair, Thomas Pollard, Quincy, Squantum, Wollaston, St. Ann's, Sacred Heart and St. Joseph's.

Sponsor forms, instruction sheets and buttons are now available at the participating schools.

Child Study Groups At Library

The Child Study Association of Massachusetts will sponsor two discussion groups at Quincy libraries beginning Thursday, March 29, at 10 a.m. and continuing April 5, 12, 26, May 3 and 10.

Gena Glicklick will lead the group meeting at the Adams Shore Branch Library, and Lois Lang will lead the meeting at the North Quincy Branch Library.

The Child Study Association is a non-profit organization concerned with the well-being of children and youth. Its discussion groups are especially designed for parents and professional people working with children.

All adults are welcome to join either discussion group, and parents whose children are attending picture book - story hours are urged to participate.

Michael Kelly Candidate For Ward 6 Council Seat

Michael J. Kelly of 130 Standish Rd., Squantum, announces he will make another run for the Ward 6 seat on the City Council.

Kelly, who is a marketing representative for a national firm, finished a strong third with 699 votes in the preliminary round of the 1977 election.

The fiscal problems of the city, he said, plus the high property tax rate were factors that led him to make another try for public office.

"My background, both educational and in business, will enable me to attack these problems and work to make sure that we get the most for our tax dollars," he said.

Kelly said he feels that Ward 6 is the gateway to the city and thus needs a new and independent city councillor to guarantee that the quality of life is protected.

"We cannot have development just for the sake of development," he said.

Kelly has monitored many City Council meetings in the past two years in his capacity as chairman of the Squantum Community Association's Civic Committee. He is also on the executive board.

A graduate of Boston College High School, he was president of his class at the Boston College School of Management, where he was also chairman of the Student Senate and a dean's list student.

He also earned a master's degree in business administration from Suffolk University.

Egyptian Scientists To Meet With QHS, NQHS Students

Dr. Abdel Salam Shalaby, dean of the faculty of science at Alexandria University in Egypt, and Dr. Ibrahim El Kholy, vice dean, will be guests of the Quincy school system, Monday, April 2.

The visit has been arranged by Michael W. Hurley, director of Project LINC, and the Center for International Visitors in Boston.

Quincy's is the only public school system to be visited by the Egyptian scientists on their nationwide tour to study innovations in science teaching. They have visited a number of universities.

While in Quincy the scientists will meet with science department students at Quincy and North Quincy High Schools. They will also confer with School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon and meet with Mayor Arthur Tobin.

Raymondi Asks More Hours For Foot Patrolmen

City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi has requested that the hours of the foot patrolmen along the Washington St. area be extended to reduce the problem of vandalism.

"Increased vandalism after the hours of 1 a.m. to 2 a.m. is a cause of great concern to residents," he said. "Extension of the foot patrol into the early morning hours would be helpful."

Raymondi filed a resolution to that effect with the City Council.

Tobin Blasts 'Racial Overtones' In W. Quincy Apartment Issue

and they don't have the guts to stand up and say it.

"But they're doing it and it's been misplayed in the press and if it costs me the election I'm not going to back down."

Tobin said low income housing is needed in Quincy because "the young people of our city are moving out of Quincy at a faster rate than young people are moving in."

"We bring these young people up," he said. "We educate them and then we lose them. They are the future generations of our city and they can't live here because they can't afford it."

"It's a sad thing when Quincy can't take care of its young people."

Tobin said that, of the 184 units of planned housing on Willard St., 40 will be reserved for the elderly and, by law, 5 to 10 per cent for the handicapped.

"So you are really talking about 100 to 110 units of low to moderate income housing," he said.

"We have at the present moment 800 applications from children of Quincy parents, our own young people, and we only have 100 apartments to offer them."

In an apparent reference to Ward 4 City Councillor James A. Sheets, an opponent of the apartment complex, Tobin added:

"When the time comes that a local official can take the oath of office and can't stand up and take care of the young people of this city then it is a sad day in hell."

"We all ought to get away from the altar because we're nothing but hypocrites."

"The Mayor did not put that project in West Quincy. A developer who owns property up there went and filed the papers. It's zoned properly. It has nothing to do with the Mayor of Quincy."

If they can knock it out, fine. But let it go up or down on its own merits."

Tobin told The Sun that he has asked Hannon and the Rev. Bedros Baharian, chairman of the Planning Board to get together with Sheets "and straighten out any misunderstanding."

Sheets had accused Tobin and the Planning Department of not telling him about the project until it was well into the planning stage, a charge Tobin says is not true.

S. Quincy MBTA Access Dispute May Go To Court

planned.

During a question and answer period, Alfred J. Pacelli, the MBTA's regional project manager, south, was asked:

"If there is no pedestrian access from Independence Ave., how does a pedestrian get access to the station?"

"He doesn't," replied Pacelli.

Braintree Selectman Anthony Mollica told the hearing that the Quincy Adams station would be the only one in the MBTA's system that precludes passengers from walking into the station.

Putnam S. Borden of 40 Lorton St., South Quincy, speaking for the residents, outlined their objections to the accessway, which would leave Independence Ave. opposite Verchid St.

The first concern, he said, was for the safety of the local children who would be going to school at a time when heavy traffic would be dropping off commuters at the station.

There would also be an increase in crime, he said, because the area is poorly lighted and does not have the brightly lighted buffer zone like stations in North Quincy and Wollaston.

A bigger problem, he added, is that the areas would become "prime property" for the construction of apartment houses that would compound problems on Independence Ave.

James F. Magrath of Braintree's Technical Advisory Committee (TAC) kicked off the hearing by noting that, little more than two years ago, pedestrian access to the station was part of the conceptual design.

Braintree selectmen, he said, voted to dead end Center St., which would have given Braintree vehicular, as well as pedestrian access to the station, largely on the basis of that design.

Then, he said, the Quincy TAC recommended to the then-Mayor that the accessway be opened to vehicles and, as a result, residents of South Quincy decided that they didn't want any access at all.

Access from Independence Ave., he said, would serve the best interests of the people of North Braintree, some 400 students at Archbishop Williams High School and senior citizens from the Independence Manor apartments.

After that, elected officials from both sides of the border took turns boosting and attacking the accessway and occasionally each other.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin of Braintree: "When the station was proposed for North Braintree, Braintree didn't want it. It was moved to South Quincy over the objections of the people. Braintree is not now going to dictate what should be done. There is a strong feeling that we shouldn't even be talking about it."

Rep. Elizabeth Metayer (D-Braintree): "Funding for the station was given by UMTA on the basis of an environmental impact statement that included a walkway. We intend to hold them to the statement that there will be a walkway to the station."

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli (D-Quincy): "I feel this meeting is an insult to my intelligence. I feel the issue was settled a long time ago. Officials of Braintree are not going to tell the people of Quincy what to do."

He read a letter dated July 15, 1977 from Warren J. Higgins, the MBTA's director of construction, promising that the station plan would be modified to remove the accessway and that "the MBTA will construct what the community wants."

"I filed a bill that would forbid access from Independence Ave. and the Committee on Transportation is holding it up until the members hear the results of this meeting," he said.

Anthony Mollica, Braintree selectman: "The environmental impact statement stipulates that there be a walkway from Independence Ave. We are speaking of a regional facility that belongs to all of us, not just to Quincy."

City Councillor Daniel G. Raymond: "Braintree forced the station down our throats and now they are trying to tell us how to run the station."

Braintree Selectman Carl R. Johnson: "Braintree agreed to close Center St. as long as we get access to the station. All we ask for is reasonable access. If we procrastinate much longer we won't have any say in the matter."

Braintree Selectman Saran E. Gillies: "With the coming energy crisis limiting the use of automobiles, it's not going to make sense in a few years for residents of Quincy and Braintree to be denied access to a rapid transit station."

City Councillor James A. Sheets: "I think it's a moot question. I'm not negotiable. I'm not sure what we would negotiate about. For Braintree, it's a question of convenience. For South Quincy, it's a question of changing the character of the homes in which we live."

Braintree Selectman Donald J. Laing: "We said 'no' to a North Braintree station. But we did not force it on Quincy. Quincy took it in order to get the Upland Rd. Extension."

Sen. Paul D. Harold (D-Quincy), whose district includes both Quincy and Braintree: "I have to be neutral but in this case it affects the people of South Quincy in a particular manner. I have to be with them."

Gerald J. Walsh, Braintree town moderator: "The federal government told us there would be access to the station. We fought the station in Braintree but we didn't tell them to move it to South Quincy. You got the station but we are entitled to access. The federal government told everyone when it put up the money that there would be access."

The MBTA's Al Pacelli, who grew up in Quincy and has lived in Braintree for the past 17 years, said he was attending the meeting in the role of a listener.

"The MBTA hopes that a compromise can be worked out on the local level," he said.

Track Club Takes 2 Trophies At Brooklyn Meet

Members of the Quincy Track Club did well and took two trophies at the "Stars of Tomorrow" meet sponsored by the Atlas Track Club at Brooklyn's Pratt Institute.

Georgia Traficante was Quincy's only winner, taking the 10-11 high jump. She also took sixth in the 800 meters in a club record time of 2:37.7.

Kevin Wood took second in the boys' 14-15 high jump with a leap of 5-11½, a club record.

Harry Morash was fifth in the 10-11 800 meters in 2:39.2, another club record. Maureen Roche took fifth in the 12-13 high jump. Tommy Walsh placed fifth in the boys 9 and under 50-meter dash. Lorrie McNeill set a club record of 34.55 in the nine and under 200 meters.

More than 1,000 boys and girls from 50 clubs participated.

In the road race action

Morash ran a national best time for 10-year-olds in the 13.1-mile half marathon with a timing of 1:31.52. His time would have been even faster if not for 60-mile-an hour winds over the final three miles.

Donna Reardon, Mary Crehan and Eileen Crehan swept the junior division 10-kilometer run at Belmont and Morash won a prize for being the youngest finisher.

Papile's 26 Points Paces Rockets

Peter Papile scored 26 points to lead the Quincy South Rockets to a runaway 88-23 win over the Wakefield Freshmen in the first round of the Wakefield Junior Invitational Basketball

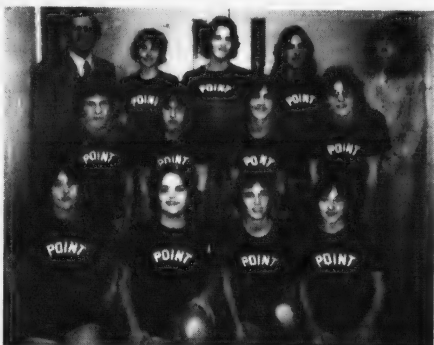

Tournament

Ross Connerty scored 17 points and Jeff Timberlane added 12 points and set up many other scores with his passes.

Greg Nattar, Mike Guidice,

Jeff Morrison, Bill Walsh and Dave Church turned in excellent defensive and rebounding games.

Quincy, coached by Bob [Moose] Corcoran, will face Peabody Friday night.

Point Junior Girls Win Tourney

Point Junior High girls won the second annual Quincy Recreation Department basketball tournament with a 39-36 victory over Beechwood Knoll.

The game played at the Vo-Tech gym saw the lead change hands numerous times.

Tricia Travers' two foul shots with 13 seconds remaining iced the victory. Travers led the Point scorers with 15 while Patti McBride and Mary Travers added eight each. Other Point scorers were Janice Glavin with three and Dara Morris and Janine LaFleur with two each. Beechwood Knoll was led by Debbie McGovern's 11 points and by the 10 points of JoAnn Runge. Other Beech scorers were Michelle Millane with seven and Lisa Nolan and Janet Petkun with four each.

Recreation Director Charles L. Alongi Jr., presented trophies to the winners from Point, while the Beech girls received runner-up certificates.

Montclair Wins Koch Basketball Title

The Montclair District of the Koch Club are the city champions of the organization's 1979 basketball program following a 70-15 win over the North, Quincy District in the finals of the round robin playoff.

Montclair had eliminated the Broad Meadows District of the Koch Club in the semi-final round action with an easy romp over the losers.

The Herbert W. O'Donnell Memorial Trophy will be presented to the Montclair winning team at the basketball awards banquet Monday, April 16, at the Montclair School gymnasium.

The O'Donnell Trophy, named in memory of an original member of the Koch Club, is presented each year to the district winning the basketball playoffs. If a district wins the trophy for three consecutive years, it retains permanent possession of the Trophy emblematic of the championship.

North Quincy won the 1978 championship and will formally turn over the O'Donnell Trophy to the 1979 Montclair champions at the banquet.

Chris Bunker, Dan Baker, Jim Kennedy, Paul Ceurvals and Steve Higgins, the starting five, sparked the champs.

Howard F. Crowley is district director of the Montclair unit of the Koch Club sponsoring youth basketball, baseball, softball and bowling programs for boys and girls in the Montclair section of the city.

Applications Ready April 2 For Pitch, Hit, Run Contest

Pitch, Hit and Run, Major League Baseball's official youth program will be co-sponsored this year by the Quincy Recreation Department and local participating Burger King Restaurants.

Recreation Director Charles L. Alongi Jr., said children ages 9 to 12 are eligible to compete with registration forms available at the Recreation Office or at the local Burger King beginning April 2. Quincy's local competition will be held Saturday, May 5 at Adams Field. Competition continues through four levels of elimination until two contestants remain in each age bracket. The finals will be held as part of Major League Baseball All Star Game festivities July 17, in Seattle.

Each youngster competes in three categories: pitching at a target, hitting for distance, and running the base path for speed.

The program is also co-sponsored by the National Recreation and Park Association and developed in cooperation with the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports.

Further information may be obtained by calling the Recreation Department, 773-1380, ext. 204.

Bowling Balls Prizes

MDA Bowling Contest At Olindy's

Bowlers can help fight muscular dystrophy and have a chance to win a set of four candlepin bowling balls at Olindy's Lanes, Quincy Ave., Quincy.

John Mezzetti, co-owner of the alleys, will secretly bowl three strings April 16 and again April 30.

A set of the balls will be presented to the two persons who bowl-or guess-the closest to Mezzetti's three strings on each of those two dates. In the case of a tie, the winners will be selected by a drawing.

The two sets of balls and carrying bags are being donated by Paramount, Inc., manufacturer of the balls, and John James and Stephen Mezzetti, co-owners of Olindy's. They are valued at $50.

There is a 50-cent entry fee, good for both dates. Proceeds will go to the Muscular Dystrophy Association. The event is sponsored by the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee.

Last year, in a similar event, Olindy's raised more than $800 for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

The MDA program covers 36 muscle-destroying disorders and provides patient services, medical services and clinics, public health education and research.

Mancuso, McLaren Teams

Tied For Top In Koch Men's League

Al Mancuso and Bob McLaren moved their teams into a first place tie in the Koch Club Men's Bowling league with records of 51 wins and 29 losses and dropped League Leader Leo Marshall's squad into second spot with 47 wins and 33 losses after losing eight points last week.

Linda Bowes' 97.51 Leads Koch Club Women

Linda Bowes has again moved into top spot in the Koch Club Women's Bowling League in its twenty-fourth year of competition.

Toni Alibrandi follows close behind in the average department with 96.23 and has high individual three string total of 328. Others in the top ten include: Gerry Cavicchi, 95.32; Susan Batts, 94.24; Betty Ann MacDonald, 92.20; Adele Foley, 91.40; Claire Fitch, 91.12; Barbara Donelin, 90.57; Anne Moody, 90.44 and Barbara Lombardi, 90.29.

Barbara Lombardi's team holds top place in the standings with 38 wins and 18 losses while Susan Batts and Barbara Donelin's teams are deadlocked for second spot with 34-22 records.

Barbara Donelin has the high individual string with a 125. Gerry Cavicchi and her team retain the high team three string total of 1118 while Barbara Lombardi's team has the high team single string of 412.

The League bowls every Thursday evening at 8:30 p.m. at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys, Broad St., Quincy.

Linda Bowes is president of the league. Betty Ann MacDonald, treasurer and Karen Moody, secretary.

Women are welcome and invited to join the Koch Club Women's Bowling League and may register now with any of the officers of the 1979-1980 season of competition.

All women participating are assigned to teams according to average. Three weeks of open bowling is conducted to determine averages of new bowlers before teams are assembled for the season.

Girls A Team Faces Pembroke For Title

Quincy's Girls A hockey team will face Pembroke for the league championship Sunday at 5:40 p.m. at the Valley Sports Arena in Concord.

Quincy edged the New England champion Waltham Wings last Sunday, 3-2 to move into the playoff finals.

The score was tied, 2-2 at the end of regulation time. League playoff rules call for a shootout instead of a sudden death period. Quincy goalie Lynn McGoff shut out Waltham and Eileen Marr scored the winner for Quincy.

Nancy MacDonald had both Quincy goals in regulation time with Leslie Mathews assisting on the first. The second was unassisted.

Lydon Wins Mite Division Title In Jamboree

Lydon Russell, leading the Mite House League, won the Mite division title last week in a jamboree held at the Neponset rink.

In the finals Lydon defeated Balducci Piazza, 7-2, as Chuckie

Hughes and Jeff McDonald scored two goals apiece and Darren Simonelli, Hank Miller and Brian Zimmerman one each. Miller had four assists, Hughes, Kurt McDonald, Jon Bertoni, Sean Cappis and Jimmy Lamparelli one each. Shawn O'Neil was outstanding in goal. Billy Connolly had both goals for Balducci with assists for Bob Roach, Mike Cronin and Joey Jackson

Gear Edges Harold Club In Mite House

Boston Gear edged the Paul Harold Club, 2-1, in the Mite House League on goals by Dave Notgler and Sean Hunter and assists for Scott Cunningham, Kevin Daly, Tony Pecece and Paul Scola. Jay Rodriguez scored for Harold.

League-leading Lydon Russell squeezed by Balducci, 2-1, with Mark Molloy and Jeff McDonald scoring the goals and Chuck Hughes having an assist. Dick Golden scored for Balducci.

Help keep Red Cross ready.

Lydon To Discuss Downtown Development At QCA Meeting

James E. Lydon, of the Quincy Planning Department, will be guest speaker at the Quincy Citizens Association meeting April 4, at 8 p.m. at the Montclair Men's Club, Holbrook Rd.

Lydon will discuss plans for development of downtown Quincy, prospects, and the psychology behind present plans. QCA members, residents and Quincy business people are invited. Refreshments will be served.

Members are invited bring nominations for the organization's "Citizen of the Year Award" to the meeting, or send them to president Arthur M. Chandler, 320 Belmont St., Quincy, or secretary Dorothy C. Kelly, 108 Davis St., Wollaston.

The award will be presented at the QCA's April 28, dinner-dance at the Neighborhood Club, Quincy. The evening will include dinner and dancing to the music of Nick Marretta.

The QCA hopes to sell 200 tickets by April 15. For reservations, call Elinda Lipsitz, 328-8327.

Discipline Topic For Advisory Council, QEA

The City Wide Parent Advisory Council and the Quincy Education Association will hold a meeting Monday, April 2, at 7:30 p.m. in the North Quincy High School Cafeteria to discuss disciplinary procedures in the schools.

Members of the school committee, principals, teachers, parents and others concerned with the problem of discipline have been invited to express their views.

Key questions to be discussed include: How does discipline affect the learning environment for students? What can we do to improve the situation? What is considered acceptable behavior in the Quincy public schools?

Richard Koch City Cancer Crusade Chairman

Daniel G. Raymondi, Chairman of the South Shore Unit of the American Cancer Society announces that Richard J. Koch of 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy, will be the chairman of the 1979 Quincy Cancer Crusade to be held Tuesday, April 24.

Some 1,100 volunteers will visit homes throughout the city providing residents with education materials and seeking donations to continue the Research and Education Programs conducted by the American Cancer Society.

Koch seeks additional volunteers as a number of volunteers of past years have moved from their neighborhood, ill, or may be unable to volunteer this year.

The following ward chairmen have been assigned to coordinate the activity in their districts:

Ward 1, Mrs. Jeanne Reardon; Ward 2, Theodore DeCristofaro; Ward 3, Mrs. Janet Crowley; Ward 4, David Donaghy; Ward 5, Joseph E. Burke and Ward 6, Mrs. Linda Bowes.

Those wishing to assist may contact any of the ward chairmen. Volunteers are assigned a few homes in their immediate neighborhood to visit during the house-to-house drive.

City-wide Hydrant Testing To Start April 2

The Quincy Fire Department will start its annual fire hydrant testing program Monday, April 2, announced Chief Edward F. Barry.

The testing will be carried out between 9:30 and 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. and will take place in all sections of the city at the same time. It is estimated the entire program, under the direction of Capt. Thomas Andrew and Lt. Robert McCarthy of the training division, will be completed in four weeks.

During the testing residents may experience some discoloration in the water. This water is not harmful to drink, Barry said, but should be checked before use in a washing machine. Where discoloration occurs the system may be flushed by opening a cold water faucet for several minutes and then waiting approximately an hour.

Stroke Club Invites New Members

The South Shore Stroke Club will hold its next meeting at 88 Summit Ridge Dr., Braintree, Wednesday, April 4, at 10:30 a.m., and invites all interested stroke victims to attend.

Further information may be obtained by calling Jack Cochran at 328-0219, Carolyn Raimondi, 848-4159, or John Keeler, 479-0518.

Residents Complain Of Noise

Adams St. Parking Lot To Be Closed At Night

By PETER BARNICLE

City Councillor James A. Sheets appeared before the Licensing Board Tuesday to request that a parking area at the rear of the all-night 7-Eleven-Quik Mart, 673 Adams St., be secured at night to prevent unauthorized use.

The land is owned by Burger King which has a fast food unit adjacent to the 7-Eleven. A section of the land has been sub-leased to the Lakin Sq. branch of the South Boston Savings Bank.

David Mercier, bank manager, told the board the land was used during the daytime for employee parking and that he knew nothing of its use at night.

Sheets said residents in the area had complained to him that late night patrons of 7-Eleven made considerable noise and used the area for drinking parties. Sheets said he wanted the board to take some action before the problem became acute.

First Chief Edward Barry, acting chairman in the absence of City Clerk John Gillis, said it was his personal opinion that all food establishments which attract young patrons should close at 1 a.m.

Robert Halterman told the board that he has been manager of the Lakin Sq. Burger King for only a week and was unaware of the problem.

Chief Barry instructed him to contact the regional office of Burger King and inform them that the board wanted the unpaved parking area fenced.

Dennis Lane, the 7-Eleven franchisee, said that he would see that the gate was locked each night after bank employees had departed. He told the board that he has a police detail on duty on Friday and Saturday nights and has sought to conform to all the board's regulations.

Albert DeCross of Stedman St., an abuttor, told the board a fence separating his property from that of Burger King has been damaged since last fall and they had failed to respond to several telephone calls. Halterman assured him that a fence company has been contacted and the work will be done as soon as possible.

The board continued the matter until April 10 and instructed all parties to return with a commitment for securing the land in question.

In other action the board:

- Approved the application of Richard L. Liebert of Hart's Jewelry, 1422 Hancock St., Quincy Center, for a license to buy and sell old gold.

- Granted a one-day alcoholic license to the Squantum Parent-Teachers Organization for a Las Vegas night to be held at the K. of C. Hall, North Quincy, Friday, April 20, from 8 p.m. to midnight.

Quincy Hearing Aid Open For Business

Quincy Hearing Aid, 1246 Hancock St., Quincy Center, is open for business as usual despite a recent fire which caused considerable damage to other stores in the same block.

Robert Karas, owner of the shop, said his store suffered some smoke and water damage at the rear of the building, but his inventory and equipment is intact.

At School Media Centers

Big Bird, Monstro The Whale, Rotten Ralph To Help Celebrate National Library Week

Big Bird, Monstro the Whale and Rotten Ralph will play important roles in National Library Week at media centers in the Quincy Public Schools.

Specialists in the Department of Library and Media Services have scheduled a variety of activities during the week of April 1-7 to highlight student involvement in the world of ideas available through libraries.

Pupils at the Hunting School drew a life size poster of Sesame Street's Big Bird on the wall of the media center last Fall. Each child who reads a book places a feather on Big Bird, and they hope to bedeck the famous fowl with a thousand feathers by the end of National Library Week.

In the Lincoln-Hancock Community School Media Center students are covering a chicken wire version of Monstro the Whale with a "skin" of books they have read.

Rotten Ralph's creators, illustrator Nicole Rubel and author Jack Gantos, will give a special performance for the Cranch and Massachusetts Fields Schools on April 2.

Arthur Gillis, coordinator of Library & Media Services, said: "The media program of the Quincy Schools revolves around providing students with activities and materials which will stimulate them to learn and enjoy the experiences of others."

National Library Week provides media specialists an opportunity to share these activities with all students, teachers and the community.

Sixth graders at the Furnace Brook School will try their own hands at creating picture books for children. The results will be judged by other children and teachers with a prize for the best.

Mrs. Fisher, media specialist at the Willard and Wollaston Schools has been working with children at both schools to produce a book of original poetry. They expect to unveil their efforts at parties during National Library Week.

At the Massachusetts Fields School pupils who have written or illustrated original picture books will be treated as celebrities and will have an opportunity to speak to other classes about their books and how they went about writing them.

In all of these cases the books produced by the children will be properly cataloged and processed for incorporation in the media center collection so that students can see an example of a library's technical services set up for retrieval of materials by others.

Media specialists have arranged for many distinguished guests to speak at school media centers during the week.

The Pollard School will host representatives from Boston publishing houses who will explain the steps involved in publishing children's books from authorship to press release.

Mary Raux, children's librarian at the North Quincy branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library, will speak in all classes of the Parker School about the excellent resources and exciting summer programs offered by the public library.

William Walker, director of the Lincoln-Hancock Community School pool, will share his knowledge of books and magazines on swimming with pupils at the Massachusetts Fields School on Thursday, April 5.

Some schools have built their Library Week activities around a theme.

The Adams School will concentrate on the works of William Steig, creator of Sylvester and the Magic Pebble and other favorites of today's youngsters.

Children of the Great Hill School will explore stories from foreign lands with Mrs. Carol Blaney, their media specialist.

Pamela Roberts will enhance a unit on folk tales and heroes in story and song by playing selections on her guitar for children at the Squantum School.

Awards and contests will also enliven school media centers during this first week in April.

Mrs. Linda Shannon, media specialist at the center which serves both Point Junior High and the Daniel Webster School, has encouraged her students to participate in the Massachusetts Children's Book Award Program. Students who have read the most books will receive certificates of commendation from the Commonwealth. The focus this week will also be on the dramatic interpretive reading contest for students in grades 4-9 at the two schools.

Quincy School students will illustrate Newbery and Caldecott Award books while pupils at the Montclair School who do the best job of drawing their favorite story book characters will receive a blue ribbon.

Books in the Atherton Hough School Media Center will enjoy bright new jackets designed by children at the school, and Sterling Junior High will be resplendent with posters made in art classes in cooperation with the media center program.

Pupils at Central Junior High will use media center materials and facilities to work on exploring career choices, while the "Creativity Fair" at Broad Meadows Junior High will include an exhibit dealing with library and research skills as well as a "Flick In" of outstanding films used in the media program.

Myles Standish School pupils, teachers, and staff will set aside a "space time" for reading each day.

The idea of National Library Week is to set aside a special time to reflect on the tremendous opportunities for learning, recreation, and developing interests that American libraries and school media centers offer their users.

This celebration is best illustrated by the activities at Atlantic Junior High School:

Margaret Ciardi, reading specialist, and Patricia Garrett, media specialist, have been working on a DEAR (Drop Everything and Read) program and a paperback swap.

The grand finale will have student/readers releasing balloons outdoors, tagged with their favorite book title and a "please return to Atlantic Junior High School."

One way of advertising books and student reading habits, too!

Human Rights Coalition To Meet April 4

The South Shore Coalition for Human Rights will meet Wednesday, April 4, at 7:30 p.m. at the Quincy Centre United Methodist Church, Granite and Fort Sts., Quincy.

The date is the 11th anniversary of the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King.

In honor of his work, a film on institutional racism in the country, will be shown. A discussion on how Dr. King's efforts can be continued will follow.

EYE LID CANCER

If your eye lid (upper or lower) is red and swollen; if there is a palpable lump in it or thickness near the lashes, don't assume it's unimportant. True, it could be a sty, or even a pimple, but let your doctor decide. Any one of these symptoms could mean that you have a rare sebaceous carcinoma. If it's not removed within 6 months of its first appearance, chances may be as high as 43 out of 100 that it could kill you within 4 years. A recent study, however, has shown that prompt diagnosis and treatment can bring the mortality rate way down to 13 out of 100.

The problem is that many people won't consult a doctor about such trivial complaints, many physicians assume the condition is a common benign disorder, and some labs have difficulty making an accurate diagnosis. So if you have any of these symptoms, don't feel like a hypochondriac; see an ophthalmologist, and ask him to have scrapings sent to a pathology lab with experience in ocular tumors.

Cost is not the only factor which has been taken into account in considering the closing of schools with the smallest enrollments.

Dr. Carol Lee Griffin, head of the department of pupil personnel services, in a memo to Nolan earlier this month said: "In my judgment the closing of schools with a student population of less than 200 is educationally sound from the point of view of meeting the varying needs of children and delivering the broad array" for pupil personnel services."

She said that in small buildings there is often no choice when it comes to making student assignments and often a student has the same teacher for two or three years.

"If there is a poor match between teacher and student and this match continues for two or three years, this has an adverse effect on the student's social and educational progress," she pointed out.

Dr. Griffin also noted that pupil personnel services are fragmented in smaller schools and noted that a nurse can be at the school only one day a week.

The special needs teacher, she said, is assigned to Great Hill one and a half to two days a week.

"Often the child with the more severe handicaps could benefit from working with the special needs teacher for one to two sessions five times a week rather than longer sessions three times a week," Dr. Griffin said.

"Parental objections are expected to center on any effort by the school department to tamper with the neighborhood school concept.

For Charter Convention

Local Democrats Find Delegates Hard To Come By

When state Democrats huddle in Springfield for their charter convention May 19 they're going to have to do it without much help from Quincy.

Democrats from Ward 1, 5 and 6 caucused last weekend with these results:

- Only five showed up in Ward 1 and all were elected to be delegates to Springfield. There are eight other openings. Any volunteers? asked Chairman Thomas F. Brownell.

- Only six showed up in Ward 5 and four delegates were chosen when two turned down the opportunity. That ward, too, was entitled to 13 representatives.

- There was a turnout of 17 in Ward 6 and they elected 10 delegates, five men and five women, in accordance with the party's affirmative action policy.

Brownell attributed the low turnouts to the fact that "a new charter is not an issue that grabs anyone. People don't get excited about it."

Delegates chosen included:

Quincy Resident Gets

$17,805 QHA Carpenter Job

Michael Santostefano, a Quincy

resident who is white and male, has been named to the controversial $17,805 carpenter's job with the Quincy Housing Authority.

Commissioners selected Santostefano for the post last week after Elwood O. Mills of Hanover, an American Indian, declined the job for reasons of health.

Mills was chosen partly to satisfy the Department of Housing and Urban Development's demand that the QHA demonstrate it has an affirmative action policy in hiring.

Santostefano was recommended by the two members of the Senior Residents' Council on the selection board plus all the members of the QHA board of commissioners.

Harbortview Residents Committee recommended Edward J. Quinlan, a tenant, who was its choice in the original selection.

The 32 starting applicants, which included Mills as the only minority, was whittled down to six for the first selection. Santostefano was chosen from the five who remained.

Bank

Once each month it is our practice to calculate how much cash is handled by our bank. So, we've decided to make a contest of guessing the total of our cash transactions. The period covers three months beginning February 1st and ending April 30th. If your guess is the closest we will award you first prize... a $700.00 Panasonic Console Color TV. Please be precise, and to the penny. You may guess each time you enter the bank. No deposit is necessary. Enter often. Each entry increases your chances of winning. The official contest rules are printed on the entry blanks. Take into consideration that "cash" also includes all checking transactions... and... into our total goes mortgages that are granted or payments that are made, all loans and loan payments, the bank's operating expenses, all deposits and withdrawals, the fees for traveler's checks or money orders. Any money the bank takes in or pays out will be calculated in the total. Here's a hint: Our total cash flow runs from twelve million dollars to fifteen million dollars each month. Good Luck!

'An existing danger would be substantially increased'

Willard St.

But Cautious Opponents Still Meet

The Quincy Conservation Commission has turned down at least temporarily a bid by Harbor Enterprises Associates of Braintree to build 184 units of low and middle income housing on Willard St. in West Quincy.

"It is our considered opinion that an existing considerable danger to public health and safety would be substantially increased by its implementation," said the Commission.

Meanwhile, opponents of the apartment building scheduled a meeting for last night (Wednesday) in Mullarkey Hall at St. Mary's Church to discuss further ways to fight the project.

And Rene Lumaghini Jr. of 75

Woodcliff Rd., West Quincy presented the City Council with petitions containing more than 700 signatures in opposition to the project.

"Some petitions are still circulating," he said. "Despite the Conservation Commission's decision we understand the matter can still be brought up and we want our feelings to be on the record."

The Conservation Commission said permission would be denied "until such time as the serious chronic flooding conditions of area homes and properties adjacent to and downstream of St. Moritz Pond and Furnace Brook have been rectified."

$3.79 Million 'A Shot In The Arm'

UDAG: Downtown Catalyst

By TOM HENSHAW

Quincy's business community reacted with untempered enthusiasm to landing a $3.79 million urban development action grant (UDAG) Monday and within hours the Tobin Administration had set the ball rolling for more federal funds to revitalize the downtown area.

"This is just the shot in the arm that the city needs to get started on the road to what I consider a very bright future," said Charles A. Pearce, president of the Quincy Savings Bank and chairman of Progress for Downtown Quincy (PDQ).

"This was so pivotal," said Ron Zooleck, executive vice president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce. "We now have some rare opportunities before us. This will allow us to get a little more daring in our thinking and let our imagination and ingenuity take over."

Quincy's success in obtaining the $3.79 million UDAG to build a critically needed parking garage over the MBTA tracks near Granite St. was announced jointly by Mayor Arthur H. Tobin and Cong. Brian J. Donnelly [D-Boston] at Monday night's City Council meeting.

An hour or so after the meeting, a delighted Mayor Tobin sat down with Rev. Bedros Baharian, citywide development director, and Robert Kenney, the city's UDAG consultant, and laid out preliminary plans to apply for a second grant for another garage over the tracks.

"We know our way around now," enthused Tobin. "We have established a track record in Washington. We know what we have to do."

"We talked about maybe another office building, 100,000 square feet. But first we talked about a garage over the tracks where the East-West Connector will come in from the Upland Rd Extension; then the 100,000 square foot office building and an adjacent 150-room hotel."

The importance of obtaining the $3.79 UDAG lay in the fact that the garage had to be built as a precondition to construction of a privately financed $10 million, 10-story office building

'Increasing Consideration'

Sheets Leaning Toward Mayoral Run

City Councillor James A. Sheets is giving "increasing consideration" to running for Mayor of Quincy in the 1979 fall elections.

The 43-year-old Sheets, who gave up his State Rep's post in an unsuccessful bid for Congress last year, told The Quincy Sun

Tuesday that he has set no deadline for a decision either way.

"Between my wife and I we visited over 1,200 homes in Quincy during the campaign last fall," he said.

"We got a tremendous amount of exposure citywide only a short time ago so time frames are not important."

Sheets said he still owes only about $750 in debts from his congressional campaign.

"I don't see fund-raising for a mayoral contest as being a

Harold Would Make Police Log Books More Accessible To Public

Sen. Paul D. Harold [D-Quincy] has urged the Public Service Committee to approve a proposal that would make police daily log books more accessible to the public.

Under the proposal, police departments would be required to keep log listings of complaints, crimes, persons arrested and the charges against them, the names of arresting officers, descriptions of evidence seized, and other police activity.

The logs would be available to the public.

"This bill would put into law what many police departments already do in keeping accurate and detailed records, and making those records available to interested persons," Harold said.

"A few departments have records which are less detailed, and there is sometimes confusion about allowing the public and the press access to the records. This bill would improve the accuracy of the records and resolve the confusion," Harold said.

The bridges include Rte. 3 over Conrail, Union Street Rotary, Liberty Street and Summer St.

The project has a completion date of Dec. 1, 1979.

In Superior Court

Judge Rules Sheets Can Collect Both QJC, Council Salaries

City Councillor James A. Sheets has won another round in his fight to receive paychecks for two city jobs.

Superior Court Judge Henry H. Chmielinski Jr. denied a bid by Albert R. Barilaro and 10 taxpayers to prevent Sheets from receiving his $20,000 salary from Quincy Junior College while he is drawing $3,000 a year as a city councillor.

Judge Chmielinski ruled that a 1974 court decision, sought by Sheets shortly after he was first elected to the Council, which held that there was no inherent conflict of interest between the two positions is still in effect.

The decision means that Sheets can now collect about $600 in back Council pay that has been accumulating in escrow since the Councillor returned from a leave of absence to his teaching post.

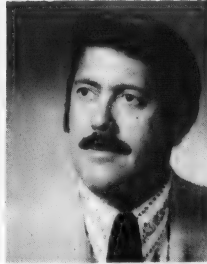

"I'd like to believe that it's over now," said Sheets. "I believe that the court has made it very clear that the basic right to hold office is fundamental and will continue to take that position no matter what action is filed by anyone."

"The important thing is not the City Council salary, I and I believe my fellow councillors, would have served without salary. But any other decision would have forced me out of public office by taking away the income with which I support my family."

Barilaro was not available for comment.

Barilaro and the 10 taxpayers brought the suit on Nov. 30, 1977 some three weeks after Sheets had defeated Barilaro for a third term in the Ward 4 Council seat that he originally wrested from Barilaro in the 1973 election.

When the question of conflict of interest first came up after the 1973 election, Sheets delayed his induction into the Council for about a month while he petitioned the court for a ruling on the propriety of accepting two city salaries.

Judge Harry Kalus ruled on Feb. 7, 1974, that it was proper. His decision said, in part:

"The city councillor does not act in any supervisory capacity, formulate policy or direct and control in any way, the Quincy School Committee, the college or its employees. The School Committee is vested with sole responsibility for running the public schools in the city, including the college."

"The court rules that on the facts in this case there is no provision of law which forbids the petitioner (Sheets) from qualifying and entering upon the performance of his duties as a city councillor, merely because he is an instructor in the school system of the city."

"The court finds and rules that there is no inherent conflict of interest involved in the petitioner serving in the two positions. The office of city councillor is not incompatible with the teaching position of the petitioner. He may serve in both capacities."

"As to the petitioner's right to receive compensation for both positions, the court rules that he is entitled to receive his salary as a city councillor and his salary as a school instructor."

Judge Kalus decided that state laws forbidding two salaries to councillors "are limited to compensation for the performance of the duties of city officials as councillors and are not intended to apply to work performed in other branches of government."

Sheets took his Council seat in February, 1974, and won reelection without opposition in 1975 but in April, 1976, the State Supreme Court appeared to some to have contradicted Judge Kalus' decision in its ruling in a Chicopee case.

The high court ruled in that case that an individual is barred from receiving any other compensation from the city in addition to that of the salary as a member of the City Council.

Sheets won reelection to a third term in 1977, this time with Barilaro once again furnishing the opposition, and on Nov. 30, 1977, Barilaro and the 10 taxpayers sued for an injunction to prevent City Treasurer Robert Foy III from paying, and Sheets from receiving his teaching salary while a member of the Council.

Since Jan. 22, when he resumed teaching at the Junior College, Sheets' salary as a councillor has been placed in escrow pending a court decision.

Judge Chmielinski ruled, however, that state law "does not provide for a taxpayer remedy against an expenditure of funds where the validity of said expenditure has already been litigated by the city."

"In the present case, all of the factual and legal issues before this court have already been litigated by the City of Quincy as a defendant to Mr. Sheets' action for declaratory judgement in 1974. Plaintiffs may not force the city to relitigate these issues through a suit against the Treasurer."

"It must be further noted that the defendant in the present case is still bound by the terms of the judgment entered against the city in the previous action. Said judgment has neither been vacated nor appealed from."

"Thus, this court will not subject the city to the prospect of even further litigation by ordering it to ignore a judgment which is still in effect."

Judge Chmielinski also noted that by waiting almost 20 months after the Supreme Court's Chicopee decision before filing suit Barilaro and the 10 taxpayers "unreasonably delayed in instituting their claim."

Palmer Brothers New Owners

Old And The New . . .

Peter's Landing License Transfer Approved

The Quincy licensing board on Tuesday granted the transfer of the common victuals-all alcoholic license at Peter's Landing, 579 Southern Artery, to Thomas F. Palmer, but only after some fancy parliamentary footwork by City Clerk John Gillis, chairman of the board.

Police Chief Francis Finn made a motion for approval of the transfer, but was unable to get a second and withdrew his motion.

Gillis then relinquished the chair to Health Commissioner Dr. Samuel Solomon. Finn re-introduced his motion and Gillis seconded it. On the vote Gillis and Finn were joined by Solomon for approval of the transfer on a 3-2 vote. Fire Chief Edward Barry and building inspector Allen MacDonald were opposed.

Palmer and his brothers, Francis and Robert, are the new owners of Peter's Landing which is currently in receivership.

MacDonald based his objection to transferring the license to the Palmers on the grounds that Robert Palmer, owner of A and T Movers had ignored parking regulations on Independence Ave. in the area of the A & T offices.

"I don't think that's the kind of person who should get a liquor license," MacDonald said. "They are scofflaws and will do the same thing down on Southern Artery."

"I think that is pretty far-fetched," Gillis said. "We are talking about a liquor license and A & T is not involved."

The board was informed that Grades 7-11 Marking Period Ends Friday

The third marking period in the Quincy junior and senior high schools (grades 7-11) ends Friday, announced Arthur Woodward, director of secondary education.

The marking period for seniors extends from Jan. 29 through May 15.

Report cards are to be issued Thursday, April 12, 1979 to students in grades 7-11.

Robert is investing in the corporation, but is not an active member of the board.

Atty. Robert Kerr, counsel for the Palmers said A & T is in the process of moving its operations from Independence Ave. to a building on Field St., formerly occupied by President Chevrolet, and then by the City as a maintenance facility. He also noted that the parking violations were mostly in Braintree and the matter is still before the court.

Gillis pointed out that the Palmers are Quincy businessmen and have acquired a good reputation in the community.

"Would you rather have the bankruptcy court tell us who could come in here and run the restaurant?" he asked.

The transfer was granted with the stipulation that the new owners comply with orders of the board's joint inspection team.

The Palmers have purchased 76 percent of the present corporation for approximately $175,000 and have made a commitment to the court to pay off all creditors.

Mrs. Frank Bartlett 'Baptist Woman Of Year'

Mrs. Frank Bartlett of Wollaston, active in the First Baptist Church of Wollaston for more than half a century, will be honored as 'Baptist Woman of the Year' at the annual dinner of the Baptist Homes April 26 in Newton.

Mrs. Bartlett has served as president of the Women's Union of the First Baptist Church, a Sunday School teacher and chairman of the diaconate.

She is past president of the Church Women United of Quincy, past matron of Wollaston Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, and has been secretary of the church for the past 10 years.

Over the years she has served on every committee at the Baptist Homes. She was the first woman trustee and served as president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Baptist Home of Massachusetts.

Baptist Homes operate a facility in Newton and a 74 unit retirement and residence facility in Kingston.

Mrs. Bartlett is a graduate of the former Staley College of the Spoken Word. After graduation she taught dramas in Quincy. She also photographed and lectured on New England churches.

Her late husband, Frank Bartlett, a Wollaston jeweler, was active in both the church in Wollaston and at the Baptist Home until the time of his death in 1969.

Houghs Neck Post To Honor Past Commander Mary Timcoe

Mary Timcoe, immediate past commander of Houghs Neck Legion Post, will be honored at a Past Commanders Banquet Saturday at 7 p.m. at the Post Home, 1116 Sea St.

Mrs. Timcoe, first woman in Quincy to be elected an American Legion commander, served for two years. Through her efforts, the Houghs Neck Post received many awards.

On Monday night, she was honored at a meeting of the City Council for her outstanding service to the post, to veterans and to the community.

Special guests at the banquet will be Norfolk County

Commander Robert Crandlemere, Mayor Arthur H. John and members of the Quincy City Council.

Dancing after the banquet will be to music of the Myles-Tones. Tickets may be purchased at the post or from John Christensen, banquet chairman, with Thursday, April 5 the deadline.

Quincy Women Elected To South Metro Health Council

Dianne Luby, director of Manet Community Health Center, Quincy, has been elected to membership on the South Metro Health Council in the health provider category.

Other Quincy residents and business people elected to membership in the consumer category were Joanne Chernicki, Raytheon employee; Judy Miller, Outreach worker; Quincy City Councillor Joanne Condon and Ruth Wainwright, member of Houghs Neck Community Council.

Bella Krovitz of Wollaston, and Marilyn Hamel of Quincy, were both re-elected to council membership.

Election of officers of the Metro Health Council, and election of representatives to the board of directors of the Health Planning Council for Greater Boston, the parent agency, will take place at the April meeting.

South Metro is a planning organization whose membership strives to improve the availability of health care services in the towns of Braintree, Cohasset, Hingham, Holbrook, Hull, Milton, Norwell, Quincy, Randolph, Scituate and Weymouth.

Meetings are open to the public.

To Be Honored April 10

Eleanor Fusoni Named 'Secretary Of The Year'

Eleanor Fusoni of Milton has been chosen Secretary of The Year by the South Shore Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International).

She will be honored at a meeting of the chapter, Tuesday, April 10 at the Neighborhood Club, Quincy.

Miss Fusoni has been actively engaged in National Secretaries Association activities since 1963. She is currently recording secretary of the South Shore Chapter, and in the past, has held the offices of treasurer, vice president and president. She has also served as a member and chairwoman of major committees, and last spring contributed in great part to the successful New England Conference of National Secretaries Association which the South Shore Chapter hosted. This is the second time that Miss Fusoni has been chosen Secretary of the Year. The first was in 1967.

Miss Fusoni is secretary to E. J. Tolle, President, Imass, Inc., Hingham. She has held this position since 1976, and previous to that was employed as a secretary at Instron Corp., Canton.

Miss Fusoni achieved the status of Certified Professional Secretary in 1966. She is a graduate of Milton High School, Katherine Gibbs Secretarial School and attended special courses at Northeastern University.

Guest at the April 10 dinner meeting will be Myrtle S. Allen of Weymouth. A well-known counselor, lecturer and book reviewer, Mrs. Allen's talk will be entitled "Dare to be the Person You Want to Be."

Initiated in 1952, Secretaries Week is sponsored annually by The National Secretaries Association (International) for all secretaries. This year, the 28th annual Secretaries Week will be April 22-28 and Secretaries Day, Wednesday, April 25. On that day, the South Shore Chapter will have a membership reception co-sponsored by the South Shore Chamber of Commerce at the Chamber headquarters, Quincy.

South Shore Chamber Pays Tribute To 3 Leaders

STATESMAN OF THE YEAR James A. Burke [seated] is shown at the annual South Shore Chamber of Commerce dinner meeting with Ellen Riley, manager Chamber's membership development; Mrs. Jean Ryan, Mrs. Burke and Mrs. Jane Zooseck. Standing, John Ryan, former aide to Congressman Burke, now on the staff of Congressman Brian Donnelly; Marvin Watts, personnel director, Procter & Gamble's Quincy plant; Congressman Donnelly, Dick Flavin of Ch. 4, guest commentator; Mrs. Flavin and Ronald Zooseck, Chamber executive vice-president.

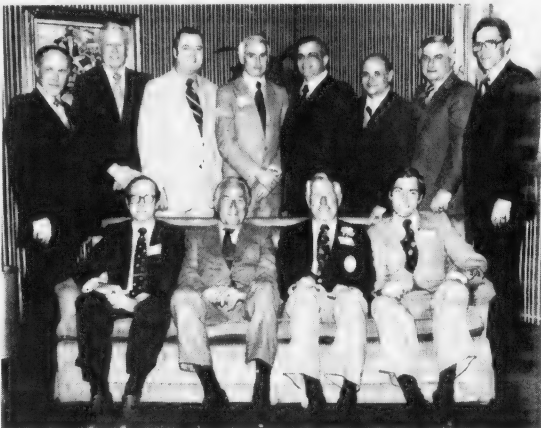

RECOGNITION RECIPIENT AWARDS were presented to Frank E. Remick, Business Leader of Year; William G. Brooks, Community Leader and former Congressman James A. Burke, Statesman of the Year. From the left are Chamber President Thomas E. Curtis, Remick, Brooks, Burke, Mrs. Burke and Congressman Brian Donnelly. Some 500 attended the Chamber's annual dinner at the Lantana, Randolph.

IT WAS ALSO former Congressman James A. Burke's 69th birthday and what could be more appropriate than a five-tier birthday cake decorated with American flags? Here Burke has a go at blowing out the candles as Ronald Zooseck, executive vice president of the South Shore Chamber and Mrs. Burke lend moral support.

GRIN OF THE YEAR belongs to the South Shore Chamber's "Statesman of the Year", former Congressman James A. Burke, as he accepts the honor bestowed upon him at Chamber's annual dinner.

One of the biggest events of the whole nineteenth century in England was the Great Exhibition of 1851. On display were all the wonders of the new technologies, all sorts of machines and engines. Also on display, and a big hit, were a number of valuable gems, exhibited for the first time in the modern European world. They were shown in rough and finished states, in settings and on their own. Some magnificent gems were shown, including the Koh-i-noor and Hope diamonds, the Duke of Devonshire's gigantic emerald and other brilliant aquamarines, opals, beryls, and white topaz.

Many fine pieces of jewelry are shown in our beautiful displays at GRONO & CHRISTIE, 536 Adams St., East Milton, 696-1490. The Jewelry Industry Council tells us, that as far back as the history of the diamond ring can be traced, this symbol of innocence has been appropriate as a sign of pledged troth. The diamond is April's birthstone. For Easter cards and gift items stop by next door at "SOMETHING SPECIAL". Ellie or Meryl will be happy to help you. Open: Mon. thru Sat. 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.

ARE YOU LOSING MONEY IN YOUR NOW ACCOUNT?

At some banks you lose an entire month's interest or pay an activity charge if your NOW Account balance falls below their minimum for just one day. Not at Old Colony. We don't think you should lose money just because your NOW Account has its normal ups and downs. You earn interest every single day you maintain a minimum balance of $200. And that means if your balance falls below the minimum for just a few days, you'll still earn interest for the rest of the month.

With free checks and a monthly statement, it all adds up to this:

Board Hears Complaints At North Quincy Restaurant

By PETER BARNICLE

Raymond Yee, manager of the Joy King Restaurant, 425 Hancock St., North Quincy, appeared before the City Licensing Board Tuesday to answer a complaint of exceeding the seating capacity, serving minors, and permitting patrons to leave the premises with drinks.

The complaint was filed by Daniel Gilmartin, 11 Burgess St., North Quincy, who told the board he had seen a 16-year-old girl leave the restaurant lounge carrying a highball glass. He said he didn't want to identify the girl because he worked with a relative.

He testified that the lounge is often overcrowded between midnight and 2 a.m., particularly on Friday and Saturday nights. Gilmartin who lives around the corner from the restaurant, said that on one occasion he had called police, but by the time the cruiser arrived the group near his home had dispersed.

Sgt. John Doyle testified that there is a problem outside of the restaurant and added that 90 percent of it is not the fault of the Joy King manager. He said many young people park in cars and drink from six-packs and then throw away the containers, on Burgess St.

Police Chief Francis Finn, said he will have a full investigation made and report back to the board April 24.

Atty. Allen Finer, representing Joy King, said that the restaurant presently has a police detail on duty on the week-ends. He said "we welcome an investigation".

In other action the board:

- Continued until April 24 hearing on a request of Highway Auto Body, 481 Quincy Ave., for an auto body repair license and a permit to store 250 gallons of gasoline. The board said it wanted time to make an inspection of the property.
- Approved a request from

Quincy Point Congregational Church Homes, 1,000 Southern Artery, for a permit to store 80 gallons of gasoline in tanks of trucks and 1,000 gallons of unleaded gasoline underground for private use only.

• Continued for two weeks request of Quincy Donuts, Inc., d b a Dunkin' Donuts, 543 Southern Artery for common victualer's license. Board asked firm to file a financial statement.

• Continued for six months action on a complaint against Schlager's Auto Body Repair, 101 Willard St. Board cautioned that premises must be cleaned up and cars kept within fenced area.

• Approved a request from Quincy Women's Softball League for one day all-alcoholic license for Friday, May 11, for opening season dance at Fore River Club House.

• Granted Renegades Drum and Bugle Corps a Tag Day license for Saturday, April 7.

Soviet Visitor To Lecture At High School Seminar

Dr. Lilia Filipova, a senior fellow of the Academy of Science of the Soviet Union, will lecture at an international seminar for Quincy and North Quincy high school students tomorrow (Friday) at 10:15 a.m. in the Adams Academy.

Dr. Filipova's visit to Quincy is part of a series of a distinguished visitors program organized by Michael W. Hurley, director of Project LINC, through the Center for International Visitors in Boston. John Harrington, coordinator of social studies for Quincy public schools, will moderate the seminar.

The Soviet visitor, a senior research fellow at the Soviet Institute for U.S.-Canada studies, will be greeted by Mayor Tobin at City Hall and will meet with Alicia Coletti, director of Quincy Women's Center, prior to the seminar.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon will host a luncheon at Three Season Restaurant at the Vocational-Technical School. Following the luncheon Dr. Filipova will meet with Guy Abruzzese, director of adult and community education, and Mary Jo Riley, director of community schools. The Russian research fellow is interested in the programs of adult and continuing education in Quincy. Although she has visited a number of U.S. colleges and universities, Quincy's public school system is the only public school department on her itinerary.

Conservation Commission Meeting

The Quincy Conservation Commission was scheduled to meet Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. at the conference room of 100 Southern Artery, Quincy.

On the agenda are: Application for Coastal Zone Management funding of proposed Black's Creek marsh biological study progress to date.

David Johnson, Rhude St., Germantown, determination of applicability of wetlands protection act.

Richard Campbell, Winthrop St., Houghs Neck, issuance of determination of applicability of wetlands protection act.

Jo Arvidson Wins Television Set In Granite Co-operative Contest

Is your smile pleasant? Most people take it for granted that smiling is pleasant and that their own smile is a true expression of feelings. It turns out, of course, that your smile, or lack of it, mirrors your thoughts and reveals your inner self. Maybe, however, your smile is inhibited and you are embarrassed because of difficulties with your teeth. But your smile is yours. Don't hesitate to see your dentist and get the most out of your smile!

Keep your smile bright and attractive by visiting your family dentist regularly. At the office of Dr. Daniel P. Sweeney, D.D.S., 539 Adams St., East Milton Square, we stress preventive dentistry. Good oral hygiene and regular check-ups can keep small dental problems from becoming big ones. Dr. Sweeney also recommends that young children (3-4 years) be brought to the office so that they can become acquainted with dental procedures. Call Dr. Sweeney at 698-3636 for an appointment at your convenience. Master Charge, Visa, and insurance plans are honored.

DENTAL HINT:
One of the five warning signs of oral cancer is a sore on the lips, gums, or inside the mouth that will not heal.

PSSB To Participate In Adoption Study

The Quincy-based Protestant Social Service Bureau, 776 Hancock St., Wollaston, has been chosen by the North American Center on Adoption to participate in a national adoption study.

The local agency is one of 12 similar organizations in the country to be designated by the center to take part in the study. The church supported agency was selected out of 394 groups in the nation.

A study team is expected to spend several days in Quincy late in April going over the program developed over the past four years by the PSSB in placing developmentally handicapped children. Margaret Davidson, a social worker, is director of the program.

The study will concentrate on the placement of these children. Researchers are interested in discovering methods used by the Quincy agency for recruiting adoptive parents, staff training, and other factors relating to the successful placement of severely handicapped youngsters.

Developmentally handicapped refers to children retarded, autistic or who have uncontrolled epilepsy, cerebral palsy, cystic fibrosis, muscular dystrophy, spina bida, sickle cell disease or terminal illness.

The local agency will place about 50 children in adoptive homes this year; about half are severely handicapped.

Rev. Gene Langevin Addresses Baptist Delegates

Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor of the First Church of Squantum, addressed the delegates of 34 American Baptist churches Sunday at the annual meeting of the Boston South-West Association of American Baptist Churches held at First Baptist Church of Randolph.

Dr. Langevin, who is also Protestant chaplain at the Quincy District Court, spoke of the work he and others are doing in "The Way", a Christian youth program in Quincy which he directs.

"The Way" has been in Quincy for nearly 15 years, serving teen-agers in trouble and young people outside regular churches.

Five boys and girls from the program displayed some of their art work.

"The Way", supported financially by individuals, church groups and local churches, has no connection with "The Way International", also commonly known as "The Way", with headquarters in Ohio.

American Baptist churches included in the Boston South-West Association are Wollaston, Braintree, Randolph, Hingham and Scituate.

Jerry Lewis Spelling Bee Finals At Lincoln Hancock

Finals of the first Quincy Jerry Lewis Spelling Bee to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association will be held at 6 p.m., Tuesday, April 10, in the Community Room at Lincoln Hancock Community School.

The time has been advanced to 6 p.m. from 7:30 p.m. because of an unforeseen time conflict. The Elementary Lab Center talent show is scheduled for the school cafeteria at 7:15 p.m.

Thirty students, three from each of the 10 participating public and parochial schools will compete in the oral finals.

Judges will be school committee vice chairwoman Patricia Toland, William Phinney, assistant superintendent of schools; Janet DiTullio, coordinator of language arts; Virginia McEvoy, president of the City Wide Parent Advisory Council; former school committee member Charles Sweeney, and school committee member Mary Collins.

The spelling bee is being sponsored by the Quincy Public Schools and the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon

Committee to raise funds to continue the fight against muscular dystrophy and emphasize the importance of good spelling.

Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun and Richard J. Koch, executive secretary, Quincy Park-Recreation Board, are cochairmen of the committee.

The spelling bee committee is headed by Mary Collins and Janet DiTullio is the coordinator.

Seven public schools and three parochial schools are taking part in the competition. They are: Massachusetts Fields, Atherton Hough, Montclair, Thomas Pollard, Quincy, Squantum, Wollaston, St. Ann's, Sacred Heart and St. Joseph's.

Each competitor has been collecting pledge sponsors for five cents a word or more for each word spelled correctly.

The two best pledge collectors at each school will be presented with Jerry Lewis wristwatches.

Large trophies will be awarded the three best spellers in the All-School Final and runners-up will be presented smaller trophies.

School Committee Approves Single Honor Roll System For High Schools

The School Committee has unanimously approved a single honor roll system for Quincy's three secondary schools following more than a year of study.

The committee returned submitted plans to the administration several times and asked for clarification of certain points regarding differences in the honor rolls. Committee members also wanted to be assured that students, faculty and parents were fully aware of the proposed changes.

The new honor roll incorporates emphasis on academic achievement, effort, responsibility, and citizenship. Students who take more courses at higher levels of difficulty and who earn high marks will attain higher levels of honor roll status.

Irene Stevens, North Quincy High's representative at the school committee, said the students at her school opposed adoption of the new system.

She presented a list of five reasons why the students do not favor the change to a single honor roll.

"We have separate graduations, we have separate course systems, and we don't see why we should have a single honor roll," Miss Stevens said.

Among the reasons for opposing the change, she said, was the feeling of the students that those who "work to their full potential in basic and standard courses have a lesser opportunity of making the honor roll." The students also pointed out that "a system based on quality points would only discourage those students in basic and standard level classes from trying to achieve their best."

Elan Erickson, representative of Quincy High, said students in that school approved the single honor roll.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon said that while it is "nice to be on the honor roll, it is not that important in getting accepted by a college." He noted that one school in the area had over half the student body on the honor roll. Grade rank is more important, Creedon said.

Committee members expressed their thanks to Arthur S. Woodward, director of secondary education, for his work in developing the single honor roll.

There are three levels of honor roll: distinction, high honors and honors. Attainment of a given level for each marking period is based on a student's acquiring the prescribed norm for a certain honor roll level for that marking period.

Incomplete marks that are unresolved, a U [unsatisfactory] in conduct, or a mark below 70 in any subject automatically eliminates a student from the honor roll for that quarter.

All credit courses count towards each quarter's total of quality points for the honor roll and a student must take a minimum of three major courses each semester to qualify for the honor roll.

Under the new system there is no limit to the number of students who may earn honor roll status.

For honor roll purposes only, marks in major courses taken in Vocational-Technical School are considered to be at honors subject level value in computing quality points for the honor roll. This is to compensate for the large time commitments made by students in QVT majors.

Woodward said the new honor roll system is scheduled to go into effect in the 1979-80 school year.

Quincy Sons Of Italy

To Present $1,600 In Scholarships

Quincy Sons of Italy, 120 Quarry St., will present scholarships totaling $1,600 to local students as part of its "Quincy Schools Scholarship Program."

The awards, in the sum of $200 each, will be made to a boy and a girl at Quincy High School, Quincy vocational Technical School, North Quincy High

Dial A Health Message

[This article has been made possible by the thoughtfulness of Ernest Aristide, Community Relations, Quincy City Hospital]

Tel-Med is a telephone health library of taped messages about your health and habits. You can listen to them in the privacy of your own home. It is a segment of the Blue Cross and Blue Shield public information and education program designed to help people to take better care of themselves. What you learn by listening to the tapes will help you maintain your health.

By calling 956-2620, they will send you a list of all their tapes. You can call anytime and just give the operator the number of the tape you wish to hear. It can help you to adjust to a serious illness, help you recognize early signs of illness, and help you remain healthy by giving preventative health information.

Tel-Med tapes are not to be used to replace your family doctor or to find out what your illness is.

Richard Carlisle Retires As Patriot Ledger Associate Editor

Richard W. Carlisle, associate editor of The Patriot Ledger has retired, ending a 38-year career as a news executive with the newspaper.

A native of Quincy, he graduated from Quincy High School in 1934.

"That was during the depression," he said. "I went to Boston University for a year, but then my finances got low, so I dropped out of school and took a job as a printer."

In 1940 he talked the owner of the Summit House on top of Mount Washington into letting him put out a daily newspaper called the Mount Washington Daily News and published that paper for 72 issues. He also served as mountain top correspondent for the Manchester Union Leader.

Using that previous experience, he came to his home town paper, then The Quincy Patriot Ledger, Feb. 3, 1941, as night copy editor. He stayed in that position until Nov. 23, 1942, when he was inducted into the United States Army.

He got out of the Army in 1945, and after serving a brief stint as city editor, became the news editor, in charge of page one and overseeing the placement of news.

He served as news editor until 1974, when The Patriot Ledger put in a computerized production system. He then became associate editor, in charge of training the staff in the use of newspaper computers and electronic editing. During recent years, he monitored the quality control programs of the news department, and directed special projects, including the writing and publication of the newspaper's "Sharing The News" booklet. Throughout his career he continued writing and specializing in book reviews, features and editorials.

Carlisle is married to the former Virginia Viner, also a Quincy native, a graduate of Quincy High, and a school teacher in the Quincy School system. They have four children, Anne Church of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Alan, who lives in New Hampshire, Susan Carlisle, an English lecturer at Boston University and Katherine, a senior at Quincy High.

with commentary by Robin Northrup, senior class and student government president.

Refreshments were served by faculty hostesses Mrs. Marcia Manning and Mrs. Cheryl Casey.

Honorary hostesses were Mrs. Connie Donovan, president of the Mother's Club; Mrs. Barbara Smith, vice president, Mrs. Theresa Barbour, Mrs. Mary Doherty and Mrs. Joyce King.

Smith, Weymouth, presented musical selections, "We've Only Just Begun" and "If We Only Have Love".

Anyone Running For School Committee?

This year's School Committee race is beginning to shape up, politically speaking, as the Big Yawn.

So far, at least, with the city preliminary election only five months away, not a single challenger has been heard from.

School Committee Vice Chairwoman Patricia Toland and Christopher Kennedy are up for re-election. And both obviously are running.

A question mark though, is Frank Anselmo. Anselmo has been a School Committee member for 18 years despite the fact he lost a bid for re-election in 1977. In that year, though, School Committeeman Frank McCauley was elected City Councillor. And Anselmo was then elected by the School Committee members to fill McCauley's unexpired term on the board.

Anselmo, now 80, says he won't decide whether to run or not until early fall. He says he feels good. And he can still make noise when he wants to.

The School Committee, he says, needs "someone to raise a little hell when a little hell needs to be raised."

If Anselmo waits until the fall, however, and doesn't run it could keep the number of candidates down.

Friends, meanwhile, have been trying to convince former School Committeeman Charles Sweeny to make a comeback bid this year. Sweeny was also defeated for re-election in 1977 along with Anselmo.

He and Anselmo were the top contenders to then fill the McCauley seat. Sweeny withdrew and gave his votes to Anselmo.

There's some speculation Anselmo might show his appreciation by stepping out of this year's race and Sweeny stepping in.

QUINCY'S Christmas Festival Parade is held in high esteem deep in the heart of Texas. Bill Morrill, one of the parade coordinators, recently flew to Dallas at the invitation of James Skinner, executive secretary of the Cotton Bowl Council.

And returned with the word that the council has decided that from now on, the winner of the high school marching bands competition in the Quincy Christmas Parade will represent New England in the Cotton Bowl Parade.

Skinner told Morrill the council had selected the Quincy parade competition because of "the high quality of the marching units sent from here in previous years: QHS in 1973, Hull in 1977 and Gloucester in 1978.

Morrill was Skinner's guest at a luncheon at which they were joined by Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry and Pat Summerall, network TV commentator.

The winner of the 1979 Quincy competition will appear in the Cotton Bowl Parade on New Year's Day, 1981. That will give the winning band and its boosters time to raise the $60,000 to defray traveling expenses.

DICK FLAVIN, Ch. 4's political satirist, was in good form at the South Shore Chamber of Commerce annual dinner meeting at the Lantana, Randolph.

Dick, who grew up in Merrymount, noted that Gov. King's hobby is reading fiction—appointment resumes.

The Governor would also like to relieve Tom O'Neill of his duties (as lieutenant governor) but can't because he didn't give him any duties in the first place.

King, he added, hasn't seen O'Neill in quite some time but suspects that his car is the one with the "Bring Back Dukakis" bumper sticker.

Incidentally, Bob Colman who owns Colman's sporting goods store got nearly as much attention from the downtown Quincy group as did award winners former Congressmen James Burke, Frank Remick and Bill Brooks. Colman, who likes ties like Ted Williams does, showed up in a handsome three piece suit and tie. Even Frank Remick was impressed.

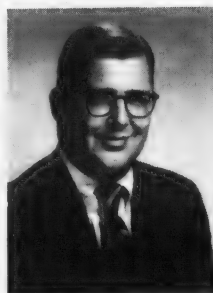

SPEAKING of Burke, the Chamber honor came on his 69th birthday. A large cake was presented to him and his successor, Congressman Brian Donnelly led the audience of about 500 in singing "Happy Birthday". Burke, who said he felt fine and looked it, quipped: "I would rather wear out than rust out."

on the Della Chiesa Parking Area. Tobin called it a "catalyst" to further downtown development.

"Based upon what's happening now," said Pearce, "I'm very confident and very comfortable in my thoughts that this [the UDAG] is going to be the first of many exciting developments that will make Quincy one of the most dynamic places on the South Shore.

"What the city needs is to have something as dramatic as this take place. It is indeed the shot in the arm that Quincy needs for there are some developments just down the road that are equally dramatic and are going to make this city the kind of place we all want it to be."

Pearce credited the city's success to teamwork on the part of officials on the local, state and federal levels.

"It is an indication of the positive results that can be achieved when they decide to work together," he said. "Brian Donnelly has just been super in this. And I don't think anybody should overlook the contribution Arthur Tobin made in getting this off and running."

Zooleck said the South Shore Chamber's interest in the UDAG "is directly related to the belief that Quincy is the core city of the South Shore and the downtown area obviously is the most integral part of that core city."

"I think the potential now for the downtown area is really great," he said. "I don't want to put words into the federal government's mouth but it seems to me that a precedent has been set here. This is the lowest ratio city to be accepted.

"I think they have finally realized that, while it is one thing to provide dollars on the basis of different requirements it has set up, there are certain communities that will never return to their old state no matter how many millions you pump into them.

"But in this case, Quincy is not down and out. It has an opportunity to rebound and making the UDAG decision at this time allows us to rebound quicker than if we were a community that has fallen into great disrepair."

Zooleck's reference to ratio meant that Quincy entered the UDAG competition with $3.50 in private investment to every $1 of federal funds sought. Other Massachusetts cities whose applications were successful were Pittsfield, Springfield and New Bedford. Springfield's ratio was 10 to 1.

"It is definitely a step forward for Quincy," said Robert Colman of Colman's Sporting Goods, who rarely waxes lyrical over such things. "Assuming the project comes off the way it is described it could be the beginning of a genuine revival.

"This is progress in the fact that there is private money in there. Successful buildings attract other buildings. The whole city benefits from a thing like this. We've got a lot going for us. I think things are in our favor at last."

"I'm impressed, really, by what has happened," said William E. Kelly, president of the Hancock Bank. "It's a great positive step for Quincy."

"The fact that Brian Donnelly and the city administration could work together to construct a program and sell it against fierce competition for limited government money is a tribute to the talents that were applied. A number of people did a whale of a job."

"It has to be a great forward movement downtown," said Frank Remick of Remick's of Quincy. "The addition of office space, plus further additions, will provide a larger working force that is a potential captive audience for the downtown stores.

"There will be further development of apartment house living to add to the 'walking-to' kind of customer and the more of that that goes on the better off Quincy will be. There will be tax base benefits, too. So I think it's a great move."

"This is evidence that there is still life in the city, in the downtown area," said William B. Austin Jr., president of the South Shore Bank. "It will prove to be only the first of many such operations. It will be easier to sell Quincy to other investors."

"I've said all along that I see it as a real catalyst to bring together all the divergent business and political groups in the city to turn around the problem of the decline in

Screening Committee To Review Planning Director Applicants

Rev. Bedros Baharian and members of his Planning Board have been named as a screening committee to review the resumes of applicants for the post of Quincy Planning Director.

Walter J. Hannon resigned as of last Friday to enter private employment.

Mayor Tobin said that he will name an acting Planning Director in a few days to serve until a permanent director is chosen.

"We are advertising for a planning director now," said Tobin. "Notices are being sent to all the planning departments in the state. We are going into a legitimate screening process."

Quincy Center."

"I think it's great," said Ove Strandskov, manager of the Sears Roebuck store that is leaving Quincy for South Shore Plaza in Braintree next year. "It's got to be a real benefit to the city."

"As I understand it this was the one thing necessary to get the go-ahead on the garage leading to the construction of a new office building. Anytime you get a building which projects 500 to 600 permanent employees it's got to be a big plus for the city."

"I think it will stabilize the downtown," said Peter O'Connell of O'Connell Brothers Construction Co., whose firm has a number of projects underway on the fringe of the downtown area and in outlying sections of the city.

"It's a catalyst. It's going to put people into the downtown and encourage other investment. Once corporate organizations are willing to relocate in downtown Quincy then other corporations will follow suit and it will make the next office building much easier."

Major Hardware Company Moving To McGrath Highway

A major wholesale hardware company is moving into the vacant New England Telephone Co. building on McGrath Highway, possibly within the next 90 days.

Mayor Tobin confirmed that report Tuesday, adding that negotiations are winding down on the proposed move and an announcement should be made in a week to 10 days.

The hardware company will occupy the entire building, 21,000 square feet of space with 16,000 feet of it devoted to a display and sales room.

"As a taxpayer I'm relieved because the commercial property in downtown is overtaxed and if the process of deterioration continued in the downtown the homeowners would have to pick up the tax loss."

The office building on the Della Chiesa Parking Area is to be "built by Campanelli Enterprise of Braintree and its prime tenant will be the headquarters of Stop and Shop supermarkets, which employs about 450 people. Some 750 people will be involved in construction."

"A couple of banks have tentatively committed themselves to moving into this Campanelli building and we expect further developments along these lines in the very near future," said Cong. Donnelly, who flew up from Washington especially for the announcement.

"These are indicators of a brighter future for our downtown area. I'm optimistic that we'll be able to look back on this grant as the catalyst of the beginning of a new economic effort for this fine city. This money will start a lot of action

World War I Vet Refuses Bonus

The 20th anniversary of America's entry into World War I passed and Francois Rene Sauliere of 22 Glynn Terrace, Quincy Center, was still turning down his veterans' bonus.

Sauliere, better known as Frank R. Sauliere, Quincy correspondent for a Boston newspaper, had been refusing the $1,590 ever since it was first offered many years ago.

"I don't think any man should collect a bonus for serving his country in time of war," he said.

"My father fought for France for five cents a day. My grandfather served her in the Franco-Prussian War for nominal pay. I don't intend to stick Uncle Sam for my bit."

STREET WIDENING ENDORSED

Some 300 persons at a hearing gave overwhelming endorsement to widening Cottage Ave. and Foster St., Quincy Center, to make way for a 100-foot wide connector between Hancock and Washington Sts.

"It will provide room for growth for the retail district of Quincy," said merchant Max Winer. "You have a gold mine of property in back of Hancock St."

City Councillor Avery W. Gilkerson filed an order for landtaking.

TROPHY RETIRED

Bob Greenhalgh scored 16 points to lead Christ Church to a 40-39 victory over Wollaston Congregational and permanent possession of the Charles A. Ross Trophy.

Christ Church led, 40-33, with less than a minute to play only to watch Woody Jenkins, Alec Williamson and Herb Davis toss in Wollaston baskets in the last 35 seconds, Davis' score coming at the buzzer.

Christ Church: Dunn and Mulligan, forwards; Normington and Greenhalgh, centers; Curtis and Collins, guards.

Wollaston: E. Davis and A. Davis, forwards; Williamson, center; Morgan, Jenkins and Bassett, guards.

NQHS' Football No. 1 Fan

Charlie Rizzo Marks 80th Birthday

Remember the fellow who used to present the North Quincy High School football captains and coaches with flowers after a game?

That was Charlie Rizzo, one of North Quincy's most ardent fans, who enjoyed nothing better than cheering his team on to victory.

The rest of the week he was Charlie of Charlie's Barber Shop, located at 420 Hancock St., North Quincy, for the past 20 years. Prior to that the shop was down the street at 414. Charlie himself lives at 422 Hancock St., next door to the shop from which he retired in 1972.

On March 25 Charlie celebrated his 80th birthday and there was a big family party at the Avon Town House in Avon.

Rizzo came to this country from his native Aragona, Sicily, in 1920 and lived in Waltham for six years. In 1926 he returned to his birthplace and married Rosalie Castrogiovanni. On his return to the U.S. with his bride he settled in Quincy and opened his barbershop.

Attending the birthday dinner were Rizzo's sons Louis, and his wife, Elaine, and their children and spouses; Robert and Ellie Papile, James and Karen Savina, Gerry and Terri Nicklas, Lisa, Louis and Dean; Salvatore Rizzo and his wife, Sophie, and their children, Ronald and Debbie Rizzo, James and Nancy Crane and Doreen; Charles Rizzo and his wife, Joan, and their children, Peter, John and Charles Jr., and his friend, Ellen Gilmore; a daughter Anne, and her husband, Ralph Mazzola, and their daughter, Susan, and her fiancé, Anthony Tucci.

The Rizzos also have three great grandchildren.

Streetscape Improvements N. Quincy Development Topic

Streetscape improvements in Norfolk Downs will be discussed at a meeting of the North Quincy Development Corporation Wednesday, April 4, at 7:30 p.m. at Sacred Heart School.

All residents and business people in North Quincy are

McGowan Completes Training

Coast Guard Seaman Apprentice Stephen L. McGowan, son of Donald E. and encouraged to attend the meeting which will cover what will be happening when improvements get underway.

For more information on the meeting or the North Quincy Development Council, contact Brendan Gallagher, clerk, 49 Billings Rd., North Quincy.

Margaret M. McGowan of 31 Wollaston Ave., Wollaston, has completed recruit training at the Coast Guard Training Center, Cape May, N.J.

During the 10-week training cycle, trainees studied general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training leading toward their qualification in one of the Coast Guard's 26 basic occupational fields.

Included in their studies were first aid, seamanship, Coast Guard history and regulations, close order drill and damage control.

McGowan joined the Coast Guard in January, 1979.

THE TAX CAP

The Legislative House Committee on Ways and Means is currently working on the Governor's tax cap proposal. The Ways and Means Committee is scrutinizing the Taxation Committee's recommendation that the cap include a four percent inflation factor. Many legislators feel the Ways and Means Committee will report the cap out with no inflation factor included.

This would force local communities to live within last year's budget. There is a provision in the cap to allow the local governing body to exceed the limit by a two-thirds vote. The cap is in two parts, one on the municipality and the other is on the schools. The proposal does exclude limits on bonding and court ordered expenditures.

The cap does not maintain collective bargaining rights for municipal employees, including binding arbitration for the police and fire. Schools still maintain fiscal autonomy under the bill.

The main light will center around the inflation factor whether the cap will come out at zero percent or four percent. It is possible that the cap legislation would be before the entire House within the week.

I would appreciate hearing from you on this and other matters. The Committee on Urban Affairs is working on legislation I co-sponsored pertaining to the M.D.C. building a sludge disposal area within the city of Quincy. I hope to have more on this in the future.

If I can be of any assistance to you in the future, I can be reached by calling 328-0900 or 727-7035. I will hold office hours by appointment.

SYHO Bake Sale Sunday For Muscular Dystrophy

The Sacred Heart Youth Organization of North Quincy will conduct a bake sale Sunday morning following the morning Masses at Sacred Heart Church, 386 Hancock St., North Quincy.

The event will be held in the Sacred Heart School auditorium across from the church. The morning Masses are at 7:45 a.m., 9:15 a.m., 10:45 a.m., and Noon.

All are welcome to assist and participate in the bake sale by donating home made cakes, breads, cookies or brownies or by purchasing items Sunday morning.

Proceeds will go to the Muscular Dystrophy Association for its research and service programs. The event is one of a series of fund raisers being held in cooperation with the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee.

Rev. Thomas Garrett, spiritual advisor of the Sacred Heart Youth Organization, also announce members of the group will participate in a series of Christmas workshops repairing used items of toys for Christmas distribution.

Officers of the SHYO are: Thomas P. Koch, president, Debra A. Koch, vice president, Lisa Tarbox, secretary and Coleen Flynn, treasurer.

The SHYO is planning its spring athletic season with boys baseball and girls softball teams.

Willard St. Apartments Turned Down

Mrs. Clara M. Yeomans, executive secretary of the Commission, said that Harbor Enterprises, a subsidiary of Peabody Construction Co., can appeal the decision to the State Department of Environmental Quality Engineering.

J. J. Power, spokesman for Harbor Enterprises, was not available for comment.

"They can also refile any time they want to with a more detailed drainage plan," said Mrs. Yeomans.

"What we would like to see are specific plans showing that they can retain or at least hold back a lot of the runoff into St. Moritz Pond and Furnace Brook, which runs the whole length of the city and floods most of the way."

The Commission order noted that St. Moritz Pond has flooded twice in the past year, including once on the very day of a Commission hearing on the apartment plan.

Also, it said, "the sanitary sewer system in the area has surged on a number of occasions causing raw sewage to flow into St. Moritz Pond and also back up into homes."

Creedon Appeals To Gov. King To Relax 'Tax Cap' On Schools

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon has written to Gov. Edward J. King to express his concern over pending legislation relative to "tax caps" on school committee budgets and to urge the governor to reconsider a total freeze in favor of allowing a four percent increase.

Dr. Creedon informed the governor that the Quincy School Committee has approved a $32,941,861 budget which includes the athletic and Quincy Junior College programs under the budgetary control of the committee. He noted that the budget is down $357,676, a decrease of 1.1 percent from the funding for the current year.

The committee is now faced with negotiating contracts with six different employee groups and is currently in a fact finding status with our secretarial-clerical forces, results of which could have a two-year impact on the 1979-1980 budgetary amount," Creedon told the governor.

The superintendent pointed out that approximately $1 million of the budget is related to the purchase of instructional materials and supplies used in the classroom. He also noted that approximately 82.5 percent of the budget covers negotiated salaries for employees of the school system.

"In fact, it was my recommendation to the school committee to reduce the professional staff by 25 teachers [$500,000] in the light of projected declining enrollments," Creedon stated.

He called attention to the fact that "many of our budgetary increases are as a result of state mandated programs which are not fully funded by the state legislature, such as Chapter 766, the lunch program, Chapter 622, and current laws in school construction relating to the handicapped."

The special education tuition account for the Quincy schools has increased from $28,500 in 1975-1976 to $477,325 in 1979-1980, Creedon said, adding that the increase for next year is $73,625, or 18.2 percent over the 1978-1979 level of funding.

"Our energy costs have increased from $300,000 in 1971 to $1,073,000 as proposed in the 1979-1980 budget," Creedon said. "This amount will be insufficient to cover the cost of utilities and energy."

"Since the energy crisis the school system has embarked on an energy conservation program in which our fuel consumption was reduced from 1,850,000 gallons to 1,450,000 gallons.

"Yet our costs have tripled during this period," he informed the governor.

Vandals Cause Over $31,000 Damage At Shea Rink

Vandals broke into the MDC Shea Memorial Ice Skating Rink on Willard St., West Quincy, shortly after the facility closed for the season last Friday night and caused damage of more than $31,000.

William T. Sullivan, MDC's supervisor of recreation on the South Shore, said that a further estimate of the damage will have to await examination of the refrigeration unit. He said there was at least $15,000 damage to the building and the cost of repairing or replacing the ice-making machine could easily run to more than $16,000.

The vandals used fire extinguishers to batter open a door to the rink after entering the facility through a window. They tipped over a 55-gallon drum of compressor oil and used oil soaked rags to set a fire, according to Deputy Fire Chief Joseph McShane. Fire officials said the smoky fire had been going for some time before they were called to the rink just before 9 a.m. Saturday. Smoke and soot from the fire filled the interior of the closed-in rink.

An MDC police official said the vandals used an ice-making machine playing "smash car."

UDAG Hailed As Catalyst

to revitalize the downtown."

Tobin was effusive in his praise of Donnelly, who has been in office only three months, for "opening the doors for us down in Washington. We got the total amount for which we applied for, which was no small achievement."

The Mayor said that he and Rev. Baharian are currently setting up another economic development conference, similar to one that was held at the Neighborhood Club last May. The Campanelli office building project developed out of that one.

"We are going to put a plan together of what we would like to do," said Tobin, "and we're going to invite all the developers and let them know all the positive things that are happening in Quincy.

"We're going to get some preliminary sketches of what we'd like to propose doing so that we can show them 'This is what happened in Phase 1. Now we're going into Phase 2. We've got to keep the ball rolling while the electricity is there."

problem," he said. "By nature a mayoral campaign candidates do not have a difficult time raising money."

Sheets, who is head of the government and history department at Quincy Junior College, was first elected to the City Council from Ward 4 in 1973 and was reelected in 1975 and 1977.

He took a leave of absence from the college in 1975 after he was elected to the State Legislature, returning to his teaching job when his second term on Beacon Hill expired last January.

Recently, Sheets and Mayor Arthur H. Tobin have clashed heatedly over a proposed low and middle income apartment building in West Quincy. Sheets claimed he was not apprised of it until late in its planning stages. Tobin said he was.

MONEY TALKS It pays the U.S. Treasury to tolerate inflation

By Philip J. Lawrence, President
Colonial Federal Savings and Loan Association of Quincy, Holbrook & Wareham
8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

Who is the major beneficiary of inflation? The U.S. Treasury! That's the way it is, according to a recent study published in the Savings and Loan News. We taxpayers realized all along that with the cresting inflation, we have been lucky to keep our heads above water. But we didn't stop to think that the Treasury was riding the crest at our expense.

The study discloses that for every $1.00 that inflation adds to Federal expenditures, it adds $1.65 to Federal revenues. "In other words, for every 1% increase in the nation's inflation rate, the Treasury receives a 0.65% inflation bonus." Right from the pockets of American taxpayers.

Here's how it works.

Let's assume you received $20,000 in wages in 1977 and were awarded an 8% wage increase for 1978. Assuming also, for simplification, an 8% rise in inflation in 1978, you made no financial gain at all, the salary increase being offset by the inflationary rise. But your increase in wages increased your tax obligations. You paid Federal taxes of $2,536 in 1977 for an effective tax rate of 12.7%. Since you had no real income gain in 1978, your tax burden should not have increased. But with a progressive tax structure, your taxes in 1978 rose to $2,924 for an increase of $388. According to the study's computations, this pushed your effective tax rate to 13.5%.

Thus, the Treasury was provided with an inflation bonus and your real purchasing power declined by the same amount.

Similarly for your interest income: Your $10,000 savings certificate earning 8% simply counterbalanced the 8% rise in the cost of living, merely preserving the initial worth of your savings. But the interest income increased your 1978 actual taxes to $3,129, and the Treasury received an additional inflation-caused bonus.

Our political leaders are getting the message that the American taxpayer may not tolerate further increases in taxation to stem the Federal deficit. But why bother raising taxes? You don't have to if you continue Federal deficit spending and let the inflation it feeds sweep American wage earners into ever higher "tax brackets for increased Federal income.

For this reason, the study concludes, some economists describe inflation as simply another method of taxation.

Merrymount, Parker, Montclair, Squantum In Street Hockey Semi-finals

The Quincy Recreation Department all-City Street Hockey Championship action began last Saturday, with 16 teams and over 180 participants from recreation centers from around the city.

Recreation Director Charles L. Alongi, reports 11 matches were played in the first days action that reduced the original 16 teams to a final four. The four teams set for the semi-finals and finals are Merrymount "A", Parker "B", Montclair and Squantum.

Merrymount "A" advanced to the semi-finals by defeating Parker "A", 3-1. With John Kelly, Jamie Seamans, and Sean Barry scoring for Merrymount, Pete Murphy scored the lone Parker goal.

In a preliminary game Parker team had bested Merrymount B by a wide margin with Bobby Kane, Ronnie Conway, Peter Murphy, David Murphy, and Kevin Sullivan scoring two goals each, while Colin Powers had three goals and two assists.

Montclair advanced to the semi-finals by defeating Atherton Hough 5-2 and Atlantic 3-2. In the Montclair-Atlantic game Mike Sullivan, David Cook and Richard Horrigan scored for Montclair with Horrigan's game winner breaking a 2-2 tie in the third period. Atlantic's Walter Dowring started in goal while Pat O'Sullivan and Mark Scanlan scored the Atlantic goals.

Atherton Hough defeated Beechwood Knoll, 7-3. Paul Miller scored four times while Tom Boussy, Paul Miller and Pat Faherty had one each to round out the Atherton Hough scoring. Ed Bagley, Eric Apt, and Bill Stacey did the scoring for Beechwood Knoll. Atherton Hough could not keep up the strong scoring pace as they faced a strong attack by Montclair. Montclair had two hat tricks by Mike Sullivan, and single goals by Ted Hohman and Sean Toland. Atherton Hough had goals by Chris Deady and John O'Connor.

Squantum took a similar route to its semi-final date with Montclair. Squantum defeated Quincy and Adams "B" in its two games.

First Squantum exploded for 15 goals in defeating the Adams B team. Coach Bob Noble praised the entire team. The Quincy-Squantum game was much more of a test as Squantum needed. Two goals from John Reney and one from Dave MacDonald to beat Quincy, 3-1. Jim Martin had the lone Quincy goal. Quincy's day had its bright moments, for it had previously defeated a strong Wollaston team, 4-2. Richard Brooks had two goals and Jimmie Martin had two for Quincy. Wollaston goals were scored by David Tapper and Mike Barry.

The Parker B team now looms as the tournament sleeper as it advanced to the magic four by besting Merrymount C and Sterling in its two games. The Parker-Sterling game was a 4-3 thriller with Tom Connelly scoring two of his three goals in the third period Michael Haynes had two goals for Sterling. Anthony Venturilli and Kevin Sullivan each had single goals.

Parker then advanced by beating Merrymount "C", 5-1. Ted Stevenson Jr. and Mike Ainsley each had two goals for Parker.

Merrymount's lone goal was scored by Tony McDermott. Merrymount had played well in its earlier game using goals by Mark Malloy and Tim Lynch to defeat Adam "A", 2-0.

The finals and semi-finals will be played Saturday at the Montclair tennis courts beginning at 9:30 a.m. The first two games will feature Merrymount "A" vs. Parker "B". Merrymount is coached by Jerry Pratt, which will play Squantum, coached by Bob Noble, in the other 9:30 game.

The winners will square off at 11:00 a.m. for the Boy's Elementary City Street Hockey Championship. This tournament highlights and concludes the 25-week winter program, sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department.

Trophies will be awarded by Alongi, to the winning team. Games are open to the public.

Sports

Super Star Competition

Trophies Presented To Winners

The Quincy Recreation Department Parker Center recently closed its Super Star competition.

Boys in four grades competed in a 50-yard dash, football throw, shuttle run, hockey target shoot and obstacle course.

Grade 3 winners were Ted Stevenson, Jr. Henry Seto, Ed Brosman and Tim Thompson.

Winners in Grade 4 were John Mooney, Chris Conway and Dan Smith.

Fifth grade winners were John Ainsley, Chris Cody and Jim Dunphy.

Winning in Grade 6 were John MacDonald, Bob Kane and Dave Murphy.

The overall winners, Mooney, Ainsley, MacDonald and Stevenson Jr. were presented trophies by Recreation Director Charles Alongi.

Ted Stevenson was in charge of the Parker program, assisted by David Moran.

Local Bowlers Sparkle In Ten Pin Tournament

Quincy bowlers did well in the Greater Boston Junior Bowling Association's annual ten pin tournament which finished Sunday at the Quincy Wonderbowl.

In junior boys (12-14 years of age) team bowling, Quincy Vikings, Vin Taglieri, Kevin Tobin, John McCarthy and Tim Tobin, won with a 2462 score, and Quincy Pin Wizards, Dave Cockshaw, Doug Murphy, Mike Notarangelo and Bob MacKenzie, were runners up, bowling 2445.

In Senior boys (15-21) team competition, Quincy Sweepers, Joe Kovalchick, Bob Marshall, Sean McCormack and Jim Howley, won with a 2543 total, and Quincy AG's Team, Craig Sterling, Al Rizzi, Rich Bersani and Pete Ceriani, was second with 2511.

Quincy Wonderettes, Ellen Kilduff, Heather McInnis, Donna Duff and Darlene Donadio, won the Senior Girls event with a 2439 score.

Other team winners were Hanscom Strikers, mini-bantam boys (8 and under); Peabody Gum Drops, mini bantam girls; Malden, bantam boys (9-11), and

First Boston Boston Bowl 10, junior girls.

In singles matches, Quincy's Patrick Ryan and Malden's Joey Kane tied for first in mini-bantam boys with 629 scores; Peabody's Melanie Gotts won mini-bantam girls with a 599; Quincy's Tommy Dalton won the bantam boys event with a 651 score and Quincy's Joey Monahan and Marlboro's Bobby Murdock tied for second at 649.

Quincy's Katie Noll won the bantam girls competition with a 647, Quincy's Mark Baker won junior boys at 672 and Greg Donovan of Quincy was third at 655. Quincy's Rich Bersani was fourth in senior boys at 669 and Jim Lawhorn of Quincy was eighth in senior boys with a 643.

Trophies will be awarded to the winners at the Greater Boston Junior Tenpin Bowling Association banquet May 20 at the Hillcrest in Waltham.

Ernie Villeneuve was director of the tournament, in which all bowlers were members of the American Junior Bowling Congress and the Greater Boston Junior Bowling Association.

St. John's Women To Bowl For Muscular Dystrophy

The St. John's Women's Bowling League will raise money for Muscular Dystrophy Tuesday night at 9 p.m. at Olindy's in conjunction with its regularly scheduled matches.

Each of the 50 women will bowl and will contribute one cent for each pin. If a woman rolls 300, she will contribute $3. To Muscular Dystrophy, etc.

The winner will receive a trophy as well as a choice of bowling shoes or $15.

Junior All-Star Bowlers Raise $758 For MDA

Members of the Junior All-Star Bowling League collected $758.67 in a recent Muscular Dystrophy Bow-A-Thon at Olindy's Lanes.

Eddie McGrail, 14, of 133 South Walnut Street, Quincy, was the top collector with $251.50 and Greg Gerrish, 11, of North Weymouth, was second with $105.00. The two were each awarded four Paramount bowling balls and a carrying bag.

Other bowlers who helped reach the $758 were Rick Wallace, Chuck Abbott, John Sheehan, Todd Glennon, Jim Linehan, Sal Lorenzano and Fred Maskell.

Meanwhile, bowlers can help fight muscular dystrophy and win a set of four bowling balls at Olindy's when John Mezzetti, co-owner of the alleys, secretly bowls three strings April 16 and again April 30.

A set of balls will be presented to the two persons who bowl or guess the closest to Mezzetti's three strings on each of these two dates. In the case of a tie, the winners will be selected by a drawing.

Alibrandi Holds All Koch Men's Records

Tony Alibrandi holds all the individual records of the Koch Club Men's Bowling League with four weeks to go in the 29th season of competition.

Alibrandi leads all bowlers with an average of 110, high individual three string total of 400 and high individual single string of 145.

Other bowlers in the top 10 averages are: Leo Marshall, 104.9; Al Mancuso, 104.6; Ozzie Parsons, 104.5; Peter Alibrandi, 104.4; Paul Koch, 104.2; Steve Mancuso, 103.7; Mike Doyle, 102.7; Jim Moody, 101.4, and Joe Keenan, 100.3.

Mike Shields, newcomer to the league with only three weeks bowling, is sporting a 110.4 average and although ineligible for top average awards this year looks like a threat to the top bowlers in next seasons competition.

Bob McLaren and his team hold the high three string total of 1615 while Joe Keenan's squad had the high team single string of 581.

Al Mancuso and his team are tied with Bob McLaren's team. Each had identical 57 wins and 31 lost records in the battle for second half winners.

Joe Keenan's team captured the first half of the season's competition and await the opposition for the championship rolloff.

The 40-member league is in its 29th season of activity, bowls each Tuesday evening at 7 p.m. at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome. Officers include Dick Koch Jr., President; Steve Mancuso, treasurer and Bob Woods, secretary.

Open Against B.C. High Tuesday

Coscia, Deutsch In Key Roles For Quincy

By TOM SULLIVAN

When the Quincy baseball team opens its season Tuesday against B.C. High at Adams Field at 3:30 p.m., Coach Bud Mosher will be depending upon two senior right-handed pitchers, Ray Coscia and Billy Deutsch.

"They are the keys to our success this year," Mosher said. "Coscia was one of our standouts last season, winning half of our games in a 10-10 season, while Deutsch played second base and was a good hitter. He throws the ball well and he and Coscia should give us good pitching. When Deutsch isn't pitching he will definitely play third base and Coscia also will be playing somewhere when not pitching.

The only other veterans are junior shortstop Fran Donovan and catcher Dean Prescott, who may play first base if Steve Picot makes the grade behind the plate. Picot, up from the junior varsity, hits with power. If Prescott catches, it probably will be Picot at first.

Among the jayvee graduates who are sure to play are Tom Brennan in the infield, Mike Trubiano in the outfield and Andy Carrera, who will pitch and play the outfield. He may be the third starting pitcher.

Steve Buckley, a senior playing for the first time, is another who will pitch and also play in the infield.

Two other pitching hopefuls are lefty Mike Crowley and right-hander Tom Eames.

John Sullivan is a senior playing for the first time and may start in the outfield. Tim Riccardi is a fine hitter up from the jayvees who will play in the outfield. John Kavanaugh is a good first base prospect and Mike Scurti is a good defensive infielder.

Mosher had a fine turnout of 57 and jayvee coach Hank Pasquarelli has a number of excellent prospects.

The Presidents scrimmaged

Hingham and North Quincy this week and Saturday will make its annual visit to Harwich to scrimmage that school. They will play at B.C. High on April 13 and, following another scrimmage with North Quincy on April 18, will play at Silver Lake on the 20th and open their Suburban League season at Brookline at Adams Field on April 23.

Kallio, Dabrolet, Cochrane

Boost Quincy Centre Methodist

Ed Kallio rolled 341, George Dabrolet 316 and Roy Cochrane 313 as Quincy Centre Methodist defeated the Independents, 4-2, to move to within five points of Atlantic Memorial in the Quincy Church Bowling League with one week remaining.

For the losers Harold McManus rolled 338, Jim Lynch 303 and Dan Meehan 302.

The league standings: Atlantic Memorial, 56-28; Quincy Center Meth., 51-33; Wollaston Cong., 48-26; Lutherans, 47-37; Christ Church, 45-39; Independents, 44-40; Central Baptist, 44-40; First Presby., 42-42; Fort Square U.P., 38-46; Bethany A., 34-50; Bethany B., 30-54; and Quincy Point Cong., 25-59.

Hallberg's 113.3

Paces Little Loopers

Dick Hallberg, having another outstanding season, leads the Quincy Bowling Little Loop with a 113.3 average. He is followed by Steve Peceovich, 105.2; Pete Allibrandi, 100.5; Gary Connolly, 99.1; Jay Dolan, 98.6; Mike Hatfield, 98.4; Paul Leonard, 98.1; Tom Doherty, 97.9; Steve Turner, 97.7, and John J. Sullivan, 97.3.

The team standings: Sen. Paul Harold Club, 72-20 (total pinfall of 30,790); Bryan Post VFW, 67-25 (30,306); Montclair Men's Club, 61-31 (29,906); James R. McIntyre Club, 52-40 (30,354); Richard M. Morrissey Club, 52-40 (29,895); Quincy Lodge of Elks, 47-45 (29,713); Quincy Sun, 44-48 (29,603); Atlantic Fuel Oil, 39-53

(29,835); Councilor Joseph E. Brett Club, 39-53 (29,613); Atty. George Burke Club, 38-54 (29,888); Hutchinson Oil, 37-55 (29,697); Local 1451 IAM, AFL-CIO, 35-57 (29,108); Hennessy Plumbing Supply, 32-60 (29,508); Wollaston Bowladrome, 29-63 (28,846).

Last week's results: Harold Club 4, McIntyre 0; Bryan Post 4, Burk 0; Morrissey 4, Brett 0; Montclair 4, Hennessy 0; Bowladrome 4 Elks 0; Atlantic 4, Hutchinson 0; Local 1451 3, Quincy Sun 1.

Hallberg rolled the weekly high three of 337 and Doherty rolled high single of 132. The Harold Club had high team three of 1406 and the high single of 132.

Little Loop MDA Bowlathon Reaches $1,505 Mark

With one week remaining for late returns, the Quincy Bowling Little Loop Muscular Dystrophy Bowl-a-Thon has taken in $1,505.04.

Mark Paul of the Local 1451 team is the top fund raiser with $174.10 and Stan Kovalski Jr. of the Bowladrome team is second with $163.25. Both will receive sets of four candlepin balls and bags at the annual awards dinner Tuesday, April 24 at North Quincy K. of C. Hall.

Boys who were unable to be present at last week's bowling due to high school entrance exams are asked to turn in their sheets and collections Saturday.

A complete report will be made by Treasurer Stanley Kovalski Sr. when all returns are in.

Central Girls Gym Team Defeats Point In Opener

Central Junior High girls' gymnastics team started its season with a convincing 62.05-44.15 win over Quincy Point.

Central's team, coached by Barbara Donelin and composed of 28 girls of all grade levels, led from the first event, sweeping all three places on balance beam, vaulting and uneven bars, allowing the Point girls only second and third places on floor.

In the floor exercise competition Central's Alta Driscoll placed first with a score of 6.9, tied for second were Central's Kristen Dever and Point's Denise Beliveau with scores of 6.55, and third went to Point's Denise Jolley, 6.5.

In vaulting Central's Kara Crehan scored a 6.65 with a hand-spring vault to take first, Shanie Gobbi was second with a 6.25 score and Lisa Welby completed the sweep with a score of 5.6.

On balance beam Central's Patti Novak won with a score of 5.2, Kristen Dever and Cathy O'Brien tied for second at 4.6 and Amy Harrison completed the sweep with a 4.15 score.

On uneven bars Central again swept all three places with Denise Wright first, 3.75; Sue Murray second, 3.45, and Kim MacPherson third, 2.45.

Central will host Atlantic Friday at the Armory and Coach Donelin is optimistic that her team will win the annual city-wide meet next Tuesday at Broad Meadows.

Atlantic started out with a 53.0-34.1 win over Sterling. Some of the Sterling girls surprised and a seventh grade student, Jessica Lumaghini, took third in floor exercise and Lisa Burrelli took third on the bars. It was the first competition for many of the girls and they did well under the circumstances.

Millane Sets Track Club Record At Westfield

Michelle Millane established a new Quincy Tract Club record and a personal best effort in winning the discus against a field of collegiate throwers in a recent Westfield Relays.

Her toss of 118-4 set a 14-15 record and all-age mark. Her best throw last year was 116-4.

Geoff Hennessy, QTC coach who runs for the Greater Boston Track Club, took second in the 110-meter hurdles and the 400-meter intermediate hurdles against Boston College. In the Westfield Relays he took fourth overall in the 400-meter hurdles.

Mike Gallagher, former North Quincy High standout and a QTC star who recently joined the Greater Boston Club, won the discus with a 147-2 toss against B.C.

In road race action Harry Morash ran the Fall River 10-mile run in 68:37, a national calibre time for 10-year-olds. His last two miles were run in an outstanding 12:02.

Sunday the Quincy club will take 17 of its best age group athletes to Southern Connecticut Community College in New Haven.

N.Q. Koch District Closes Out 30th Season With Banquet

The North Quincy District of the Koch Club will close out its 30th season of youth basketball programs Wednesday, April 4, at 6:30 p.m. with an awards banquet at the Fore River Clubhouse, Nevada Rd., Quincy Point.

Following a catered dinner, the awards program will be conducted with each member of both leagues receiving a trophy in recognition of the reliability and dependability demonstrated toward their leagues and teams.

Special trophies will be presented to The Warriors, winning team of the senior league, with a record of 8 wins and 2 losses for the season. Members of the team are, Michael Phelan, Brian Barnes, Keith Burke, John DeLappe, Robert Varnado, William Heffernan and John Connolly.

The basketball activities, one of the oldest programs of the organization, originated in 1949 at the old North Quincy High School gym with 15 participants.

Richard J. Koch, founder and executive director of the Koch Club, will be the emcee. Richard J. Koch Jr. and Robert Woods, directors of the North Quincy District Basketball Leagues will make the presentations.

Bantam A's Roll Over Walpole

The Sons of Italy Bantam A team rolled over Walpole, 11-0, with Timmy O'Connell in goal.

Tommy O'Connor, Timmy Lester and John O'Connell had two goals apiece and Frank Reynolds, Kevin Craig, Kevin Duff, Mark Sayers and Mike McGrath one each. Mike McNeice and Kevin Chase had two assists apiece and Lester, O'Connell, Craig, Paul Damberry, Mark Sayers, Duff, McGrath and O'Connor one each.

Koch Broad Meadows District Basketball Awards Banquet April 9

The Broad Meadows District of the Koch Club will conduct its 16th annual Basketball Awards Banquet Monday, April 9, at 6:30 P.M. at the Fore River Clubhouse, Nevada Rd., Quincy Point.

A catered dinner will be served to parents and league members. Trophies will be awarded to each boy and girl who participated in the Winter Recreation Program.

Anthony T. Delmonico, founder and director of the Broad Meadows District of the Koch Club in 1962, will make the trophy presentations assisted by the coaches and referees of the basketball program.

In the 18 years of organization, the Broad Meadows District of the Koch Club has had over 10,000 boys and girls participating in its year round recreational program of basketball.

baseball, bowling and softball activities.

Since 1964, the Broad Meadows District has actively participated in the Koch Club Scholarship Program and in the 16 years has donated $3,000 for 30 boy and girl graduates of Quincy High School. The Broad Meadows District will again this year provide $200, $100 to a boy and girl graduate of Quincy High School.

Rockets In Tourney Semi-Finals

The South Quincy Rockets will play in the semifinals of the Wakefield Junior Invitational Basketball Tournament Friday at 7:30 at Wakefield High School.

The Rockets, following a breeze in the opening round, squeezed by Peabody, 63-62, last Friday to make the semi-finals.

Peabody led by 20 points going into the final period but superb defense and an outstanding shooting spree by Peter Papile, Mike Guidice, Kevin Riggs and Jeff Timberlake and a great second effort basket at the buzzer by Jeff Morrison enabled the Rockets to make a superb comeback and pull out the win.

W. Quincy Koch Club Baseball, Softball Registration Saturday

Registration for West Quincy Koch Club baseball and softball players will be held Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon at O'Rourke Field on Quarry St. Boys and Girls from eight through 14 are eligible.

There is a registration fee of $6.00. The first 210 boys and 210 girls will be accepted. All registrants must bring their gloves. The season runs from April 30 to June 21.

Anyone interested in coaching or umpiring is asked to call Dave Donahue at 773-6307 or Jim Nabstedt at 479-0652.

Undefeated Squirt B's Champs

The Squirt B team ended an undefeated season as league champion with a 7-1 win over Brockton and a 3-2 win over Weymouth.

The team opens playoff competition Saturday and Sunday.

Dave Tapper, Mike Benson and

Matt Furtado had the goals in the final against Weymouth with two assists for Mark Zimmerman.

Philip Lawrence Appointed To U.S. Savings League Committees

Philip J. Lawrence, president of Colonial Federal Savings and Loan Association of Quincy, has been appointed to the 1979 Advisory Committee on State Legislation and the 1979 Committee on Development for Neighborhood and Smaller City Institutions of the United States League of Savings Associations.

The U.S. League is the principal trade organization for the savings and loan business and represents over 4,400 associations throughout the country.

Savings and loan associations are the second largest type of financial institution in America and specialize in attracting savings accounts for investment primarily in mortgage loans on residential property. Currently savings associations provide approximately twice the amount of funds for home mortgage financing as all other lenders combined.

Brownell Would Increase Deductions On Interest, Dividends

Appearing before the Committee on Taxation, Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy] supported his legislation calling for increasing the allowable deductions on interest and dividends from savings accounts.

The legislation would allow a single person to exclude $200 of interest dividend and married persons to exclude $400 of interest income from the state income tax. The legislation is designed to encourage savings while at the same time increasing the money supply so as to drive down mortgage rates.

"This legislation will also be very helpful to the elderly who in many instances are attempting to survive on modest savings," said Brownell.

Howard Johnson Dividend

Howard Johnson Company has declared a regular quarterly dividend of 11 cents per share. The dividend is payable April 30, 1979 to stockholders of record at the close of business on April 9, 1979.

QUINCY CETA Request For Project Proposals

In anticipation of Federal Funds for summer jobs for youth, the Quincy CETA Youth Work Experience Program is issuing this request for Project proposals.

All public and private non-profit agencies in the Quincy CETA area are encouraged to submit a plan for a summer work project which would provide full-time (30 hours per week) constructive work experiences to groups of young people ages 14-22. Plans should outline the need for the service, number of employees required and the method by which the work will be completed. Project supervisors and youth wages will be provided by the Quincy CETA Program.

Projects concerned with community improvement and social services provision will be given priority consideration.

Summer youth program operates through July and August and serves the following cities and towns.

Braintree
Cohasset
Hingham

Holbrook
Hull
Millis

Norwell
Quincy
Randolph

Scituate
Weymouth

Please be advised that the funding of any project is contingent upon the receipt of appropriate federal funds by the Quincy CETA Program.

All project outlines or inquiries should be sent to:

House Rejects Constitutional Convention For Balanced Federal Budget

By RON IACOBucci
Quincy Sun Correspondent

The Massachusetts House of Representatives Tuesday overwhelmingly defeated 102-47 a resolution (H 1961) calling for a Constitutional Convention to rewrite the U.S. Constitution to require a balanced Federal budget.

Massachusetts 11. Governor Tom O'Neill, founder of Citizens for the Constitution, a national non-partisan campaign to stop efforts to rewrite the Constitution, called the Massachusetts vote a decisive victory.

"The defeat today in Massachusetts of the Constitutional convention approach to requiring a balanced federal budget is a message to other states now considering conventions resolutions," O'Neill said.

The House vote makes Massachusetts the first state in the country to defeat by a floor vote a resolution calling for a Constitutional convention to require a balanced federal budget.

Locally Representatives Thomas Brownell and Michael Morrissey were opposed to the resolution while Rep. Robert Cerasoli voted in favor of a Constitutional convention to require a balanced Federal budget.

Brownell said his vote against the resolution was "not a vote against a balanced budget, it was a vote against rewriting our national constitution."

Cerasoli offered that "a vote for a balanced Federal budget is a vote for a cost effective and efficient government; the people deserve nothing less."

The action by the House will not place Massachusetts in the column of 29 states that have to date supported the resolution.

The defeat was seen as a blow to California Gov. Jerry Brown who has spearheaded the move for a Constitutional amendment that would require by law that the Federal budget be balanced.

It was also seen as a setback to his Presidential aspirations.

LEGAL NOTICE

CITY OF QUINCY IN COUNCIL

ORDER NO. 92 ORDINANCE
February 5, 1979

Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Quincy as follows:

That the Revised Ordinances of the City of Quincy, 1976, as amended, be further amended as follows:

In Chapter 24, Zoning: ARTICLE I ADMINISTRATION.

Section 12 Enforcement

Sub-section 1. After the words "the Inspector of Buildings", delete the words "as designated under Section 206 of the Quincy Building Code."

Sub-section 6. Delete the words "twenty [20] days" and substitute therefor the words "fourteen [14] days."

Add the following as Sub-section 8: "Violation of any ordinance contained in this chapter shall be subject to a penalty of not more than One Hundred Dollars [$100.00] for each such offense. Each day such violation continues shall constitute a separate offense."

Section 14 Board of Appeals

Sub-section 1. Delete the words "Section 14" and substitute therefor the words "Section 12."

Sub-section 3. Delete the words "Section 20" and substitute therefor the words "Section 16."

Section 15 Special Permits

Delete Sub-section 1 and substitute therefor the following:

"By the terms of this Ordinance and in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 40A, as amended, of the General Laws of the Commonwealth, the Board of Appeals is hereby designated as the "special permit granting authority" and is authorized to approve or disapprove certain uses [specified in ARTICLE IV, Section 42 Table of Use Regulations], for which a special permit is required, except that the City Council is designated as the "special permit granting authority" for applications filed under ARTICLE III, Section 31, Sub-section 2 Planned Unit Development. In acting on these matters, the Board shall take into consideration the general purpose and intent of this Ordinance and may impose such conditions and safeguards deemed necessary to preserve community values. The Board may grant a permit without finding of hardship, or, for stated reasons, may deny the permit. In granting a permit the Board may impose further restrictions on the property as are appropriate, but shall not waive or relax any applicable provision of this Ordinance."

Sub-section 2 [e]. After the word "application", add the words "within thirty-five [35] days."

Add the following as Sub-section 3:

"3. Special permits shall only be issued following public hearings held within sixty-five [65] days after filing of an application with the special permit granting authority, a copy of which shall forthwith be filed with the city clerk by the applicant. The special permit granting authority shall act within ninety [90] days following the date of public hearing."

Add the following as Sub-section 4:

"4. A special permit granted under the provisions of this Ordinance shall lapse two [2] years from date of issue, designated as the permit granting authority" and shall have authority to grant variances for use in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 40A, as amended, of the General Laws.

Section 16 Variances

Delete the entire section and substitute therefor the following:

"The Board of Appeals is hereby designated as the "permit granting authority" and shall have authority to grant variances for use in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 40A, as amended, of the General Laws.

Section 17 Amendments to the Ordinance

Sub-section 3. Delete the words "Section 8" and substitute therefor the words "Section 5."

ARTICLE III ZONING DISTRICTS

Section 32 District Boundaries

Delete Sub-section 2 [f] and 2 [g] and insert present Section 2 [g] as new Section 2 [f].

ARTICLE VI SUPPLEMENTARY PROVISIONS

Section 62 Nonconformance

In Sub-section 2, delete the second paragraph and substitute therefor the following:

"No such extension or alteration shall be permitted unless there is a finding by the Board of Appeals, as the permit granting authority, that such change, extension, or alteration shall not be substantially more detrimental than the existing conforming use to the neighborhood."

ARTICLE VIIA ZONING DISTRICTS

In the caption for Article VIIA, delete words "Zoning Districts" and substitute therefor the words "Land Plan Districts."

Section 86 Flood Plan Districts

In the caption for Section 86, delete the words "Flood Plan Districts" and substitute therefor the words "Zoning Districts."

In subsection IV Board of Appeals, delete the words "thirty [30] days" and substitute therefor the words "thirty-five [35] days."

Parents Oppose Closing Great Hill, Standish Schools

By PETER BARNICLE

Parents of children attending the Great Hill School in Houghs Neck and the Myles Standish School, North Quincy, have made it clear they oppose any plan calling for the closing of these elementary schools.

They spoke out in opposition at public hearings conducted by the School Committee last week. Speaker after speaker emphasized the desirability of neighborhood schools and the disruptive effect on community spirit that the closing would have.

The school department has recommended the closing of four of the city's smaller schools because of continuing declining enrollment. The schools mentioned are the Great Hill, the Myles Standish, the Cranch and the

Paves Way For $10 Million Office Building Downtown Garage Underway In September

ON TIME FOR EASTER - Ten tiny chicks, hatched under the watchful eyes of the kindergarten class at Myles Standish School, arrived on schedule, in time for Easter. Jana Cocio and Adrienne Mercier exchange ideas about the fluffy little visitors. Mrs. Marilyn Puopolo, the kindergarten teacher, had the assistance of school custodians Charles Squatrito and Joseph Vento who watched the incubator and turned the eggs every evening and on week-ends during the 21 days the chicks took to break out of their shells. When the kids go on Easter vacation the chicks will go to a South Easton farm near Mrs. Puopolo's home.

Construction of the $3.79 million UDAG parking garage over the MBTA tracks at Granite St. will begin in September and be completed in 10 to 14 months.

It is hoped that construction of the $10 million, 10-story office building that will house the headquarters of Stop and Shop in the Della Chiesa Parking Area will proceed at the same pace.

That's the word that came out of a meeting Tuesday morning among Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, the Rev. Bedros Baharian, citywide development director, and principals in the development.

Tobin also announced that a second economic development conference is being set up for the Neighborhood Club either June 12, 13 or 14, to entice more development to downtown Quincy.

The first such conference, held in May, 1978, is credited with generating the interest that got the Stop and Shop office development and the UDAG garage underway.

"Some of those who were skeptical about the first conference will be on the program to speak at the second," said Tobin. He said he preferred not to identify them at this time.

Quincy was told last week that its bid for an urban development action grant [UDAG] to build the parking garage was successful but the official letter from HUD is not expected for another 10 days or two weeks.

The letter will spell out the conditions under which the grant is made. Until then little can be done of a specific nature to get the construction ball rolling.

Rev. Baharian estimated that it will take some five months to "do all the leg work" preparatory to breaking ground for the UDAG garage, bringing the start of construction into September.

The garage could take as little as 10 months to build, said architect Joseph Donahue, or as long as 14 months.

"The key is the freedom of movement in the track bed," he said. While the garage is being built, trains will be moving

Police To Conduct Security Survey

The Quincy Police Department's crime prevention programs have been expanded to include a residential security survey, it was announced by Mayor Arthur H. Tobin.

It is designed to assist residents in the protection of their homes against burglars.

The survey of the home will be conducted by a team of police officers who will point out to the occupants any security weaknesses and recommend ways to correct them.

The goal of the program is burglary deterrence, or "target hardening," as it is known to police across the country.

It means that if a resident makes it difficult for a burglar to gain entrance to his home by properly securing windows and doors and effective use of lights, the burglar will look for an easier target.

Residents can request a home security survey by calling the Police Department Crime Prevention Division at 479-1212, extension 365.

Most Stores Open Patriot's Day

Monday, April 16, will be celebrated as Patriot's Day, a legal holiday throughout the state.

Since Sunday "Blue laws" do not apply, most Quincy retail stores will be open, according to the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

All state and municipal offices and banks will be closed. Most business offices in the city will also remain closed.

Normal mail delivery and pick-up routines will be followed.

City's ICAP Scores High

Mayor Arthur Lobin announces that the Integrated Criminal Apprehension Program, ICAP, has received high marks in a recent on-site assessment by an official from Washington, D.C.

An official of the law enforcement assistance administration and the Westinghouse

National Issues Center reviewed the progress of Quincy's $454,000 federal ICAP grant. He said the department has made significant advances in the implementation of ICAP, especially in the areas of crime analysis, communication, patrol operations and crime prevention.

$259,770 In New Construction

The Quincy building department during March issued 67 permits for work to cost an estimated $259,770, compared with 67 permits issued in the same period a year ago for work costing $390,560, reports

Building Inspector Allan F. MacDonald.

Permit for construction of a one family dwelling at 95 Malvern St., Houghs Neck, at an estimated cost of $22,500, was issued to William Conneys.

Forty-six permits were granted for residential alterations at an estimated cost of $140,070. Eight permits were issued for other alterations to cost about $73,450.

The department issued three permits for removals to cost $5,450. During the month five permits were issued for signs to cost $5,100 and four permits for miscellaneous work at a cost of $13,200.

Receipts for public safety inspections during March amounted to $2,457 and receipts for permits were $15,777.

Income Tax Return Help Still Available

Quincy senior citizens can still receive assistance with their income taxes until April 16 at the Quincy Council on Aging Office, 1 Cliveden St., Quincy.

Some 100 senior citizens, including 15 homebound, have received assistance since mid-

February from Kendall H. Kiely, a member of the Vista program, and Albert Peruzzi, a volunteer.

Interested senior citizens should call Kiely, Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to noon or Peruzzi, Tuesdays from 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Willard St. Project Aftermath Ward 4 Committee To Study Rezoning Development Sites

City Councillor James A. Sheets has announced plans for a ward-wide committee to study the need of rezoning those parts of Ward 4 that are potential sites for major development projects.

"There are certain areas that need to be rezoned," he said. "If Ward 4 is going to retain the character and standard of community living that the people want."

Ward 4 recently has been the embroiled in a dispute over a proposed 184-unit low and middle income apartment complex off Willard St. that has been halted, at least temporarily, by the Conservation Commission.

Sheets said his committee would draw input from at least three major ward organizations, the St. Moritz Association, the South Quincy Civic Association and the Lincoln-Hancock Community School Council.

Any resident of Ward 4 who would like to work on the committee is invited to contact the councillor.

Sheets said that the excellent job done by the St. Moritz Association's zoning committee was the catalyst that led to the decision to establish the ward-wide committee.

Downtown Eligible For New Tax Incentives

Downtown Quincy has been designated a Commercial Area Revitalization District (CARD) under which new tax incentives can be extended to hotel, office, retail and other commercial uses.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin said it is still possible that the CARD designation can be given to areas in North Quincy and around the State Street South office complex.

Under CARD, these development incentives can be granted to commercial enterprises:

- 100 per cent tax-exempt revenue bond financing for firms expanding or locating in the downtown area.
- Mortgage insurance for the rehabilitation of existing commercial structures.

Urban Job Incentive Program (UIJP) tax credits.

The revenue bond program is administered by the newly created Massachusetts Industrial Finance Agency (MIFA) in conjunction with local industrial development finance authorities.

Mortgage insurance is also administered by the MIFA and the UIJP is handled by the State Department of Commerce and Development.

The Quincy CARD plan is one of six recently approved by the State Office of Communities and Development, including three in Cambridge and one each in New Bedford and Brockton.

Named Interim Director

Lydon Sees Self As Planning Dept. Administrator

James Lydon, 29, who has worked in the Planning Department for nearly three years under two administrations, has been named interim director of Planning and Community Development.

He succeeds former Mayor Walter J. Hannon, who resigned to accept employment in private business.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin said Lydon was chosen because he has worked closely with Hannon and Rev. Bedros Baharian, chairman of the Planning Board, and will give the office continuity.

Meanwhile, Baharian and members of the Planning Board sent out a call for applicants for the permanent job of Planning Director. One of the applicants is Lydon.

Lydon said he sees himself as administrator of the Planning Department since the department is well staffed with specialists.

A native of South Boston, he was graduated from Gate of Heaven Grammar School, Catholic Memorial High School and Boston State College, with a degree in political science and a minor in economics.

He also received credits for overseas study at the London School of Economics, Schiller College in Berlin, West Germany; and the University of Moscow, where he took part in the political science program.

He obtained a master's degree from Boston College.

After college, Lydon worked in the office of Cong. Paul Cronin (D-Andover) and later helped JAMES LYDON [right] is congratulated by Mayor Arthur H. Tobin after he was sworn in as interim city planning director, succeeding Walter J. Hannon who resigned.

Cronin start a company that dealt in energy, including the manufacture and sale of solar heating equipment.

He worked for the company's West Coast division from November 1975 to May 1976 when he quit to come back east and join the Quincy Planning Department.

He is a cousin of City Councillor John J. Lydon Jr.

Unmarried, he lives at 644 Hancock St., Wollaston.

'Woman To Woman Day' Planned For April 28

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The third annual "Woman to Woman Day", sponsored by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women and the Women's Center, Quincey Junior College, will be held April 28 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., at Lincoln Hancock Community School, Water St., South Quincey.

Deborah Orman is chairwoman of the event which will offer women options in dealing with their health and personal lives, educational and job possibilities as well as the chance to talk with other women.

The day will begin with registration and coffee followed by a welcoming address by Carol Mahoney, chairwoman of the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women.

Alicia Coletti of the Quincey Junior College Women's Center, will give the opening remarks.

The topic, "Life After Youth: Female" will be discussed by guest speaker Dr. Ruth Jacobs, author, and Associate Professor of Sociology at Boston University.

A series of workshops will be held from 10 a.m. to noon including:

"Looking Out For (A Healthy) Number One", a discussion of concerns about health and physical exams along with questions patients should ask their doctors, with Dr. Anne Stewart-Burton, of Wellesley College, and Mary Valher, R.N.

"Koping with Kids", covering child development, day care, divorced and single mothers, with Lois Lange, of the Child Study Assoc.; Lois Goldstein and Dyanne Townson, of the Family Daycare Program of South Shore Day Care Services, Inc.; Pat Hutchinson, divorced mother of two, and Marjorie McPhee, single mother of three Vietnamese orphans.

"What We Haven't Got A Lot Of - Money", ways of handling income and insuring financial security, with Jeremiah Foley III, of Quincy Cooperative Bank.

"Violence In The Home", representatives from DOVE, Quincy Police Dept., Norfolk County District Attorney's Office, and Parents Anonymous will discuss domestic violence and the services their agencies provide. Panelists will include Anne Keating, Barbara DiNatale, Joan Hassol, Sandra Wisted, Debra Murphy and Leslie Colelio.

A buffet lunch will be available by advance registration, or participants can bring their own lunch. Coffee and tea will be provided.

Afternoon workshops from 1-3 p.m. will be:

"Breaking Into The Job Market", featuring creative approaches to working into the job market and necessary skills, discussed by Sue Lynch, job counsellor with Wider Opportunities for Women, Boston. Vicki Thomas of Quincey's Blazing Salads, will also be on hand to relate her experiences.

"Just Folks: Life Career Styles", panelists Mary Seofield, Pat Barry, Kathleen McCormick, Judy Arnold, Helen Burgess and Margaret Aristide will discuss various living situations.

"So You Want To Go Back To School . . .", Laurie Handiers, of WE ARE, will explore self assessment, goals and decisions that should be made before attending school. Educational opportunities, funding and scholarship possibilities will be discussed by Alicia Coletti and Toby Felton, Quincey Junior College.

A social, sponsored by the Quincy Cooperative Bank, will be held 3:30-5:30 p.m. at the Neighborhood Club, 27 Glendale Rd.

Everyone is welcome to attend the workshops and free daycare services will be available 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. for children three to ten years old with pre-registration required. Milk will be available.

Woman to Woman committee members include Trudy Buckley, Elizabeth Bird, Carol Mahoney, Anne Keating, Bobbi Smith, Harriet Goldman, Sarah Phillips, Beverly Cyt, Barbara Maguire, Alicia Coletti, Mary Valher, Ann McLaughlin, Helen Sullivan, Arlour Webber, Mary Weuter, Nancy Noble, Lois Goldstein and Toby Felton.

For more information, call the Mayor's office, 773-1380, or the Women's Center, Quincey Junior College, 786-8791.

Two Quincy Women Awarded St. Anne Medal

Two Quincy residents were among nine women awarded the St. Anne Medal at an Adult Leaders' Day of Recollection, at Sacred Heart School, Hancock St., Quincy.

The Quincy recipients of the medal are Mrs. Paula Eagles and Mrs. Helen Kelley, both of St. Mary's parish, West Quincy.

They were cited for making "outstanding contributions to the spiritual development of Catholic youth." They were chosen from the hundreds of Catholic women actively engaged in bringing Camp Fire, Girl Scouting and Junior Catholic Daughters programs to more than 18,000 girls in the Archdiocese of Boston.

Rev. Msgr. Robert W. McNeill, archdiocesan chaplain of the Catholic Youth Organization, celebrated the Mass opening the program. The music was provided by the Sacred Heart Folk Group.

Legal Secretaries To Elect Officers April 17

Election of officers will be among the activities at a meeting of the Norfolk County Legal Secretaries Association April 17 at the Golden Steer Restaurant, Rte. 1, Walpole.

A social hour will be held at 6 p.m. followed by dinner and a short business meeting including the elections.

The program will begin at 8 p.m. with Mrs. Susan Small, P.L.S.

president-elect of the Massachusetts Association of Legal Secretaries, conducting a mock P.L.S. (Professional Legal Secretary) exam.

Guests are welcome to attend the meeting, dinner and program, or just the program, but should contact meetings and reservations chairman Glenys Connors, P.L.S., c/o Oscar J. Toye, Esq., 15 Court Square, Boston, tel. 227-1186.

Women South To Hold First Meeting April 17

Marge Schiller, visiting professor of education at University of Massachusetts, Amherst, will be the speaker at the first supper meeting of Women South on Tuesday, April 17 at the Neighborhood Club, 27 Glendale Rd., Quincy.

The newly organized club will give working women a time and place to meet and dine together, get to know one another and share ideas and experiences, according to Margaret Stone of Wellesley, a co-founder of the organization.

She said that in many ways Women South will answer the needs of working women in the same way that Rotary and Kiwanis meet the needs of working men.

The club has scheduled supper meetings at the Neighborhood Club on the third Tuesday of each month.

Further information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Stone or Libby Fennel at Fennel Stone Associates at 237-1136.

The $53,000 question: How much low-cost Savings Bank Life Insurance can you buy?

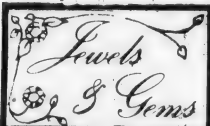

The maximum limit, per individual, is now $53,000. That means you can now get that higher coverage you need.

And it's so easy to obtain from Quincy Savings Bank.

Unlike other insurance, there's no commission made on selling SBLI. That saving is passed on to you.

With all of life's difficult questions, it's nice to find at least one easy answer.

Call one of our SBLI representatives at 471-3500 or come in to any of our five REDi-BANKSM offices in Quincy: 371 Hancock Street, 1200 Hancock Street, 1374 Hancock Street, 138 Franklin Street, 461 Washington Street or in Hanover, Rte. 53 and Broadway.

For about eighty thousand years the turquoise has survived the buffeting winds of fashion. Sometimes it has been used religiously and sometimes gaudy. In the Edwardian and Georgian periods it was set with diamonds in tiaras and necklaces. In the middle ages it was used as an inlay in thrones and cigarette boxes. In the twenties it was set in coral. And in recent years it has returned to an earlier setting of diamonds or gold.

For the latest in jewelry fashions stop by and see our lovely displays at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., East Milton, 696-1490, "South Shore's Family Jewelers". We have a nice selection of jewelry and watches for Mother's Day gifts and other occasions, and will be happy to take the time to help you make the right choice. Hours: 9 a.m. - 5 p.m., Mon. thru Sat.

Helping Hand Program Protects Youngsters From Molesters

The Helping Hand Program, a project of the Quincy Police Department and the public school system, is being revitalized this spring, announces Police Chief Francis X. Finn.

The program was implemented in most Quincy elementary schools last year with approximately 1,600 parents participating.

Primary purpose of the program is to protect children from child molesters.

In Quincy it has been extended to provide adult assistance to children in emergency situations such as accidents, bothersome dogs, fighting or getting lost.

The most important function of a Helping Hand parent is to provide a safe, convenient telephone - a link between a child and the parents. The only responsibility of a Helping Hand participant is to contact the child's parents or the police.

Helping Hand participants display a window card in a conspicuous window or door to indicate to children where they should go for assistance.

The program has been explained to the children by their teachers and the Quincy police safety officer.

Youngsters have been instructed to go to a Helping Hand only in an emergency - the home of a Helping Hand participant is not a convenient place to get a glass of water or to use toilet facilities.

Application forms will be sent home with the elementary school children in the next few weeks. Each applicant is screened to insure the safety of the children.

Additional information can be obtained by contacting the crime prevention division, Quincy Police Department, Mrs. Janice Molloy, 479-1212, ext. 365.

Good Reason To Smile

Mayor Arthur Tobin is sporting a smile wide enough for a Crest toothpaste TV commercial.

You can't blame him. If you won $3.79 million from Uncle Sam you'd be smiling, too.

When Sears Roebuck announced a few weeks ago that it was saying bye-bye to Quincy and heading for Braintree, there were some pessimists around who called it the wake before downtown Quincy's funeral.

Tobin was upset, but he didn't toss in the towel. He went after the $3.79 million urban development action grant (UDAG) with more determination.

He didn't do it all alone. He's the first one to tell you that. He had some help — some good help.

Freshman Congressman Brian Donnelly certainly came through for his district in his first big test. Lt. Gov. Tom O'Neill helped behind the scenes. So did Dad, House Speaker Thomas P. (Tip) O'Neill, who made a few phone calls to the right people at the right places at the right time in Washington. Senators Edward Kennedy and Paul Tsongas were there when needed, too.

And Tobin, of course, had help from Rev. Bedros Baharian, Quincy's $1 a year city wide development coordinator and Planning Director Walter Hannon.

It was a team effort and a team victory for Quincy. Tobin's contacts put the team together.

The grant is seen as the catalyst for future downtown development.

PEARCE

As Charles Pearce, president of Quincy Savings Bank and chairman of Progress for Downtown Quincy (PDQ) put it: "This is just the shot in the arm that the city needs to get started on the road to what I consider a very bright future."

And, as Ron Zooleck, executive vice president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce observed: "This is so pivotal. We now have some rare opportunities before us. This will allow us to get a little more daring in our thinking and let our imagination and ingenuity take over."

The $3.79 million UDAG will bring a vital parking garage over the MBTA tracks near Granite St. This in turn will pave the way for the proposed $10 million office building in the Della Chiesa parking lot.

The parking garage will help firm up the coming of Filene's "basement store and increases the chances of a downtown hotel and other new construction.

The $3.79 million grant also puts Quincy in a good position to land even more federal funds for another garage over the MBTA tracks and another office building. And, more.

Residents will feel a positive effect in the years to come. Quincy will have a viable downtown producing needed tax revenue, job opportunities and convenient retail shopping, and business and professional services.

You can have the handsomest house in Quincy with manicured back and front lawns, pool, tennis courts and everything else tossed in.

But a community is not judged by a house such as that. A community is judged by its central business district. People passing through a shabby downtown size the whole town up as being shabby. They don't want to live, work, shop or do business in a shabby looking town. Or buy real estate in one.

Anyone who owns a piece of property in Quincy should be rooting for new development in the downtown area. A viable, progressive downtown not only helps the business community, but it helps everyone living in Quincy.

UDAG was a victory for the entire community. We should all smile.

WALTER HANNON got a surprise "roasting" by friends at The Hollow, Friday, his last day on the job as city planning director. He's now at his new job as a development executive with Boston Harbor Marina of Squantum.

When all the funny stories and jokes had been told — and there were some beans — the serious theme of the "roast" was: Hannon never dodged a question or straddled an issue. He told you what he thought even if it cost him votes. "Maybe," he mused, "that's why I'm a former mayor."

FORMER MAYOR Thomas Burgin paid tribute to both Hannon and Mayor Arthur Tobin and reminisced about the good old days. He recalled in his eight years as mayor, the tax rate went down each year from $34.40 to $31. (Those really were the good old days).

State House Report

House Gives Initial Approval To Hiking Municipal Budgets 4%

By RON TACIBUCCI
Quincy Sun Correspondent

The Massachusetts House Monday gave preliminary approval 125-30 to a proposal to increase their fiscal 1980 and 1981 budgets no more than 4 percent above current funding levels.

In the same action the House decisively rejected an absolute freeze on local spending and taxes that had been proposed by Governor Edward J. King.

There were several significant amendments to the proposal: most noteworthy was an amendment to require the State to pay for any new programs it mandates for local communities. That amendment was approved 111-46. Other provisions offer a two-thirds override by the local community of the 4 percent cap and a two year 4 percent spending cap as opposed to the Governor's one year zero cap on spending.

The House action was seen as a shift in emphasis from rolling back property taxes to controlling local spending.

The Quincy legislative delegation voted consistently in favor of the 4 percent cap on spending.

According to Rep. Thomas Brownell, a member of the Taxation Committee, the House supported the Governor's tax cap "With qualifications, namely the 4 percent flexibility factor in order to provide a hedge against inflation." Rep. Brownell believes the tax cap on local spending addresses only half the issue.

"There must be a tax cap on State spending, however in order to do that we must change the Constitution. I have filed House Bill 1882 which will amend the State Constitution and provide for revenue control and tax reduction." The measure is popularly known as the "Reagan Plan." Its objective is not to increase taxes or spending at a greater rate than the growth of personal income. According to Brownell, voting for a zero cap on local spending would have set a bad example for local municipalities. We would be telling them to "do as we say — not as we do."

Rep. Robert Cerasoli voted against the zero cap and for a 4 percent cap because "considering the inflation factor, a very strict 4 percent cap on local spending is very reasonable." The responsibility of the Legislature was to provide a realistic budget for the local community to work within," Cerasoli believes. "It is important to note that the Legislature went further than the Governor by imposing a cap on spending for two years, not just one."

Rep. Michael Morrissey also believes that a 4 percent cap on spending is a reasonable measure. "My vote was not a vote against the Governor's mandate to provide a $500 million property tax reduction. . . . 4 percent is an arbitrary figure, but the House established a goal, it was not as much as the Governor was looking for, but it's a start, and it will provide a savings."

The tax cap issue now moves to the Senate for consideration. Speculation from State House sources is that the Governor will mount a very intensive lobbying campaign for a zero cap and that the Senate will reverse the House action.

City, Elks Co-sponsors

'Vial of Life' Program For Seniors

A "Vial of Life" program is planned for Quincy's Senior Citizens and handicapped persons announces Mayor Arthur H. Tobin and Martin F. Blake, exalted ruler of the Quincy Lodge of Elks.

Blake informed Mayor Tobin that $1500 has been voted by the members of the Quincy Lodge of Elks to co-sponsor the project.

Tobin has named Mrs. Marion Andrews, executive director of the Quincy Council on Aging, to coordinate the project.

The goal of the "Vial of Life" program is to identify and record those senior citizens and handicapped persons with medical problems and to make readily available in the case of an emergency, information regarding their medications, allergies and other related information.

Identifying those in the "target" group will be made through the cooperation of the public and private housing units, city and state agencies and others dealing in services to the elderly and handicapped as well as direct contact with the Quincy Council on Aging Office.

"Vial of Life" information sheets will be distributed to each participant. The sheet will record the nature of the person's medical problem, prescribed medication, allergies to certain medication, their doctor's and pharmacist's names. This information will be placed in a plastic vial and located in the refrigerator. A "Vial of Life" decal will be placed on the refrigerator door.

In the event of an emergency, the decal will indicate that vital information may be found inside the refrigerator. Where there is no refrigerator, the vial could be placed in a medicine cabinet or any other suitable location in the home and identified by the decal. Arrangements for the printing of the information sheets, decals and flvers are being made by Mr. Blake.

Mrs. Andrews said a drive for 18,000 plastic vials (pill containers) will be launched the first of next month (Senior Citizens Month) throughout the city. Receipts for the collection of the vials will be placed in elderly housing units, nutrition sites, Senior Citizens Drop-In-Center, City Hall, neighborhood community centers and the Council of Aging Office, 1 Cliveden Street.

When sufficient number of vials have been obtained the second phase of the project, the distribution of the vials, information sheets and decals, will begin.

Donations of vials from any resident will be appreciated.

Lydon Urges Residents To Check House Numerals

City Councillor John J. Lydon Jr., who chairs the Public Safety Committee, has urged all Quincy residents to make sure their houses are plainly marked with correct numbers to aid emergency vehicles.

"This is something that many people overlook," he said.

"Precious time can be lost by emergency apparatus responding to a call for help, simply because house numbers are absent, obscured by shrubbery or incorrect because digits have fallen off."

"Checking your house numbers should be the first step in spring cleaning and fire safety inspection, whether you own your own home or are a tenant.

"You owe it to yourself and to your family to make certain that fire fighters can locate your home as quickly as possible.

Badger's Quarry Filled. Ready For Landscaping

More than a million gallons of water have been exchanged for more than 40,000 cubic yards of rocks and dirt and the long-standing problem of Badger's Quarry in West Quincy has been solved.

City Councillor James A. Sheets said the quarry has been filled except for final grading and planting of trees, shrubs and grass. The total cost: $50,000 to $60,000.

For the past 20 years, particularly during the last seven or eight years, said Sheets, young people swimming in the quarry have vandalized homes and disturbed the pattern of neighborhood living.

Also, he said, there have been a number of accidental deaths in the quarry, as well as injuries to members of the rescue squad of the Fire Department dealing with accidents.

The quarry was privately owned and it took quite a few years to get eminent domain proceedings underway so the quarry could be acquired and filled.

The earliest recorded strike was one by an orchestra leader from Greece named Aristos in Rome about 309 B.C. The cause was meal breaks!

The Victory Plant Bridge

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

In your March 22 Issue, the Burgin, Platner advertisement had a wrong outline for the historic scene. I find these advertisements interesting and it was unfortunate that the wrong outline appeared.

It is worth noting that the scene is actually the point of land that can be seen from the Southeast Expressway where that horrible highway rolls over what was the private part of Tenean Beach. The white building which is identified in the wrong outline as the Victory Plant at Squantum was really the garbage dump for the City of Boston. Here barges floated in under the building. Horses and teams that picked up the garbage were backed to the pit and dropped the filthy mess into the scows which in turn were towed to open sea where the mess was dumped on the ocean. Shades of the ecology movement!

To the left of the building was the D. J. Cutter Coal Wharf where old sailing ships, cut down as barges, would bring in coal. To the right of the picture is the present site of the Old Colony Yacht Club which lost its old home when the club became land locked by the expressway construction. Behind all this you can see the outline of the gas storage tanks, now replaced by Sister Corita's rainbow tank - and a sister tank painted white.

The most significant thing is the black line running to the extreme right of the picture. This is the wooden Victory Road Bridge which took shipyard workers by street car from Dorchester to the Victory Plant at Squantum. As I recall it, when World War One ended and the shipyard was closed, the bridge was offered to the City of Quincy and we refused it. The bridge was torn down and this was a pity because if we had taken it over, we might have helped solve the expressway traffic problem by building a cloverleaf at the gas tanks, running a new bridge over the Neponset River and then having a highway which would hook up to Commander Shea Boulevard. But this is all behind us now and the chance of a new bridge in this area seems

Now, how do I recall this scene in the Burgin Platner advertisement? The foreground shows part of the private beach which was owned by the New Haven Railroad. We had a summer cottage there when I was a youngster. You could rent a plot of ground from the railroad and build a simple house. It was a great place, with a good beach and a fine spot for mooring a boat except when the tide went out. But it did give us a beach front summer home a mile and a half from my father's dental office in King's Square, Dorchester, and it would be hard today to find summer property so close to home. Maybe gasoline prices will revive the idea of having summer places closeby rather than having people head for Maine or New Hampshire - or even the Cape.

Teachers Pay Hike 'Secret' Causes Furor

Rev. Joseph D. Parkman of the School Committee charged that Supt. Dr. Paul Gossard "let the cat out of the bag" when he told teachers about the Committee's proposed 5 per cent salary adjustment plan.

Parkman said the increase plan was tentatively adopted at an executive work session of the board and was to have been a Committee secret until the next regular public meeting.

He was getting tremendous pressure from teachers who want more money. Parkman said, adding he may propose a motion that would bar the superintendent from future executive sessions of the board.

Gossard said he had assumed that teachers were to be kept informed on progress of wage discussions. Keeping teachers in the dark on the subject, he said, was poor policy.

EASTER BIRTHDAY

John H. Trott of 221 Atlantic St., North Quincy, who was born on Easter Sunday April 13 in 1884, celebrated his birthday on Easter Sunday for only the second time in his life. It was the second time since 1884 that Easter fell on April 13.

He was a member of the 1884 Club with 46 members in the United States and Canada, formed in 1941 after "Believe It or Not" Ripley discovered that G. S. P. Holland of Miami had just had his first Easter birthday.

EMASS EYES LIQUIDATION

John H. Moran, president of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co., said the current 37-day strike of 1,800 AFL bus drivers might drive the company out of business.

"Liquidation might be the ultimate end of the strike if it goes on much longer," said Moran, whose company was offering a 13 cent hourly wage hike while the union was asking 30 cents.

Memorial Scholarship Fund To Honor Airman Lost Over Vietnam

A memorial scholarship fund has been established in the name of Charles L. Bifolchi, a 1961 graduate of Quincy High School, whose Phantom jet was shot down over Vietnam in January, 1968.

He was listed as missing-in-action for 10 years and in May, 1978, he was officially declared dead.

Bifolchi, son of Mrs. Mary Bifolchi of California, and the late Alfred Bifolchi, was raised in Quincy and attended Quincy Schools.

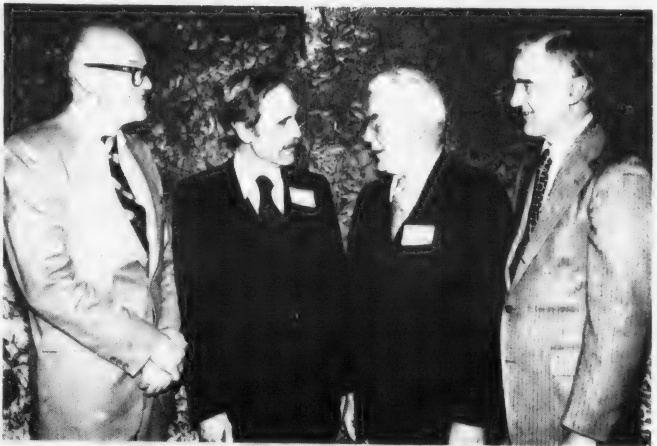

Following graduation from high school, he entered Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, N.Y., where he participated in ROTC. He joined the Air Force four years later.

The scholarship, to be established by the class of 1961, will be awarded to a Quincy High graduate who is entering a career or continuing education in the field of science.

Donations to the scholarship fund may be sent to the Braintree Savings Bank, c/o Charles L. Bifolchi Memorial Scholarship Fund, Quintree Mall branch, Braintree, 02184.

First Church Of Squantum In 3-Hour Palm Sunday Observance

The First Church of Squantum observed Palm Sunday with a three-hour celebration that began with a Passover Breakfast and concluded with a Service of Palms.

The Passover Breakfast was a re-enactment of the Jewish Seder with the pastor of the church, the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, presiding the meal, which was held in an "upper room" of the church, was held in the morning so that more people could attend.

As the pastor chanted the various Hebrew prayers from the Passover Hagaddah, the participants ate the ritual foods. Grape juice was used instead of wine so that all could join in the observance.

The Four Questions, a traditional part of the Seder ritual, were asked by Lori Ogilvie, Andrew Ogilvie, Susan Midram and Kenny Kemp. The Afikomen was discovered by Billy Cogswell, who was rewarded with a book of Old Testament stories.

Other traditional elements of the Passover meal used were the plate of three matzos, the Seder plate including the roasted shankbone and the roasted egg, and the Cup of Hlijah.

Dr. Langevin explained the connections between the Jewish Passover meal and the Last Supper of Christ. The meal was timely, not only because this is a holiday week for both Jews and Christians, but also because it marked the conclusion of the study of the book of Exodus in which the whole church has been engaged during Lent.

Helping to prepare the meal were Bonnie Adams, Tommy Adams, Sandy Ahearn, Holly Bumpus, Doris Calbeck, Billy Cogswell, Betty Ellis, Nancy Ellis, Margaret Fandetti, Barbara Frazer, Don Frazer, Joan Hansen, Grace Holmes, Kenny Kemp, May Lewis, Diane Lindblad, Hazel Mayne, Susan Midram, Eleanor Morris, Jim Morris, Linda Morris, Andrew Ogilvie, Lori Ogilvie, Mark Paul, Matthew Paul, St. Porter, Christine Salton, Mary Scott, Stewart Scott, Susan Scott, Lillian Shonis, Ruth Shonis, Karen Sorenson, Debbie Stohlberg, Sandy Stohlberg, Janet Sumner, Jo Ann Warren, Janet Williamson, Tom Williamson and Steven Williams. Chairpersons of the event were Barbara Colwell and Ellen Ogilvie.

The Service of Palms began with a prelude played on organ by Mary Ruth Scott, and on violin by James E. Sumner.

There was an instrumental Call to Worship, "Prepare Ye The Way of The Lord" by Stephen Schwartz, during which members of the Cinnamon Toast Crowd distributed palms to the congregation. Holly Bumpus was soloist with Sandy Ahearn playing Bass Clarinet, Jim Morris playing Clarinet and Mark Ray playing Drum.

During the opening hymn, "All Glory, Laud and Honor", there was a great Palm Sunday procession down the aisle including the Sunday School children, the Senior Choir, The Cinnamon Toast Crowd, the pastor, the Junior Choir and a special Palm Sunday banner depicting Jesus Christ as the King of Peace. The banner had been borrowed from "The Way", repaired by Hazel Mayne and carried by Steven Williams of Weymouth.

The Junior Choir sang "Hosanna, Hallelujah!" by Richard Avery and Donald Marsh. They were accompanied by Susan Midram on flute, Debbie Stohlberg on clarinet, Jo Ann Warren on alto xylophone and Ruth Adams on alto glockenspiel.

The Cinnamon Toast Crowd sang "He's Got The Whole World in His Hands", a traditional black spiritual with words adapted for Palm Sunday.

The senior choir sang, "Prepare The Way" in an arrangement by Morten Luvaas. The congregation read the Palm Sunday scriptures in unison.

The pastor preached a sermon entitled, "A Time for Shouting". The greeters were Barbara and Don Frazer. Ushers were Tore Wallin and Ken Ray.

Quincy To Get $3,000 Grant For Radar Units

Quincy will receive a grant of $3,000 from the Governor's Highway Safety Bureau for the purchase of three radar units to aid police in slowing down speeders.

Quincy is one of 42 communities in the state whose highway safety project proposals have been approved for funding by the GHSB and Gov. Edward King.

The grants total $134,904, but GHSB pointed out that there is no cost to the state treasury since the projects are 100 percent federally funded.

Good Friday Walk For Hunger

The eighth annual Good Friday 20-mile walk for Hunger will be held April 13 over a route from the VFW hall in Abington to Hingham and return.

Kay Doherty of Quincy, director of the walk, hopes that this year the walkers will top the $46,200 raised by the 1,000 who participated in last year's walk.

"Nearly 98 percent of the money raised is channeled directly to help people raise nourishing crops and develop local health care facilities," Miss Doherty says.

This year the proceeds will be divided among four such projects: North Bolivar County Farm Co-op in Mississippi, the Black Belt Community Health Center, Freedom Village (low-cost housing), and the Southwest Alabama Farmers Co-op, all in Alabama.

Regular workers are already at work contacting walkers and volunteer workers, distributing information and sponsor sheets, and soliciting donations for food and medical supplies.

There is a special need for nurses to staff the food stations.

Potential volunteers and walkers can contact Kay Doherty at 472-1174.

Bus Service To St. John's For Granite Place Residents

There is no charge, and residents will be transported back to the complex after the service.

Passover-Pesach Holidays Begin With Traditional Services

By LESTER GLASSER

Quincy Jews ushered in the Passover-Pesach holidays on Wednesday with traditional services.

Mincha [afternoon] was conducted at Beth Israel Synagogue, 33 Grafton St., Quincy Point, by Rabbi Jacob Mann at 6:10 p.m. and Maariv [evening] at 6:40 p.m. followed by the Seder Supper at home.

Other services at Beth Israel will be held today [Thursday] at 8:45 a.m. with the afternoon service at 6:10 p.m. and evening service at 6:40 p.m. followed by the second Seder Service at home.

There will also be services Friday, April 13 at 8:45 a.m., Sabbath services, April 14, at 8:45 a.m. and Sunday services, April 15 at 8:30 a.m.

Services for the last two days of Passover, Tuesday and Wednesday, April 17 and 18, will start at 6:15 p.m. Morning services Wednesday and Thursday, April 18 and 19 at 8:45 a.m. with Yizkor [memorial] prayers on April 19.

There will be an early morning minyan, Thursday, April 19 at 6:45 p.m.

The schedule for Passover services at Temple Beth El, 1001

Hancock St., is as follows: Wednesday and Thursday, April 11 and 12 at 6 p.m.; Thursday and Friday, April 12 and 13, at 9:15 a.m.

Rabbi David J. Jacobs and Cantor Morris Semigran will conduct all the services.

For the last two days of the Passover holidays, Services Tuesday and Wednesday, April 17 and 18 at 6:15 p.m., Wednesday and Thursday, April 18 and 19 at 9:15 a.m. with Yizkor prayers recited on Thursday, April 19.

Dr. Herbert Hodess is president of Temple Beth El.

Abraham Greenspan, chairman of the Religious Committee of Congregation Adas Shalom, 435 Adams St., announced that services for the first and second day of Passover, Thursday and Friday, April 12 and 13, will be held at 9 a.m.

Services on the seventh and eighth days of the holidays, April 18 and 19, Wednesday and Thursday, April 18 and 19 at 9 a.m. will be conducted by Rabbi Samuel S. Kenner. Yizkor service, Thursday morning.

Rabbi Kenner will discuss Passover and Torah reading during his sermon. There are Sabbath services every Saturday at 8:30 a.m.

Harry Hershenson is president of Congregation Adas Shalom.

Passover comes in the early spring, accompanied by great preparations in the home.

Every room from attic to basement receives a thorough cleaning. It is customary to buy new clothes for the Passover holidays. Dishes that are used daily are stored and special Passover dishes are brought out, washed, dried and used for eight days. Silverware is boiled and polished.

Orthodox and Conservative Jews observe the Passover for eight days while Reform Jews and many Jews in Israel celebrate only seven days.

The Seder, which means "order", is the joyous family dinner and worship service held in the home. However, many Congregations have a community Seder on the second night of Passover. The Haggadah which tells the story of Passover is read during the Seder services. The word Haggadah means "telling".

The service is based upon a single Biblical injunction in connection with the observance of Passover:

"And thou shalt tell thy son in that day saying it is because of that which the Lord did for me when I came forth out of Egypt" [Exodus 13:8].

Some of the Seder Symbols are the Three Matzos, in memory of the unleavened bread which the Jews ate when they were freed from Egypt; "bitter herbs" for the bitterness of slavery; "the shank of a lamb", as a reminder of the Paschal lamb; "a roasted egg", symbolic of the free will festival offering which accompanied the sacrifice of the Paschal lamb in the Temple; "haroseth", a food made of apples, nuts, cinnamon and wine mixed together to look like the mortar which the Hebrew slaves used in their servitude; "parsley or watercress", suggestive of the ancient customary hors d'oeuvres, now used as a token of gratitude to God for the products of the earth.

"A cup of wine" is put at the place setting of each member at the Seder. As in all Jewish ceremonies of rejoicing, wine is used as a token of festivity. Each participant in the service is expected to partake of four cups of wine. This number was selected as symbolic of the four divine promises of redemption found in Exodus 6:6-7.

"An empty wine cup in the center of the table." This cup is filled as part of the Seder ceremony. It is known as Elijah's cup. It symbolizes the hope of man for the quick coming of God's kingdom upon the earth.

Early in the Seder service one of the three matzos on the ceremonial platter is divided in half. The half which is put away to be eaten at the close of the meal is called "Aphikom", which is derived from the Greek, meaning "aftermeal" or "dessert".

The origin of this custom may be traced to the Paschal lamb which was eaten on Passover night. When sacrifices had ceased, a piece of the matzah was eaten instead. The Aphikom, hidden early in the Seder is left to the end of the meal in order that the children may be kept alert during the entire service.

In connection with this, a sort of game of paying forfeits originated. The head of the family takes no note of the spitting away of the Aphikom by the children, who do not surrender it until the master of the house is forced to redeem it by offering some gift so that the meal may be concluded.

The Seder starts with the leader chanting or reading the Kiddush [sanctification] and taking the cup of wine. All the celebrants drink the first cup of wine and then wash their hands. Everyone joins in eating of the greens and recites the following: "Blessed art thou, O Lord our God, King of the Universe, Creator of the fruit of the earth."

The leader then breaks the middle matzah, leaving one half on the Seder-dish; the other half, the Aphikom, is hidden. The platter is set down. Wine is poured again into the cups or glasses and the youngest among the celebrants addresses the "Four Questions" to the leader.

The questions are: Why is this night different from all other nights? On all other nights we eat either leavened or unleavened bread.

Why on this night, do we eat only unleavened bread? On all other nights, we eat all kinds of herbs.

Why on this night do we eat especially bitter herbs? On all other nights, do not dip herbs in any condiment.

Why, on this night do we dip them in salt water or haroseth? On all other nights, we may sit at the table either erect or leaning; on this night we recline.

The leader replies:

"We eat only Matzah tonight and for eight days because when Pharaoh let our forefathers go from Egypt, they were forced to flee in great haste. They had not time to bake their bread because they could not wait for the yeast to rise. So with the sun beating down on the dough as they carried it along baked it into a flat unleavened bread called matzah."

"We eat bitter herbs because our fathers were slaves in Egypt and their lives were bitter."

"We dip the herbs twice into salt water because it reminds us of the green that comes to life in the springtime. We dip the herbs into the sweet haroseth as a sign of hope: our fathers were able to withstand the bitterness of slavery because it was sweetened by the hope of freedom."

We recline at the table because it was a sign of freedom in olden times; and since our fathers were freed on this night we recline at the table."

One of the prayers read in unison is:

"How much more then are we to be grateful unto the Lord for the manifold favors which He has bestowed upon us! He brought us out of Egypt, divided the Red Sea for us, permitted us to cross on dry land, sustained us for 40 years in the desert, fed us manna, ordained the Sabbath, brought us to Mount Sinai, gave us the Torah, led us into the Land of Israel, built for us the Temple, sent unto us prophets of truth and made us a holy people to perfect the world under the kingdom of the Almighty in truth and in righteousness!"

When the story is completed, the Passover meal is served, beginning with hard boiled eggs served in salt water, followed by fish, turkey or chicken and other goodies. For dessert each participant is given a piece of Aphikom [Matzah] which was redeemed by the leader. Grace is pronounced by the leader.

Then after drinking the third cup of wine, the door is opened and the fourth and last cup of wine is filled with an additional cup for Elijah the Prophet which is set on the table.

All rise to greet Elijah who, in Jewish tradition, is the long expected messenger of the final redemption of mankind from all oppression. The leader recites the final benediction. The reading of the Haggadah is completed and Passover songs are chanted.

Seven weeks after the Passover comes the Festival of the First Fruits or the Feast of Weeks, Shavuot.

CENTRAL JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL, QUINCY, MASSACHUSETTS

After 80 Years

Ruth Gordon And Central Still Going Strong

By MARY KATE KENNEDY

This year marks the 85th birthday of Central Junior High School the oldest secondary school in Quincy. Over the years, many Central graduates have achieved fame. One of the most famous is Miss Ruth Gordon, author and world-renowned stage and film actress. Miss Gordon attended Central, then called Quincy High School, from 1910-1914. I had the privilege of speaking with Miss Gordon in New York by phone.

When asked what her fondest memory of Quincy was, she replied: "Room 24 is where it all started. I had the greatest Latin teacher, Miss Elizabeth O'Neil. She taught us not only Latin but she taught us to be ambitious, not to settle for less, not to just earn our living but to go out and do something and be somebody, and to contribute something. She taught us the greatest lesson that I ever learned in my whole life. She taught us 'how to learn how to learn'. I can learn a language. I can learn a dance. I can learn to be an actress because she gave me the groundwork and that love to Quincy." On education, Miss Gordon said, "There will never be a day in your life that education won't be useful to you."

When asked why, at the age of 83, she was still working, Miss Gordon replied that she would rather be dead than retire, and that she would always have to do something. She then told this story: "One day my husband and I were driving around Maine when we saw a broken down little cottage. On the cottage was a sign that read: For Sale-aprons, fudge, penwipers, pansies. I thought to myself, I can do that no matter what happens. I can make fudge. I'll learn how to make aprons, I think I can handle penwipers and

RUTH GORDON

I can certainly plant some pansies!" Miss Gordon's message to Quincy was, "You tell Quincy that if all else fails, a graduate of Quincy High, 1914 will go into the apron, fudge, penwiper and pansy department!"

Miss Gordon is currently appearing in the movie "Every Which Way but Loose" with Clint Eastwood. She is also writing a book entitled, "A Book About Everything," which will be published in 1980 by Doubleday and Company. She is also involved in two more books. One, called Leading Men, will be published by Grosset and Dunlap. The other, "Album," will be published by Viking Press. She will also be appearing in a new movie called Boardwalk which will be opening in May. She is presently working on another movie, entitled "Scavenger Hunt."

To say the least, Miss Ruth Gordon, even at 83, is a very busy lady. Her vitality and enthusiasm will serve as an example to Central students for years to come.

Many other Central graduates have also become famous. A partial list includes: Robert Rimmer-novelist; Bill Dana-comedian; Homer Jenks-cartoonist; George Burke-former District Attorney; William Delahunt - District Attorney; Clifford Marshall-Norfolk County Sheriff; George Montilio-owner of Montilios' Bakery in Quincy.

Central 'Steps' Into Society

By GAIL M. MACDONALD

Central Jr. High's head Guidance Counselor, Mary Catherine Iannoni, started "Step into Society Week" fifteen years ago and it has proven highly successful over the years. What is "Step into Society Week"? It is one week, April 30-May 4, when Central invites guests to speak and give demonstrations. This year Central's theme is the International Year of the Child. Our guest speakers will talk about the advantages and disadvantages of their careers. Students and teachers alike find this enjoyable and educational.

Some of Central's guests will be Mayor Arthur Tobin, Dr. Lawrence Creedon, Sheriff Clifford Marshall, Atty. James McIntyre, State Senator Paul Harrold, State Rep. Michael Morrissey, Walter Hannon, Christine Marchese, Carmen Mariano, Rev. John Banks, Michael Triteco, Ronald Dubois, Francis McCauley, Carl Slyvester, Thomas White, and Vincent Sullivan. On Thursday, May 3, Career Day will be observed and we will be having guests from Quincy Fire Dept., Quincy Recreation Dept., Quincy Beauty Academy, O'Connell Gardens, New England Baptist School of Nursing, Labourer Junior College, Central's Media Center, Alicia Colletti, Quincy Voc-Tech High School, United States Coast Guard, East Coast Aero Tech, South Shore Skin Divers, The Patriot Ledger, The Quincy Sun, and Pet Grooming.

Eileen Sadof, a ninth grade English teacher, has taken "Step into Society Week" one step further. Throughout this year, her students have been applying their English skills to real life situations. This means they have been writing and sending business letters to obtain career information, writing term research papers on a specific career, reading books on various careers, and writing letters of application to persuade a future employer to grant an interview for a job.

The ninth grade Guidance Counselor, Carter Caudle, has helped the students considerably in obtaining career information. What are the students' career interests? The list varies from women astronauts to baseball players. Some students feel that fourteen is too young for career planning. Most students, however, feel that this project is preparing them for important decisions they will have to make in the future.

Central's students are working hard to discover their career interests. Programs such as "Step into Society Week" and classes such as Mrs. Sadof's English class have made the task a lot easier.

ART CONTEST WINNERS: Martha Beardsley, Mr. Robert Burgess, Douglas Gritro, Ashot Sheridian, Miss Mary Lee O'Brien.

Gutro, Beardsley, and Gheridian Win Awards In Art Contest

By SHARON RYAN

Three students from Central won certificates in the 29th Annual Boston Globe Art Contest that took place early in February. They were Douglas Gutro (8th grade), Martha Beardsley (9th grade), and Ashot Gheridian (9th grade).

Douglas Gutro did an acrylic painting entitled "River Behind the Trees". Martha Beardsley also did an acrylic painting called "Peace in the Woods". Ashot Gheridian did two pencil drawings, "Apples" and "Mortar and Lemons".

Their pictures were exhibited at the Prudential Center in Boston from February 6 to February 25, 1979.

Other contestants in the contest from Central were Tracy Bersani, Theresa Buehler, Lynn Cahill, Christine Francis, Liberty Quinton and Christopher Sutcliffe.

Mary Lee O'Brien, an art teacher at Central, commented, "The school is proud of all of them."

Robert Burgess, the other art teacher at Central, added, "It is even more difficult to win in junior high because you can't spend as much time on art as you can in high school."

Students are now preparing for the annual Spring Art Exhibition.

7th Grade Students At Central To Be Taking Foreign Languages

By PAULINE PAPPAS
JOANNE PAPPAS

Central Junior High School has been chosen to establish a Foreign Language Fluency Program. This program will be starting in September, 1979, and all seventh graders wishing to participate may do so. Students will meet with their Foreign Language teachers three times each week. If satisfied, the first year students may continue in the eighth grade. Besides learning the language, the students will take part in art, music, dance and food studies. These studies will enable the students to understand the cultural aspects of a certain country and its people. Films, filmstrips, movies, records and field trips will also contribute to making the program interesting.

The program is being established in response to a nationwide interest in foreign language fluency. Many people feel that it is important that students be familiar with another country's language, heritage, culture, background and people. There is also a feeling that Foreign language fluency will open up many new career opportunities.

In an interview with sixth grade student Chris Pappas, we found out that students who will be attending Central Junior High School are reacting to the new program. When asked her reasons for becoming involved in the program, her reply was "Since someone came to inform us that we could select from the languages of Spanish, French, German, Italian or Latin. I wanted to be a part of it because it sounds like something that will be fun and interesting. I'm taking Spanish as my first choice and French as my second." When asked about projects and studies that this program would include he answered, "Well... we'll be going to field trips and we're going to do cooking and dancing to learn about the people. We're going to see films, too."

All people involved in this Foreign Language Fluency Program think that it will be a great addition to Central's curriculum and that it will be a successful and enjoyable course for all.

Language Arts Students Compete In Contests

By RAYMOND MARK

Students at Central Junior High are now participating in two Language Arts contests. The first contest, entitled "My Distinguished Ancestor", is a citywide essay contest sponsored by Ms. Janet Drullio, coordinator of Language Arts for Quincy. Contestants have submitted essays on one of their ancestors that they feel was distinguished. Students chose their "distinguished ancestor" based on an understanding that distinguished doesn't necessarily mean great, famous, or important. It can also mean "special to you". The ancestor written about could have been someone who taught you an important lesson, who helped you out during mid-terms, who taught you how to whistle, or who was just very special to you. Students are eagerly awaiting the results of this contest.

The second contest is the "Thomas May Alcott Dramatic Reading Festival". Participating students will select a writing from literature, write an introduction to the selection, and deliver the introduction and selection before a panel of judges. The contest is to be held on April 9, 10, and 11 in Central's Learning Center.

Activities such as these contests help students to develop their speaking and writing capabilities.

Camp Bournedale - A Unique Experience

By LOUISE FLEMING

In the fall of 1977, three teachers of the Advanced Placement Class at Central Junior High were in the process of planning an extensive five day field trip to Camp Bournedale in Buzzards Bay, Cape Cod. It took a lot of work and planning, but the proposal was finally approved by the school department. The cost of the trip was $55.00 per student. This cost includes room, board and three meals a day. A special fund was set up to help those students who could not afford the entire cost.

Each of the 130 seventh, eighth and ninth grade students permitted to attend filled out a five day schedule. This schedule was approved by the student's parent and by one of the three teachers involved. The schedule contained both academic and recreational activities. These activities included such things as a trip to the Cape Cod Canal, a visit to a cranberry bog, learning CPR, and taking swimming, canoeing and sailing lessons. A limited amount of free time was also available to the students.

On the sunny morning of June 5, 1978, the experimental trip took place. Students and luggage were transported from Central Junior High to Camp Bournedale. Each student was assigned to a cabin, and was not allowed to leave it after 9 o'clock at night. The students were also required to write a daily diary.

The week at Camp Bournedale was very enjoyable for every student. Not only did they learn things, but they had fun at the same time. They made new friends, and became better acquainted with their old ones. The trip to Camp Bournedale was a complete success.

This year the three original teachers, Ralph Koelsch, William McWeeny and Raymond Whitehouse, along with Mark McGuinness and Robert Schies, submitted a Camp Bournedale proposal to the school department once again. This year 140 seventh grade students, along with ten ninth grade students acting as cabin leaders, will be permitted to attend Camp Bournedale. All the seventh grade teachers at Central and Miss Catherine Iannoni, Head Guidance Counselor, will be directly involved in the project. Because of inflation, the cost of the trip this year will be $62.00. It is expected that it will be just as much of a success as last year's trip.

Central To Host 8th Science Fair

By MAUREEN GORHAM

This year Central will host its eighth annual Science Fair. This year's fair will be held on May 17th. It will be open to the public from 6 o'clock to 8 o'clock p.m.

Each year one hundred or more Central students enter the Science Fair. When asked what he looks for in an exhibit, science teacher William McWeeny replied, "Logical thinking, good questions, and following through to logical conclusions."

For the last three years this fair has been exclusively non-competitive. The students judge part of their projects by themselves and talk to a judge about the other parts. Mr. McWeeny said that the judges volunteer their time. Some of the judges are personal friends, but most teach science in Quincy.

When asked, "What does a student receive for entering the Science Fair?" Mr. McWeeny said, "A lot of satisfaction and a good idea about how his project would do in a national competition."

Mr. McWeeny began the fair, but all science teachers and other members of the faculty at Central offer a great deal of support.

Movies At Central

By TARA DILLON and JOAN LAITINEN

Central Junior High has devised a new system of raising money for its school-related activities: showing quality movies. Students from the 7th, 8th, and 9th grades can attend the films on an optional basis at a cost ranging from 25 to 50 cents. The money is put toward paying for dances, field trips, and other activities.

The first movie shown was "A Man for All Seasons", the story of Sir Thomas More in the 16th century.

The second movie was "Nicholas and Alexandra", the story of Russia's last czar and his family. It dealt with their lives, their political struggle, and finally their execution.

The last in the series of films shown was "1776". This was a musical dealing with the signing of the Declaration of Independence in Philadelphia. It also told about the lives of famous men such as: John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, and Thomas Jefferson. All of these movies were entertaining and most of the students appreciated them and hope they will continue.

Central Junior High: Linking Past To Present

By MARK DENFEN

Central Junior High School, located in the center of Quince, is a school with a fascinating past. Built in 1893, Central is the oldest secondary school in Quince, and when it became a junior high in 1924, Central was one of the first junior high schools in the country.

When Central was built in 1893, it was built to replace Quince's High School (built in 1852), which was terribly inadequate and overcrowded. The School Committee appropriated $62,000 for the project designed by I. G. Thayer, and $50,000 for the contractor, John M. Byron. By the summer of 1894, Central had been completed and ready for occupancy for the 1894-1895 school year.

The school, when constructed, was 112 feet long and 74 feet wide, made of brick with granite trimming. The inside in those days was considered extremely modern, with gas, electricity, line apparatus, six steam boilers, and a ventilating system. Although today these items sound standard or even old fashioned, in those days these items were luxuries. The building had three floors, consisting of 13 classrooms, a storage room, a library, a cafeteria, the master's office, a teachers' room, and a recreation room. The capacity was 411, while only 286 students and 10 faculty members were housed. Within ten years, the school population doubled. By 1905, with in excess of 300 students, the school was obsolete. This caused the city to re-open the old high school until some decision was made.

In 1906 the School Committee decided that an addition consisting of 12 rooms and a gymnasium was to be built. Work started at the end of the school year and construction was completed in November. The school would be sufficient for the next 15 years until 1920 when the school population surged again. At this time 1500 students were attending Central.

In 1924, the most significant change in Central's history occurred. The city was constructing what people called the "million dollar school" which was to replace Central. Due to the fact that Central was in such good condition, the school department reorganized the structure of its schools. Students had been attending eight years of grammar school and four years of high school, compared to the new system of six years of elementary, three years of junior high, and three years of high school. Central then became a junior high school.

Over the next 15 years, small renovations and repairs were done on the school. Time went on, and by the 1950's changes occurred at Central and throughout the entire school system. Central was completely renovated, including an addition of four rooms. The school, which had 800 students, was supposed to last 15 to 20 more years.

That brings us to the 1970's. The school has remained basically the same, with small renovations being made. If you were to walk through Central today, you would probably find it old-fashioned, in need of repairs, and terribly overcrowded. Once again the School Committee is considering closing Central. Due to declining enrollments, the school system may close a few schools throughout the city. Central is a definite consideration. Though the building itself isn't in the best condition, the programs offered and attitudes of the students are fantastic. The students of Central take a tremendous amount of pride in their school. Although the building is old and replaceable, the heart is young and irreplaceable.

Mrs. Higginbotham Retires

By GARTH PETRACCA

Mrs. Ruth Higginbotham, a reading specialist at Central Junior High, retired on March 30, 1979. Mrs. Higginbotham had been teaching for fourteen years, ten of which had been at Central Junior High. She taught at Hanover High for four years before coming to Central.

Mrs. Higginbotham received her B.A. from Wellesley College and a master's degree in reading from Boston University. She also went to Rhode Island College, where she studied reading.

I asked her if she had any plans for her retirement, and she responded, "Once I retire, I have decided to pursue and work with the hobbies that I love, such as: rug embroidery, quilting, and bird watching." Being an avid bird watcher will give her a chance to travel and to just have fun.

When asked to make a statement on her stay at Central, she answered, "I have enjoyed working with the teachers and students of Central Junior High very much. Reading has been a very special thing to me. I think that reading is the basis for everything, and it is also a very enjoyable and pleasant thing to do."

We all hope that Mrs. Higginbotham will enjoy her retirement and that she will visit Central often. We will never forget her.

By KIM CONNOLLY

As you probably know, a recent state mandate required that a series of tests concerning basic skills be administered by 1980 in reading, writing and computation, and a test in listening and speaking be given by the following year.

Basic skills have always been a major concern in Quince. Recently it was decided that the group whom this test would affect be involved in determining exactly what these basic skills are. All three Quince high schools and all five junior highs now have student representation defining "basic skills."

Central Junior High has nineteen ninth grade students involved in the program. The group leaders for Central are: Raymond Mallory, Paul Quigley, Daniel Johnson, and Kim Connolly. These students, after meeting with Principal, Vincent Moscardelli, and Language Arts teacher, Robert Kempton, then met with representatives of the other junior high schools. At this time, the student group tried to define Basic Skills, Life Skills, and Mini-be to such questions as: "How do you feel about winning the championship?" and "What do you think about your coach?" We got such reactions as, "I feel great about winning the championship," and "I think Mr. Casali is a great coach."

Something's Sizzling At Central These Days!

By DIANE JOSEPH

... Or should I say morning? It can be tiring to be an "early bird" in Central's Earlybird Cooking Club headed by Mrs. Lillian Balasalle, but mostly it's fun. Mrs. Balasalle began the club ten years ago when she first came to Central. This year there are seven members: Emile Donlan, Chris Irvine, Diane Joseph, Leah Klingenstein, Chris Mulvey, Kathy Mulvey, and Melinda Polom.

Mrs. Balasalle is a dedicated and concerned teacher. She comes to school at about 6:30 every morning, and sometimes she stays after school with us while we work on a project. She gives up her free time and puts a great deal of effort into the club. When we are doing a project, we usually come to school two or three days that week at 7 a.m.

Now and then we make a breakfast for all the teachers. Also we bake for and sometimes serve at teachers' meetings. Once we did a French luncheon for the French class. We are now planning a project for Career Day, and have just finished making sugar Easter eggs. Along with learning about cooking we've learned so much about people, which itself is very rewarding.

Central Students Involved In 'Back To Basics' Program

mum Standards for high schools.

Recently, student representatives from the entire city met in a leadership congress. Superintendent of Schools, Lawrence P. Creedon, introduced State Commissioner of Education, Gregory Arrigo, who noted that Quince was a key leader in the establishment of basic skills guidelines. After breaking into various groups, each group developed their own list of "basic skills." Central Junior High was in a group with Atlantic Junior High. They defined their six major section headings in their list of basic skills as mathematics, applied mathematics, Language Arts, science, social studies, and life skills.

As an outcome of this meeting a position paper was written expressing the views of Quince students on the issue of basic skills.

Central students have also done something that the others have not. The student representatives have taken a rating test on what they think are the important goals to prepare one for adult life.

Randomly selected parents of the Central Junior High students also took this "test." After comparing the results of the two tests, one sees that students and parents have surprisingly similar feelings. Out of the parents' top five goals, one finds the students sharing the same top four.

Parents think that the most important thing for junior high students is competency in reading, writing, speaking, and listening; while the students think that the most important achievement is to gain a general education. Parents rated "learning how to examine and use information" much higher than did the students. The goal which the students rated more important than the parents did was "accepting others who think, act, and dress differently."

The student involvement in basic skills shows the concern that they, the students themselves, have in their own welfare, and in that of their fellow students. The work on basic skills by Central Junior High Students is by no means over, and we hope it will continue with as much enthusiasm and input as we have had to date.

NEWSBRIEFS

Central's Association for Scientific Investigation

By BARRY SMITH

In December of last year, Central science teacher William McWeeny organized Central's Association for Scientific Investigation and Research (CASIR). Now, after just three months, Central has an active science club doing a variety of things. For instance, CASIR has taken a field trip into Boston to visit the Massachusetts General Hospital. The group also has a number of committees which are interested in researching different subjects such as astronomy, recycling, and chemistry. CASIR has elected eight officers who are: Barry Smith, President; David Kroll, Vice-President; William Thorne, secretary; Donald Gamble, Treasurer; and David Kane, Julian Maceri and Angela Hogan and Tom Veader both of the Historian-Public Relations Department.

Central "Celtics" To Play At the Gardens

By CINDY SWEATT AND LORI KELLY

On April 8, the Central "Celtics" will play the Montclair "Warriors" at the Boston Garden. The two teams are the finalists in the Quincy Recreational city-wide basketball tournament. If the Central "Celtics" win this game, they will become the tournament champions, and each player will receive a trophy.

The Central "Celtics" are eighth and ninth graders. The eighth graders are: John Phelan, Ricky Radzik, Jimmy Ryan, Steve Racette, Frank Reynolds, and Bob Mudge. The ninth graders are: Paul Quigley, Brett Wilcox, Jimmy Mullen, and Marty McLaughlin. On the injured list is eighth grader Jimmy Kelly, with a broken wrist. Jimmy will be able to play in the game. The coach of the team is Brian Buckley. The assistant coaches are Don Coughlin and Ray Mallory.

The "Celtics" have been practicing for "the big game" since November. Assistant Coach, Ray Mallory, says "The team has an excellent chance of winning, but they will have to keep the ball moving." We all wish them luck.

The Gym Show

By CHERYL DePAULO
SUE MURRAY

Ms. Barbara Donlin, girls' gymnastics coach at Central Junior High with the assistance of Mr. Mario Casali, boys' physical education teacher, will present the Annual Gymnastics Exhibition. It will be held on Monday, April 30, and Tuesday, May 1 at 7:30 p.m. in the Quincy National Guard Armory on Hancock Street in Quincy.

All participants will participate in tumbling passes, mini-tramp and vaulting exercises. Also, there will be the individual routines which will be performed by members of the team who competed in the school gymnastics meets. The girls will present their routines on the balance beam, uneven bars, and floor exercises, while the boys present their routines on the rings, parallel bars and floor exercises.

The show will also include group routines which will be created by the students. The girls have put a great amount of time and effort into this show. We wish them luck and are sure it will be a great success.

Laurence Osborne Receives Doctorate

By VIC DIGRAVIO

Laurence Osborne, who is a social studies teacher at Central, recently received his doctoral degree from Boston University. Dr. Osborne wrote his dissertation on the subject of the editorial cartoon. He was interested in studying ways in which the daily editorial cartoon helps in creating social perception and attempted to suggest educational implications.

He went back to college because he wanted to advance his studies in his field of social studies. He chose editorial cartoons because he always had a fascination with them and especially likes the work of Paul Szep of the Boston Globe.

The students and faculty of Central would like to congratulate Dr. Osborne on his life achievement.

Nutrition Council Formed

By SIOBHAN CORRIGAN

The Student Nutrition Council consists of two to four representatives from each of the five junior high schools. The members from Central are: Betty McGoughlin, Laurie Kelly, Lisa Welby and Siobhan Corrigan. We meet once a month at one of the participating schools.

What do we do? I've been faced with that question a number of times. In the two hours we're allowed, the Nutrition Council does many things. We create new menus, taking into consideration the "Type A" lunch requirements, the budget, and the preference of the students. (While doing this, we realize you can't always please everyone.)

The Nutrition Council also visits other lunch programs in cities outside of Quincy. There we compare the preparation of the food and the food itself to our city's program. We have also taken field trips to food corporations. This has proven to be a fun and interesting way to carry on a meeting. Some of the corporations we have visited are the Hostess Factory and Stop & Shop.

Being on the council has been enjoyable and enlightening. I'd like to see more students get involved. It's a great way to make new friends from other schools and, at the same time, help your own school.

Thoughts Of Now And Then

By JOYCE LARSON

As I walk down these corridors of green and gray
And I see teachers and friends passing my way
I wonder how these corridors
of green and gray
Will change my life for me one day
I'm sure as I experience the ups and downs of life
And the sorrows I bear and the joys I will share
I'll dream of again walking down these corridors of green and gray.

The Sea

TERRY BUCCELLA

Look
To the horizon.
See
A little of the sun coming
Up in the dark.
The water is calm.
Caught
In a current, I move.
I listen
To the waves splash.
They wet the air with Their spray.

THE SEA

By MARTHA BEARDSLEY

Out of its concealing blanket
Of night,
The sun is rising,
Reflecting on the water
Like a rampart on a leat
The sea is awakening.
Fish of all kinds
Share a peaceful coexistence
As if there is no other.
The waves get stronger
Pounding against the rocks
With all their might Salty spray
Falls like shattered crystal
As the day comes to an end
The sea calms.
Darkness covers all.
The sea rests
In anticipation of Adventures ahead.

Central Students Who Have Visited Foreign Nations

Central Junior High School has been fortunate to have many students who have either visited or have come from many nations throughout the world. The list of nations visited include: Argentina; Guyana; Venezuela; Great Britain; Ireland; Italy; West Germany; Armenia, (U.S.S.R.); India, and Lebanon. The students who have visited these countries have a story to tell. Here are some of them.

Ashot Gheridian was born in Armenia which is in south-west Soviet Union. The people of Armenia are very proud of their culture and they have preserved it even under heavy communist pressures. Armenia has produced many famous artists and writers. Ashot talks about Armenia with great pride. He is proud of Armenia and we are proud to have him.

Also we have a student from Guyana, South America, here at Central, Fazia Bakshe is of East Indian descent. She came to the United States to join relatives who live in the Boston area. She says that though Guyana is poor, it has a very great potential in developing its resources. She is also proud of her nation and rightfully so.

Then there is me, I, Arif Shahabuddin, come from India. I have gone back to the country of my birth many times and each time I went I noticed many improvements. Though my country is poor, it is making great strides towards modernization. The next time I visit India, I know I will see more improvements.

POETS CORNER

What Will A Good Friend Do For You?

By KATHY HEGARTY

A good friend will stick with you through good and bad,
They will be nice,
Even when they're mad
A good friend is someone who shares and cares
When you have a problem
A good friend will help and understand.
A good friend is someone who will not hide,
They will always stay by your side.
As one person said in heed,
"A friend in need is a friend indeed!"
There are good friends all around,
If you don't have one,
They're bound to be found!

Spring By PATTI NOVAK

Spring is coming, I can hardly wait,
I've been waiting a long time, I hope it's not late
The flowers will be blossoming, and the sun will shine,
This is a dream, that is not only mine.
Just think of the sun, how bright it will be,
Many people will be happy, not only me.
The flowers will blossom and the grass will grow,
How beautiful a sight as you already know.
Spring is almost here, I hope I can last,
To see the bright sun, then I'll think of the past

QHS Band To Compete At Blossom Festival

Quince High School's Championship "Marching Presidents" Band will participate in the International Blossom Festival, May 3-6 at Niagara Falls, Ontario.

The 90 Quince musicians will be competing for honors with over 50 high school bands from the United States and Canada.

"This will be our second visit to the Blossom Festival," said band director Michael J. Cahill. "In 1976 we took second place in the competition."

In addition to rehearsing band members are also completing a fund raising effort in conjunction with the Parent Booster Association to underwrite the cost of the trip.

School Vacation

Programs At Lincoln Hancock

The Lincoln Hancock Community School Council announces its special school vacation programs.

The vacation swim schedule for Tuesday, April 17 through Thursday, April 19: elementary, 11 to 11:50 a.m.; junior high, 12 to 12:50 p.m.; and senior high and adult, 1 to 1:50 p.m.

Swims are open to all residents who currently have a recreation department pool participation card, and to those who pick up a parent permission form at the community school office.

Other vacation programs include a trip to a beauty school in Boston Saturday, April 14; the Boston Red Sox game, Tuesday, April 17; and a summer softball league for girls ages 10 to 14 sponsored by the South-West Community Center and Lincoln Hancock Community School Council.

For more information call Carol Sutterley at 471-0796.

IN REHEARSALS -- Members of the Quince Community Theatre are rehearsing for their up-coming production of Arthur Miller's "A View From the Bridge" to be presented at 8 p.m., May 4, 5, 11 and 12, at Broad Meadows Junior High School auditorium. From left are Rick McDermott, director, and cast members Robin Parsons, Evelyn Griffin, Mark Matthews, Brian London and Frank Moffett. Tickets will be available at the door and at several Quince locations.

Community Theatre In Rehearsal For 'View From Bridge'

The Quince Community Theatre will present its third production of the season, Arthur Miller's "A View From the Bridge," May 4, 5, 11 and 12, at 8 p.m., at Broad Meadows auditorium, 50 Calvin Rd., Quince.

Directing the play is Rick McDermott, who is also acting in the Mission Hill Theatre Group as a director and an actor.

Alyce Feathers, who has previously worked with the Fantasyland Players, Cambridge, is assistant director.

The cast includes Frank Moffett, Evelyn Griffin, Robin Parsons, Eric Bogle, Brian London, Mark Matthews, Mike Coleman, Leslie Payne, Greg Ward, David Madden, Sean O'Sullivan, Martin Woolf, Violet MacDonald, Jim Martorano and Brian Kelly.

Tickets are available at Colonial Bakery and Pizza Chef, Wollaston; Sawyer's Campus Shop and Baskin-Robbins, downtown Quince; and Balducci's

Pizza, North Quince.

They can also be obtained at the door, or by calling 282-1862, or 773-8797. Special rates are available for groups, senior citizens and students.

The Community Theatre's next production will be, "Black Comedy," a one-act play by Peter Shaffer. Those interested in joining the theatre group should contact Frank Moffett, 53 Dale Ave., Quince.

Previous productions this season have included "Forty Carats" and "Sweet Charity."

Kathy Mann Wins $300 Scholarship — Miss South Shore Wants To Be Child Psychologist

Kathy Mann, 17, of Babcock St., Houghs Neck, is going on to the Miss Massachusetts competition in New Bedford in June, having won the title of Miss South Shore, but her ambition is still college and the field of child psychology.

Kathy won her first beauty pageant last July when she was crowned Miss Quincy Bay.

Winning the Miss Massachusetts competition June 9, would mean she would represent the state at the Miss America contest at Atlantic City in September.

The Quincy High School senior said she entered the South Shore Scholarship Pageant at the urging of her mother, Mrs. Marilyn Mann.

"My mother said it would be good experience. She also pointed out that if I won the scholarship, it would help with college expenses," Kathy said.

She won and was awarded a $300 scholarship. She was also presented with a gift certificate for a complete outfit at College Town.

In addition, she was awarded a $300 scholarship to the Carol McCole School of Modeling in Weymouth.

"I hope to start there as soon as possible," Kathy said. "They can give me instruction on poise and some of the things to do at the upcoming pageant. I don't have much time to get organized."

Is she nervous?
"Not yet, but I probably will be," she admitted.

On May 4 and 5 she will undergo an orientation in New Bedford in preparation for the statewide competition to be held at New Bedford High School June 3 to 9.

"Most of the week there will be spent in rehearsing production numbers that all 19 competitors will perform," she explained.

The pageant will be held on Saturday (June 9). Each competitor will take part in a talent contest and in swim suit and gown competitions.

Kathy will do an interpretive dance, similar to the one she performed during the South Shore contest.

"I've never taken a dancing lesson," she said. "In junior high school I took gymnastics and learned a lot of the moves."

She is also interested in theater and performed in the Quincy Community Theater's production of "Sweet Charity" and in the Page and Stage presentation of "Thieves Carnival" earlier this year. Page and Stage is the high school drama club.

The thought of winning the Miss America contest and traveling throughout the country is thrilling. "I love to travel," she said.

However, she doesn't think it will deter her from going to college and pursuing a course which will prepare her to be a child psychologist.

"I love children," she said. "I have done some volunteer work with the special needs children. What I really want to do is work with emotionally disturbed youngsters."

Harold Urges More State Aid For Libraries

Sen. Paul D. Harold (D-Quincy) has urged the State Administration Committee to act favorably on a bill to improve state aid for local libraries.

Harold noted that while funding for virtually every other state-aid program has increased over the past several years, state aid to libraries has not increased since 1972.

"This aid is a relatively minuscule amount, but can be the lifeblood of library programs, particularly for libraries which conduct regional service programs," he said.

Harold cited the Quincy system, which provides interlibrary loan and reference services to 27 other local library systems on the South Shore.

"These valuable regional systems cannot survive unless the communities which operate them are fairly reimbursed, and local libraries cannot adequately serve the needs of their citizens, younger or older, unless they receive the same kind of attention from the state that so many other worthy programs have received," he said.

The Committee gave the library aid bill a favorable report.

Adams School Fifth Graders Visit Quincy Sun

Nine fifth grade students from the Adams School visited the Quincy Sun recently to see first hand how a newspaper is produced.

Making the tour were Kristin Caruso, Daniel Casey, Jana Johnson, Kevin Jolley, Laura MacNeil, Donald Parry, Michael Sheils, Tony Souza, and Eddie Gore. The students were accompanied by their teacher, Patricia Sharkey, and Mrs. Robert Parry.

The students were shown how news stories are written, set in type and placed on a page, including the story of their visit.

They saw an IBM computer typesetter, two Compugraphic photo typesetters, and a new Varityper phototypesetter that sets news stories, headlines, advertisements, and has a video screen for editing. It is one of the latest typesetters in newspaper production today.

They also saw how a stat camera reduces, enlarges and screens original photographs so they can be used in the Sun.

They were also shown how pages of The Sun are put together for printing.

The students were presented with copies of the current issue of The Sun at the end of their tour.

'Nite Out' Planned For Nursing Home Patients

The 15th in a series of "Nite Out" for nursing home patients will be held Thursday, April 19, at the Bryan VW Post, 24 Broad St., Quincy.

Meeting At Wollaston Methodist Wollaston Business Area Phase 2 Study Results To Be Presented April 18

Interested Wollaston residents have been invited to a meeting held in conjunction with the Wollaston Business Association Wednesday, April 18, at 7:30 p.m. in the Wollaston Methodist Church.

City Councillor Stephen J. McGrath said the purpose of the meeting will be to hear a presentation by Sasaki Associates of preliminary results of Phase II of its study of the Wollaston business area.

Phase II of the study, which was paid for in part by the Norfolk County Development and Tourist Council, will deal with physical planning alternatives, he said.

"This is an issue of vital concern to the Wollaston area and for the project to be a success it is important for as many residents as possible to attend the meeting," said McGrath.

"We need comments and suggestions from those living in the area and we need their involvement."

McGrath said those attending the meeting should use the rear entrance to the church on Chapman St.

Street Work To Start Soon In N.Q. Business District

The long-awaited revitalization of the North Quincy Business District, in the works for a year and a half, will begin with street work shortly, announces City Councillor Joanne Condon.

"A new water main will be installed on Billings Rd. between Hancock St. and Felton St.," she told a recent meeting of the North Quincy Development Corp. at Sacred Heart School.

"This is the first step necessary for the streetscape improvements planned for the business district. Immediately following this, work will begin on new sidewalks, trees and rubbish receptacles."

Funding for the program has been allocated through the Community Development Block Grant Program.

Japanese Professor Translates Book

Parker's Method of Teaching Greatly Influences Japan

By PETER BARNICLE

Harvard University is a "must" for foreign educators when they are in the Greater Boston area, but Prof. Makoto Nishimura of Toyo University in Tokyo, passed up a trip to Cambridge in favor of a visit to Quincy and a look at the Francis W. Parker School on Billings Rd., Wollaston.

Prof. Nishimura's interest in Quincy is more than casual. He has spent more than 10 years studying the educational systems advocated by the one-time superintendent of Quincy schools, and has translated Parker's "Talks on Pedagogics" into Japanese.

Nishimura and his wife, Ayoka, an assistant professor at a physical education college for women in Tokyo, left their 26 colleagues in Boston and took the MBTA to Quincy.

"It was not difficult," the professor said. "People were most courteous and I had a map showing the Red Line."

In Quincy they located the school administration offices. Edward Hannon, director of career education, discovered them outside the building, consulting a slip of paper and obviously in need of assistance.

Nishimura explained that he would like to present a copy of his book to the superintendent of schools and would also like to see the Parker School.

Arrangements were quickly made for a visit to the school where he was welcomed by the principal Eugene Creedon, who presented him with a citation embossed with Col. Parker's image.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon hosted a luncheon at the Three Season Restaurant

JAPANESE TRANSLATION of Col. Francis W. Parker's book: "Talks on Pedagogics" was presented to School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, by Prof. Makoto Nishimura at luncheon in Three Seasons Restaurant, during brief visit to Quincy. At luncheon were (from left), Eugene Creedon, principal of Parker School; Mrs. Ayoka Nishimura; Prof. Nishimura; Mrs. Joan Hibbard, Hunting School teacher's aide, and School Supt. Creedon.

in Vocational-Technical School. Carl Deyoso, director of academic education, William Phinney, assistant superintendent of schools, Eugene Creedon and Hannon were guests.

Since the Nishimura's speak English hesitatingly, Dr. Creedon invited Mrs. Joan Hibbard, a Japanese-born teacher's aide at Hunting School, to handle any language difficulties.

At the luncheon Prof. Nishimura presented a copy of his book to Dr. Creedon. He said that Parker, who was Quincy's first superintendent of schools, 1875-1880, has had a great influence on education in Japan.

"His method of teaching - the 'activity method' - was widely accepted by Japanese educationists some 60 to 80 years ago," Nishimura said.

He noted that after World War II John Dewey became the influence most prominent among educators in Japan, he said. Creedon informed him that Parker and Dewey worked together in Chicago in the late nineteenth century and Dewey called his Quincy colleague "the founder of progressive education."

The Nishimura's were in Quincy only three hours, but promised on Dr. Creedon's invitation, to come back for a longer visit.

Jack Silverstein, Book At Jogging Exposition

Jack Silverstein started jogging over 30 years ago - long before the word was invented.

He's had some funny things happen to him as he jogged along. So have others. But no one had written a humorous book about jogging, so he did.

It took him seven years to write "Better Sex and Diet Through Jogging," spliced and spiced with 20 eye-catching illustrations by Ron Iaffin.

The book, says Silverstein, who is a pharmacist in North Quincy, when he isn't jogging, has a simple theme: jogging is a fitting example of how one can improve his health and, at the same time, open up an entire world of new and exciting experiences.

Are the experiences in the book true?

"I'll say no," he muses. "I lose my credibility."

"I'll say yes, I lose my wife."

Silverstein and his book will be on exhibit at the first jogging exposition of its type April 13-14-15-16 at the Commonwealth Pier, Boston, being held in conjunction with this year's Boston A.A. Marathon.

Soviet Educator Finds Quincy Approach More Desirable

By PETER BARNICLE

Elective courses are practically unknown in secondary schools in Soviet Russia. Dr. Lilia Filippova, a senior research fellow at the Institute of U.S.A. and Canada Studies, Soviet Academy of Sciences, told a group of Quincy high school students during a recent visit to the city.

Dr. Filippova told the students that in the Soviet Union 55 million secondary school students must pass examinations based on a nationwide curriculum. She said the flexibility of Quincy's Student Centered Learning System would appear to be a much more desirable approach to secondary education.

The Soviet scholar spoke to 30 students of modern European history from Quincy and North Quincy High Schools at a seminar in the Adams Academy.

Quincy is the only city she visited in the United States to look at a public school system. Her visit here was part of an ongoing series of talks by foreign visitors arranged by Project LINC through the Center for International Visitors in Boston. Michael W. Hurley is director of Project LINC in the Quincy school system.

Dr. Filippova was welcomed at the Historical Society by William O'Connell, president of the society. William J. Sullivan, community organizer for Project LINC, was moderator at the seminar.

The visitor explained that her major field is a study of scientific technological education in the U.S. and Canada and a comparison of methods used here and in Russia.

She said that the American system of research in universities is as yet unknown in the Soviet Union. She added that it is a system her country SOVIET EDUCATION is more highly structured than that of the United States. Dr. Lilia Filippova, a senior research fellow in the U.S.A. Canada Institute of the Soviet Academy of Science, told a seminar of Quincy and North Quincy High School students at Adams Academy. must adopt.

Dr. Filippova pointed out that with the swift advancements being made in the scientific world a degree is only part of a successful scientist's education. Things change so rapidly, she said, that continuing education and re-training is needed.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon asked the visitor about juvenile delinquency in Russia. Dr. Filippova said that the problems are somewhat similar and that authorities are establishing youth centers and other activities. She also said that patrols, similar to "Neighborhood Watch" have been set up.

During her visit Dr. Filippova also met with Guy Abruzzese, director of adult and community education, and Mary Jo Riley, director of the Quincy community schools.

Garage Underway In September through to Braintree when the MBTA extension opens.

Donahue's firm was the architect for the Ross Parking Garage, which was built in eight months.

It is not certain that Donahue will be the architect on the garage, despite the fact that he did the preliminary work, since one of the usual UDAG conditions is that the city get quotes from three firms.

Emphasized at the Tuesday morning meeting was the need for cooperation between builders of the garage and builders of the office building, a private enterprise.

Campanelli Enterprises of Braintree is the developer.

Rev. Baharian said the bank buildings fronting on the corner of Hancock and Granite Sts. will remain standing during construction of the office building.

They will be taken either by purchase or eminent domain and demolished about two and a half years from now, said Rev. Baharian. The land at the corner will remain open space.

The primary purpose of the second economic conference in June, said Tobin, will be to lay the foundation for a second UDAG to build another garage over the MBTA tracks on the other side of Granite St.

"We have interviewed an architect on design of the garage," he said, "and we are to meet in two weeks with trustees of the New England Merchants Bank in regard to landlaking."

There is some interest in committing private funds to build a hotel or 100,000 square foot office building in conjunction with the garage, Tobin said.

Dr. Solomon Thanks Lions Club For Glaucoma Clinic Donation

City Health Commissioner Dr. Samuel Solomon has thanked the Quincy Lions Club for its contribution of $250 to the Quincy Health Department for use in conducting the ongoing Glaucoma Clinic held annually at the John F. Kennedy Health Center, Quincy.

He noted that without this contribution, a program such as this might have been curtailed due to extensive budget cuts.

During three recent clinics, a total of 155 patients were seen, with four people referred for further testing due to detection of developing glaucoma.

Pack 33 Cub Scouts In St. Patrick's Day Parade

Five cub scouts from Pack 33, Den 1, of Covenant Congregational Church, Quincy, and their two mascots took part in the St. Patrick's Day parade held recently in South Boston. The scouts, who participated with Pack 268 of the Tynan Mascots Christine Morgan and Jill McGee also participated. Den mother is Margaret Morgan.

Coffee Hour At QJC

Quincy Junior College invites shoppers and interested citizens to "Rest your Feet, Review Your Future" at a series of coffee hours which begin today, [Thursday], 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., at the college, 34 Coddington St.

Held in the lower floor of the old Courthouse Building, adjacent to the Bargain Center, the coffee hour will include coffee and doughnuts as well as the chance to examine course offerings and schedules.

Some of the college professors will also be on hand.

The coffee hours are in response to a recent survey of Quincy Junior students which indicated that one third now attending did not enter college right from high school.

Many have worked a few years, been married and started families before resuming their education on a full or part-time basis.

The college welcomes such students and is able to arrange class schedules to accommodate the students home and family responsibilities.

NON-TRADITIONAL JOBS FOR WOMEN

The Quincy CETA Subgrantee will be sponsoring a presentation by Mr. John T. Mr. LaPensee will acquaint attendees with current programs available to women with an interest in traditionally male occupied trades, present a film and slides depicting these programs, discuss who to contact and how to get involved and answer any relevant questions.

The presentation will be:

Thursday, April 19, 1979 at 3:30 p.m.
Quincy CETA Skills Center (2nd floor)
11 Hayward Street
Quincy, Massachusetts

Mayor Tobin and the Quincy CETA office extend an invitation to all interested persons wishing to attend. Any further inquiries should be addressed to Marijatta Doherty, Quincy CETA office, 773-3983.

SLEEP HA HA'S

They say that insomnia is no joke, but you'd never know it from comedians. If you can't sleep, here are some one-liners that will help you laugh about it:

The best way to cure insomnia is to get lots of sleep.

You can't fall out of bed if you sleep on the floor.

The best way to drive your wife crazy is to smile in your sleep.

Sleeping at the wheel is a good way to keep from growing old.

"I feel like an Indian. Every night I sleep with a battle-ax."

Snoring is so simple you can do it in your sleep.

"My insomnia is so bad, I can't even sleep on the job."

"I haven't slept for days. Good thing I can sleep at night."

"I have to sleep in my bathing suit. My hot water bottle leaks."

"How did you sleep last night?"

As usual - with my eyes closed."

"Why do you take a cane to bed with you?"

"I walk in my sleep."

"Don't take your trouble to bed with you."

"But, doctor, my wife won't sleep alone."

Parents Oppose Closing Of Great Hill, Myles Standish Schools

Hunting.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon has recommended that the Great Hill be closed this year and the students be transferred to the Atherton Hough, about a half mile away. Tentative plans call for a shut down of the Myles Standish the following year with pupils moving to the Squantum School.

The 125 parents attending the hearing at Great Hill sought assurances from Dr. Creedon that their children would not be bused further than Atherton Hough.

The superintendent said he could "guarantee" that the children would be transferred to the nearby school.

Some parents expressed concern over future use of the building. Creedon said he thought it might be used for specialized courses, such as marine biology.

City Councillor Leo Kelly told the school committee: "We have the neighborhood school concept in Quincy and to maintain it we have to expect the expense. Closing these smaller neighborhood schools will be disruptive."

The parents group also presented the committee with a petition signed by 125 residents opposed to the closing and 19 who favored the move.

At the Myles Standish hearing about 50 residents voiced opposition to the closing of that school.

When Mayor Arthur Tobin, as chairman of the school committee, called for those in favor of the closing he did not receive a single reply.

Mrs. Patricia Shaheen of Quincy Shore Dr., said the children have a "friendly atmosphere" at the school and that when they move on to junior high school reports of their progress and manners are always excellent.

She questioned the cost of fuel for buses, in light of the present energy crisis, and said that even now it is difficult to obtain vehicles for field trips.

Patrick Quill, 47 Bay State Rd., charged that the committee was being influenced by Proposition 13 and the "Tax cap" programs and added "don't put a price tag on my son, or his safety or his schooling."

School committee woman Mary Collins sought to assure Quill that the committee was not reacting to Proposition 13 or the tax cap.

Quill took the microphone and said loudly: "I'll say it again, lady, don't bus my son."

Creedon conceded that the financial advantage of closing the school "in and of itself" is zero. He went on to explain that the cumulative savings over the years must be considered.

He pointed out that enrollments have declined from a high of 16,488 in 1972 to 13,555 at the present time.

"We do not see any change in this decline," he said. "Our projections are that it will bottom out in the mid-1980's at about 10,000."

He said that he cannot conceive of the building being needed as a school in that period. He did suggest that the Myles Standish might be used by the school system's business offices, part of which is now in rented space at the Quincy Savings Bank Building.

The parents were told that a decision on the closing should be made sometime in May. The school committee will hold public hearings at the Cranch and Hunting schools later this month.

'Detrimental to Northeast'

Donnelly Criticizes Carter On Oil Prices Decontrol

Cong. Brian J. Donnelly (D-Boston) has criticized President Carter's proposal to decontrol domestic oil prices as detrimental to Massachusetts and the whole Northeast.

The President announced in a nationally televised address last week that controls on domestic oil will be lifted June 1 and will end altogether Sept. 30, 1981, when the control law expires.

"Once again," said Donnelly, "the administration has neglected the special needs of the Northeast."

"Decontrol will mean dramatic increases in the prices of gasoline, home heating oils and other petroleum products."

"The administration wants to force Americans to use less oil and pay more for it. Well, New England has been paying and paying dearly."

"The President does not seem to understand that the Northeast's demand will not be reduced by increasing the price of energy."

"In economic terms, our need for energy is inelastic and raising the price of petroleum products is not going to stimulate the elderly or the low income consumers to conserve heating oil on a cold winter night."

"Not only consumers, but businessmen will be forced to pay increased energy costs. The economy of our region has been dealt a significant setback."

Donnelly also criticized the President for his failure to link a tax on windfall profits by the oil companies directly to the decontrol of domestic oil.

"The President has said that he is serious about taxing the greedy oil companies, however his actions do not bear this out," said the Congressman.

"In essence, he has said consumers will pay more for petroleum products no matter what. The President will only ask that Congress formulate a windfall tax and then attempt to pass it."

"Decontrol must be accompanied by a windfall tax or the other provisions of the President's plan, improved mass transit alternative energy development, and grants to low income families will remain unfulfilled promises."

Plans 1,300 Miler

Boston Marathon Just A Warmup For ENC Runner

Tim Woodbridge, a senior at Eastern Nazarene College, is going to run 26 miles, 385 yards next Monday, April 16 - strictly as a warmup.

Woodbridge has entered the famed Boston AA Marathon for the second time.

But the real test will begin Tuesday, May 29, when he takes off with three pairs of running shoes on a 1,300-mile run to his home in Lake City, Fla.

Woodbridge hopes to line up sponsors for each mile in the month-long jog in order to raise money for a cross country scholarship at Eastern Nazarene.

He will be accompanied on the trip by a mobile camper, driven by Pete Larkin, the assistant cross country coach at ENC, where Woodbridge has been a member of the team for three years.

He figures the run will cost him about $3,000, including $285 a week rental of the camper.

Next Monday's BAA Marathon will be the fourth time Woodbridge has run the distance and the second time in Boston. Last year he finished 1,201st in two hours and 51 minutes.

A month ago he won a marathon sponsored by Colman's Sporting Goods from Danvers to Woburn in two hours, 40 minutes, 52 seconds. There were 96 starters.

Woodbridge has been preparing for the BAA run and the 1,300-miler to Florida by running 20 to 30 miles a day on the roads of Quincy, Milton and Boston and along Wollaston Beach.

A business administration major, he takes part in intramural soccer, basketball and baseball at ENC and his brother, Donnie, 14, is a promising tennis player.

Anyone interested in sponsoring a few miles of Woodbridge's Florida run for the benefit of the cross country scholarship may do so through the Athletic Department at Eastern Nazarene.

1919 Belonged To Quincy's 'Flying Finns'

By ED SPARGO

Tempus certainly does lugit! Old-time residents of historic old Quincy will find it hard to believe that the approaching Patriots' Day will mark the 60th anniversary of a one-two finish by Quincy's "Flying Finns" of yesteryear in the 1919 B.A.A. Marathon.

All Quincy was jubilant as Carl W. A. Linder plodded across the Exeter Street finish line in two hours, 29 minutes and 13 seconds in first place and Willie Wick, a fellow member of the Hurja A. C. of West Quincy, crossed the line as runner-up exactly one minute later.

Linder's time for winning the Marathon in 1919 was 2 hours 29 minutes 13.4 seconds.

A red-letter day, indeed, for our boyhood heroes.

To make it a long-to-be-remembered event locally, the only other Quincy entries in the prestigious race also turned in remarkable performances. Henry Kanto finished 10th and Otto Alenius pounded home in 23rd place.

Ironically enough, Linder, age 29 at the time of his triumph, had been rejected by the U.S. Army for duty in World War I because of flat feet. He was a pattern maker at Fore River Shipyard and Wick, 31, his teammate and close friend, worked at a Brewer's Corner bakery. Both were natives of Finland. Interestingly, both Linder and Wick trained by proxy under the direction of a professional Finnish runner, Willie Kolchmainen, who mailed them daily instructions from "the old Country."

All the days and months and years drop away and, for a fleeting moment we old-time Quincy residents are again young as we envision those dedicated distance runners plodding along the streets of South and West Quincy prepping for the Boston Marathon way-back-when.

In Boston Garden Action Central Defeats Montclair To Win Junior Championship

Central defeated Montclair, 36-26, Sunday at Boston Garden to win the Quincy Recreation Department's junior high basketball championship.

The game was a preliminary to the Celtics-New Jersey Nets game and marked the first time the game has been played at the Garden. Nearly 500 Quincy fans attended.

The game saw Central take an early lead behind the scoring of Marty McLaughlin and Jim Kelly to hold off the determined Montclair team. McLaughlin led the central scorers with 10 while Kelly added eight. Other Central scorers were Bob Mudge with seven, Paul Quigly, four and Rick Padzik, Tim Ryan and Fran Reynolds with two each.

Central coaches Brian Buckley and Dan Coughlin Sr. had high praise for John Phelan and Jim Mullen for their fine defensive effort.

Montclair was lead by the 12 points of Peter McGillicuddy, and the four points of Chris Bunker. Other Montclair scorers were Joe Dudek, Jimmy Kennedy, Steve Evans, John Grenier and Paul McCabe. Montclair coaches Gerry Pratt, Tom Burke and Ron West added their praise for Paul Cuervals and Danny Baker.

Director of Recreation Charles Alongi Jr., along with Rick Robey of the Celtics presented trophies to the victorious Central team while Montclair received runner-up certificates.

Track Club Takes 18 Prizes At New Haven

The Quincy Track Club received outstanding performances from Maureen Roche and Penny Sawyer and the team captured 18 prizes in the recent New Haven, Conn., Invitational Meet sponsored by the New Haven Track Club.

Roche took fourth in the 60-yard dash in 7.6 seconds and sixth in the 220 in 28.8, both indoor 12-13 year old records. Sawyer, coming back from a serious knee injury, took fourth in the 14-15 60-yard dash in 7.3, a fine performance.

Kevin Wood won the 14-15 high jump. Denise Santo was third in the 60 in her best time of 7.2. Kara Crehan won the high jump and Margaret Osterman won the long jump and was fourth in the 440 in the 14-15 age group.

Roche was third in the high jump. Christine Picarski was second in the long jump. Sheila Barrett fourth in the 800 and sixth in hurdles, and Georgia Ifricane was second in the high jump, third in the 800 and fourth in hurdles in the 12-13 group.

In boys 10-11 action Steve Picarski took third in the 60 and Harry Morash was fourth in the 800.

Tozzi Hopes For Best

Inexperienced North Track Team Opens League Season April 17

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy boys' spring track teams have an impressive 36-11 record in four years in the Suburban League. But, as the Raiders prepared for their opening non-league meet against Milton and Boston Tech yesterday (Wednesday), Coach Lou Tozzi admitted "we appear to be in for a long season unless we have some surprises."

North opens its league season next Tuesday at 10 a.m. against Cambridge Rindge and Latin at Veterans Memorial Stadium and next Thursday will host Waltham at the same time and place.

"Inexperience and lack of depth are going to be major problems," Tozzi explained. "The league is simply too difficult for us to continue having one or two loss seasons and be among the top 4-5 in the state meet consistently. A .500 season would be more realistic." The Raiders last spring were 6-3.

Tozzi has only nine boys back from last year's team who have ever placed in a high school meet and only two from last year's Atlantic Junior High team.

"We are still trying to recover from the backlash of double sessions and we are still sharing the stadium with Quincy and all the junior high schools," the 5-year coach said.

Lou sees Newton North and Brockton dominating the strong Suburban League as well as the state meet and also feels Weymouth South and Cambridge will be strong. He also feels Quincy, with a large turnout, to be much stronger.

For the first time in his five years at North he doesn't have a legitimate threat in the sprints with the best sprinters playing baseball or just not reporting. Rick Anderson, a junior newcomer, has looked good, junior Steve Mastroilli, hard working veteran, will be one of the Raiders' most valuable people and will run the 100, 220, 440 and relay depending upon the situation, senior Tim O'Neill has loads of talent and Mike Bradbury is a promising sophomore.

In the 440 Ed Ahearn, junior veteran, looks good, junior Jim Alban was running well until injured, and Walter McConaghty and Paul O'Sullivan are good looking sophomores.

The 880 will be North's best event with Co-Capt. John McGuigan showing the way. "John is our team leader and our most impressive talent," Tozzi said. "He has a super attitude, is one of our fiercest competitors ever and ranks with North Quincy's best all-time half milers." The past winter he did 4:32 for second in the state indoor meet.

Co-Capt. Jim Coughlin is another with outstanding attitude and is a hard worker who will run either the 880 or mile, swapping off with McGuigan. He lost only three races indoors. Geebes McCormick is an impressive sophomore.

North will again be strong in the mile and two-mile with Mike Ricciuti, a junior, coming a long way in one year and getting stronger all the time. Junior John Barrett, a dependable veteran, is another excellent runner and sophomores Gary Morin and Joe McDonald look good.

Jack Leone, a sophomore, is the only real threat in the high jump and was a league medalist indoors with a 5-10 jump.

Tozzi also is looking for help in the long jump with only O'Neill a definite threat. He has done 20 feet.

In the triple jump Senior Dan McIntyre has the potential to be one of the league's best. He did 40 feet last year but North also lacks depth here.

McIntyre will also run the high and low hurdles. Senior Rich Schaezel looks good and Leone, junior veteran Tom Pound and Soph Rich McCarthy also are doing well in the hurdles.

Junior Bill Dailey was a league medalist in the pole vault last year and should be among the league's best again. McCarthy is also vaulting well.

Assistant Coach George Liset's strong group of weight men was wiped out by graduation and has only two experienced boys among a crew of 13.

Senior Paul White, Junior Ed Miller and Sophs Luke DiPietro and Steve Burke are newcomers showing promise in the shot put, senior veteran John Hernon should throw more than 125 feet in the discus and looks like the best point scorer in the weights, while soph Tim Allen looks good.

In the javelin Senior Jim Mackiewicz, a two-year letterman, is tops with juniors Dave Penzo and Bob Pimental behind him. Sophs Tom Cuervels, Paul Schaezel, Steve Mariano and Bob Danna are other hopefuls.

The relays are wide open and Tozzi feels he will have trouble finding an effective quarter mile team but should have a respectable mile group.

Koch Broad Meadows Prepares For 18th Season

The Broad Meadows District of the Koch Club is planning its 18th season of boys baseball and girls softball programs this year.

Registration applications will be distributed during the school vacation week Tuesday and Thursday, April 17 and 19 at Broad Meadows Junior High School Field, Calvin Rd. Adams Shore between 6 p.m. and 7 p.m.

The league will formally open Tuesday, May 1 and applications must be completed and returned with the registration fee as soon as possible.

The Broad Meadows District will conduct its entire boys baseball and girls softball activity each Tuesday and Thursday evening starting at 6 p.m., from May through July.

Boys, five through 12 years, are welcome to join the baseball leagues. Girls, seven to 14 years, are invited to participate in the girls softball program.

There are no tryouts and every boy and girl who registers is assigned to a team and will actively participate.

Anthony T. Delmonico of 35 Gannett Rd. is founder and director of the Broad Meadows District. He may be contacted for further information.

The boys and girls, as members of the leagues, will also march in the Koch Club Flag Day Parade Thursday, June 14 and join with their parents at the annual family picnic Saturday, July 14.

Started with 120 boys in 1962, the leagues had 200 boys and 200 girls engaged last summer in the recreation programs at Broad Meadows.

Montclair Wins Street Hockey Title

Montclair Center won the Quincy Recreation Department elementary boys' street hockey championship last week, in which 18 teams competed.

In the first game of the semi-final round Squantum goalie David Zurome put on an outstanding performance in a losing effort as Montclair won 3-1. Rich Norrigan scored two goals for Montclair and Ted Holman has a single goal in the win. Ted Shionis had the lone Squantum goal. Pat Harrington, Gerald Coughlin, and John Beney all played well in Squantum's bid for the title.

The second tournament semi-final was the most dramatic game of the tournament. Parker "B", the tournament sleeper, surprised favored Merrymount with three unanswered first period goals to lead, 3-0. Parker's Tony McDermott, John Ainsley and Mike Ainsley scored for upset-minded Parker. John Kelly answered with one goal for Merrymount in the second period and Tim Flavin added a Merrymount goal to make it 3-2. With one minute and fifty seconds left in the game, Merrymount School's Jamie Seamans took charge.

Seamans tied the game with one goal and added two more for a hat trick in less than two minutes. When it was all over Merrymount had won 5-3, and was going to the championship game.

Montclair and Merrymount started quickly as a pair of Scans scored for both teams. Scan Barry scored first for Merrymount and Sean Toland scored first for Montclair. The first period closed at 1-1.

In the second period Toland continued his scoring but Seamans answered for Merrymount. The score was 2-2 at the close of two periods.

The third period saw Toland score his third and fourth goal which gave him all of his teams four goals and a 4-2 win.

Charles Alongi Jr., Director of Recreation, awarded certificates to runnerup Merrymount. Team members were Mike Hays, Seamans, John Kelly, Barry, A.J. Puglise, Bob Campbell, Mark Campbell, Matt Gorman, David Maimoran, John Hays, Tim Flavin and P.J. Hussey.

Alongi then awarded trophies to the championship Montclair team. Team members were Horrigan, David Cooke, Michael Sullivan, Timothy McCarthy, Michael Miller, Mark Bilton, Greg McGlame, Anthony Lio, Dominic Camillo, Toland, Holman and Joe Ward.

Merrymount was coached by Kevin McCarthy and Montclair was coached by Jerry Pratt and Tom Burke.

Quincy Girls' Gym Team Shows Improvement

Although the won-lost record of the Quincy High girls' gymnastics team wasn't much different than that of last year's team, it was an improvement.

This winter the First Ladies finished sixth in the Suburban League. Last year they finished eighth.

Quincy this season placed fifth in the Suburban League championship meet. Many of its league defeats were by only a few points.

scores while Liz Norton was the top scorer on floor and beam. The leader on bars throughout the season was Robin Guara.

This season in the league depth was a big factor as the top four scores were counted.

Among other First Ladies who performed well were Co-Captains Carol Mavor and Patty Murray.

A number of sophomores did well this year and Coach Barbara Pettine, although apprehensive, is cautiously optimistic about next year's outlook.

Y Girl Gymnasts Win 5th Straight

The Quincy YMCA girls gymnastics team recently defeated Somerville to run its record to 5-0 with four meets left. The team had previously defeated Brockton, Old Colony, Malden and Needham. The coach is Pat Kelly and the assistants Cathy Turpel and Liz Keeffe.

The top competitors in each event are as follows:

Beam-Patti Novak, Natalie Nigro, Lynn Marton and Rose Christiani.

Floor-Patti Novak, Natalie Nigro, Christine Donovan and Maura Callahan.

Bars-Kathy Doherty, Chris Small, Elizabeth Maher and Lynn

Manton.

Vault-Kathy Doherty, Maura Callahan, Darlene Burke and Carolyn Fredey.

Other members of the team are Maureen Doherty, Coleen Craig, Marilyn Fredey, Nord Furey, Nancy Callahan, Nancy McDougall and Kay O'Malley.

Keohane's also blanked Weymouth, 2-0, with Perdios and Jim Bille scoring the goals and Bartsch and Roche having two assists each.

Squirt B's Win Conference Title With Undefeated Record

The Quincy Squirt B team won the South Shore Conference championship with an undefeated record, sweeping its two playoff games last week.

The Squirt B's wallowed Weymouth, 8-1, in their opening playoff game as Dave Tapper and Jon Hays scored two goals apiece and Mark Zimmerman, Matt Furtado, Mark Simonelli and Bobby Salton one each. Peter Schofield, Adam McGregor, Paul Connolly and Furtado had two assists apiece and Salton, Jim Dunphy, Tapper, Billy Murphy, Zimmerman and Mike Benson one each.

In the title game Quincy topped Scituate, 7-2, sparked by Tapper's two goals. Zimmerman, Furtado, Murphy, Connolly and Simonelli had a goal apiece. Zimmerman had two assists and Tapper, Simonelli, Connolly and Dave Kraunelis one each.

The Squirt B's finished with a brilliant 40-2-2 overall record.

Large Squad Brightens Quincy's Hopes

Last year the Quincy boys' track team, with a small squad, won only one meet and lost some close decisions because it had to concede eight points in the high jump even before the meets began.

This spring interest has increased tremendously with more than 50 reporting to Coaches Bill Maver and Joe Goguen and they have high hopes of doing much better.

The Presidents opened at home yesterday [Wednesday] against Weymouth South, one of the Suburban League powers, and next Tuesday will be at Brockton, another powerhouse, at 10 a.m.

"We face the league's iron in our first few meets and I know we will have our troubles, but by mid-season we should be ready to give anyone stiff competition and we are hopeful of having a good second half of the season," Goguen said.

The key to this year's hopes is competition. There is keen competition in almost every event and Quincy has a number of potential scorers.

"Last year the other teams in the league found it easy to beat us due to our small squad, but this year they will have to earn their wins," Goguen continued.

Quincy has a young squad with only three seniors and among the candidates are several football players who are out for track mainly to 'keep in condition.

"Some of these football players can help us, and we have some potential scorers among them," Maver said.

One of the key performers is John Furey, one of the top two-milers in the league.

Roy Higgins is an excellent quarter-miler who did well as a sophomore and looms as a consistent scorer this year.

Another fine runner is Joe Irvine, who did 2:05 in the half mile as a sophomore last spring.

One of the big surprises is Jun Areal, who came here from the Philippines only a few years ago. He was on last year's squad but the coaches had a hard time finding his best event. However, this spring he is doing more than 20 feet in the long jump and could be among the best in this event before the year is over.

Among the other hopefuls are Jeff Elofson, 440; Dan Flannery, 220 [a fine prospect] and Bill Flynn, dashes.

Jeff Giordani, who has been accepted at University of New Haven, is a fine triple jumper. Geoff Catfish and John Nichols look good in the discus, Dan Protaswicki leads the low hurdlers, Paul Bandera heads the high hurdlers, John Vassaro is a good shot putter, Dave Murray is a capable miler, Tony Antonetti runs the 100, Bob Harris did 11 feet last year and leads the pole vaulters, and Tom Rand looms as a fine javelin thrower.

Topping the high jumpers are Brian Donovan and Sean Burns.

At present the mile relay team comprises Furey, Higgins, Joe Romano and Irvine, while the 440 relay team has Antonetti, Flynn, Ed Iodice and Flannery.

Class Day For Friends At QJC April 18

"Bring a Friend to Class" Day will be observed April 18, at Quincy Junior College.

Current QJC students will bring friends to visit their classes, and meet with the college faculty and administration at a luncheon buffet.

The activity is designed as an opportunity for those interested in college to sit in on classes and see what it is all about.

Faculty and administration will be available to answer questions, provide career counseling and financial aid information.

Anyone that would like to attend the day's activities, but that does not have a host student, should call the Admissions office, 786-8777, to be paired up with a student of similar interests.

ARE YOU LOSING MONEY IN YOUR NOW ACCOUNT?

At some banks you lose an entire month's interest or pay an activity charge if your NOW Account balance falls below their minimum for just one day. Not at Old Colony. We don't think you should lose money just because your NOW Account has its normal ups and downs. You earn interest every single day you maintain a minimum balance of $200. And that means if your balance falls below the minimum for just a few days, you'll still earn interest for the rest of the month.

With free checks and a monthly statement, it all adds up to this:

Your money works harder at Old Colony Bank.

Bringing Government To You Donnelly Trying Out District Office-On-Wheels

For those people who can't come to government, government is coming to them.

Cong. Brian J. Donnelly (D-Boston) has inaugurated a mobile van service to constituents of the 11th Congressional District, bringing his office to the cities and towns, particularly the elderly.

The van was scheduled to make its first visit to Quincy yesterday (Wednesday).

stopping by the North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall from 12:30 p.m. to 2 p.m. and at Robin towers, 80 Clay St., Wollaston from 2:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

After a brief respite for the Easter holiday, the van will resume its swing of Quincy on the following schedule:

Tuesday, April 17
Oceanview, 73 Bicknell St., Germantown, 10 a.m. to 12 noon; Snug Harbor Court, Shed St., Germantown, 12:30 p.m. to 1:30 p.m.; Sawyer Towers, 95 Martenson St., Quincy Point, 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Wednesday, April 18
Southern Artery, Quincy Point, 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.; Pagnano Towers, 109 Curtis Ave., Quincy Point, 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.; Granite Place, 125 Granite St., Quincy Centre, 3 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The van will visit Quincy again in mid-May and mid-June, completing the three-month test period.

"It works well for three months," said Donnelly, "we will make it permanent."

The van, a 27-foot long Johnson Motor Coach leased for $500 a month, will make 65 stops a month in the district, which includes 11 cities and towns from Boston on the north to Brockton on the south.

It will be manned by a member of Donnelly's staff plus Joanna Henry of Milton, a volunteer senior aide, who got the job simply by writing a letter to Donnelly in January expressing her concern for the elderly.

Actually, the van has been on the road since April 2 in the Dorchester, Hyde park and Milton sections of the district, so Donnelly has some feedback from the 30 or 40 persons who visit it daily.

"There are a lot of questions on Social Security, Medicaid and SSI (supplementary security income)," he says. "It's just proven to me that that whole system is confusing."

New Office Building Eyed

City Contender For The Game HQ

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin and officials of the State Lottery confirmed Tuesday that there is a possibility that The Game may move its headquarters from Braintree to a brand new building in Quincy sometime next year.

Harry Kearins, project manager for the Lottery, said The Game's lease on 60,000 square feet of office space at 15 Rockdale Rd., Braintree, expires in February, 1980, and it is seeking new quarters with at least 100,000 square feet of space.

The Lottery, which operates under the supervision of State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane, is right now putting together a prospectus of its requirements, said Kearins, and will accept bids from various communities until May 7.

Tobin said he has been in touch with lottery officials, starting with Crane, and "they told me the prospectus would be out in a week to 10 days and they would be very happy to come and talk about it with people in Quincy."

"It would be a big coup just to get them to locate in Quincy, whatever section of the city they might prefer," said the Mayor. He added that he hoped to lure The Game to downtown Quincy, possibly tied in with an application for a second UDAG grant.

As long as three or four months ago, rumors were circulating that the Lottery was planning to build its own headquarters, with North Quincy mentioned prominently as a site, but Kearins said the time element has pushed that plan on a back burner.

"We have a capital outlay request in now," he said, "but it has not been acted upon by the executive office. It's a long range thing. Capital outlay takes several years. Our lease expires in February and we have to make a decision by July 1."

Kearins said state agencies like the Lottery are limited by law to a five year lease, plus five years renewable.

"A key factor in our requirements is accessibility," he said, indicating that the MBTA extension and the Burgin Parkway extension would weigh in Quincy's favor.

He said The Game currently employs between 250 and 300 people but there are no immediate plans to expand the work force.

Mayor Tobin said he has been in touch with two developers and "they told me they are very interested in seeing the

Centre St. To Be Dead End At MBTA

When all the work is finished around the Quincy Adams MBTA station in South-Quincy, the temporary Centre St. tunnel will be sealed and Centre St. will dead end in both Quincy and Braintree.

MBTA spokeswoman Mila B. Dixon passed that information on to The Quincy Sun in response to queries by residents of South Quincy who said they did not know of the plan to dead end Centre St.

Only a stub of Centre St. will remain in Braintree, across Independence Ave. from Archbishop Williams High School, and the street in South Quincy will end in front of the Raytheon plant.

Some questions about Centre St. arose at a recent hearing into a proposed pedestrian access to the station from Independence Ave. across from Verchild St.

Adams Birthplaces To Be Turned Over To Park System

A ceremony marking the transfer of the Birthplaces of John Adams and John Quincy Adams from the City of Quincy to the National Park System will take place May 1, at 11 a.m. at the Adams Birthplaces, 141 Franklin St.

In case of rain, the ceremony will be held in the Council Chamber, Quincy City Hall.

Germantown Apartment Complex Approved With Strict Conditions

The Conservation Commission has approved with strict conditions a plan by Paul Ricciardi of 218 Willard St., West Quincy, to develop land at 47 Palmer St., Germantown, as an apartment complex.

One of the conditions is that a floating boom must be maintained during the demolition phase of the project to keep debris from escaping into the Town River.

Also adequate shore rest rooms must be maintained for non-resident boat owners who rent slips there and an on shore pump out facility for boats with sanitary holding tanks must be installed.

The Commission directed that the Building Inspector withhold a certificate of occupancy on the project until the Conservation order is satisfied.

Action Deferred One Week

Residents Again Oppose License For LaVinia Restaurant

By PETER BARNICLE

The request of LaVinia Restaurant, 184 Willard St., West Quincy, for a common victualer-all alcoholic license was opposed by residents of the area when it came before the Licensing Board Tuesday for the third time.

Action was deferred for one week because the full board was not present. Police Chief Francis X. Finn did not attend the meeting.

Several months ago the board turned down the request of Nicholas V. Trifone, the owner, and Augustine Russo, manager. The decision was appealed to the state Alcoholic Beverage Commission which referred the matter back to the local board. At that time Trifone was given leave to withdraw the request without prejudice.

City Councillor James Sheets told the board that residents in the area are "unalterably opposed" to the issuance of a license. He noted the close proximity of St. Mary's and the Grigley Bryant elementary schools, and also said the restaurant would increase traffic and parking problems. Sheets told the board the neighbors are also concerned about the noise which might be created by departing patrons.

"I have no assurance that the restaurant would not be sold in six months or even in one or two years," Sheets said. "We have to be concerned about what it will be like several years from now."

Sheets contended the Licensing Board often acts too hastily on issuing licenses and said it should spend more time getting input from the people. He pointed to the dozen people who had come to oppose the license and said "These people are telling you something."

Rev. John McMahon, pastor of St. Mary's parish, told the board "the people are violently opposed to a bar-restaurant in their backyard."

"Even if Cardinal Medeiros came out for it, we would refuse him," Fr. McMahon said.

Sr. Alice and Sr. Barbara of St. Mary's School, told the board that the children attending CCD classes add to the school population several days a week and many of them attend after the regular school hours.

Regina Moriarty asked that the St. Moritz Association be recorded as opposing the license.

Atty. James A. Castlemann, representing Trifone, told the board that his client planned a family-type restaurant featuring barbecued lamb, beef and pork, with moderately priced meals.

"We are asking for an all-alcoholic license because we deem it necessary to this type of operation," he said. "This will be a family restaurant, not a barroom."

Castlemann presented the board 21 letters and a petition with more than 100 signatures from people who favored the granting of a license.

Councillor Sheets said he had looked over the letters and most of them were from people outside the neighborhood.

One resident handed the board a list of licenses she claimed are presently operating within a mile and a half radius of the Willard St. site.

Arnold Levine, a West Quincy resident and director of physical education in the Randolph public schools, said he has known the Trifone family for nearly 60 years and that he thought the license should be granted.

He cited a restaurant that opened opposite Randolph High School and has been in business for some time without any complaints.

"It was kept in good condition and I am sure that is the way Nick Trifone would run his business," Levine said.

In other action the board:

- Granted a common victualer's license to Antonio Andrade of Randolph, for a new corporation, Quincy Donuts, d/b/a Dunkin' Donuts, 532 Southern Artery.

- Continued for 30 days a noise complaint against the 7-Eleven at 75 Copeland St. The board cautioned the manager that truck noise from 4:30 to 7 a.m. must be abated at the all-night eating place. Neighbors complained the truck drivers kept their rigs running while having coffee in the early morning hours.

- Placed on file a complaint involving Burger King, 670 Adams St., and the 7-Eleven-Quik Mart, 678 Adams St., when Robert Halterman, representing Burger King informed them a vacant lot at Adams and Stedman Sts. will be secured to prevent unauthorized parking. The 7-Eleven is the lessee of Burger King.

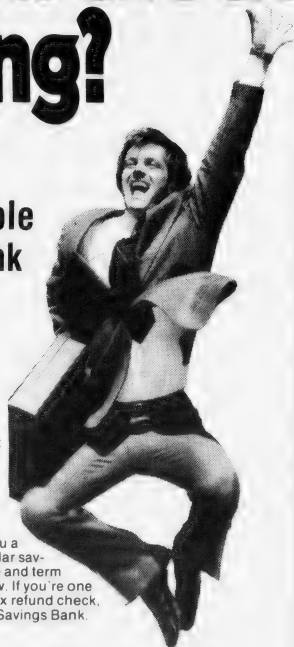

- Approved a transfer of a common victualer license from Richard Moy to Chung Hoe Choi for the Peking Kitchen, 501 Washington St., Quincy Point. The name of the take-out shop will be changed to Super Dragon.

- Continued for two weeks the request of Mrs. Stacia Ruth Kelley for transfer of the common victualer-all alcoholic license at Roman Gardens, 653 Southern Artery, from Emma Tozzi. Eugene Kelley, clerk of the new corporation and owner of Durgin Park Restaurant in Boston, said a new kitchen will be installed and extensive renovations are planned for the dining room.

$2 Million Over Original Figure

NQHS Addition Cost Soars To $17 Million

The cost of renovating and adding to North Quincy High School has soared to $17 million.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin went to the City Council Tuesday night for authority to borrow $15 million "to keep the general contractor and the subcontractors on the job when the term of their contract expires."

Work on the school was originally supposed to be finished in time for classes starting in September, 1979, but the completion date has since been extended to December, 1979. Original cost was $15 million.

"This problem was not caused by this administration or the City Council," said Tobin. "It was caused by the delays of the previous administration in making up its mind once the contract was set."

There was also a steel strike, problems with the roof of the addition and the blizzard of February, 1978, the Mayor said.

"All these things add up," he said. "Now in order to finish the project some positive action has to be taken by this administration. There is no guarantee that the contractors are going to stay on the job. You just can't leave an empty building there."

Public Works Commissioner James J. Ricciuti said the delays early in the project will keep the contractors on the project for 94 extra days.

He said about $600,000 represents an extension claim by Blount Brothers, the general contractor, and $150,000 is to extend the contract of Coletti Brothers, the architect.

"The other part of the $15 million covers the increased costs of materials and furniture plus a new area for special needs students that was added to the design," said Ricciuti.

"We also feel we need extra money as a buffer so if we run into problems we won't have to keep running back to the Council for more money."

Ricciuti said that the main section of the old high school building is about 50 years old and during renovation "it's difficult to perceive what is under the walls, the floors and the ceilings."

"All this is 65 per cent reimbursable by the state," he added.

HOLOCAUST RECALLED -- Mayor Arthur H. Tobin presents Rabbi David J. Jacobs [center] of Temple Beth El, and Rabbi Jacob Mann of Beth Israel Synagogue, with proclamation he issued declaring April 22-29 "Holocaust Days of Remembrance" in Quincy. Presentation was made in front of Holocaust stained glass window at Temple Beth El. The window commemorates the more than six million Jews who died in crematoria and concentration camps under Nazi rule throughout Europe. The infamous yellow star of the Nazi oppressors encompasses the word "Remember".

City Opens Energy Conservation Office

The City will open a Quincy Energy Conservation office today (Thursday) at 8:30 a.m. at the park and Recreation complex, 100 Southern Artery, Merrymount Park, announces Richard J. Koch, Energy Conservation Director.

Mayor Arthur Tobin appointed Koch in February to formulate plans for an Energy Conservation Program. Tobin will be present Thursday to officially open the new city agencies office.

The new Energy Conservation Office will be operated with CETA personnel recently interviewed and selected to staff the facility and to monitor energy conservation recommendations at various city agency locations.

Utilization of CETA employees assigned to the Energy Conservation Director will provide an effective force to initiate voluntary energy conservation programs at no cost to the city, Koch said.

Energy Conservation in the City of Quincy will not only reflect energy conservation of natural resources but will also result in direct cost savings to help offset the continual spiraling inflationary cost of fuel and public utilities used by the various city agencies, he said.

Koch has met with city department personnel to initiate immediately energy conservation procedures that require little or no expenditures to the city.

A three-member Energy Conservation Advisory Board has been formed with three Quincy residents volunteering their efforts to develop an energy conservation program. They include: Robert Woodman, chairman, Joseph E. Burke, vice-chairman and Richard Meade, secretary.

The Energy Conservation office staff have visited a number of federal and state Energy Conservation offices in Boston obtaining materials and seeking federal and state funds to assist Quincy in adopting an effective energy conservation program.

The program is presently geared exclusively to city government. However, it will be expanded to include business and residential volunteer involvement at a later date.

City Economic Development Conference Set For June 20

The Quincy Planning Department will hold an economic development conference Wednesday, June 20, at 3:30 p.m. in the Neighborhood Club.

The conference will be similar to one held in May, 1978, out of which developed the $10 million, 10-story office building that is planned for the Della Chiesa Parking Area.

Several potential developers will be invited to the conference to listen to talks by the Rev. Bedros Baharian, chairman of the Planning Board, and other speakers.

20 Quincy Families To Receive Housing Assistance

At least 20 elderly and low income families in Quincy will receive assistance in obtaining decent housing as a result of subsidies released last week by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Cong. Brian J. Donnelly (D-Boston) said 20 of 400 statewide units have been assigned to Quincy and the city probably will receive some of the 248 allocated to the State Department of Community Affairs.

The subsidies will be channeled through the Quincy Housing Authority as part of HUD's Section 8 EXISTING HOUSING Program.

Under Section 8, eligible families locate their own housing, with the subsidy making up the difference between what they can afford to pay and the fair market rent for the housing.

Louise Forsyth Candidate For APGA Presidency

Louise B. Forsyth, Coordinator of Testing for the Quincy Public Schools, is a candidate for the office of president of the American Personnel and Guidance Association.

The association is composed of 13 national divisions serving persons employed in many work settings.

Miss Forsyth is the immediate past president of the American School Counselor Association, the largest of APGA's divisions. She was nominated by ASCA and by the Association for Religious Values in Counseling (ARVIC) which has just changed its name from that of the National Catholic Guidance Conference.

A past president and former executive secretary of the Massachusetts School Counselors Association, she has been active in many other local, state and national professional organizations.

In addition to serving on the Governing Board of ASCA during 1978-1979, she also chaired ASCA committees on state divisions and nominations and elections. For APGA she chaired the committee on public relations, was parliamentarian for the APGA Board of Directors, and chaired the resolutions committee for the APGA Senate.

Miss Forsyth has received many awards for outstanding leadership and contributions to education. A year ago she was honored when Mayor Arthur Tobin proclaimed a Louise B. Forsyth Day in the city of Quincy.

A former moderator of Bethany Congregational Church, she currently chairs the Capital Fund Drive of the Protestant Social Service Bureau of the South Shore. She has been active in the American Red Cross for many years.

A native of Quincy, she received her education in Quincy, the Philippine Islands, Virginia and California. Her father, the late Lt. Comdr. George D. Forsyth, USN, served several tours of duty at the Fore River Shipyard. Her late mother, Mrs. Annie B. Forsyth served as a member of the Quincy School Committee for several years.

'Violence In The Home' Woman-To-Woman Workshop

"Violence in the Home" and "Looking Out for a Healthy Number one" will be two of eight workshops featured at a special Woman-to-Woman Day Saturday, April 28.

Sponsored by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women and the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College, the program will be held from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. at the Lincoln-Hancock Community School, Water St., Quincy.

Representatives from DOVE (Domestic Violence Ended), the Quincy Police Department, the Norfolk County District Attorney's Office, and Parents Anonymous will talk about the problem of domestic violence and the services which their agencies provide.

Carol Mahoney, chairwoman of the Mayor's Commission, reports Norfolk County has been a leader in developing services to combat the problem of domestic violence which has only recently received much public attention. She pointed out that the shelter, hot line and support services for battered women which are provided by DOVE will be explained by Anne Keating, president of the organization.

The legal aspects of domestic violence and the role of the police department will be discussed by Barbara DiNatale and the services of the newly created Family Services Unit in the Norfolk County District Attorney's office will be reviewed by Joan Hassol, Sandra Wixted, and Debra Murphy.

Help for parents who abuse their children will be discussed by Leslie Collo of Parents Anonymous.

Women's Health will be the topic of another morning workshop. Mary Vallier, RN, who has extensive experience in dealing with women who have drug or alcohol problems and Dr. Anne Stewart-Burton, a gynecologist at Wellesley College will be the guest speakers.

Both workshops will include time for discussion and will be offered from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. The other two workshops offered in the morning are "What We Haven't Got a Lot Of—Money" and "Koping With Kids". Afternoon workshops include "Breaking Into The Job Market", "Just Folks—Life Career Styles", and "So You Want to Go Back to School".

The day will conclude with a social sponsored by the Quincy Cooperative Bank at the Neighborhood Club. Day care and lunch are available for people who pre-register. Additional information can be obtained from the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College, 786-8791.

ASPIRINS - KIDDY KILLER

Thousands of children every year fall victim to accidental drug poisoning and hundreds of them die as a result. Accidental poisonings are most common with drugs which are prevalent in the home. In fact, 25 percent of these poisonings are caused by aspirin ingestion.

Because of this problem, manufacturers, physicians and the Food and Drug Administration have agreed on a method to help control accidental aspirin poisoning. Children's aspirins are now packaged in bottles of not more than 36 tablets. Even if all are accidentally swallowed, a child would become ill, but such an overdose would rarely be fatal.

Don't rely on this alone. ALL medicines should be stored in a cabinet out of reach of children. Also, a lock is a safety precaution only if it is used. Final tip: Never store aspirins in containers without a safety cap.

Over 200 Students, Parents Attend

New Fields For Women Stressed At Career Night

More than 200 students and parents attended a recent non-traditional career night at Broad Meadows Junior High School sponsored by the Quincy public schools.

Emphasis was on opportunities for women in fields which until recently were considered suitable only for men.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon told the group:

"The goal of the Quincy public schools is to assist students to become self-fulfilling individuals, citizens and workers in a world that is effective for all, makes no distinction between boys and girls and therefore directs us to prepare all our students, male and female, to the accomplishment of that purpose."

During the two hour session students, most at the junior high school level, had an opportunity to visit four of the 10 career clusters at which representatives from business and industry answered questions and discussed careers available in their fields.

The women in business cluster comprised an insurance agent, a loan review officer and two bank vice presidents. They spoke on the importance of summer jobs as an entry into the business field. They also pointed out the advantage of knowledge of a foreign language in the banking business.

Patty Finnegan, a Prudential insurance agent, noted that there are only a small number of women insurance agents, but opportunities are increasing for those interested.

Alicia Coletti, coordinator for Title IX/622 programs, pointed out that women are now expressing an interest in getting into the construction industry.

The apprentice carpenter, plumber and electrician in the women in construction cluster noted that the federal government's affirmative action policy has given them jobs. However they are not optimistic about the effective implementation of the program in increasing the percentage of females employed by contractors doing a minimum of $10,000 in government work.

None of the participants in this cluster had attended vocational school, but said it would have been a big help. They also suggested that algebra and physics are helpful to those who want to enter construction work.

Women who own their own businesses said they had no business background when they started, but they recommended it and said the services of a competent lawyer and accountant are needed. They all agreed that a willingness to change, modify plans and take risks are important factors in finding success in owning your own business.

Participants in the law enforcement cluster suggested that doing volunteer work would enable one to explore career possibilities.

Robbi Caulfield, a probation officer, told the students that jobs in this field are tightening up and that a bachelor's degree plus one year's experience in a related field is required. Barbara DiNatale of the Quincy Police Department, and Deputy Sheriff Pat Nigrelli were more encouraging about expanding opportunities for women in local police departments.

Pat Gillis of Control Data Institute, who changed her job when she was 40 to enter the data processing field, said that the field does not depend on the changing economic situation. Members of this cluster pointed out that there is a good possibility of being trained by a company and said a tremendous growth is expected in this work area.

The communications panel spoke of a willingness to do anything in the broadcasting field as a distinct advantage in getting into an overcrowded field. Ellen Pfeifer, music critic for the Boston Herald American PRIVATE BUSINESS OWNERS (from left) Vicky Thomas, Blazing Salads; Gloria George, Jenelle Gourmet; Lucille Naymie, Pamela's Place; Jane Sullivan, antiques, and committee member Eileen Cutler, of the Pollard School, spoke to students at Career Night on women running their own businesses.

JOB PREPARATION was discussed by Joyce Jordan, of Quality Personnel, and Myra Jackson, of State Street Bank and Trust Co.

who recently covered the Boston Symphony Orchestra's trip to China, noted the necessity of physical as well as mental stamina in the job of a reporter.

Family Counseling Plans Annual 'Spring Fling'

The seventh annual "Spring Fling" to benefit the South Area branch of Family Counseling and Guidance Centers will be held on Wednesday evening, April 25, at Lantana, Randolph.

The fundraising event, highlighted each year by a cash lottery and a grand auction of valuable prizes, is organized by the clinic's volunteer board of directors. William DiPesa and Mrs. Donald Corey, both of Milton, are acting co-chairmen for this year's affair.

A cocktail and hors d'oeuvres reception will begin at 6:30 p.m. A buffet dinner will be at 8 p.m. after which the lottery and grand auction will take place.

An unusual variety of auction items has been donated by dozens of local businesses this year, including a one-year apartment lease from Faxon Commons in Quincy, 30-day's free use of a rental car, luncheon, green fees and dinner for four at Wollaston Golf Club, cases of king crab and shrimp, a day-long fishing trip, original works of art, appliances, restaurant gift certificates, a free engine tune-up, one day's use of an hydraulic crane and many more.

The evening's proceeds are used to support the work of the Family Counseling and Guidance Center, 40 Independence Ave., Braintree. The private, nonprofit outpatient mental health clinic offers individual and group counseling to married couples, adolescents, children and the elderly throughout the South Shore area. Last year's Spring Fling raised a total of $27,000 for the Braintree clinic.

Tickets can be purchased in advance at the clinic, or that evening at the front door. For more information, call 848-7840.

An ideal ceramic gift for the bride and groom, graduate or new parent is to decoupage the announcement of their special occasion. Here's how: Bisque fire a suitable greenware plaque or frame, and then apply a coat of opaque stain that matches the announcement. Rip or cut the announcement to fit the plaque and glue it on with Elmers Glue. When dry, apply these Ceramicchrome products: 3 coats of "Transfer-IT" (15 minute drying time between coats) followed by one heavy coat of Deco-Web. Wait 6 to 8 hours and then rub a mineral spirit base stain over piece to bring out the web-like cracks. Accent edge with a metallic and it's finished! Sacred Heart Sixth Grader Wins Jerry Lewis Spelling Bee

Michael Whalen, 12, a sixth grade honor student at Sacred Heart School, North Quincy, is Quincy's elementary school champion speller, winning top honors in the first annual Jerry Lewis Spelling Bee.

Michael was among the 30 top spellers from 10 public and parochial schools who competed in the spelling bee finals at the Lincoln Hancock School.

The winner had to spell two final words to capture the championship. One was "vein" and the second was "equipped" and Michael was able to rattle them off without hesitation.

The top speller is an "A" student and, according to his mother, Mrs. Rose Whalen, will finish the eighth grade at Sacred Heart and then try for a scholarship at Boston College High School.

Heather Norton, a fifth grader from Mass. Fields School, was eliminated on the word "neutral". She won second place in the contest. Third place was awarded to Lisa Livingstone, a sixth grader at Wollaston School.

More than 200 classmates, parents, teachers, principals and friends attended the oral finals.

The preliminary written spelling bee was held at the various schools and the three top spellers from each school were chosen to compete in the finals. Each participant in the finals was presented a trophy.

Over 700 youngsters in 10 public and parochial schools throughout the city participated in the spelling bee.

The students were asked to obtain as many sponsors as possible to pledge five cents a word or more for each word spelled correctly. The money collected will go to the Muscular Dystrophy Association to aid it in carrying on work to find a cure for the dreaded disease.

As of Tuesday, over $2,000 had been turned in by Spelling Bee participants to aid the Muscular Dystrophy Association. The sum is from sponsors who pledged money on a correctly spelled per word basis.

Prizes for those sending in pledge envelopes include a spelling bee certificate, Jerry Lewis sew-on patch and an iron-on transfer for T-shirts, and an autographed photograph of Jerry Lewis with the national Muscular Dystrophy poster child.

At each school the two top collectors will be awarded Jerry Lewis wristwatches. The watches will be presented at a ceremony early in May.

All pledge envelopes should be sent to Muscular Dystrophy Association, care of Hancock Bank, 415 Hancock St., Wollaston.

The spelling bee was sponsored by the Quincy Public Schools and the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee with the dual purpose of emphasizing the importance of good spelling and raising funds for the charity.

Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun, and Richard J. Koch, executive secretary, Quincy Park-Recreation Board, are co-chairmen of the telethon committee.

School Committeewoman Mary Collins was chairwoman of the spelling bee committee and Janet DiTullio, language arts coordinator, Quincy public schools, was coordinator.

Judges at the finals were:

School committee Vice Chairwoman Patricia Toland; William Phinney, assistant superintendent of public schools; Virginia McEvoy, co-president of the City Wide Parent Advisory Board; Charles Sweeney, former school committeeman; Janet DiTullio and Mrs. Collins.

Students competing in the finals were:

Atherton Hough School: Stephen Austin, grade four; Lisa Norton, grade five; Michael Carmody, grade six.
Mass. Fields School: Joey Kingsbury, grade four; Heather Norton, grade five; Anne Marie Cronin, grade five.

Montclair School: Margaret Hegarty, Kristin Killilea, Kathleen Jenkins, all grade six.

Pollard School: Tina Cobb, grade six; Cheryl Abbood, grade five; Frank Browne, grade four.

Quincy School: Christine Swierk, grade four; Carlene Pellicchia, grade four; Donna Gelsomini, grade six.

Squantum School: Liesl McDonough, Julie Costa, both grade six; George Zavas, grade five.

Wollaston School: Lisa Livingstone, Jennifer Johnston, Maura McCarthy, all grade six.

St. Ann's School: Karen Mahoney, grade eight, Paula Dravinskis, grade six, Brenda Pitts, grade five.

St. Joseph's School: Julie Morrissey, grade five; William Doyle, grade six; Catherine McCarthy, grade seven.

Sacred Heart School: Ruth Buenaventura, grade four; Michelle Manning, grade five, and Michael Whalen, grade six.

Other officers to be installed are: Past commander David Minkolsky, senior vice commander; Francis Davis, junior vice commander; Past Commander Benjamin Rudner, judge advocate;

Dr. Saul Goldstein, surgeon; Manuel Halter, trustee, three years; Herb Fine, trustee, two years; and Joseph Triger, trustee, one year.

Installing officer will be Samuel Samuels of Revere, past national commander. Master of ceremonies will be past Commander Irving Isaacson, assisted by Past Commanders David Minkolsky and Ralph Paull, and other members of the post.

'Positive Parenting' Course To Start April 23

The South Shore Council for Children announces it is offering a "Positive Parenting" course and discussion group for parents who wish support and ideas on how to cope with their children.

The course will begin Monday, April 23 at 7:30 p.m. at St. Joseph's School Hall, Quincy Point for six consecutive weeks. A nominal fee of $5 will be charged. Mary Ann Skjold and Rosemary Hanley-Kearney, both professionally trained teachers and experienced parents, have designed a course and discussion format based on a variety of resources related to parenting and raising children.

The course material and format is designed to be flexible and to respond to the particular needs of parents participating in the course. Registration is limited. To reserve a space, call the South Shore Council for Children office at 472-4224.

ARE YOU LOSING MONEY IN YOUR NOW ACCOUNT?

At some banks you lose an entire month's interest or pay an activity charge if your NOW Account balance falls below their minimum for just one day. Not at Old Colony. We don't think you should lose money just because your NOW Account has its normal ups and downs. You earn interest every single day you maintain a minimum balance of $200. And that means if your balance falls below the minimum for just a few days, you'll still earn interest for the rest of the month.

With free checks and a monthly statement, it all adds up to this:

Sheets Moving Closer To Mayoral Ring

City Councillor James Sheets appears to be moving closer and closer to the mayoral ring.

Observers wouldn't be surprised to see him make an official announcement within a week or two.

Sheets spent the Easter weekend in Pennsylvania after bringing his mother back to her home there following a Quincy visit.

Observers think he spent part of the weekend weighing the pros and cons of a mayoral bid. They think he came to a decision to run.

SHEETS

THE FEELING ALSO is that if Sheets does run, former Mayor Joseph LaRaia will not. One report making the rounds is that LaRaia has said he will not run for mayor if Sheets does.

Which again leaves LaRaia standing in the middle aisle in the keep-'em-going department.

If he isn't going to run for mayor, will he go for a council at-large seat as some politician watchers thought he was going to do all along? Or will he surprise everyone and run for the Ward 4 council seat?

Or is he making the rounds just to plug his book. (Eleven bucks will get you an autographed copy.)

MEANWHILE, you can be sure of one City Council candidate: Rene Lumaghini of Woodcliff Rd., an insurance man and sales consultant, is definitely running for the Ward 4 council seat. He'll probably make his announcement within a week. Lumaghini, incidentally, was the one who circulated those petitions protesting the controversial Willard St. apartment complex.

IT APPEARS THAT Gerard (Chip) Coletta, who was on the verge of running for the Ward 4 seat just a few weeks ago, has changed his mind. Coletta, employed in the ICAP program at the Quincy Police Department, wants to go to law school. Between the job and law school, he wouldn't have much time to serve as a ward councillor if elected. The word is that he has shelved plans and hopes for a political career until he finishes law school.

QUESTION: Would his father, Gerard, administrative aide to Norfolk County Dist. Atty. William Delahunt consider a run?

HAROLD

A COCKTAIL RECEPTION fund-raiser to help Paul Harold pay off his senatorial campaign deficit will be held Thursday, April 26, 6 to 8 p.m. at the top of the John Hancock Tower, Boston. Tickets, $35 per person or $50 per couple, may be obtained by calling Richard Paull of Squantum, 328-8317.

BOTH MARRIAGE AND the June bride seem to be making a comeback. At least in Quincy, according to City Clerk John Gillis whose office keeps the city's vital statistics.

If you thought marriage was going out of style as some of today's programs on the boob tube would have you believe, well, it appeared to be slipping at least for awhile.

In 1968, for example, there were 1,125 Quincy knot-tyings. That dropped to 941 in 1970. But last year, the number climbed to 957.

Ten years ago, most girls wanted to be June brides. Then, October took over. But June is making a strong challenge to regain its title as the month of brides.

In 1968 there were 159 June brides in Quincy with September in second place (134) followed by May (116) with August and November tied at 104. October was an also ran with 97.

In 1976, August took the lead with 115 brides. May was runnerup with 113, followed by June (109), with September and October tied at 104.

Last year, October took the lead with 133 weddings but June was only six behind with 127. August and September were the next most popular months for rice tossing with 107 and 105 respectively.

One of the reasons October moved out in front in recent years is the fact that off-season prices prevail at many honeymoon resorts.

PUBLIC WORKS Commr. James (Pete) Ricciuti will be a grandpoo for the fifth time in May. Daughter Carole and son-in-law Richard Corner are expecting the new arrival May 7. Ricciuti, who hardly looks like a grandfather, either has olive oil or the fountain of youth going for him.

Sons Of Italy Donate $40,000

$75,000 Renovations

Underway At Artery Park

The Collins Rest-A-While on Southern Artery and the adjacent Artery Little League field are undergoing $75,000 in major renovations and improvements announced Richard J. Koch, director of the Quincy Park system.

Additional playground equipment will be located at the Collins Rest-A-While Area while the existing facilities will be improved and painted to coincide with the expansion of the entire recreational location.

The existing artery ballfield is being enlarged to accommodate regulation Little League size baseball activity and girls or women softball programs.

A new tournament dimension sized Little League baseball diamond that may be used for boys baseball as well as women softball playoffs is also being constructed adjacent to the present field thus resulting in an additional athletic field to help offset the increasing demand for baseball and softball facilities.

Renovations of the existing athletic ballfield and construction of the second ballfield are being accomplished by Transit Seeding Company of Mansfield, low bidder of the project specifications. New bleachers are also being installed at a cost of $9992 by Marr Scaffolding Company of Boston.

The existing field will have two sets of portable bleachers located at the site accommodating 100 persons on each stand. The newly built tournament field will have a permanent set of spectator stands erected into the abutting hillside and have a seating capacity of 200. The portable bleachers may be moved to the abutting regulation sized tounney field as the need arises and back again.

A lighting facility will also be installed on both athletic fields by Ryan Electric Company of Hingham, low bidder on the project at $35,840.00. The illumination from the lighting installed will also provide sufficient light at the Collins Rest-A-While Area for the enjoyment of those persons wishing to relax during the warm summer evenings in an outdoor area.

It is the third lighting facility at the Merrymount Park area since 1963 when the Fanno St. tennis and basketball facilities were illuminated while the Adams regulation baseball field was provided with lights in 1973. The proposed new lighting facility will result in not only a longer recreation day for Quincy residents in the limited days of summer enjoyment but will provide extensive illumination of the eighty acre park for greater police visibility and more enjoyable use of the park for those wishing to visit the location during the evening hours.

The project has been able to be undertaken through the cooperation of Mayor Arthur Tobin, the City Council and the Quincy Sons of Italy Capital Improvement grants to the City. The Quincy Sons of Italy contribution will finance $40,000 of the proposed $75,000 project. The Quincy Lodge of Elks is also planning to make an appropriation toward the project cost. This new concept of financing will allow the city to move forward with new construction and renovations and large organizations, both commercial and fraternal, are encouraged to volunteer financial assistance so that new projects may be developed or old ones improved without affecting the tax rate.

The project at the Southern Artery location is expected to be completed for use by mid-May. The Quincy Water and Sewer Departments have installed water lines to maintain the grass and provide drinking water at the site. The adjacent restrooms will be activated.

Persons are requested to stay off the newly sodded and seeded ballfield areas allowing the proper growth for two weeks before use of the facility.

State House Report

King To Veto Or Seek Compromise On 4% Cap

By RON IACOBUCCI

Quincy Sun Correspondent

The Senate late last week voted 31-2 for a four percent tax cap on local spending.

The action by the Senate follows House approval of a similar measure. The tax cap issue is now before a House-Senate Conference Committee.

The Conference Committee is expected to meet today to work out a compromise between the House and Senate versions of the four percent tax cap. Differences between the two versions are minor.

Locally, State Senator Paul D.

Harold voted in favor of a four percent tax cap.

According to Harold, "A vote for a four percent tax cap is reasonable because you can't cut back at the local level all at once. A zero cap with the inflation factor added is actually an 11 percent cut; I'm in favor of a gradual method of resetting priorities at the local level."

Harold did not feel his vote was one against the Governor's mandate to roll back property taxes. "I don't believe I voted against the Governor's mandate, we have begun a movement in his direction but one act or one vote will not turn everything around."

Remarks by Governor Edward J. King last week emphasized that the action by the House and Senate will make it impossible for him to keep his pledge to reduce property taxes by $500 million dollars this year.

Presently Governor King is working for a compromise 2 percent tax cap. This strategy is similar to the "take what you can get" compromise that raised the drinking age to twenty years.

Speculation is that if Governor King doesn't get his way, he will veto the four percent tax cap legislation and begin a lobbying effort to prevent a two-thirds override of his veto.

Tobin Proposes City Hall 'Constitution Common'

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin has proposed that the area between the old City Hall and the soon-to-be-completed City Hall Annex be designated "Constitution Common."

The name would commemorate the drafting of the Massachusetts Constitution 200 years ago next September in the law offices of John Adams on Franklin St., South Quincy.

Tobin called the document "the forerunner of many other written constitutions adopted throughout the world... the oldest written constitution now affecting the rights of citizens in the world."

Recently Tobin created a committee, headed by former Mayor James R. McIntyre, to commemorate the bicentennial of the draft by Adams, his cousin, Samuel Adams, and James Bowdoin.

"This committee has had several meetings and has recommended to me several commemorative events," said Tobin. "One of the most significant is to have the area between the old City Hall and the new City Hall Annex dedicated as 'Constitution Common.'"

The Mayor made the recommendation to the City Council Tuesday night.

Quincy Eligible For Federal Park, Recreation Funds

The U.S. Department of the Interior has placed Quincy on the proposed eligibility list to receive assistance under the Urban Park and Recreation Recovery Act of 1978.

Quincy was named as one of 368 cities and counties eligible to receive direct matching grants to be used for rehabilitation of its park and recreation system.

The total grant, covering the east from Maine to Virginia, is $725 million with $151 million authorized annually for 1979 through 1982 and $126 million for 1983.

Appropriations are now pending before Congress.

English contains more words than any other language—800,000—but it is doubtful that any individual uses more than 60,000!

1,300 Volunteers To Take Part In Cancer Crusade Residential Drive

The Quincy Cancer Crusade will conduct its 1979 house-to-house drive starting this weekend as 1,300 volunteers throughout the city visit their neighbors leaving educational materials and seeking donations for cancer research, education and service to patients programs.

Volunteers will be identified with a badge designating them as the Cancer Crusade representative of their neighborhood.

Those not at home when the volunteer calls, will find an envelope will be left. They are requested to insert their donation and mail as soon as possible to the American Cancer Society, 247 Commonwealth Ave., Boston, MA 02116.

Although started on the weekend, the drive will climax Tuesday, April 24, when the annual house-to-house Cancer Crusade will be conducted throughout the nation.

The main office of the Hancock Bank at 1495 Hancock Street will be open between 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. that night to receive volunteer kits from the house to house canvas. The kits may be also left at the Hancock Bank branch offices during the regular bank hours.

Richard J. Koch, chairman of the Quincy Cancer Crusade, announces that additional volunteers are needed to replace those who may be ill or unable to complete their assignment.

Those wishing to volunteer may contact him at 241 Newbury Ave., or the following Ward Chairmen: Ward 1, Mrs. Joanne Reardon, 70 Chickabot Rd., Merry Mount; Ward 2, Theodore DeCristofaro, 17 Murdock Ave., Quincy Point; Ward 3, Mrs. Janet Crowley, 139 Highland Ave., Montclair; Ward 4, David J. Donahue, 88 Wallace Road, West Quincy; Ward 5, Joseph E. Burke, 145 Willow St., Wollaston, and Ward 6, Mrs. Linda J. Bowes, 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy.

City Councillor Daniel G. Raymond is president of the South Shore Unit of the American Cancer Society and general chairman of the South Shore area.

Quincy Born John Cheever Wins Pulitzer Prize

John Cheever, who grew up on Winthrop St., Wollaston, and Spear St., Quincy Center, won the Pulitzer Prize Monday for his collection, "The Stories of John Cheever."

His mother was the proprietor of the Mary Cheever Gift Shop in Quincy Center during the 1930s and 1940s after his father lost his job in the early days of the Depression.

Cheever, who happened to be in Boston Monday to watch his son, Ben, run in the BAA Marathon, has rarely, if ever, visited his boyhood home since leaving it. He lives in Ossining, N.Y., now.

Conservation Commission To Study Marshes

The Conservation Commission is planning a biological study of the Black's Creek marshes to see what steps can be taken to improve and maintain the quality of the wetland.

The Commission Tuesday night asked the City Council for $1,000 to match with $4,000 from the Massachusetts Coastal Zone Management Program to finance the study.

"Our observation of the marsh shows signs of deterioration," said Clara Yeomans, executive secretary of the Commission.

"The study will provide much needed data on this unique area and provide a basis for good management and conservation by both recreation and conservation interests."

She said the Commission application for a grant from Coastal Zone Management is supported by the park and Recreation Department and support from the School Department is expected.

The study, probably in late summer or early fall, would be conducted by Robert Dano of Quincy, who became familiar with the area as an environmental specialist under a CETA program in 1975.

Sunday Deadline For Chris McDonald Scholarship Applications

Sunday is the deadline for submitting applications for a scholarship which has been set up by friends of Chris McDonald, a Squantum resident who was killed last June in an industrial accident.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. William McDonald, and brother of William, Gary and Jonathan, Chris was a member of the Quincy Vocational Technical School, class of 1979.

The scholarships, which the committee hopes to award annually, will include $300 in tools to a senior from Quincy Vocational Technical School enrolled in the plumbing and pipefitting class; and $100 to a resident of Squantum, member of the class of 1979.

Applications are available from Rev. Stephen B. Rock, Star of the Sea Church, and Alice Reney, of Squantum.

They must be filled out and signed by a counsellor before being returned to Mrs. Reney. Grades will not be a factor in awarding the scholarships.

prospectus and talking to the Lottery people."

"The first priority," he said, "is to get the Lottery for Quincy. The second is to get it for downtown Quincy, I'd like to be able to tie it in with the second UDAG so that we can use it to bring up our ratio."

Ratio is the balance between private funds and federal money in a project. HUD likes it to be around 6-1 private. Quincy won its first UDAG grant despite the fact that its ratio was only about 3 1/2-1.

Tobin said he was pleased that the Lottery had decided to lease space rather than build its own headquarters.

"If the Lottery Commission built its own building," he said, "you couldn't tax it because it would be state property. This way we would be able to tax the building so it's to our benefit to pursue a lease agreement."

Getting the Lottery, he said, "would provide a new impetus to Quincy by putting its employees on the streets to shop in our major retail areas."

McIntyre Hits House 'Deal'

Rep. James R. McIntyre (D-Quincy) lashed out at what he called a "deal" to have Rep. Cornelius Kiernan (D-Lowell) named to succeed the Iron Duke, Rep. John F. Thompson (D-Ludlow), a Speaker of the House.

"I have no intention of supporting the deal made last Friday to perpetuate the present discredited and sick leadership," said the second-term State Rep from Quincy.

"That secret meeting to pick the heir is typical of the evaporation and disrespect that the present leadership has for the individual members of the House."

SEA SCOUTS RETURN

Three Quincy Sea Scouts, who left on the Coast Guard Cutter Coos Bay for a five-day voyage to Bermuda, returned aboard the cutter Yakutat after seven stormy days on the North Atlantic.

Neal F. Biron of 52 Wayland St., Wollaston; Kenneth O'Brien of 70 Fenno St., Wollaston; and Robert Fleming of 15 Freeman St., Norfolk Downs, reported they never saw Bermuda, except as a blip on the radar screen.

CROWLEY BLANKS QUINCY

Phil Crowley limited Quincy to three hits and struck out 21 as the North Quincy High School baseball team whitewashed the Presidents, 5-0, at Adams Field.

BURGIN RUNS AGAIN

Sen. Thomas S. Burgin (R-Quincy) announced that he will seek reelection to a second two-year term in the State Senate from the First Norfolk District, including Quincy, Braintree and Randolph.

"In view of the critical situation presently confronting our Commonwealth in restoring honor and integrity in government, I stand ready to do my fair share," he said.

Funeral arrangements were by the Joseph Sweeney Funeral Home, 326 Copeland St.

Survival Seeking Hot Line Volunteers

The Survival Crisis-Line serving the entire South Shore area is looking for adult volunteers to help staff their 24 hour hot line.

The next training session will begin May 1. For more information call Debbie at 471-7100.

At Wollaston Methodist

Inter-Church Council To Sponsor PACE Program

A program in adult Christian education, PACE, will be offered on the four Sunday evenings following Easter in the Wollaston United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St.

The centrally located facility, situated near the Wollaston MBTA station, has a large parking area just to the rear of the building.

PACE is sponsored by the Inter-Church Council of North Quincy and Wollaston and the Metropolitan Boston District Council on Ministry of the United Methodist Church. Both the courses and the instructors in last year's program in adult Christian education sponsored by the Inter-Church Council were so well received that three of the lecturers have been invited to offer new courses in this year's curriculum.

Rev. Dr. Ivan Kaufman, Professor of Old Testament and Hebrew at the Episcopal Divinity School in Cambridge, will offer a course at 7:30 p.m. entitled "The Presence of God: A way found in the Old Testament, the New Testament and Today." At the same hour, Fr. Gerald Osterman of St. Boniface Catholic Church, Germantown, will offer another course, "Four Aspects of the Gospels." At 8:40 p.m. Rev. Dr. Kenneth L. Lehman, minister of the Atlantic United Methodist Church of North Quincy, will offer a course, "The Psycho-Spiritual Dynamics of Dying, Death and Grief." Also at 8:40 Rev. Dr. Theodore Romberg, minister of the Wollaston United Methodist Church, will offer a course, "John Wesley and the Wesleyan Tradition."

Brochures for PACE, containing outlines of the courses, have been sent to the churches on the South Shore. Copies may also be obtained from the office of the Protestant Social Service Bureau in Wollaston. There is a registration fee of $5 per course, each of which will meet for four sessions: April 22, April 29, May 6 and May 13. Students may take either one or two courses, one at 7:30 session and another at 8:40. There will be a coffee break between sessions each evening. Registration will be held from 7 p.m. April 22. The courses are open to all interested persons.

Quincy Council K. of C. Memorial Mass Breakfast Sunday

Quincy Council Knights of Columbus will hold its annual Communion and Memorial Mass Breakfast Sunday.

A Mass will be celebrated at 8:30 a.m. at St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point. The breakfast will be at 10 a.m. at Montello's, Massachusetts Ave.

Guest speaker will be Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford Marshall. Tickets may be obtained by contacting Grand Knight Frank Reed at 843-2969.

Spring Brings Schemes

No single group is more vulnerable to consumer fraud than the elderly.

Sadly, those on fixed, limited incomes, who are most tempted by glib promises, are exactly those who can least afford to be victimized. To protect our elderly citizens from sharp con artists, shady promoters and fast-talking salesmen should be a first priority.

To help protect you from these frauds, we are offering free the booklet "Target THE ELDERLY" sponsored by the Consumer Affairs Foundation. The booklet covers such subjects as:

- Work at Home Schemes
- Charity Frauds
- Lonely Hearts Frauds
- Hearing Aid Fraud
- Health Quackery
- and other frauds and schemes

Evening Of Recollection At St. John's For Separated Catholics

St. John's Support Group for Separated and Divorced Catholics will sponsor an evening of recollection Tuesday, April 24, from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m., in St. John's lower church, Quincy Center.

The evening of spiritual renewal will include talks and prayer.

Sister Paula Ripple, director of the North American Conference of Separated and Divorced Catholics, will conduct the recollection service.

Sister Ripple is the author of the book, "The Pain and the Possibility - Divorce and Separation Among Catholics." She has been counselling separated and divorced people for the past seven years. During the past two years, she has spoken often throughout the U.S. and Canada.

The evening of talks and prayer is open to the public.

'Theology Of Marriage' Topic For St. Joseph's Parish Commission

Rev. Dennis J. Burns, J.C.D., will discuss, "Theology of Marriage in the Post Vatican II Period" April 25, at 8 p.m. at St. Joseph's School Library, Pray St., Quincy, at a meeting sponsored by the parish Religious Education Commission.

Rev. Burns, who was ordained in 1950, wrote his dissertation for his Doctorate in Canon Law degree on "Matrimonial Indissolubility and Conditions Contrary to It."

He has served as chaplain and professor at Regis College, Weston; as Advocate, Notary, and then Defender of the Bond in the Matrimonial Tribunal of the Archdiocese of Boston; and was named Officialis for the Archdiocese in 1974.

Rev. Burns has also served as an officer in the National Canon Law Society of America; president of the Eastern Regional Canon Law Society, co-editor of the Tribunal Reporter and as a visiting professor.

'Believer's Baptism' Performed At Squantum Church Easter Service

Sandra E. Ahearn, a 10th grade student at North Quincy High School, participated in the ordinance of "believer's baptism" which highlighted the Easter Morning service at the First Church of Squantum.

Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor of the church, performed the baptism before a congregation of hundreds which filled the church.

The baptism was performed in this form for the first time at the church.

The service began with an instrumental prelude by James Morris, on clarinet; Sandra Ahearn, bass clarinet, and Daniel Walter, bassoon, which was directed by Mary Ruth Scott, organist.

The early morning visit to the tomb was presented in the darkened sanctuary by Genevieve Todd, Kathi Fluhr and Holly Bumpus, who portrayed the three women. Richard Williams, of Quincy, and Steven Williams, of Weymouth, played the two angels, and during the course of the scene, all the lights came on and the candles lighted.

The Junior Choir sang "This is the Day".

Dr. Langevin, assisted by David Gerry, explained to the children of the church the meaning of Jesus' resurrection. The Cinnamon Toast Crowd sang, "Christ Arose", and the Senior Choir sang "Easter Anthem".

Topic for the sermon was, "The Irrepressible Hope". Violinist James Sumner played "Allegro" during the postlude.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Nelson were greeters, with ushers Tore Wallin, Don Frazer, Dave Mildram and Ken Ray.

During the Maundy Thursday service last week, Marsha Jean Anderson and Mark D. Paul were confirmed and received into the church at a Candlelight Lord's Supper.

First Church Of Christ Elects Officers

First Church of Christ, Scientist, Quincy held its annual meeting recently to hear committee reports and elect officers.

Mrs. Virgil Snell of Quincy gave the treasurer's report. Albert N. Larrington of Squantum presided as president with Miss Francella Mullock of Weymouth, clerk. Elected to the executive board were Mrs. John Bergstrom of Braintree and Mr. John J.

MacDonald Jr. of Milton. Currently serving on the Executive Board are Mrs. Wendell Davis Jr. of Weymouth, Mrs. Brooks Peek of Randolph and Mr. David B. Chapin of Squantum, newly elected chairman after William B. Ellington of Quincy completed his term.

Elected to serve a third term as President of the church was Albert N. Larrington.

The local church is a branch of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist in Boston, Massachusetts where the world headquarters are located. It has no ordained ministry and each branch church membership elects its officers and Readers and carries on all church business in an essentially democratic form of government under the guidance of The Manual of The Mother Church by Mary Baker Eddy, discoverer and founder of Christian Science.

As O'Connell Gardens grows, the Quincy area benefits. The new building at 165 Old Colony Avenue in Wollaston makes O'Connell Gardens the number one center for potted plants, hanging plants, gardening needs and plant supplies. They offer free estimates on landscaping and yard maintenance by calling them at 471-6868. O'Connell Gardens is open seven days each week.

Track Down Energy Saving Methods

18 Students Win 'Energy Detective' Awards

Eighteen Quincy elementary and junior high school students were named winners in the recent "Energy Detective" contest in which the pupils presented suggestions for conserving energy throughout the school system.

Each winner was presented a "starter savings account" at Presidential Cooperative Bank. Funds for the prizes were provided by the North Quincy Knights of Columbus and the bank.

Members of the School Committee presented the awards in the Media Center at Quincy High School at the opening of its recent meeting.

Vincent P. Sullivan, coordinator of science, told students and parents gathered for the ceremony that the energy problem "will not just go away."

"Nuclear energy is an alternative source, but after the accident at Three Mile Island in Pennsylvania we will have to go slow in its development. At the same time the search for other sources of energy will have to go on," he said.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon noted that the energy conservation program in the schools has resulted in a savings of more than two million gallons of fuel oil over the past five years, for a monetary savings of approximately $730,000.

Two recurring suggestions appeared in most of the essays submitted. One was that lights should be shut off when rooms were not in use. The other recommended that windows be kept closed when the heat is on.

Donald Greene, a sixth grader at Mass. Fields School, came up with a suggestion that will meet with the approval of most of his fellow students. David suggested "The Hours of school should be shortened because of the energy waste while there is school."

Winners in the contest were: James Gardner, Atherton Hough School; Catharine Todd, Beechwood Knoll; Michelle Burns, Cranch; Maura Feeney, Carolyn Mercier, Mary Ann Nolan, Central Junior High; Donald Greene, Mass. Fields; John Rein Jr., Myles Standish; Jeffrey Solomon, N.S. Hunting; John Caporale, Daniel Webster; Elizabeth Maher, Gridley Bryant; Joseph Zacheo, Lincoln Hancock; Ninfa Cardarelli, Sterling Junior High; Theresa Donahue, Broad Meadows Junior High; Linda O'Brien, Snug Harbor; Dianna Spada, Wollaston; Carolann MacLellan, T. B. Pollard, and Jeffrey Pywell, Parker.

It's Home Improvement Time

A Quincy Sun
Special Section

Home improvement field keeps growing!

Cheery time check

BREAKFAST IS BORING? You eat on the run? Right two wrongs at once by installing a breakfast bar where you can keep one eye on a favorite picture or poster, the other on a handsome clock.

An economy that is showing signs of returning to double-digit inflation, growing family incomes, the soaring cost of new homes, and a desire to get things done before the price goes up is leading American homeowners to record spending levels on repairs, remodeling and modernization.

Homeowners have learned an important economic lesson: whether it involves a new home or an existing one, homeownership remains an excellent investment and a solid hedge against inflation. However, with the price of new homes soaring out of sight, rising to $63,000 in the first half of 1978, from 1977's $54,400, many homeowners are opting to stay put and remodel their current homes.

Others are discovering the cost of existing single-family homes more suited to the family budget.

According to the latest figures, the median price of an existing single family home in July 1978 was $49,400, nearly $14,000 less than the price tag on a newly built home.

Home bargains

The National Home Improvement Council says many first time buyers are beginning to recognize existing homes as bargains. Often, they use the money saved on the cost of a new home to modernize the existing home they purchase.

A result of this is the added spaciousness and charm of an older home, and a remodeling industry that is enjoying record spending levels.

Record high

NHIC points to Commerce Department figures which show that expenditures for upkeep and improvements in the second quarter of 1978 rose to an estimated seasonally adjusted annual rate of $38.3 billion, a record high. This compares with modernization spending of $30.7 billion in the like period of 1977.

NHIC president, Edward A. More, of Formica Corporation, predicts home repair and remodeling expenditures will reach $40 billion in 1979.

He bases his estimate on the annual 10 percent growth, or more, the remodeling industry has experienced over the last several years.

Vital economy booster

Citing these figures, More says the record volume represents "solid evidence that the home remodeling industry is performing a necessary and vital function in boosting the nation's economy."

"At the same time," More adds, "the NHIC serves as a key element in seeing to it that the high professional and ethical standards in the home remodeling industry are maintained."

Umbrella organization

The National Home Improvement Council is the umbrella organization for more than 2,600 contractors, manufacturers, sales firms, utility companies and publishers in the home improvement field.

Tired of waiting in line for your shower?

If you're fed up with waiting in line to use the family bathroom, add another one.

Adding a bath is not a tough job, says the National Home Improvement Council, especially if you let a professional home improvement contractor help. Little used closets, pantries, nooks or corners can often provide the necessary space.

Decorating it with curtains and wallpaper, vanities, mirrors and artwork, gives your new bath a personality of its own.

What about cost? Home improvement loans are available to help you finance the project. NHIC suggests you ask your banker for details.

The Council also reminds homeowners that adding a bath may increase the resale value of a home.

Whether upstairs or downstairs, plain or ornate, your new bath will be a welcome addition to your home.

Insulation shopping? Consider the r-value

If you're still shivering despite sky-high heating bills, maybe your home isn't properly insulated. The National Home Improvement Council points out that an estimated eight out of ten American homes may be inadequately insulated and that fuel costs may be cut by as much as 50 percent by installing the right kind of insulation in ceilings, walls and floors over unheated basements and crawl spaces.

To eliminate unnecessary heat loss in your home, NHIC suggests the following:

- Check for insulation in the attic, basement and between floor joists. Adequate attic insulation alone can save homeowners an average 20 percent on winter fuel bills.
- In cold weather, measure the temperature of a wall which separates two rooms with that of a wall facing the outdoors. In a well-insulated home, the inside of the exterior wall should register only slightly cooler.

- When shopping for insulation, look for its R-value. The R-value measures the effectiveness of the insulation—the higher the R-value, the greater its ability to resist heat flow.

- Choose insulation designed to resist fire, corrosion and infestation.

- Follow installation instructions carefully, or consult an expert. Mistakes may leave you cold.

A variety of insulating materials is available to suit various homes, climates and price ranges. Popular insulation materials include fiberglass, rock wool, cellulose fiber, vermiculite foam and urethane.

Even after walls, ceilings and floors have been properly insulated, heat may escape through windows and doors. Caulking and weatherstripping storm windows and doors can save homeowners an additional 13 percent in fuel costs notes the Council.

Make the laundry room a 'laudable' home asset

Coming out from hidden nooks, and basement crannies, today's modern, streamlined laundry appliances are taking their place in bright, decorative areas located conveniently for the modern, hurried-up homemaker.

Serving as an integral part of the household, the modern laundry room works in tandem with fast-paced lifestyles to meet the needs of overflowing hampers and rising demands of home laundry care.

With some 80 percent of today's fabrics falling in the machine or hand-washable categories, home laundry facilities are being positioned for easy access and are often in full view of family and friends.

With the trend toward home laundry centers coming "out of the closet," laundry specialists at win laurels for the laundry room:

- Color coordinate in bright combinations to give the room and the chore of laundering a needed lift. Instead of washyday "blues," choose boldly patterned wallpaper or contact paper that's water repellent to protect against spots.
- Store bleach, detergent, softener and other laundry aids in various size canisters covered with contact paper or glued with gaily printed fabrics.

• Hang plants in pretty pots to bring new dimensions to the laundry room.

- Select appliances in colors ranging from soft almond to bright harvest gold to enhance the laundry room or area. The new Speed Queen line of automatic washers and dryers is attractively designed with a jet black control panel contrasted with easy-to-read settings in warm tones of yellow and gold to blend in with any decor from traditional to modern.

• Install shelving to hold laundry products and folded items that have been sorted into piles for each family member. Encourage children to pick up their own piles from the laundry to save you steps.

- Allow ample room for sorting and folding. What's lacking in counter space can be made up for with a small folding table that can be stored out of sight between the appliances and the wall when not in use.

• Create a sewing area to allow you to follow the "stitch in time saves nine" principle. Keep sewing basket, thread, needles and scissors close by to quickly mend tears, darn holes and relieve a falling hemline before clothes take the plunge.

When is the best time to buy your air conditioner?

When the cold winds blow, the very last thing most people think about is how to keep the inside of their homes cool. But winter is really the best time to think ahead to spring and summer, say home economists from Whirlpool Corporation.

For instance, picture this scene... you're eating supper in a sticky, humid kitchen and the heat is sweltering. After a few restless nights and uncomfortable meals, you decide that you've got to get an air conditioner. According to the home economists, you've just chosen the worst time to buy.

Buy before heatwave

The best time to buy an air conditioner, they advise, is before the hottest summer days arrive. Between January and May, air conditioner sales are generally slower so you can shop in less crowded stores and get the full attention of the appliance salesman. Prices may also be lower when the temperature is lower.

Think about what your requirements are. For example, it's important to select an air conditioner of the right capacity to meet your needs. An air conditioner cools and dehumidifies the air.

A unit that's too large cools a room too quickly, before it can do enough dehumidifying, so the room feels cold and clammy. A too-small unit can't cool adequately. Make sure you know the dimensions of the room or rooms you want to cool.

Fans save energy

Some models have a fan control that can be set for continuous fan operation or intermittent fan operation which can help save energy. During intermittent operation, the fan turns on only when the room temperature begins to climb and additional cooling is needed.

A variety of air direction controls are available. Some have two-way controls that direct cool air to the left or right. Others offer four-way controls that aim the air up or down and right or left.

Consider room position

In making your choice, consider where in the room the air conditioner will be installed. Will you want cooled air directed toward or away from the door, directly toward you, or in yet another direction?

Some models have an air changer control with three choices: circulating room air only for fastest cooling, bringing in outside air to alleviate that "closed-in" feeling, or exhausting room air to the outdoors.

Before you go shopping you should know: How many rooms and connecting halls do you want to cool? What is the size of each room and hall? Are the rooms sunny or shaded? How many windows are in each room and what size and type are they? Are room walls insulated? What about the ceilings? What electric voltage is available?

Beat the heat!

Following these suggestions offered by Whirlpool home economists can help make your air conditioner shopping trip much easier—and you'll be a step ahead in beating those uncomfortable hot summer days and nights that will soon be here.

Oriental styles are new favorites

Whether attributable to political trends or other factors, oriental decorative motifs and shapes, always among the most enduring and favored styles for furniture and accessories, are attaining new heights of popularity.

Either adapted as the theme for furnishing a full room or as an accent, the designs are pleasing to live with, blending with almost every period and type of furnishings.

The Far Eastern love of nature, attention to detailing and classic form have inspired the unusual elegance and variety of forms exemplified by this multitude of home furnishings from exhibitors at the New York Merchandise Mart. Evident in them is the manner in which designers through the ages have reinterpreted picturesque oriental studies of flora and fauna to suit western tastes.

The gentle shapes and softly curving silhouettes of ginger jars, ceremonial tea cups and bamboo styling reflect these cultures. Colors are clear, with deep jewel tones providing depth and pastels imparting tranquility.

Manufacturers focusing on these forms now offer an enormous selection of Eastern-influenced merchandise that can add their refined nature and decorative character to the home. Any of the pieces shown here would make a pleasing addition to the mood of a room. These latest definitions of this trend can be seen in stores everywhere.

Spring cleaning

Spring cleaning means getting your house into shape for that clean, fresh weather ahead.

A good place to start is the attic, then work your way down to the basement. Get rid of musty smells left from having the house closed up for the winter.

Take care of all those little things that you've neglected. Fix door knobs and cracked walls; wipe clean dirt that's collected in corners.

Wallpaper is budget remodeler's best tool!

By LIS KING

Call on color and pattern if you're looking for ways to remodel without taking out a hefty home improvement loan.

For a couple of rolls of wallcovering, a few yards of fabric and a can of paint can perform outright miracles... such as playing down a room's defects, playing up its assets, creating illusions of space and depth, concealing architectural shortcomings, lending distinction to nondescript rooms, unifying clutter and even reshaping walls.

Few rooms need more cheering up than kitchens. Bombard the walls with a sensational pattern and make curtains or window shades to match.

If you don't have much wall space, think of covering the ceiling, too. Scarred cabinets can also benefit from a wallcovering facelift. Choose a fabric-backed vinyl product for toughness and easy care.

Don't limit yourself to "kitchen patterns." A bandana, patchwork, Aztec geometric or floral design is right as rain for your kitchen... as long as you like it.

Pattern power

Pick a dominant geometric or small over-all patterned wallcovering for difficult-to-decorate attic rooms with dormer walls. The pattern power will make an asset of the architectural defects.

Cover ugly ducts and pipes to match the walls. They'll "disappear" out of sight.

A lattice-design wallcovering will lead the eye beyond the wall, and so seem to stretch your space.

A dark wallcovering on the two short walls of a long, narrow room will make it seem wider.

Geometric patterns give a room an orderly, architectural look.

To raise a ceiling, use a vertical, striped pattern. It'll lead the eye upward. Or use a sky-blue pattern on the ceiling.

To give a boxy room architectural interest, add a chair rail (molding from the lumberyard will do it) and hang wallcovering above it. Or think of adding wallcovering panels, each surrounded by molding.

Use patterns with red, pink, terracotta or peach accents to warm a room. Blue, green and grey are cool colors for a too hot room.

Go with the sunniest yellow in a dark, northern room. Those popular earth colors are serene, but dull unless you use some bright accents.

Bathroom boldness

Pattern power is terrific in the bathroom. Since this is a room where you don't spend that much time, not even the boldest design will tire you.

Settle clutter and confusion with one great pattern. That means not stopping with the walls and draperies. Cover valances, lamp shades, pillows and tired furniture, too.

To save important dollars, do it all yourself. Hanging wallcoverings and stitching draperies are easy ways to express your creativity.

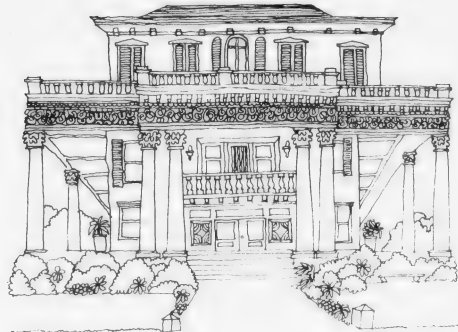

INDIAN-INSPIRED wallcovering design brings chic to an architecturally awkward attic room. Do-it-yourself platform bed is covered to match the walls.

Prevent poisoning

Many homeowners are rightly worried about leaving corrosive acid and poisonous lye drain cleaners around the house. Children and adults, as well as pets, have been accidentally poisoned by these substances.

Most banks give loans to people who don't need them.

At South Shore, we figure that if you've got a home and you want to increase the value of that home with a bit of improvement, you're probably just the kind of customer we like having.

So, we're fast. In many cases, we can have your check for you within 24 hours. Our rates are good. And while you're here, ask how you can save a full percentage point off any loan over $1500.

That's a good deal for you and a good deal for us. Because even when you no longer need a loan, you'll still need a bank. And it's a pretty sure bet that the bank you stay with will be us.

How do you know when to repaint?

The exteriors of most houses need repainting every five to six years. The climate, the condition of the surface, surface preparation and the quality of the paint used on a house may add or subtract a few years from this figure.

A thorough annual inspection of the outside of your house is the best way to determine if it needs repainting, says the National Paint and Coatings Association.

Annual inspections enable you to accurately judge how the paint is weathering. Start your inspection with the areas where moisture collects and those subject to heavy wear. It is in these areas that the first signs of wear usually appear. Sometimes spot painting in these areas is all your home needs.

Preparation counts

Wash any areas that need painting with soapy water, rinse, sand smooth and repaint. Check the condition of the siding, especially at the corners of your house where moisture can get behind the siding and cause premature paint failure. If some of the siding needs to be replaced, now is the time.

While you are at it, check the condition of gutters, downspouts and caulk, too. After exposure to harsh winter weather they may need cleaning, replacing or repainting. All repairs should be made before you paint.

Take time now
Overall appearance is the key to judging if a house needs a complete repainting. If the paint is faded or has weathered sufficiently over most of the surface, it is time to repaint. When the wood grain is visible through the paint, sufficient weathering has taken place for repainting.

If you repaint before the old paint has weathered enough, the paint film will become too thick and won't adhere to the house properly. A dull appearance can sometimes be improved merely by washing exterior surfaces.

Procrastinating when it's time to repaint can increase costs and labor later when you want to take on the job. When you wait, the old paint becomes so worn that you will need both a primer and topcoat. Also, it may be necessary to replace unprotected wood siding that has rotted as a result of exposure to excessive moisture.

CLASSIC GOOD LOOKS are enhanced by a first class vinyl siding application with complementary accessories by building materials manufacturer, Bird & Son, Inc., East Walpole, Mass. Bird Woodstead shutters and summer/winter storm door add the finishing touch to this low maintenance exterior. Popular with homeowners because they prevent rot, corrosion and never need painting, these building products provide long lasting beauty and protection.

The classic good looks of quality vinyl siding

A first class vinyl siding application can dramatically restore a home's original beauty or transform its appearance.

Easily applied over existing surfaces, solid vinyl siding lasts a lifetime, requires virtually no maintenance, and adds to the resale value of a home.

It enhances every style of architecture from colonial to ultra-modern, accenting the unique features of single and multi-family dwellings.

Striking blends

By mixing and matching the wide range of Bird solid vinyl colors and textures, homeowners can use their imagination to achieve striking effects.

A favored material for siding both new and older homes, solid vinyl from Bird & Son, Inc., manufacturers of building materials in East Walpole, Mass., is available with matching trim accessories that add the finishing touches to a top notch application.

Made of high density polystyrene, Bird's ornamental shutters give a home individuality and are easy to install on any type of surface.

The new Woodstead™ winter/summer storm door, constructed of structural foam polystyrene, resists the constant wear and tear caused by exposure to all types of weather.

Many homeowners are avoiding the maintenance problems of wood, asbestos and metal siding by turning to solid vinyl.

Virtually maintenance-free, solid vinyl siding is usually kept clean by rain. Stubborn stains can be removed with a garden hose or by rubbing with a mild detergent.

According to experts at Bird & Son, solid vinyl is a triumph of modern technology. It will not rot, peel, dent, rust or corrode.

Decide wisely

And, because the color is blended throughout, solid vinyl does not show scratches like many other types of siding.

Siding is a big investment no matter what type you choose. Take your time and investigate the facts before you make a decision.

Rotary Club Presents $500 To Hospital Road Race Committee

The Rotary Club of Quincy has presented the Quincy City Hospital Road Race committee $500 to aid the fund raising event.

"The Quincy Rotary Club recognizes the importance of the goals of the roadrace committee," said Edward Keohane, Rotary Club president. "To raise funds for equipment to supplement an already excellent intensive care unit by means of a road race is a great idea. We are pleased to assist the committee in this fund-raising endeavor which encourages an attitude of preventative health care through exercise."

The "Run For Your Life Roadrace" will be held at noon, Sunday, May 6. Individual runners are asked to solicit pledges to aid the fund-raising effort with a minimum donation or pledge of $10.

T-shirts will be presented to all participants and awards will be given to the first three finishers in each of the seven categories of men and women.

For further information contact Jane Ford, 156 Connell St., Quincy, or call 773-0633 after 6 p.m.

Sons Of Italy Donate $1,000 To Buy Library Books

The Quincy Sons of Italy have made the second of a planned five annual contributions of $1,000 to a fund to purchase books for the Thomas Carver Public Library.

The money is placed in a bank account and at the end of five years the income from it will be spent on books and other items for the library. It will amount to some $350 a year.

"We have a fine library in Quincy," said John J. Fantuccio, treasurer of the Sons of Italy board of trustees.

"We hope that other organizations will do some little things to assure the library income to work with in these times of concern over city expenditures."

Over 60 In Easter Egg Hunt At St. Joseph's

Over 60 youngsters participated in the first Easter Egg Hunt of the Youth Activity Committee of St. Joseph's Church, Quincy, held Saturday on the church and school grounds.

Winners in the event from grades one to five include Brenda Hussey, Jimmy Peters, grade one; Mary Goguen, David Deskins, grade two; Kathy Corliss, Jody Taylor, grade three; Carol Goguen, Christian Grant, grade four; Linda Caporale, Mark Timmons, grade five.

The tawny golden brown Tiger's Eye is one of the more popular kinds of semi-precious stones. But, you might be interested in knowing that not all tigers have brown eyes. Some have blue eyes, or hazel, a beautiful mixture of gold and blue with a greenish tinge. So, Tiger Eye stones, as it turns out, also come in these colors. Mother Nature once again has imitated nature. She made stones to match the color of tiger's eyes. All people did was name the stones and recognize their beauty.

We're proud of the name we have earned in this community. When you want to buy a piece of jewelry see our friendly, knowledgeable people at GRONQ & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., East Milton, 696-1490. Today's most important source of Emeralds, May's birthstone, is South America. The rich color and depth of this stone make it handsome for rings, as well as bracelets, earrings and pins. We'll be happy to show you an Emerald, or some other type of stone, for a Mother's Day gift. Open: 9 a.m. - 5 p.m., Mon. thru Sat.

HELPFUL HINT: Black onyx is especially dramatic looking in jewelry.

150-200 Unit Project Conservation Commission Sets Conditions For Town House Development

The Conservation Commission has set its conditions for development of 10 acres of land off Quincy Shore Drive in North Quincy into an apartment complex of 150-200 town house units.

One of the conditions requires that Quincy Shore Nominee Trust, the developer, pull back some fill that was put in by a previous developer who sought to build a shopping mall on the site.

The developer also is prohibited from building a swimming pool and cabana in the northeasterly corner of the land.

The land, owned by the J. A.

Sullivan Co. of Dorchester, is located between Quincy Shore Drive and Commander Shea Boulevard. Three attempts to develop it in eight years have been unsuccessful.

The parcel is zoned partly Business Band partly Residence C, both of which permit building of apartments, but the City Council Tuesday night was expected to vote on the issue of making it Planned Unit Development (PUD).

PUD would mean that the Council and the residents of the neighborhood would have a say in how the land was developed.

and the residents expressed concern over continued traffic problems on this street.

"They circulated a petition for increased lighting and we held a series of meetings with the Police and Planning Departments.

In addition to the new lighting on East Squantum St., she said, there will also be:

- Additional "Slow" and "curve" signs.
- A wooden barrier in front of the house that was hit by a car.
- Additional lights on Ashworth, Atlantic, Holmes and Newbury Ave.

More Atlantic Street Lighting

City Councillor Joanne Condon has promised that there will be additional lighting soon on East Squantum St. and adjoining streets in the Atlantic section.

She said the promise of new lighting grew out of a series of meetings with the Police and Planning Departments at which concerns were expressed over traffic problems in the area.

"Since last fall," she said, "I have been working with the Mayor's office and Mass Electric to improve conditions on this heavily traveled street."

"There was a serious automobile accident where a car hit a house

Commission Orders Fill Removed On John St.

The Conservation Commission has denied a proposal by Joseph Salvaggi of Weymouth to fill in land at 17 and 25 John St..

Montclair, preparatory to laying out two house lots.

The Commission also directed him to remove forthwith illegal fill and "return the area to those contours that existed prior to this alteration as this area is deemed significant to flood damage prevention."

Permission to fill was denied, said the Commission, "until such time as the flood hazard condition in the area is alleviated."

PATTI LYONS and Coach Joe Catalano.
(Runner's World Photo)

Profiled In Magazine

Patti Lyons One Of World's Top Woman Marathoners

Patti Lyons, the Quincy girl who started running in 1976 to trim down her 148 pounds and ran on to become one of the world's top woman marathoners, is profiled in the April issue of Runner's World, the magazine of distance running.

Patti turned in an excellent 2:38.22, in Monday's Boston Marathon. It was more than three minutes better than her previous best but she had to be satisfied with second place among the women, three minutes behind the winner, Joan Benoit, whose 2:35.15 was an American record.

Patti gave it her best shot and her unofficial 1:14 at the halfway mark was several minutes better than Norway's Grete Waitz' world record schedule last October in New York.

"It may have been a bit too fast," she said. "Sometimes I get like that, a little overzealous, but I was feeling really good."

The Quincy runner was plagued by a recurring foot injury which has nagged her since last fall. She had a cortisone shot before the race.

"The pain got pretty bad but the crowd was great," Patti said. "The crowd just carried me through."

The article in Runner's World, written by Ellen Clegg, who runs herself when she is not tied down to a desk at the Boston Globe, traces Patti's phenomenal rise from the day she first donned sweatpants and ran seven tortured miles in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

"I died," she said. "But after I recovered, I went back and did more. One thing led to another."

She ran her first race, a five-mile in Quincy, in August, 1976, after a scant four months of haphazard training -- and won.

She was so enthused that she quit smoking to prepare for the second one, the Ocean State Marathon in Newport, R.I. She won that, too, in 2 hours, 53 minutes, 40 seconds.

Ocean State earned her the No. 8 ranking among women marathoners in the United States and brought her to the attention of Joe Catalano, a veteran marathoner, who was coaching the Quincy High School track team.

With an intensive two week training course from Catalano, Patti finished second in the highly regarded Bonne Bell 10 kilometers road race. By this time she was bitten by the running bug.

"I had to make a choice between running and everything else," she said. "My non-running women friends -- I had lost them all. I needed to train with the men because there just aren't that many girls who could train like this."

She won two more Ocean State Marathons, the last in 1978 in 2 hours, 44 minutes, 11 seconds -- "It was easy. I did it as a long workout" -- in preparation for her first Boston run. She planned to run Boston in 1977 and 1978 but she was injured both times.

Patti has lost only once in five marathon attempts and strangely she turned in her best time, 2 hours, 41 minutes, 30 seconds, in that race in Oregon. She was beaten by Julie Brown, who set the American record of 2:36.23.

Oh, yes, Patti weighs 108 pounds now.

Your Dental Health

by Daniel P. Sweeney D.D.S.

Vitamin C is important in maintaining a rosy complexion, sound teeth, supple joints, and building resistance to infection. It is the vitamin C in your body that helps cell fibers hold cells together. It also keeps gums healthy and makes the capillary walls sufficiently strong. Vitamin C also helps heal wounds quickly. The fact is, that you cannot have too much vitamin C. However, the body does not manufacture its own, which means that it should be taken in sufficient amounts every day generally through a properly balanced diet. Good nutrition along with good oral hygiene can help you avoid serious dental problems. Dr. Daniel P. Finish In Same Time

Catalano, Lyons Lead Local Runners In Marathon

Joseph Catalano, former Quincy High School track coach who now supervises the training of Patti Lyons, was the first Quincy finisher among the men entries in Monday's BAA marathon.

Catalano did the course in two hours, 38 minutes, 22 seconds, the same time as Patti, to finish 636th.

Other Quincy finishers in the 26 miles, 385 yard grind included:

Jake Mahoney, a Milton police officer, who finished 733rd in two hours, 39 minutes, 57 seconds.

Tim Woodbridge, a senior at Eastern Nazarene College, who finished in the first 1,000 despite not feeling well. He decided to run anyway in preparation for a 1,300-mile run to his home in Lake City, Fla., May 29.

Davenport Jackson Jr., 47, of North Quincy, who prepared himself for the marathon's famed Heartbreak Hill by running on Quarry Hill, did the course in three hours, 20 minutes.

Bob Seamans of Merrymount, running with strained chest muscles in the Masters Division, finished in three hours, 26 minutes.

Also completing the course were Attorney Joseph Kilion and William Stenmon, a Quincy detective.

Quincy Faces Silver Lake Friday

Quincy's baseball team, which lost twice to B.C. High in non-league games last week, will face Silver Lake in another non-leaguer Friday at 10 a.m. at Kingston.

On Monday, the Presidents will open their Suburban League season against Brookline at Adams Field.

The Presidents dropped both decisions to B.C. High by identical 6-3 scores.

In the opener Paul O'Toole's two-run triple in the fifth clinched the Eagles' win. Tom Brennan drove in Mike Trubiano with Quincy's first run, Mike Scurti drove in the second and pitcher Ray Coscia's RBI single finished off Quincy's attack.

In the second game Friday Scurti singled in Fran Donovan with Quincy's first run. B.C. then took a 3-1 lead and scored three in the fifth to pull away.

Billy Deitch was the losing pitcher but hurled well until the fifth.

North Girls' Softball Team Opens At Newton North

The North Quincy girls' softball team opens its season Friday at 10 a.m. at Newton North. Next week the Raidersettes will host Cambridge Monday and Quincy Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. at Atlantic Junior High.

North was 7-9 last year following a 2-5 start and Coach Cheryl Munoli is hopeful of improving on that record.

"We have seven returning starters and so will have a lot of experience," she said. "We should have a good defensive team and also feature some solid hitting. We also have a strong sophomore bench which will give us some depth."

Karen Lydon, junior third baseman, saw some action last year at second and starting at second will be either senior Diane Graham or junior Sue Cahill.

Carol Flynn will join Worley pitching.

Lauren Apollo and Becky Holcomb head the top crop of sophomores and will help out in the infield and as designated hitter. In the outfield help will come from sophs Kim Alberti and Jackie Thayer and senior Torie Gobbi.

Bellotti and Gerbo were Suburban League all-stars last year with batting averages of .484 and .445 respectively.

Henderson and Lydon also hit well a year ago with averages of .455 and .415.

Registration Forms For 'Pitch, Hit, Run' Competition

Registration forms for the Quincy competition of Major League Baseball's official youth program, Pitch, Hit and Run, are now available at the city's two Burger King restaurants and the Recreation Department Office.

According to Director of Recreation Charles L. Alongi, the competition is open to all boys and girls between 9 and 12 with each youngster competing in three categories—pitching at a target, hitting for distance and running the base path for speed.

The Quincy competition will be held Saturday, May 5, at Adams Field with the 9 and 10 year olds beginning at 9 a.m. and the 11 and 12 year olds at 1 p.m.

In the event of inclement weather the competition will be held on May 12 at the same place and times.

Further information can be obtained by calling the Recreation Office at 773-1380, Ext. 204.

76 Run In HN Marathon

Seventy-six men, women and youngsters ran in the annual Houghs Neck Marathon Monday.

The race started and ended at the Houghs Neck Legion Post home on Sea Street. The Post sponsored the race.

The runners left the Legion post and the men followed a route that took them up over Great Hill and back to the post, a distance of a mile and a half. Women and children covered a mile course.

Russ Gullickson was first and Richard Murphy second in men over 30 division. Bruce Patton first, Dennis Murphy second and Ronald Crombie third in men 20-30; Mark Rand, first 16-19; Dave Keith first, Ed Brennan second and Ed Ruscio third, 12-15, and Danny Hurley first, Mark Bishop second and Thomas Eaton third, boys 11 and under. This division drew the largest group, 22.

Ann McCarron and Maureen Maher tied for first and Jean Aupperlee was third in women 16-30; Beth Ann Vecchione first, Nancy Sullivan second and Bridg Morrell third, 12-15, and Laura Fratellillo first, Tammy Christensen second and Cara Faulkner third, 11 and under.

Trophies were awarded to each of these runners.

Other runners were Steve Stone, Jack Clark, Milt Donovan, Wayne Stone, Chris Hurley, John Kelleher, Matthew Norton, Walter Burgess, John Mann, Ron Eaton, Kevin Servaes, Walter Chapman, Vincent Servaes, Mike Sutter, Kenny Christensen, Scot Sterling, Steven Gamble, Steven McInnis, Richie Brennan, Shawn Lydon, David Squatrito, Michael Mann, Greg Faulkner, Donald Servaes, Brian Keith, Mossie Houlihan, David Chenette, Eric Westhaven, Thomas Morrell, Jimmy Regan, Freddie Regan, Jimmy Regan, Chris McKay, Jimmy Houlihan.

Other contestants were Colleen Craig, Kathleen Ryan, Crissy Loud, Cindy Servaes, Jodi Knowlton, Pam Gullickson, Renee Fealey, Karen Regan, Barbara Kelly, Maureen Kelley, Gail Morrell, Patricia Morrell, Lauren Keith, Audrey McManus, Morgan Aronoff, Susan Sutter, Kerry Eaton, Lisa Chapman, Joanna Dondoro and Susan Eaton.

John Dully, athletic chairman, had charge of the marathon with John Christensen, junior vice commander, assisting.

Quincy Track Team Hopes For Surge

Despite the fact the Quincy boys' track team was soundly defeated, as expected, by Weymouth South's powerhouse, 93 1/3-46 2/3, in its opening meet last week, Coaches Bill Mavor and Joe Goguen were pleased with several of the performances.

The Presidents face the league powers in their opening three meets and the coaches knew they were in for trouble. However, they hope to do well by mid-season.

Tuesday Quincy faced Brockton, always a league and Eastern Mass. power, and next Wednesday will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin, another perennial power.

The Presidents had the only double winner of the Weymouth meet and three other athletes won 10 Quincy boys scored.

Roy Higgins won the 440 and the long jump to pace the Presidents. John Furey, one of the Suburban League's premier two-milers, tied his previous best mark in winning that event, Charlie McCall won the dash and Brian Donovan won the high jump.

"We have a young team with only one senior and we had no winter track, so we are starting at a distinct disadvantage," Goguen said. "We were pleased with the improvement shown by many of the boys and we could surprise a lot of people before the season is over."

Raiders Host Waltham Thursday

The inexperienced North Quincy track team, which opened its Suburban League season Tuesday against Cambridge Rindge and Latin, hosts Waltham today [Thursday] at 10 o'clock at Veterans Memorial Stadium. Next Wednesday the Raiders will meet Weymouth North at the Weymouth South track.

The relay team pulled North through to a 73-72 win last week over Milton in a non-league meet.

The Raiders trailed, 72-68, going into the relay, the final event, and the foursome of John McGuigan, Rich Schaeztl, Gerry McCormick and Tim O'Neill won in 3:05.5 to give North the win.

O'Neill also won the long jump [19.5] and the 220 [23.7] and McGuigan won the mile.

Also winning for Lou Tozzi's Raiders were Tom Quinn in the dash, Paul White in the shot put, Jim Mackiewicz in the javelin and Bill Daily in the pole vault.

Quincy Girls Softball Team Opens At Brookline

The Quincy girls' softball team had its worst season last spring and, despite the fact Coach Barbara Webster will be rebuilding, she has high hopes of improving on that record.

Quincy was 5-11 last season. The First Ladies will open Monday at Brookline and next Wednesday will face North Quincy at Atlantic Junior High field.

"Although we have only two seniors, we have some really talented players and we are looking forward to a good season," Miss Webster said.

The lone seniors are Debbie Russo and Denise Leonard. Debbie is returning after breaking her ankle and sitting out much of last year and also missing the basketball season. She will be the shortstop and Denise will be playing first base where she has a wealth of experience and, in her coach's words, enthusiasm.

Other returnees are Laura Miller, one of the best catchers in the Suburban League, left fielder Sue Callahan and right fielder Maureen Maher. All are juniors. Debbie Ohlson is the only other varsity returnee.

Handling the pitching will be sophomore Susan Gallery and a junior playing for the first time, Helen Gleason.

The junior varsity, coached by Hank Conroy, has four returning players, catcher Joyce Christensen, first baseman Jane Doherty, third baseman Maryanne Cuccinatta and outfielder Lisa Belliveau.

There is an outstanding group of sophomores including second baseman Linda Brennan, first baseman Paula Morrison, first baseman-shortstop Anne McCarron, center fielder Susan Callahan, outfielders Karen Deady and Marie Callahan and catchers Barbara Shoemaker and Karen Kozloski.

Handling most of the pitching for the jayves will be junior Robin Veneto.

St. John's Little League Underway April 28

St. John's Little League will get under way Saturday, April 28, when Riley & Rielly Insurance faces President Pharmacy at the old Faxon Park field and Beau's Place will meet Social Club at the new field.

All games will be played at Faxon Park at 6 p.m.

The American League teams are Riley & Rielly, Beau's Place, Sweeney Funeral Service, Quincy Sun and Peter Gacicia Insurance.

National League teams are

President Pharmacy, Social Club, Alpine Restaurant, Bantree Paint & Wallpaper and Van Oriola Plumbing and Heating.

The season will continue until June 21.

Anthony Porcaro is president of the league.

Koch N.Q. District Registration

The North Quincy District of the Koch Club, one of the oldest boys baseball and girls softball leagues on the South Shore, is preparing for its 29th season of summer activity.

Registration applications will be distributed Wednesday and Thursday between 6 p.m. and 7 p.m. at Cavanagh Stadium, Birch St., opposite Atlantic Junior High School.

The league will formally open the week of May 1. Registration forms must be completed and returned as soon as possible to the specific division leader.

Boys and girls of the area are invited to join and participate in the recreation program. There are no tryouts. Each boy and girl registering will be assigned to a team and actively play. Boys, 5 to 12 years, and girls, 7 to 14 years, are welcome to participate.

The leagues will open officially May 1 with the Cadet Division, boys, 5 and 6 years, meeting every Monday and Wednesday at Atlantic Junior High School Field. The girls softball leagues of all ages will also play on the same days each week at Atlantic Junior High Field at 6 p.m.

The 7 and 8 year old boys Junior Division will participate every Monday and Wednesday evening at 6 p.m. at Cavanagh Stadium. The Intermediate Division, boys 9 and 10 years, will meet each Tuesday and Thursday at Cavanagh Stadium at 6 p.m.

Senior boys, 11 and 12, will compete each Tuesday and Thursday at Atlantic Junior High School Field at 6 p.m.

The leagues are conducted from May through July. Each member is provided with a baseball cap and T-shirt.

Pitching Question Mark As Raiders Open

By TOM SULLIVAN

Pitching is the key to the success of the North Quincy baseball team, which opens its season Friday at 10 a.m. against Newton North at Adams Field.

The Raiders are starting the season a week later than usual but they have played a large number of scrimmages and are ready for their Suburban League opener.

North will play at Cambridge Rindge and Latin Monday and next Wednesday will face Quincy at Adams Field.

"Pitching definitely is the key," Coach Charlie Bunker said. "We will have a good defensive club and we have some good hitters but the pitching is a question mark."

Last spring North Quincy won its first five games, then lost its two top pitchers, Gary Earle and Kurt O'Sullivan, and lost nine of its last 12 games for an 8-9 record.

"I never before lost my two top pitchers like that," Bunker said. "Earle is our top pitcher this year and should have a good season." He is a southpaw.

Behind Earle are Greg Madden, who pitched well with the junior varsity last year, and Leo Graham. A lot will depend on how this pair does. Other pitching hopefuls are senior Bob Thomas and Jamie Walsh, one of an outstanding sophomore group. North, which had a great turnout of 80, has the best looking sophomore groups in years.

Bunker has one of the best catchers in the league in Bob Biagini, an excellent hitter. Behind him is Chris Petrillo, who will also right field.

Bunker has only one veteran in the infield, third baseman Dave King, another good batter.

Vying for the first base job are Brian Condon, one of the team's big surprises, and another outstanding sophomore, Glen Segalla. Condon, a junior varsity standout for two years, is hitting well and could be a big factor in the Raiders' hopes.

Dave Nagle is the second baseman and Billy O'Connell will start at shortstop. Madden, when not pitching, will be a utility infielder and can play at any infield spot.

Larry Baker will be in center field with Tom Quinn or Mark Milane, a big sophomore, in left and Petrillo in right.

Lou Iannelli is back as junior varsity coach and should have another outstanding team with so many good looking sophomores.

Central Defeats Atlantic For Elementary Championship

Central defeated Atlantic, 42-37, at the Vo-Tech gym to win the Quincy Recreation Department's boys' elementary basketball tournament.

Jim Sheets led Central with 21 points, while Matt Eloffson added 11 and played a strong defensive game. John Christiani and Tad Sheets scored six points each. Coach Brian Buckley praised Al Martell and Jim Sturgeon for their all-around performances.

Atlantic was led by Ken Runge's 11 points and eight by Edward Kennedy. Also scoring were Jim Arroyo, Joe Concannon, Mark Scanlan, John McGowan and Anthony LaValle. Coach Paul Bregoli had good words for defensive standouts Bill Heffernan and Pat O'Sullivan.

Director of Recreation Charles Alongi presented trophies to the winning players and certificates to the runners-up.

Panthers, Flyers In S.S. Playoffs Semi-Finals

The Quincy Panthers advanced to the semifinals of the South Shore Hockey League playoffs by eliminating Neponset in three games.

Neponset won the opening game, 4-3, in double overtime, but the Panthers bounced back to win, 7-4, and clinched the quarter-final series with a 6-3 decision Sunday.

The Panthers will face the Greater Boston Division champion Jamaica Plain DeFranco Club Sunday at the Pilgrim Arena in Hingham, while the Quincy Flyers, the South Shore Division champs, meet Bridgewater, which finished three points behind the Flyers. The Flyers had eliminated the Houghton Sabres in two straight games to move to the semifinals.

In the deciding Panthers-Neponset game Bill Dailey put the Panthers ahead with Bob DeBrace having an assist. DeBrace three minutes later made it 2-0 with the first of his three goals.

Midway in the second period Dave Mattingly made it 3-0 with a fine conversion of a two on one pass from DeBrace. Neponset cut the gap to 3-2 with two power play goals but Ed Shea scored what proved to be the winning goal and DeBrace added his second and third goals on power plays to clinch it.

This is the first time Quincy has had two teams in the semifinals and, going by the records, there is an excellent chance for an all-Quincy final.

McGinn, Keohane's In Finals

McGinn edged Feeney's Devils, 3-2, in the final game of the regular season to tie Keohane's for first place in the Squirt House League.

Tony Koury was outstanding in goal for McGinn and Brian Glavin and Ricky Manupelli played excellent defense for Feeney's.

McGinn then eliminated Quincy teachers from the playoffs with two straight wins.

In the opener McGinn won, 4-1, with Ed Flavin and Pete Scheurch scoring two goals each. Paul Lester had three assists. Bill Roche two and John Pacino and Sean Mahoney one each. Flavin, Rick Lames, Mike Layden, Dave Edgren and Dan Hurley played well. For Teachers Bill Jenkins had the goal and Matt Roche and Steve Miller had assists.

McGinn eliminated Teachers with another 4-1 decision with Roche scoring twice and Bob Ellis and Lester once each. Scheurch had four assists and Flavin, Roche, Ames and Lester one each. Steve O'Connell scored for Teachers with Jenkins assisting.

Keohane's eliminated Feeney's in two straight games to move into the finals against McGinn.

Keohane's won the opener, 3-0, with Chuck Hughes shining in goal and Tom VanTassel, Jim Bille and Karl Stasky scoring the goals. Mike Daly, Matt Paul, Brian Roche and Nicky Cangemi had assists.

Keohane's won the clincher, 1-0, on Rich Connelly's goal. Van Tassel assisted.

● Mite House

Lydon, Balducci Advance To Finals

First place Lydon Russell and Balducci Pizza advanced to the finals of the Mite House League playoffs by sweeping their semi-finals series in two games.

Lydon defeated Harold Club, 5-3, with Darren Simonelli and Hank Miller scoring two goals apiece and Mark Molloy one. Miller had three assists, Simonelli and Molloy two each. For Harold, Jay Rodriguez had two goals and Kevin Lynch one with Tom Roberts having three assists.

Lydon eliminated Harold, 5-0, as Simonelli exploded for four goals and Kirk McDonald had the other. Miller had two assists and Molloy, Sean Cappelis and Chuck Hughes one each.

Balducci topped Boston Gear in the opener, 4-1, as Bobby Roche scored two goals and Matt Smith and Rich Golden one each. Joe Jackson, Mike Cronin, Mike Galvin, Mike Witham and Craig Galligan had assists. Matt Collins scored for Gear with Mike McClory assisting.

Balducci's ousted Gear with a 4-1 win sparked by Golden's hat trick. Roche had the other goal and Galligan had two assists and Ronny Last, Smith and Jackson one apiece. Sean Hunter scored for Gear with assists for Brian Mahoney and Tony Pecce.

Swim Club In Good Performances

The Quincy Swim Club was well represented during the past two weekends in AAU meets in Haverhill, New Bedford and Brown University.

At Brown, Elise Reiners qualified to swim against a team of Canadians at Harvard this Sunday by placing second in the 100 backstroke, putting her on the all-New England team.

Ed Malanson placed third in the 200 butterfly but this event was not one of the qualifying events for the all-star team.

In New Bedford Dan Falvey was third in the 200 backstroke, Matt Petrie won the 100 freestyle and was second in the 100 butterfly and also had an "A" time in the 100 backstroke. Bob Laracy was second in the 50 freestyle and sixth in the 50 breast-stroke and his times in both qualify him to swim "B" meets.

In Haverhill, Petrie and Laracy were the only Quincy swimmers and competed against swimmers from 28 teams from three states. Petrie won the 50 backstroke, 50 butterfly, 50 freestyle and 100 individual medley and was second in the 100 freestyle. Laracy was third in the 50 freestyle and fourth in the 100 freestyle, 500 breaststroke and 500 open class freestyle.

Quincy, S.S. Realtors Board Participates

Private Property Week Stresses Need To Prevent Vandalism

The Quincy-South Shore Board of Realtors this week are joining with realtors across the nation in observing "Private Property Week".

Theme of this year's Private Property Week is "This is Your Land...Preserve It...Enjoy It...Invest in It". Local realtors are emphasizing the need to prevent vandalism, stressing that destruction of property not only hurts people but affects the entire community.

Richard S. Troup of Elouise A. Troup, Inc., Braintree is chairman of the South Shore board's Make America Better committee, and Richard B. DeWolfe of Milton, is state coordinator of the state program.

As part of the observance the Quincy-South Shore board is sponsoring a poster contest for elementary school students in Quincy, Braintree, Weymouth and Hull on the theme "Vandalism Hurts People".

Awards in the contest will be made tonight [Thursday] at 7 p.m. at the Braintree High School auditorium. Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford Marshall will moderate the program and representatives of various police departments will present the prizes.

The poster contest is designed to educate children in the devastating effects and consequences of vandalism. The program views vandalism as a crime, but will stress how destruction of property hurts people and effects the community.

Sheriff Marshall will offer tips to parents of award winners on home security, what to do to become involved in prevention of vandalism and what individuals can do to assist law enforcement officers in the fight to control vandalism in neighborhoods.

PRIVATE PROPERTY WEEK is being celebrated this week throughout the nation. The local program is emphasizing prevention of vandalism. John Abdelahad (left), president of the Quincy-South Shore Board of Realtors, and Richard S. Troup of Braintree, anti-vandalism program coordinator, are heading up the project in this area.

Median Price $50,900

Homes U.S. Largest Investment

Did you know that there are over 62,000,000 home owners in America today?

Did you know that the median price of a new home is $61,100, up 125 percent in the past decade, and that the median price of an existing home is $50,900, up 123 percent in the same period?

Last year over five million Americans placed their money in an investment which has outperformed savings accounts, common stocks and corporate bonds over the past decade.

What investment did these five million people make? They bought a single-family home.

This year, however, millions of Americans will not be able to fulfill their dreams of owning their own homes. Inflation, tight money markets, high taxes, increased construction costs, and over regulation by government on all levels threaten to put the American Dream of home ownership out of the reach of many Americans.

"We all have a stake in private property - America's largest investment, and we all have a responsibility to protect that investment," says John Abdelahad, president of the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors. "Our objective during this week, Private Property Week, is to reconfirm our belief that we can do something about preserving and protecting private property ownership. Realtors are concerned about the future of private ownership in America and will continue to work with government, financial institutions and community organizations in an effort to encourage policies and legislation favorable to property ownership.

"Personal dedication and involvement are vital if we hope to preserve private ownership and make it affordable to all Americans. When Woodie Guthrie wrote "This Land Is Your Land," the Great Depression threatened to destroy the American Dream; we survived because people believed in a dream and were willing to work to save it.

"This is why we observe Private Property Week and why this year's theme, "THIS LAND IS YOUR LAND...Preserve It...Enjoy It...Invest in It..." is particularly relevant. We hope all home owners, land owners and property owners will join in our celebration.

DeWolfe Agent For Forbes Property

Distinctive Properties, a division of The DeWolfe Company, has been selected as the exclusive agent to market and sell the 1979 Junior League "Show House".

The house which is owned by the Forbes Family is located on Adams Street in Milton.

Marcia Carter, Director of the Distinctive Properties Division for The DeWolfe Company, will personally handle all transactions in regard to the sale of the property.

"Show House" is an annual fund raising event in which a distinguished home in the greater Boston area is chosen by the League to be professionally decorated and open to the public for viewing. This year the Forbes house will be on display from April 29 through May 20.

CETA Workers Only

City NOT Implementing 100% Valuation

MAYOR TOBIN

'What we're doing is gathering information.'

The city is not hiring CETA workers to appraise residential property in Quincy.

Nor is it in the process of implementing 100 per cent valuation of real property.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin called a news conference Tuesday specifically to put to rest such reports and rumors that have been flooding the city in recent days.

What really is happening, he said, is this:

The city has entered into a $225,000 contract with the Comprehensive Employment and Training Administration (CETA) to furnish 16 workers to canvass the city updating assessors' cards.

It is the first step toward implementing the Classification Amendment under which residential, industrial and commercial property will be taxed at different percentages of true market value.

The Classification Amendment to the State Constitution was approved by voters last November in order to avoid 100 per cent valuation which has been ordered by the courts.

Tobin said he has been assured by the Attorney General's office that once Quincy has taken steps to implement classification the city will be dropped from litigation currently in the courts.

Quincy and several other communities are being sued by the State Department of Revenue, which claims the power to hire appraisal firms to reassess non-complying communities.

The suit is scheduled to be heard May 24 in the Supreme Judicial Court.

"We did institute a program," said Tobin. "The reason we were before the Supreme Judicial Court is that no money had been appropriated to implement the program."

"This is part of the plan we have put together. The CETA employees are paid with federal money. And money has been put in the 1979-80 budget for industrial and commercial appraisal."

Tobin said the CETA workers, armed with identification cards from the city, will canvass residential properties to make sure the description of the property is correctly noted on the assessors' cards.

The actual appraisal or reappraisal will be done by the assessors.

The CETA workers, who received six to eight weeks training from Commercial Appraisal Co., have been at work since April 9. It is expected that the project will take two years.

Fourteen of the 16 CETA people are classified "Special Service Assistants" at $164.23 a week, and two are clerical helpers at $138.25 a week.

Tobin said the use of CETA workers to update the cards will save the city "a little under $100

28 Work 1,492 Hours In 7 Weeks

$17,782 Overtime Pay For School Maintenance

By TOM HENSHAW

Twenty-eight members of the School Department's maintenance crew worked 1,492 hours of overtime and received $17,782 in overtime pay during the first seven weeks of 1979.

"My position is one of ambivalence," said School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon. "It certainly costs an awful lot of money. But I don't think it's abused, not at all."

School Committeeman Frank Anselmo last month raised the question of overtime for maintenance men and custodians, which he thought was excessive and distributed unequally among the men.

The matter was tabled on the motion of Committeeman John J. Sullivan until Dr. Creedon could analyze it and perhaps come up with recommendations for cutting the amount of overtime.

A Quincy Sun study of the School Department's maintenance payroll for the first seven weeks of this year shows a lot of money [$17,782] spent for a lot of overtime [1,492 hours].

It also shows that some employees get a lot more overtime than others; in fact, six of them -- four building maintenance men and two electricians -- worked almost half the overtime [636 hours].

One man, listed as a machinery maintenance repair man, worked 150 hours overtime for $2,198 while another, a building maintenance man, put in 105 hours for $1,512.

Dr. Creedon had this explanation for the large number of overtime hours worked by maintenance men and the apparent inequality of assignment:

"Maintenance overtime," he said, "usually is for things we can't do during the day when the kids are in school. For instance, we can't shut off services while classes are going on."

"The job that needs to be done determines who works it. Over the past 10 years we have become more and more specialized. There aren't the jacks of all trades that there were once."

"The Maintenance men have a very active and vocal union. They have never complained about any discrimination in the awarding of any kind of overtime."

The machinery repair man, Dr. Creedon said, is also the general maintenance foreman who works whenever a crew works; and the maintenance man who made $1,512 is one of the rare jacks of all trades types.

"He came to work for the

HRCI Charges Screening Violation

Mixed Reaction On Harris Appointment To QHA Board

The appointment of Mrs. Lolita C. Harris to the Quincy Housing Authority's Board of Commissioners has drawn mixed reviews around the city.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin and Board Chairman Carmine D'Olimpio had nothing but praise for Gov. Edward J. King's state nominee to the five-member board.

Sen. Paul D. Harold (D-Quincy) and the Harborview Residents Committee, Inc.

(HRCI), the tenants' organization, were critical of the way the appointment was made.

"I'm not critical of the results," said Harold. "We might have got the right results the wrong way."

Thelma A. Rogers, chairman of the HRCI committee that screened the candidates for the post as specified by state regulations, fired off a letter of protest.

It was directed to Byron Matthews, director of the State Department of Community Affairs, who technically made the appointment although many credit it to Gov. King.

"We feel," said Mrs. Rogers, "that you have violated the screening process by your failure to contact us in advance on your decision and have not dealt with us in good faith."

"We feel that you treated us in a very cynical manner and that it behooves us to notify our other affiliates to alert them to the

At Law Day Ceremonies

Judge Chmielinski To Receive Bar Association 'Man Of Year' Award

Associate Justice of the Superior Court Henry H. Chmielinski, Jr., of Weymouth, will be presented the Alfred P. Malany "Man of the Year" award at "Law Day" ceremonies to be held by the Quincy Bar Association May 1, at 8:30 a.m. at Quincy District Court.

The nomination of Chmielinski for the award was made at the association's annual meeting held recently at Mr. Kelly's, Sumner St., Quincy.

The meeting also included the election of Ronald J. Saad, secretary; Edward H. Masterson, vice president; Dennis E. Harrington, president; and Douglas C. Purdy, treasurer.

Report was made of a memorial fund which has been set up for the family of the late Atty. William Gavin, of Weymouth, who died in a car accident.

The sum of $5,000 will be presented to the Gavin family.

Plans were discussed for the association's clam bake which will be held in late June at Faxon Park, Quincy.

Special guests at the meeting were Associate Justices of the Superior Court Vincent Brogna and Robert S. Prince, and Justices of Probate and Family Court James A. Lawton and Francis P. Murphy.

Also attending were members of the association Judge Lewis L. Whitman, Associate Justice of the District Court of East Norfolk, and Dennis Ryan, Clerk Magistrate, of the District Court.

Council On Aging Asks $2,133 For Vehicle Insurance

The Council on Aging Tuesday night asked the City Council for $2,133 to pay insurance coverage for two of its vehicles for the year 1977.

Executive Director Marion Andrews said the first she knew of the unpaid bill was when a statement arrived from the insurance company dated Sept. 28, 1978.

A check of the files of the Council and the City Auditor showed that it had never been paid.

"The company gave no explanation of why the insurance was not cancelled for non-payment," said Mrs. Andrews.

"We were told that they had found the outstanding bill when they were going back over their files."

Auditor Charles L. Shea said he would ask that the request for $2,133 be referred to the Finance Committee for further study.

Contractor Getting Impatient

Finance Committee Moving Cautiously On $1.5 Million Bond To Complete NQHS

The City Council's Finance Committee is moving cautiously on Mayor Tobin's request for a $1.5 million bond issue to finish North Quincy High School, despite a show of impatience on the part of the general contractor.

Chairman John J. Lydon Jr., whose committee received the request April 17, said he has asked Public Works Commissioner James J. Ricciuti and School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon for a breakdown of the $1.5 million figure.

"As soon as that is received and the Council has had time to digest it," he said, "I will call a committee meeting, polling the councilors to see who they want present at the meeting."

"We are trying to work cooperatively with the Mayor but the City Council has got to have a comprehensive understanding of what the bond issue is for. It has not been provided as yet."

Passage of the $1.5 million bond issue would bring the cost of renovating and adding to North Quincy High School to $17.6 million.

Lydon said he felt all along that extra money would be needed "but $1.5 million is much higher than I anticipated. I thought it would come in at about $700,000 or $800,000."

He said he understands that some $600,000 of the bond issue would go to extend the contract with Blount Brothers of Braintree, the general contractor, because of early delays in the project.

Lydon said he received a copy of a letter from Blount Brothers to Mayor Tobin in which the contractor expresses some concern that the city has not moved faster to appropriate the money.

He quoted the letter as saying that a representative of Blount Brothers was at the April 17 meeting and "was greatly perplexed and severely concerned over the reception of members of the Council for the request for additional money."

"Negotiations were completed and officially presented to the city of Quincy early in December of '78," the letter went on. "Since that time 4½ months have passed and it is very difficult to predict how much longer it will take to reach a resolve."

"In order to ease the trepidation of Blount Brothers Corp. and the concerned subcontractors it is requested at this time that assurances by the city of Quincy be issued that compensation as agreed to will be forthcoming at some early date."

Lydon said he explained to Blount that the Council did not know of the negotiations with the city until April 17 and that there were several other requests in the bond issue that the Council wanted to study.

He suggested that perhaps Blount should have requested a separate bond issue to cover its money alone if the company was in a hurry to be paid.

Mayor Tobin called the December negotiations "preliminary figures."

"There were still some legal things to clear up before we gave the bond request to the Council," he said. "By the time we finished that it was February and we were in the middle of the UDAG application."

Kelly Urges Quick Restoration Of HN Public Landing

City Councilor Leo J. Kelly has urged that the city get started quickly on restoration of the public landing in Houghs Neck in time for the coming boating season.

The landing was badly damaged during the blizzard of February, 1978.

Kelly requested Public Works Commissioner James J. Ricciuti to put restoration out to bid to determine the cost so that the city can proceed as soon as possible.

"The city of Quincy has received federal monies as a result of the blizzard and some of these monies could be used to restore the landing," he said.

Kelly noted that it is the only such public boating facility for use of all the city's residents on its 26 miles of shoreline.

"Its present condition is an embarrassment to the city," he said.

ARE YOU LOSING MONEY IN YOUR NOW ACCOUNT?

At some banks you lose an entire month's interest or pay an activity charge if your NOW Account balance falls below their minimum for just one day. Not at Old Colony. We don't think you should lose money just because your NOW Account has its normal ups and downs. You earn interest every single day you maintain a minimum balance of $200. And that means if your balance falls below the minimum for just a few days, you'll still earn interest for the rest of the month.

With free checks and a monthly statement, it all adds up to this: Your money works harder at Old Colony Bank.

Today's Women

Dr. Ruth Jacobs Keynote Speaker

7 In-Depth Workshops At 'Woman To Woman Day'

By MARY WEAVER

Lifestyles. Finding a job. Starting your own business. Returning to school. Managing your money. Investments. Health. Drug abuse. Raising kids. Domestic violence.

These are some of the many topics which will be explored at the third annual Woman-to-Woman Day Saturday, at the Lincoln-Hancock School, Water St., Quincy, beginning at 9 a.m.

"Sponsored by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women and the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College and offered at no charge, the day will feature seven in-depth workshops, a keynote talk by Dr. Ruth Jacobs, and a social sponsored by the Quincy Cooperative Bank.

Following registration at 9 a.m., Carol Mahoney, chairwoman of the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women and Alicia Coletti, director of the Women's Center will open the conference.

Ruth Harriet Jacobs, Ph.D., and associate professor of sociology at Boston University and author, will open the day as a keynote speaker. Her topic: "Life After Youth: Female".

The talk will be based on her book, "Life After Youth: Female 40, What Next?" which is scheduled for publication this summer.

An example of a woman who returned to school and developed a successful career, Dr. Jacobs has a record of outstanding accomplishments in the fields of education, sociology, gerontology, including publications, workshops, and research.

Following the talk, participants will attend one of the following four workshops from 10 a.m. to noon:

Looking out for [a healthy] Number One: Dr. Anne Stewart-Burton, a gynecologist at Wellesley College and Mary Vallier, R.N., will conduct this workshop on women's health issues. Concerns about health and drug abuse, including questions to ask your doctor, physical examinations, child birth, breast surgery, hysterectomies, use of alcohol, diet pills, valium, etc., will be discussed.

Koping with Kids: Raising children, the development of a child, finding good day care, and the experiences of divorced and single mothers will be discussed by Lois Lange of the Child Study Association, Lois Goldstein and Dyanne Townsend of the Family Daycare Program of South Shore Day Care Services, Inc., Pat Hutchinson, WOMAN-TO-WOMAN Day, sponsored by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women and the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College, last year attracted more than 200. The all-day series of workshops will be held again this year at the Lincoln Hancock School Saturday.

divorced mother of two, and Marjorie McPhee, single mother of three Vietnamese orphans.

What We Haven't Got a Lot of...Money: Jeremiah Foley III, of the Quincy Cooperative Bank, will discuss ways of handling your income, insuring financial security, and other issues relating to the management and investment of money.

Violence in the Home: Help which is available to victims of domestic violence will be discussed by representatives from DOVE, Inc., the Quincy Police Department, the Norfolk County District Attorney's Office, and Parents Anonymous. Panelists include: Anne Keating, Barbara DiNatale, Joan Hassol, Sandra Wixted, Debra Murphy, and Leslie Colello.

A buffet lunch is available to participants who pre-register [others can bring their own lunch] from noon to 1 p.m.

The afternoon workshops which will take place from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. include:

Breaking into the Job Market: Alternative employment opportunities, including starting your own business, will be explored by Sue Lynch, job counsellor with the Boston-based organization, Wider Opportunities for Women and Vicki Thomas, a hometown success story of a woman who began the popular Blazing Salads restaurant in Quincy. Creative approaches to the job market, resume writing, interviewing techniques, skills development and the pros and cons of starting your own business will be discussed.

Just Folks-Life/Career Styles: Six South Shore women will discuss alternative lifestyles including single, divorced, lesbian, religious, and teachers. Making choices, coping, role conflicts are some of the topics which will be examined by the panelists, Mary Schofield, Pat Barry, Kathleen McCormack, Judy Arnold, Helen Burgess, and Margaret Aristide.

So You Want to go Back to School: Decisions which women should make before returning to school and factors to consider once the decision has been made will be discussed by Laurie Handlers, co-founder of WE ARE, a resource program for women, Toby Felton, Quincy Junior College and Alicia Coletti, Director of the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College.

All workshops will include time for a question and answer period.

"Over 200 women attended this conference last year," said Miss Mahoney, chairwoman of the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women. It provides an opportunity for women to exchange ideas, learn about resources available to them, and learn more about themselves. It is one of the few programs of its kind offered on the South Shore."

The day will conclude with a social sponsored by the Quincy Cooperative Bank at the Neighborhood Club from 3:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Committee members include: Deborah Orman, chairwoman. Trudy Buckley, Elizabeth Bird, Carol Mahoney, Anne Keating, Bobbi Smith, Harriet Goldman, Sarah Phillips, Beverly Cyr, Barbara Maguire, Alicia Coletti, Mary Vallier, Ann McLaughlin, Helen Smith, Arloe Webber, Mary Weaver, Nancy Noble, Lois Goldstein, Toby Felton and Carol Neitlich.

Diamond is the hardest substance known to man. It cannot be scratched and will never wear out, though it may be chipped, and so a diamond should not be worn while gardening, moving furniture or during any rough activities. This extraordinary hardness, some 100x harder than the next known substance, gives the diamond an unsurpassed luster called, "admantine," (Greek meaning extraordinarily hard), which will never change or show wear.

Annual Meeting Memorial To Robert M. Faxon

Morrie Hibbard Elected Quincy YMCA President

Morrie P. Hibbard was elected President of the Quincy YMCA at the recent 87th annual meeting at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

Other officers elected were: Charles G. Peterson, first vice president; Mary Wentworth, second vice president; Nelford J. Platter III, treasurer; James D. Asher Jr., assistant treasurer and Mrs. James K. White, clerk.

Re-elected to the board of directors for a three-year term were: James H. Bonney, Henry W. Bosworth Jr., W. Gordon Clark, Stephen D. Cutler, Dr. V. James DiNardo, Chief Francis X. Finn, William H. Gassett, Preston H. Grassick, Paul E. Hurley, Charles A. Pearce, Alfredo M. Peterson, Arthur F. Pinel, Harold H. Slate, Mary M. Tull, and Richard Settles.

Dr. V. James DiNardo was toastmaster.

On behalf of the board of directors of the YMCA, retiring President Paul E. Hurley, presented to Mrs. Robert M. Faxon a gold engraved tribute in memory of the late Robert Morrison

Faxon, Quincy community leader and announced that the 87th annual meeting was dedicated "with sincere gratitude and deep appreciation to the work and memory of Robert Morrison Faxon."

The tribute to Robert M. Faxon, who died last June 10, was written by former Mayor Thomas S. Burgin, who is also a former president of the Quincy YMCA. It reads:

"Distinguished son of a highly respected and beloved Quincy family, 'Bob' Faxon, as we have known him, earned the confidence, trust and admiration of his many friends and associates. His passing leaves a void in the civic and business life of the community it will indeed be difficult to fill.

"Quiet and unassuming, he freely gave of his time and effort in the growth and progress of his native city. Particularly do we remember his interest in and personal contributions towards the physical, moral, and educational well-being of young people as exemplified by such character-building organizations as the Quincy Y.M.C.A., United Fund, Boy and Girl Scouts, Church Groups, Salvation Army, and many others.

"Therefore, at this the 87th Annual Meeting, held on Wednesday, April 18, 1979, and with both sincere gratitude and deep appreciation, we respectfully dedicate it to the memory of our former member and loyal friend, Robert Morrison Faxon."

Executive Director George H. Ramsden Jr., announced special youth awards that were presented to Jeffrey Moy, "Boy of the Year", Marjorie Donlan, "Girl of the Year", and Pamela Doyle, "Girl of the Year". The Benjamin F. Hodgkinson Award for an outstanding adult volunteer leader was presented to Vaughn Lovejoy.

A special service to youth award was presented to Peter Bartek, retiring camp director of the Quincy YMCA boy's camp. Burgess, for his dedication and service during the past 10 years as Camp Director.

Hibbard presented a past president's pin and plaque to retiring President, Paul E. Hurley, and praised him "for the great amount of growth and additional services of the Quincy YMCA" during the past two years under his leadership.

The invocation and benediction was given by Stanley Walters of the National YMCA Regional staff.

Guest speaker was Judge Albert L. Kramer, Presiding Justice of Quincy District Court of East Norfolk, who spoke on the "Earn-It" Program he founded.

"Earn-It" is a victim-restitution program supervised by the Court that provides short term work for offenders so that they may earn their way back to the Community by earning the money to pay victims for damages caused by their offense.

Volunteers recognized at the annual meeting and their years of service:

10 Years Or More: Jean Bonney, Helena Clifford,

Norman Collier, William Galarneau, Louise Hauschildt, Vaughn Lovejoy, Berta Nota, Judith Forde, Robert Pratt, Joseph Streadwick.

Some Very Strange People You Know Where

Congressman Gerry Studds thinks there's a lot of strange people in Washington. Very strange.

The Cohasset Democrat who represents the 12th District, shared speaking honors with freshman newcomer Congressman Brian Donnelly of the 11th District at the South Shore Chamber of Commerce breakfast at Valle's, Braintree the other morning.

And got off an observation that tickled the audience and had most nodding in agreement. He put it this way:

"One of the problems (with Washington) is that Washington is composed of very strange people, both politicians and bureaucrats. There is a shortage of people people.

"It's only in Washington that someone like Schlesinger says: 'The main problem with energy is that people don't understand that there's a problem.'

"You've got to be in some crazy far away place like Washington to make a statement like that. You've got to be in one of those buildings with no windows and no doors to believe for one moment that people don't understand that there's a problem. Of course they do.

"The problem is there are people in Washington who don't understand that the people understand."

Now, all together—Amen!

DONNELLY kiddingly needed Studds on that great Washington institution: seniority.

"Seniority," he said, "is the worst thing that ever happened to the United States Congress. And we have to root out this terrible thing called seniority. Do you realize, after three small terms (Studds' three terms) that man (Studds) is the chairman of a subcommittee. It just shows you that ability doesn't count."

DONNELLY

STUDDS responded in a serious vein and in agreement with Donnelly: "You all know how seniority works. I assume chairmen are selected simply because they have sat in the same seat longer than anybody else on the committee.

"This virtually assures that when you come to a position where you can get something done, you are no longer interested in getting anything done. Once you become a chairman, you remain a chairman until you die—or until someone notices that you have died."

FORMER GOV. Michael Dukakis kept his word when Ed and Ann Percy opened their new Miller Studio on Foster St. the other night.

Ed originally was to take a portrait of Dukakis the first week of February in 1978. But the Great Blizzard forced postponement until the following week.

As Dukakis sat for the photos, he and Ed got to chatting about business. Ed told him he had tremendous faith in Quincy's fortune—so much so that he was building a new larger studio. He said he would invite Dukakis for the opening to cut the ribbon. Dukakis said he would be there.

And, he was for the grand opening last week. Ed's portrait of Dukakis was hung over the fireplace before he arrived.

Dukakis, who was seeing it for the first time, was asked how he liked it. "Love it," he said.

In fact, he likes it so much it may wind up as his official portrait in the State House among other former governors. Ed and Ann Percy will make it a gift.

MILESTONE: Baron Hugo and his wife, Edith, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at a get-together Sunday at Parkway United Methodist Church, Milton. The affair was organized by Rev. Riley Shirley, minister. Many, many friends attended. Edith, whose maiden name is Hamilton, and formerly lived in Newton, is a descendant of John Alden. Baron, of course, came out of West Quincy and led the house band at the famed Totem Pole during the big band era.

He's still rolling along, musically, playing many local dates. And is as popular as ever. Baron is one of those nice guys the world should have more of.

He and Edith were actually married on April 19. But Baron had an engagement that night—the party for Quincy nursing home patients put on by the Quincy Federation of Seniors Club. So, he and Edith delayed their Golden Wedding celebration until Sunday.

New QHA Board Member

Lolita Harris: 'I Feel I Represent The Tenants'

By TOM HENSHAW

Quincy's first black city official would rather be known as simply another member of the Quincy Housing Authority's Board of Commissioners.

"Being black to me doesn't have anything to do with it," said Mrs. Lolita Harris, 53, of 185 Quincy Shore Drive, who was named to the QHA board Friday by Gov. Edward J. King.

"I just feel that as a woman I'm filling a necessary void that I think needs a woman's touch. I'm not there to integrate or anything else. My job is simply to see that the needs of the people of Quincy are satisfied.

"I'm a qualified woman, that's what I am."

Mrs. Harris, who has been secretary to the State Public Works Commission since 1974, succeeds Rosemary Wahlberg as the state appointee to the five-member board. The Mayor appoints the other four.

"I think it's going to be a tough job filling Rosemary Wahlberg's shoes because I think she was very competent," Mrs. Harris. "I don't know her personally but I know her reputation and it's very good."

A native of Everett, Mrs. Harris has worked for the state for 33 years, first in the Department of Education and in the Public Works Department since 1959.

She has taken extension courses at Harvard Business School and state training courses in management, human relations and communications. She has lived in Quincy for 4½ years.

"I've never been a tenant

MRS. LOLITA C. HARRIS, newly appointed member of the Quincy Housing Authority's Board of Commissioners, says she feels she will bring a woman's touch to the Board.

in public housing but I've always been a tenant," she said. "I feel that I am the representative of the tenants on the board."

Mrs. Harris said that she supported Gov. King in last fall's campaign.

"I voted for him," she said, "and I hope that as commissioner I will do a good job for him."

Mrs. Harris was due to stop by City Hall sometime this week to sign the register of appointments but her first QHA meeting is not until Wednesday, May 16—which is probably just as well.

The appointment caught her in the midst of preparations for the wedding of her daughter, Judith Robin Harris, 25, and for a national DPW convention that is to be hosted by the Massachusetts DPW.

"Oh, it's been such a day," said Mrs. Harris.

In Dianne DeVanna's Memory We Must Go Forward In A Positive Manner

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The Board of Directors of the Dianne DeVanna Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect, Inc., on behalf of the members of the Center, wish to make the following statement regarding the recent sentencing of those charged with the murder of Dianne DeVanna:

The recent trial and sentencing of those responsible for the death of Dianne are events that have brought forth very strong feelings from within the community. The past several months have been very difficult and emotional times for all those familiar with this tragic death.

It is our feeling that when the time comes for our criminal court system to make decisions, justice is best served by allowing the legal process to proceed in a calm and thoughtful manner. The sentencing is done, the judicial process complete.

It is now the responsibility of the community to go forward from this point in a positive and constructive way. Enough energy has been spent on anger. It is time to look toward a future where we will be able to provide our children a safe and happy environment to grow and thrive.

The South Shore community has a unique opportunity to turn the sadness of Dianne's death into a strong, yet sensitive force for the betterment of family life. Those parents and children in isolation and need, within our own neighborhoods should never again have to live in fear and silence.

The Board of Directors and members of the Dianne DeVanna Center ask all persons to join us in extending a helpful hand, a listening ear and an understanding heart to all victims of domestic violence. With your support, we truly have the ability to improve our community and the lives of all our children.

Can't We Do Something About The Slobs?

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

For the past years I have been jogging in the Blue Hills and along Wollaston Beach.

The increasing accumulation of trash in the area across from The Beach Comm. Clam Box, et al, seriously disturbs me.

I know we can't get slobs to use the barrels, even if they were 2 inches apart, but why can't the owners of these places be made to police daily the mess that they make a profit on? The beach is one of our city's most magnificent assets! To have to wade through this continuous garbage is disgusting. I have written today to Tom Brownell, Mike Morrissey, Paul Harold, Jack Lydon and the MDC Commissioner.

Isn't there something we can do?

Mixed Reaction On Harris Appointment

flagrant disregard of a well established process.

"There will be another 199 appointments to local housing authorities throughout the state to be made. We will be monitoring each and every appointment to be made by your office and hope you deal in a more professional manner with our fellow affiliates."

Mrs. Harris was ranked No. 6 on the list of eight candidates screened by Mrs. Rogers' committee. At the head of the list were James St. Angelo, the HRCI chairman, and Mrs. Rosemary Wahlberg, the commissioner seeking appointment.

Mrs. Rogers' letter reminded Matthews that "we were assured you would participate in the screening process with HRCI and you gave us assurances that you would notify and meet with us if your decision was different from our choice."

Not only was there no such meeting, Mrs. Rogers said, but the HRCI was not notified of the appointment until April 24, four days after it was announced.

"If Matthews really made the appointment," said James F. Miller, former chairman of the HRCI, "then he is going against his own regulations."

"If Gov. King made it then there's nothing we could have done about it because it's totally political."

"The governor apparently just made an arbitrary appointment without reference to the family tenants, the senior citizen tenants and the others who were requested for input," said Sen. Harold.

"They gave him input and he gave it little or no consideration."

"The ironic thing is that the process of tenant screening was established by Quincy tenants and has been used statewide for five years but when it comes to the appointment in Quincy the governor chooses to ignore these existing policies."

"I will be just as cooperative with him in the Senate as he has been on this appointment."

On the other hand, Mrs. Harris was welcomed by her fellow board members, Chairman D'Olimpio and the Rev. William R. McCarthy, pastor of St. John's Church.

"She's as welcome as the flowers in May," said D'Olimpio, who was elected to succeed Mrs. Wahlberg as chairman at the board's last meeting, April 16.

"I was glad to read her statement that she is a firm believer in preventive maintenance. I hope to make that one of my goals as chairman of the board."

"The United States owns a lot of public housing property but it does not give the housing authorities enough finances and authority to make proper repairs."

"She is most welcome," said Fr. McCarthy. "Judging from her background it seems as though she will be an asset to the Board."

"I am sure she will find the members of the Board a group of people dedicated to helping the elderly and people who are not blessed with abundance of this world's goods."

"We are indebted to Rosemary Wahlberg for the excellent job she performed as a commissioner for the past five years."

Mayor Tobin criticized the Quincy press for noting that Mrs. Harris is a black woman.

"I think the press goes overboard in trying to print sensationalism," he said. "I don't believe the people of this city are going to treat Mrs. Harris any differently than they would treat anyone else."

"I admired the way she handled herself with the press. I liked the comment she made that when she looked in the mirror in the morning she doesn't consider herself black or white; she considers herself me."

"As mayor of the city I appointed the first woman to the Board of Assessors and the first woman director of the Council on Aging and not once did I see the press come out with the headline, 'Tobin Appoints White Woman.'"

Silent Movies Pack Them In

Quincy's theaters were thriving, particularly the Alhambra at 1373 Hancock St., where Sessue Hayakawa was starring in "The Vermillion Pencil," and Betty Compton in "Prisoners of Love."

Seats were 10 cents each before 5 p.m. and 25 cents after that to watch the two silent movies at "Quincy's Leading Photoplay Theater." Prices included the war tax.

"Shadows of the Sea," starring Doris Kenyon and Conway Tearle, and "So This Is Arizona," with Franklyn Farnum, were at Black's Quincy Theater, 1573 Hancock St., along with three big vaudeville acts.

And pictures of the Nate Siegal-Dave Shadle fight at the Boston Arena were being shown nightly at the Casino Theater in Quincy Point.

LEXINGTON CONVERSION

An advisory commission of Naval officers recommended that the USS Lexington, the keel of which was laid as a battle cruiser on Jan. 8, 1921, at the Fore River Shipyard, be completed as an aircraft carrier.

Work on the Lexington was halted when it was 33.8 per cent finished following the signing of the Naval Limitations Treaty in Washington earlier this year. Conversion would cost an estimated $70 million.

When work on the ship stopped, petitions were circulated through Quincy asking Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge (R-Mass) and Cong. Louis Frothingham (R-Milton) to direct their efforts toward conversion.

State House Report

Senate Gives Final Approval To 4% Tax Cap

By RON IACOBucci

Quincy Sun Correspondent
The Massachusetts Senate yesterday gave final approval 30-7 for a 4 per cent tax cap on local spending.

Last week the House gave similar approval 116-35.

The legislation now goes to Governor Edward J. King for his consideration. The Governor can sign the measure, veto it, or send it back with amendments.

The Governor is presently coordinating a statewide petition campaign for a zero tax cap.

Legislative response to the Governor's last minute lobbying effort has been negative. State Senator Paul Harold said he is "against the Governor's plan to circumvent the legislature."

"Governor King is misdirecting his energies with a petition drive," Harold said.

Harold criticized the Governor's lobbying effort, saying "I received only one phone call in the last three months on this issue, and that was simply a poll to determine if I was voting for or against a zero cap."

Harold said "The Governor's lobbying effort in the Senate was 'nonexistent'."

"Any further delay on this matter will seriously effect local city and town budgets. . . . they may be required to borrow money in lieu of taxes and this action could eat up any savings achieved by the tax cap."

Harold and Representatives Thomas Brownell, Robert Cerasoli and Mike Morrissey voted in favor of the 4 per cent tax cap.

Attending were members of the Nickerson Legion Post under the leadership of Commander Donald O'Leary. Richard Hendry, chaplain of the post, read the Necrology during the service. Dr. Langevin offered a special prayer for the deceased.

Others attending included Mayor Arthur Tobin and Senator Paul Harold.

THE WAY Director Addresses Theology Students

Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, director of The Way, addressed a conference of theological students and clergy at Andover Newton Theological School on Monday.

His topic was "Doing Youth Ministry."

Dr. Langevin described the outreach work that he and others do at The Way in Quincy. The Way is a storefront ministry sponsored by local churches, church groups and concerned Christian people for teen-agers outside the regular churches.

Programs at The Way include counseling, advocacy, getting teenagers to various other social service agencies that can deal with their particular problems, recreation, education, tutoring, teen employment, case supervision in connection with the Quincy Juvenile Court, community service work, responsibility groups in connection with the Norfolk County District Attorney's Juvenile Diversion Program, juvenile court chaplaincy and optional religious programs including one called "The Glue Factory."

The Way in Quincy has no connection with another group of a similar name based in Ohio.

4 Week Adult Education Course At Faith Lutheran

A four-week adult education course on medical decision making, sponsored by the New England LAOS in Ministry Movement, began Tuesday night at Faith Lutheran Church, Granite St., Quincy.

The course will explore such questions as When should life support systems be used? When is open heart surgery worth all the risks? When is the cure so much worse than the disease than it is time to quit?

Dr. William Lazareth, director of the Dept. of Church and Society for the Lutheran Church in America, and a scholar in ethics, was the keynote speaker for the meeting.

Don Colenback, associate professor of ethics at Episcopal Divinity School, will be the speaker for the final 3 sessions.

Dr. Colenback is a consultant to the Medical Ethics Committee at Lemuel Shattuck Hospital, and has taught courses at Tufts Medical School on the ethics of caring for the dying, the aging and the chronically ill.

Anyone interested in attending the sessions, which will be held Tuesdays at 8 p.m. at the church, should contact Lorraine Blake, one of the designer's of the course, at 845-6035.

Msgr. Mark Keohane To Be Honored On Golden Jubilee

Parishioners of Star of the Sea Church, Scituate will honor their pastor, Rt. Rev. Mark H. Keohane on the occasion of his Golden Jubilee in the priesthood, Sunday.

A Mass at 11:30 a.m. will be celebrated by Msgr. Keohane and his nephew, Rev. John J. Geoghan of St. Andrew the Apostle Parish, Forest Hills.

An open house reception will be held in Maryhall, Star of the Sea Church, from 2 to 5 p.m.

The son of Lawrence and

Catherine Keohane of Roxbury, Msgr. Keohane attended St. John's School, Roxbury; Boston College High School and graduated from Boston College in 1924 with an A.B. degree. He was ordained by William Cardinal O'Connell April 5, 1929 and served as curate in St. Mary's, Franklin; St. Benedict's, Somerville; St. Williams, Dorchester; St. Joseph's, Somerville and St. Catherine of Genoa in Somerville.

His first pastorate was at St. Bartholomew's in Needham where he built a church and the first parochial school in the town. He was the first Catholic chaplain in both the Somerville and Needham Fire Departments.

Members of the parish serving on the planning committee are Ruth A. Connolly, John J. Costello, John W. Chase, Janet Hickey, Alice Marquardt, Leo J. Meehan Jr., Eileen Mullaney, Maryann Sherman and J. Vincent Smyth.

St. John's Parish Council Elects Officers

William Donnelly has been elected vice chairman of the executive board of the Parish Council of St. John's Church, Quincy.

Also elected were Claire O'Rourke, secretary to the executive board; Vicky Nord, vice-chairwoman for Religious Education Commission; Joseph Papile, vice chairman for Spiritual Development Commission; Marion G. Horne, vice chairwoman for Christian Service Commission; Manon Ricca, representative, for Area Two; and John Taglieri, representative, Area Five.

Keith Turner On Duty In Hawaii

Coast Guard Seaman Apprentice Keith M. Turner, son of Carol F. Turner of 229 Centre St., Quincy, has reported for duty at the Coast Guard Air Station, Barbers Point, Hawaii.

He joined the Coast Guard in December, 1978.

'Top New England Parish' Honor For St. John's

St. John's Parish, Quincy was recognized as the top parish in New England Region at the Second Annual Conference of the National Association of Pastoral Musicians, held last week in Chicago.

The parish was one of four finalists in the Eastern Regional competition. The Eastern Region includes parishes from all of New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware and Washington, D.C.

The selection of parishes to receive the awards was made by a national committee with representatives from all areas of the nation, working through a carefully structured process. For the past six months, all regions of the Federation of Diocesan Liturgical Commissions, have been involved in the selection process.

Criteria in the selection process included the involvement of the laity in planning and executing the various liturgical functions of the church year, of parish and local resources and musical talent and the amount of money allocated for musicians salaries and liturgical expenses.

The conference was attended by 3,500 delegates from as far away as Alaska and Australia. Representatives of St. John's Parish were Fr. Daniel Graham, Joseph Papile, Robert Dunn, Phyllis and Ginny Ross and Joseph O'Brien. Representing other area parishes were Edward McDonagh, of Our Lady of Good Counsel and Joseph MacDonald of St. Ann's. Also attending with this group was Fr. Dick Butler, chaplain of Archbishop Williams High School.

Still Coming In Jerry Lewis Spelling Bee Returns Pass $4,300 Mark

The first Quincy Jerry Lewis Spelling Bee has brought in over $4,300 to fight muscular dystrophy and more pledge returns are coming in.

Students who took part in the spelling bee and still have redeemed pledges are asked to send them to Muscular Dystrophy Association, care of Hancock Bank, 415 Hancock St., Wollaston.

More than 700 students in 10 public and parochial schools took part in the competition. The schools are: Atherton Hough, Massachusetts Fields, Montclair, Pollard, Quincy Elementary, Squantum, Wollaston, St. Ann's, St. Joseph's and Sacred Heart.

Each participating student was asked to obtain as many sponsors as possible to pledge five cents or more for each word spelled correctly. The funds raised by the students will go to the Muscular Dystrophy Association which provides patient services, medical services and clinic, public health education and research.

Students sending in pledge envelopes will receive prizes which include a Spelling Bee certificate, a Jerry Lewis sew-on patch, an iron-on transfer for T-shirts, and an autographed photograph of Jerry Lewis with the national Muscular Dystrophy poster child.

At each school the two top pledge collectors will be awarded Jerry Lewis wristwatches. The watches will be presented at a ceremony early in May.

The spelling bee was sponsored by the Quincy Public Schools and the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee with the dual purpose of emphasizing the importance of good spelling and raising funds for the charity.

Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun, and Richard J. Koch, executive secretary, Quincy Park-Recreation Board, are co-chairmen of the telethon committee.

School Committeewoman Mary Collins was chairwoman of the spelling bee committee and Janet DiTullio, language arts coordinator, Quincy public schools, was coordinator.

Michael Whalen, a sixth grade honor student at Sacred Heart School, North Quincy, was the winner of the grand final held at the Lincoln Hancock School. Second place went to Heather Norton, a fifth grader at Mass. Fields School, and Lisa Livingstone, sixth grade at Wollaston School, was in third place.

Three top spellers from each of the 10 participating schools competed in the finals.

The judges were: School Committee vice chairwoman Patricia Toland, William Phinney, assistant superintendent of public schools; Virginia McEvoy, co-president of the City Wide Parent Advisory Board; Charles Sweeney, former school committeeman, Janet DiTullio and Mary Collins.

Ballfields Named For William Mitchell, Katherine McCoy

The Quincy Park Recreation Board has unanimously approved the recommendation of mayor Arthur H. Tobin to name the recently enlarged and renovated Artery ballfield and the adjacent newly constructed little league baseball and girls softball diamond the William J. Mitchell and Katherine G. McCoy athletic fields.

The action was taken Monday night.

The recreational site located in Merrymount park on Southern Artery is opposite the Veterans Memorial Stadium and adjacent to the Collins Rest-A-While Playground.

Tobin, in a letter to the Board, noted that Mitchell and Miss McCoy had served with the late J. Ernest Collins for many years as members of Quincy's Park Boards, Recreation Commissions and the merged Park and Recreation Board.

Collins, (34 years), Mitchell (33 years) and Miss McCoy (27 years) represent a total of 94 years of unpaid service to the City on Park and Recreation Boards and Commissions.

Collins and Mitchell were appointed to the former Park Board by the late Mayor Charles Ross in 1943 and were chosen members of the first municipal Recreation Commission in 1948 by Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa. They were continually reappointed for a total of 67 years.

Miss McCoy, former physical athletic instructor and Dean of Women at North Quincy High School, was appointed to the first city-wide Recreation Commission in 1948 by Mayor Della Chiesa and was selected in 1962 to continue as a member of the merged Park and Recreation Board. She is presently a member and secretary of the board. One of the first women to serve on a municipal policy making body, Miss McCoy was appointed and reappointed by four mayors.

The Recreational Facility now under construction with capital improvements from Mayor Tobin and the City Council have been combined with a grant from the Quincy Lodge of the Sons of Italy.

Richard J. Koch, Executive Secretary to the Park and Recreation Board, said that when completed the Complex will include two little league baseball or girls softball size athletic fields with lighting and bleachers and a renovated playground and picnic facility adjacent to the active recreational site. It is expected to be dedicated in Mid-May, weather permitting.

$17,782 Overtime Pay For School Maintenance

School Department before we had people by trades," he said. "Today he's an electrician; tomorrow he's a plumber; the next day he's an auto mechanic or a welder."

The School Department's maintenance crew is divided into four categories -- electricians, painters, carpenters and building maintenance. Some of the latter have different qualifications than others.

Dr. Creedon's figures show that the maintenance crew worked 8,392 overtime hours and received about $96,000 in the period from Jan. 1, 1978 to Dec. 8, 1978.

A total of 3,244 of those hours were involved in snow plowing and removal, including the two big snow storms that struck Quincy and the South Shore in January and February.

"The 1978 figure was about 50 per cent more than normal because of the blizzard in February," said Dr. Creedon.

"All of the men are brought in for plowing. We use all our own equipment. Our trucks are equipped for plowing and when a man is called in he has a regular route."

Snow plowing and removal made up 39 per cent of the overtime in 1978 and Saturday work, when the schools were closed, amounted to 14 per cent, or 1,177 hours at a cost of $14,000.

A total of 684 hours, or 8 per cent of the overtime, went into repairing damage to the electrical system at Broad Meadows Junior High School which was knocked out by the blizzard.

Dr. Creedon said the School Department has explored the possibility of adding an extra crew of six men to work a 3 p.m. to 10 p.m. shift in an effort to trim the overtime.

"We concluded that it would be even more costly," he said. "It's not like hiring one man. These are not one man jobs. Usually they require a minimum of two men, sometimes three or four."

John M. Browne, director of plant facilities, figures that staffing and extra shift would require six men, a general foreman, an electrician, a plumber, a machinery maintenance repairman, and two building maintenance men.

It would, he calculates, cost $93,810.08 a year and save $13,972 by eliminating 1,215 hours of overtime, thus costing the city an additional $79,838 annually.

Legal and contractual restrictions add to the cost.

"By state law," said Browne, "a licensed plumber cannot be helped except by another licensed plumber."

Most of the overtime run up in the first seven weeks of 1979 was worked during the payroll periods ending Feb. 16 and March 9.

The Feb. 16 period, said Dr. Creedon, "was when we put the big effort into salvaging material from the old North Quincy High School building. We salvaged $350,000 worth of materials."

Maintenance people, he said, put in as much as 10 weekend hours on Feb. 2 and 11 weekend hours on Feb. 3 as well as working after 4 p.m. for seven to 10 days afterward.

The March 9 period, he said, "we were involved day and night moving at North Quincy High School."

Custodial overtime -- as distinguished from maintenance overtime -- according to Dr. Creedon, amounted to 41,925 hours and a cost of some $403,100 for the period Jan. 1 through Dec. 15, 1978.

A large portion of that, 47 per cent, is work that is guaranteed by contract, including 21 per cent Saturday work and 12 per cent devoted to "building checks."

"Saturday work goes all the way back to the days when we had coal-burning furnaces and the custodians had to come in to clean the burners on Saturday," said Dr. Creedon.

"When the buildings are closed on Sunday and holidays, one custodian comes in every day to check the building."

Another 42 per cent of custodian overtime is due to the School Committee's policy of community use of the school buildings when classes are not going on.

That costs the School Department over $100,000 a year, Dr. Creedon said, since $128,100 is spent on overtime and receipts from building rentals total only $17,420, all of which went into the city's general fund.

The passage of time...

Which Is Older You Or Your Roof?

Homes and humans share at least one common characteristic: they both grow old.

For human beings, there are many tell-tale signs of the passage of time: a few streaks of gray, a memory lapse here and there, and the beginnings of a paunch politely referred to as middle-age spread.

But where a home is concerned, the signs may not be as evident—unless you know where to look. And if you do know where to look, chances are you are going to discover some interesting facts.

Dropping in

For starters, you can begin with the roof over your head.

One of the first sure signs of old age in a roof is when it drops in, unannounced, while you're watching the Sunday afternoon baseball game. Very inconvenient, though it might be taken as a hint that your roof tends to be replaced.

Other suggestions are less subtle, of course. And that's why it's good sense to make a periodic examination of your roof's condition, according to the roofing experts at the CertainTeed Home Institute.

New damage

New roofs which have suffered limited damage from a storm or from falling objects can be repaired easily. It's a relatively simple task to replace damaged or blown-away shingles. And loose shingles usually present no real problems because they can be re-nailed.

On the other hand, if the roof has weathered many a storm and has developed a small leak, it may require more extensive repair, like patching around the flashing points—the seams where different sections of the roof meet.

Sooner or later...

Sooner or later, however, all roofs must be replaced. Just like humans, today's heroes on the football field must someday give way to the next generation.

Standard asphalt-shingled roofs usually last about 15 years before they need to be replaced. You should then begin looking for the tell-tale signs of failure.

So how can you tell if your roof is heading for the last roundup?

The sure signs of a weathered roof are excessive loss of protective granules and cracked, blistered, curled or missing shingles.

Head off problems

To make sure you head off problems before they begin, check the base of your downspouts for signs of excessive granule loss, and inspect your attic with a flashlight for signs of leaks.

Best of all try to determine the age of your roof. As stated, a roof of standard 15 year old shingles is a prime candidate for re-roofing unless it has gone through exceptionally good weather conditions.

When considering a new roof for your home, you'll find that the selection of roofing products available is quite varied compared to the products offered in the past.

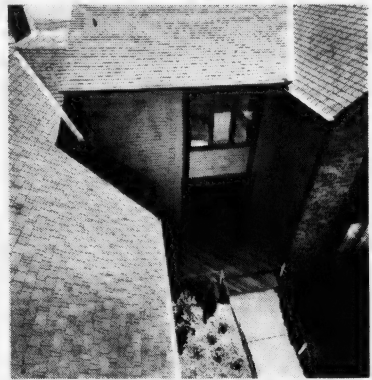

Consider wisely

Consider your purchase wisely, not only because it can save you time and money, but also because today you have a choice of many types of roofing products which offer different advantages.

Weigh advantages

For instance, while a wood roof is attractive, it is also very expensive and, if not properly treated with chemical fire retardants, may be a fire hazard as well. Slate, while it offers excep-

The home furnishing retailer...

You may buy your next home—and its contents—in a store!

For years, builders have displayed home furnishings as options with their new model homes.

Now, the trend has been reversed. A major home furnishings dealer is displaying and selling homes, and offering his furniture, bedding, carpets, draperies and accessories as options!

The revolutionary retailing concept is the brainstorm of G. John Doces, the largest independent furniture dealer in the Pacific Northwest.

The Seattle retailer introduced the idea of one-stop shopping for a completely furnished "Lifestyle Home" early last year, when he erected an energy-efficient modular model home in the warehouse of his main store.

Based on the widespread acceptance of the home-and-furnishings package, Doces hopes to franchise the concept to other home furnishings retailers around the nation.

The most popular home with consumers, thus far, has been a 1,909-square-foot two-story model with celebrity and spiral staircase to the upper level.

The most expensive of the "Lifestyle Homes" offered is priced at $64,750, erected on the buyer's prepared site within 100 miles.

There are five other home styles offered, starting at $39,800. They range in size, from a 1,024-square-foot ramblar to a 2,168-square-foot four-bedroom, 2½ bath colonial.

The homes being marketed by Doces are built by Nanco Corporation, a well-known West Coast manufacturer of windows and doors, which has branched out into modular housing.

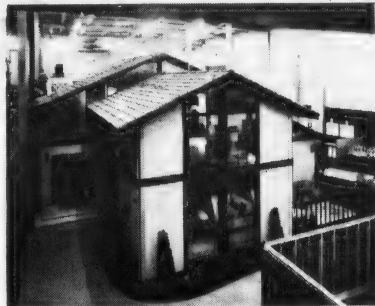

"Lifestyle Homes" feature Nanco's precision-fitting, interlocking megastret wall panels. They are pre-assembled in standard configurations at the factory and a complete home can be erected, by just two men and ready for occupancy, in less than 30 days.

Considerable savings

By reducing on-site labor and construction costs, the Nanco system provides savings which enable the buyer to completely furnish his new home, while spending overall no more than he would for a conventionally built, totally unfurnished home.

Doces offers, at a discount, houseful of furnishings packages ranging in price from as little as $2,500 up to $10,000. The buyer can make his furnishings selections, with the help of a Doces interior decorator, any time within 12 months of his home purchase.

LIFESTYLE HOME—This isn't a doll's house, but a completely furnished, two-story modular home on display in the warehouse of a Seattle home furnishings merchant. The one-stop shopping idea may soon be nationally franchised.

Unusually high fuel bills can be greatly reduced by taking the following energy-saving steps.

Prevent heat loss

Caulking and weatherstripping doors and windows can cut home fuel costs by as much as 13 percent. Weatherstripping creates a nearly weathertight seal between the frame and the window or door. Caulking fills in the small gaps and cracks through which additional energy can escape.

Homes built before the energy crisis often were designed with little or no regard for energy conservation. With the price of fuel today, such homes may be prohibitively expensive to heat and cool. However, homeowners can usually cut fuel costs and increase the energy efficiency of their homes.

According to the National Home Improvement Council, heating and cooling account for more than 50 percent of most home energy Storm windows and doors cut down on heat loss and heat gain by creating a dead-air space between two panes of glass. Plastic sheets are the cheapest type of storm windows, although glass is less susceptible to weather damage.

Insulation saves

Some experts estimate that as many as eight out of ten American homes are wasting energy because of inadequate insulation. NHIC suggests these ways to find out if your home needs insulation:

- Determine the R value—the resistance to heat flow—of the insulation you already have. If it has a value of less than R-13, you probably need more insulation.

- Look for insulation between floor joists and rafters, and over unheated crawl spaces, garages and basements. Installing the proper kind of insulation in ceilings, walls and floors can mean savings of up to 50 percent in fuel consumption.

- To check for insulation inside walls—TURN OFF ELECTRICITY, remove light switch plate from exterior wall and shine flashlight into wall cavity.

- On a cold day, compare the temperature of an inside wall with that of a wall which faces outdoors. If the exterior wall feels only slightly cooler, your home is probably adequately insulated.

The easiest way The Council reminds homeowners that the easiest, least expensive way to conserve energy and save money, is to lower the thermostat during winter, and raise it during the summer. Each degree over 68 adds about 3 percent to your winter fuel bill.

Wood louver doors are home naturals

The natural look is in, especially in home decorating. And, what could be more natural than the look and warmth of wood.

Nowhere is the combination of form and function more versatile than in wood louver doors. Because they are attractive as well as efficient, wood louver doors are popular in homes ranging from colonial to contemporary design.

Available as folding or sliding units, wood louver doors are excellent choices for closets in narrow hallways or foyers where there is little room for ordinary swing out doors.

In either folding or sliding styles, these doors can be obtained either fully louvered or with louvers in the top half and closed panels in the bottom half.

The slats permit the free circulation of air to keep clothes fresh smelling and free of mildew. This characteristic also makes wood louver doors popular decorating choices for high humidity areas such as laundry rooms, baths and kitchens.

Louver doors also make eye-appealing wall accents when used singly or in pairs, or they can be used as room dividers or connecting doors.

Wood louver doors can be painted to accent or blend with room colors. Or they can be stained to enhance the natural wood grain.

Easy to install and available in stock sizes at local lumber dealers or building supply centers, wood louver doors can be a relatively inexpensive home improvement for a do-it-yourselfer.

Springtime homemaking made easier

It's spring and time, once again, to take advantage of sunny days and clean, fresh air.

Before you begin to enjoy vacations and outings with family and friends, make a few changes in your household routine, so your home will be more livable during the warmer months.

Here are some suggestions:

- Take up area rugs throughout the house and store them for the season. If your floors are natural wood or pretty tile, you may like the look of the exposed surface; a cool bare floor is easily kept clean with a quick sweeping.

- With sunlight growing stronger every day, it is a good time to rotate your plants. Some plants thrive on direct sunlight and look pretty hanging in natural baskets at each window. To keep your windows sparkling clean use Glass*Plus® glass, appliance and cabinet cleaner. Just spray and wipe dry with a paper towel or lint free cloth. Cloudy days are especially good for washing windows.

- Make use of the coolest areas of your home during the warmer months. Cool basements, corner rooms, porches and patios can be easily converted into the "summer" den by simply rearranging furniture to take advantage of cross-ventilation and decorating with cool, soothing colors.

- During the warmer months, you can brighten the look of bedrooms and lighten your early morning chores by "undressing" the beds. Simply pack away your quilts, heavy bedspreads and woolen blankets and show off your pretty patterned sheets.

Storm windows can reduce next winter's heating bills

Despite signs of spring, now is the time to make your home more comfortable for next winter.

Windows are a good place to start because, if they are not properly insulated or don't have storm sash that fits snugly, you'll lose precious heat.

If you wait to order storm windows until fall, chances are they may not be delivered until half the winter is over because, due to the energy crisis, suppliers have been pressed to keep up with the demand. Last winter, more storm windows were sold than ever before.

Improve efficiency

Storm windows added to primary windows improve their efficiency by keeping the cold outside and the warmth inside. Almost all storms sold today have aluminum frames and a separate track for a self-storing screen.

The storms can reduce heat loss through the windows by as much as 40 percent. Conversely, during the summer, these same storm windows can help retain cool temperatures provided by air conditioning.

Fuel savers

Through such fuel savings, the initial investment can be quickly offset. For instance, by adding storm sash to existing windows with 250 square feet of area in a house in Rutland, Vermont (an 8000 degree days climate), a family heating with oil costing 51¢ a gallon could save as much as $170 a year.

Economies from electric heat would be considerably more; from gas, somewhat less. As fuel costs inevitably rise, savings will increase.

A good storm window should fit snugly over the entire prime window. To be most efficient, there should be an air space of one inch or more between the two windows because air is an excellent insulator.

It is this air space between the panes of glass that acts to prevent excess moisture and reduce condensation on the panes and window sills.

Most popular

The aluminum-framed window with self-storing screens is the most popular type because aluminum doesn't peel, blister, rot or red rust, and the frames are long lasting and require very little maintenance.

Storm windows come in all standard shapes and sizes, and can be custom fit to protect any size, shape or style prime window or door—even single, double and triple horizontal or vertical picture windows and patio doors.

Variety of styles

In addition to a wide selection of styles and finishes, the frames come in mill finish (plain) and in a variety of colors.

Installed over single-glazed windows, these aluminum storms create double-glazed windows; over windows with sealed insulating glass they create a triple-glazed unit which gives maximum protection and cuts fuel use still further.

Shop carefully for storm windows to find the ones that will conserve energy most effectively for your particular home. Compare the quality of the different styles on the market and check to ascertain that the joints are neat and strong.

Look for durability

Also, remember that the heavier the aluminum frame and general construction, the stronger and more durable the window.

Look, too, for thick weatherstripping and heavy glass that weighs at least 18 ounces per square foot.

Before you add new storm windows, however, check over your prime windows. If they don't fit tightly around the frames and closures, repair them by caulking or weatherstripping, or even consider new aluminum replacement windows if your old ones are in very poor condition.

Spring is perfect time to fix the walls up with paper, paint

With spring here, there's no better time to repaint or wallcover your home.

New colors on the market this year revitalize your home to fit good weather moods.

Another plus about the fair weather, you can throw open all your windows to avoid a "stuffy" house.

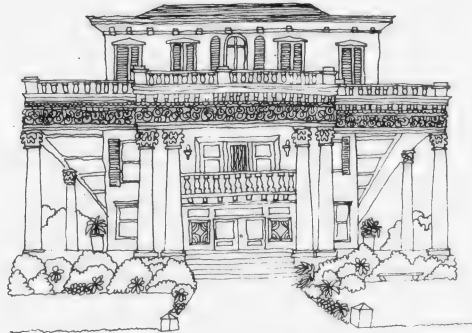

This year, try something new with your walls. Paint designs or try one of the many new designer wallcoverings available.

Recover furniture to match, and make new curtains to fit your color schemes.

There's a variety of do-it-yourself kits on the market that let you do anything from paneling a room to laying down carpets, all by yourself, without spending a fortune on outside help.

The only thing to watch out for here is to make sure you have the basic knowledge and skill to do these projects yourself.

Most banks give loans to people who don't need them.

At South Shore, we figure that if you've got a home and you want to increase the value of that home with a bit of improvement, you're probably just the kind of customer we like having.

So, we're fast. In many cases, we can have your check for you within 24 hours. Our rates are good. And while you're here, ask how you can save a full percentage point off any loan over $1500.

That's a good deal for you and a good deal for us. Because even when you no longer need a loan, you'll still need a bank. And it's a pretty sure bet that the bank you stay with will be us.

of roofing materials. In addition, slate is of heavy construction, and requires sturdy roof support not usually found in the newer homes.

Variety of colors

Felt-based asphalt shingles are available in a wide variety of colors and offer easy maintenance. Though they are comparatively inexpensive and will last from 15-25 years, felt-based asphalt shingles offer limited fire protection.

New fiber glass-based asphalt shingles also offer a wide choice of colors. In addition, they have received a wind resistance rating from Underwriters Laboratories, and in most cases carry an Underwriters Laboratories superior Class "A" rating for fire resistance.

Fiber glass-based shingles are also particularly durable.

But whichever roofing product you happen to choose, one thing is important to remember. Roofs do not age as gracefully as humans, but then, who would, if they never came in from the rain?

Take care of winter-worn trees

As a traditional activity, spring cleaning has never gained the popularity of, for instance, welcoming the crocus or spending that first afternoon on the golf course.

Nevertheless, it has remained a necessity that has moved beyond the simplicity of airing the feather beds and shoveling ashes from a multitude of hearths and stoves. Today's spring cleaning may include such outdoor tasks as removing tree limbs that may have been damaged by winter storms.

Even shade trees that may have been properly pruned in the fall could require some surgery by springtime.

For making any cut more than two or three inches in diameter, a gas-powered chain saw is recommended. Besides making the job faster and easier, a chain saw will make a cleaner cut.

Nobody likes messy surgical scars. A gas saw is ideal because of its power and portability, a characteristic that is important unless all your trees are within the range of an extension cord.

While removing damaged branches is easy, there is a definite procedure to follow.

For the most painless possible limb removal—for the tree and the operator—follow the steps shown in the diagram.

The first cut will prevent bark from peeling away from the trunk when the limb falls.

The second cut is made an inch or so farther out on the limb.

The third cut leaves a smooth surface that will become part of the trunk.

It's important not to cut into the trunk, or shoulder wood. Nutrients that feed the tree are carried throughout its length just under the bark.

How to remove a broken limb

SPRING CLEANING may include such outdoor tasks as removing tree limbs that have been damaged by winter storms.

1) undercut will prevent weight of limb from peeling trunk bark when it falls; 2) top cut is made about an inch out from undercut; 3) cut stub as close as possible to trunk and apply dressing.

Treating open cuts with tree wound dressing is optional except in the case of oaks or elms where open wounds may attract insects that carry disease or allow fungus invasion.

Special chain saw operation rules apply to cutting limbs from a standing tree. These are outlined in owner's instruction manuals.

Tree owners are advised not to make any cuts above shoulder height. Jobs higher in a tree or where a falling limb could damage property should be left to a tree care professional.

Using the right size chain saw is also a consideration. Homeowners wouldn't want to use a saw that is too large or cumbersome for the same reason they wouldn't use their driver to pitch to a green: it's too hard to control.

Air Power

There is now a safe way to clean drains, using the principle of controlled pressurized air. When the dome top is inserted in the drain opening, a push of the can cleans the drain. Drain Power from Airwick Products.

Climb on up!

Pull out your ladder, get up on the roof and clean those gutters.

While you're up there, check your roof for any damage that might have occurred during the winter. Shingles may need to be replaced, cracks fixed, etc.

Spring is also a good time to inspect your house in general.

How to give old fireplace fresh new spring clean-up

A fireplace can be the focal point of any room and an element of beauty throughout the year. This spring, be sure to include it in your cleaning and redecorating schedule.

Before you start to clean your fireplace or hearth, make sure the damper is open. Then, brush all hearth and interior surfaces with a strong, natural bristle brush and dispose of ashes; do not use a nylon or steel brush which could harm fireplace surfaces.

Don't clean the fireplace with your vacuum cleaner as the air from the unit might blow dust around the entire room. The sticky soot of the fireplace can also dirty your vacuum attachments.

Cleaning a well-used fireplace is a super-size job; after removing loose soot and ashes, to remove ground-in dirt and grime use Fantastik® spray cleaner. Just spray and allow to soak for two minutes; then scrub and rinse with fresh water. Accessories can also be spray cleaned using a soft sponge or clean cloth—wipe dry and polish.

A job well done deserves to be enjoyed, so become creative! Fill the clean hearth with lots of plants and big, fat, chunky candles, or try a fish tank, a bird cage or your favorite piece of sculpture, lighted with a small spotlight.

Save Energy With Solid State Electric Light Dimmers

Using a dimmer on a light will save on electricity, unless you have a very old style dimmer. It's true that dimmers once saved little or no energy because they worked on a resistance principle, but the new solid-state dimmers commonly sold to homeowners are close to 100 percent efficient. Technically known as silicon control rectifiers, the solid-state dimmers work by knocking down the voltage so that little, if any, electricity is drawn beyond that needed for the fixture.

Exciting wallcoverings are this spring's best fix-up idea!

These days, fixing up the house can call for some smart budgeting, but one thing is sure: you can't get a bigger bang for your home improvement buck than—wallcoverings.

Consider: a fresh new wallcovering can virtually remake an entire room without remodeling. It can make it brighter, livelier—or more sophisticated. It can make a small, dark room look bigger and airier.

Wallcoverings can also be great cover-ups for bad walls. Their patterns can disguise the bumps and bulges that appear in old walls, and hefty fabric-backed vinyls, help reinforce the walls.

Putting up wallcovering is a do-it-yourself natural. The industry estimates that about 75% of all wallcovering is put up by do-it-yourselfers. So—if all those thousands and thousands of people out there have done it, so can you!

First step: talk to a wallcovering dealer. Many stores run clinics that show you how to hang wallcoverings, even let you get into the act and find out how easy it is.

To give you an idea, here are some of the basics:

• Preparing the wall—That's 90% of the job. Take off switch plates and other hardware, vacuum off dust, and wash off any grease. Fill cracks with spackling compound and sand smooth. And talk to your dealer to see if your particular type of wall needs a sealer; in many cases, it's a good idea.

IT'S ALMOST CHILD'S PLAY to transform a dreary attic into a play-sleep-work room a youngster will love. All it takes are bright new wallcoverings.

• Pasting and folding—You can use a pre-mixed adhesive or the dry kind you mix yourself. Brush it generously over the back of your wallcovering strip. Then, loosely fold the strip, bringing each end to the middle. This makes it easy to carry to the wall and hang.

Don't worry: the vinyl fabric wallcovering won't crumple and the paste won't stick together. In fact, the paste will stay moist long enough to give you plenty of time to position the strip on the wall.

• Positioning and smoothing—Line up your first strip with your guideline, then smooth out air bubbles and excess paste with a wallpaper brush or squeegee. When you add the next strip, butt the edges and smooth them with a steam roller. These inexpensive tools are probably the only special items you'll need.

• Just keep going!—An old-hand installer once said, "The secret of putting up wallcovering is being relaxed and lazy." So take your time, take it easy—and give your house a brand new room over a weekend!

Add a room to keep family in their place

Homes, like old clothes, are sometimes outgrown. As a family grows, a once perfectly sized home may begin bursting at the seams.

One solution is to move to a bigger house. However, high moving costs, soaring real estate prices and the trauma of 'pulling up roots' are convincing many homeowners to increase the living space of their present homes instead.

Grow with family

The National Home Improvement Council offers some ideas to make your home grow along with your family.

• Add a room, or a whole wing. Be sure the windows, siding, roofing and architectural style of the new addition complement the rest of the house.

• With a little insulation, an attic or basement can be converted into an extra bedroom or rec-room. Garages and porches can also be made into year-round rooms.

• Add another bath. An additional bathroom is a great convenience, if not an outright necessity, in larger families.

• Install a patio or deck, which can extend your family's living quarters to the outdoors.

Wollaston Glee Club Spring Concert April 30

The Wollaston Glee Club will present its Spring Concert on Monday April 30, at 8 p.m., at Atlantic Junior High School.

Included in the Glee Club's portion of the program will be compositions by Handel and Tchesnokov, a chorus from an Operetta by Gilbert and Sullivan, Folk songs and humorous songs.

The club's guest artist will be William Sever, who will play the French horn. Sever is the recipient of two scholarships from the Honolulu Symphony Orchestra, and is now a senior, majoring in music at Eastern Nazarene College, Wollaston. He is currently studying with William Baker of the Boston Opera Orchestra.

Mark DiPaolo, pianist and a student at Braintree High School, the 37th recipient of the $500 Wollaston Glee Club Scholarship will perform during the second half of the program.

Tickets for the concert will be available at the door.

William Sparks Exhibit At Houghs Neck Church

William E. Sparks, a Quincy born artist, will present an exhibition of his painting Saturday and Sunday, April 28-29 from 2 to 7 p.m. at the Houghs Neck Congregational Church, 310 Manet Ave., Houghs Neck.

Sparks, who grew up in Quincy, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Sparks of 15 Madeline St., Houghs Neck and a 1967 graduate of Quincy High School. He graduated from Greenfield Community College with an associate of arts degree in 1969. He continued his training at the School of the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, and graduated with a bachelor of fine arts degree, in affiliation with Tufts University in 1971.

The artist now resides in Charlemont, in the Berkshire, where he is continuing to broaden his style and the mediums in which he works. He said his early work was influenced by the seashore of his boyhood home and the "treasures" discarded among its rocks and along its sand.

Looking Glass Theatre At Mass. Fields School

Looking Glass Theatre will present Hatshepsut, Daughter of the Nile at Massachusetts Fields School, Thursday, April 26 at 1:15 p.m.

Hatshepsut, which was written especially for production by L.G.T. by Amy Leonard, began touring last January and has been revived for touring this season. It is an exotic journey through an ancient and mysterious land in which an archeological expedition uncovers the lost tomb of Egypt's only woman pharaoh.

The child audience is then transported back into the remarkable civilization of Egypt, 1500 B.C., which has proven to be an unforgettable experience for the fourth through sixth graders which have participated in its performances thus far.

Boston Gear President Says:

Manufacturing Field Wants More Highly Educated, Trained Personnel

There are many opportunities for employment in manufacturing but with the introduction of automation and computers the need is for more highly educated and trained personnel, Ian Dodds, president of Boston Gear of Quincy, told a seminar of 20 South Shore secondary school teachers recently.

Dodds, a director of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, was host at the meeting arranged by the South Shore Collaborative for Career Education, a division of the chamber.

Purpose of the program was to provide teachers with an understanding of the economics of doing business as a manufacturing firm in today's society, and an awareness of career opportunities available to young people.

Kent Osborne, Boston Gear comptroller, spoke to the seminar on the costs of doing business and the necessity of maintaining a competitive edge.

He emphasized the role of profits and productivity.

Osborne pointed out that while "productivity has increased dramatically over the past three years, employment at the Quincy plant has risen from 500 to 800 in the same span."

Dan Coughlin of Quincy was among the teachers who took part in the four hour seminar and tour of the plant.

the tax rate."

"If we hired a firm to classify the city," said Chief Assessor John Comer, "that firm would have to hire people to go out and collect the same data for them. They might even hire the same people."

"If the administration did not implement the plan we have before us," said Tobin, "the city solicitor was informed by the Revenue Department that they would take over the job."

"The cost of hiring a firm would be deducted from our state reimbursement on the cherry sheet and we would have no input whatsoever into the appraisal process."

Tobin and Comer said the applicants for the CETA jobs were "screened very thoroughly" before being assigned to the work that would take them into homes.

"I want it explicitly stated," said Tobin, "that we are not using any CETA employees or any appraisal firm to implement 100 per cent valuation that would tax people's homes, out of the market."

"What we're doing is gathering information to implement the classification amendment, which the people of Quincy voted overwhelmingly (80 per cent) last November."

Cerasoli Bill On Parents' Liability For Wilfull Acts Gets Committee Approval

The House Judiciary Committee has reported favorably on a bill by Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli [D-Quincy] which would charge parents with civil liability for the wilfull acts of their minor children.

The bill deals with children between the ages of seven and 18 who live at home and are supported by their parents. The liability extends to parents through acts of their children which result in:

- Injury or death to another person.
 - Damage to the property of another.
 - Damage to cemetery property.
 - Damage to any state, county, or municipal property.
- The maximum which can be recovered under the bill is $1,000 and the bill will not apply to any parent who, as a result of a court order, does not have custody of the child at the time.

Several bills have been proposed this session which would hold parents criminally liable financially for the wilfull acts of their minor children.

The Committee felt this to be unconstitutional as it would afford no due process rights such as notice and opportunity to be heard to the parents for the acts of their minor children.

Rep. Michael F. Flaherty [D-South Boston], chairman of the House Committee on the Judiciary, said:

"Rep. Cerasoli's bill will go a long way towards stemming the tide of vandalism and abuse in our society. A bill like this will make children think twice before defacing public property or desecrating cemeteries."

Runnerup In N.E. Competition

James McKenna Again Wins Legion State Oratorical Contest

James McKenna, winner of the Massachusetts State Legion Oratorical contest for the second year, was one of the runners-up in the New England regional oratorical contest held Monday at Montpelier High School, Vermont.

A resident of Hingham, James was sponsored by the Morrisette American Legion Post for the second year in a row.

A resident of Hingham, James is being sponsored by the Morrisette American Legion Post for the second year in a row.

James, a sophomore at Xaverian Brother's High School, Westwood, spoke to members and guests of the post at a social meeting held recently. His speech, "The Constitution - Our Legacy of Wisdom" was so enthusiastically delivered that he received a standing ovation.

Toastmaster for the meeting was Dan Shea, Morrisette Post oratorical chairman and member of the Massachusetts Oratorical Committee.

He complimented James on his selection of subject and delivery, and cited his speech as exemplifying the American Legion's Oratorical and Americanism Programs.

Post Commander Robert Welch presented James with the American Legion Oratorical Medal as well as an award from the Morrisette Post.

James was previously presented the Golden Scroll Award from the American Academy of Achievement as winner of the State Oratorical Contest as well as for being an outstanding youth.

The presentation was made at the Massachusetts State Legion banquet at the Chateau de Ville, Framingham, which was held in honor of commander John M. Carey.

Demolish Wollaston Theater?

More Parking Recommended For Wollaston Business Area

Sasaki Associates Inc. has issued preliminary conclusions drawn from Phase 2 of its revitalization study of the Wollaston Business District.

City Councillor Stephen J. McGrath warned that the conclusions are merely suggestions and "examples of potential long-range planning goals."

The report made these observations on parking in Wollaston:

- The on-street spaces along Beale and Hancock Sts. are the primary source of customer parking for most of the businesses in the area, but the number of spaces is not sufficient to meet demand.
- The on-street parking along Beale and Hancock Sts. is used primarily by customers and all-day parking is a relatively minor problem.
- Parking lots at Friendly's and Kentucky Fried Chicken are adequate to serve those places and in some cases have excess capacity.

The study presents these four "alternative schemes" for providing new parking in Wollaston Center and for creating new business opportunities:

- New parking could be created along the rear of businesses on the north side of Beale St.
- The existing theater could become a combination cinema and shopping arcade but would require a new parking lot along Chapman St. to the south.
- Alternatively, the theater could be demolished to make room for a new parking area.
- The parking lot adjacent to the First National store could be reorganized to improve traffic circulation and removal of the auto repair shop would allow for more efficient use of the entire zone for parking.
- The vacant parcel of land at Hancock and Beach Sts. could be developed as a business site, including limited parking.

Nearly 100 Attend Atlantic Spring Social

The Atlantic Neighborhood Association held a Spring Social last Friday at the Atlantic Methodist Church with 100 attending.

Representatives were from the North Quincy Development Corporation, presenting architects' plans for Phase One of the revitalization of the North Quincy Business District. Andrew Walsh, John Horrigan and Charles McCoy explained the plans to interested residents and answered their many questions.

Nancy Libby, Mary Travers and Jane Ford from the Atlantic Neighborhood Center staffed a table and offered information about the wide variety of programs and services offered by the Center.

Two representatives from the Quincy Police Department's Neighborhood Watch program answered questions and provided residents with anti-vandalism information. Also present were police officers and crossing guards who serve the Atlantic area.

Pat O'Reilly, Ronni Stevens and Terry O'Brien from the Association explained the goals of the organization and offered membership information.

Tom Nutley announced that the nominating committee will be: Diane Brooks, Norma Pinkham, Blaise DeLollis, Ann Fraser and Rita Nutley. Nominations will be presented at the next meeting, May 9.

Career Night April 26 At New NQHS Gym

The North Quincy High School counseling department will hold a Career Fair Thursday, April 26 in the new gym from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

Students from grades 9 through 12, their parents, and the general public are invited to attend.

There will be representatives from more than 100 different careers available that evening to converse informally about their jobs and answer questions. Some of the fields that will be represented include: building trades, computers, health careers, business, law, airlines, broadcasting, management, retailing, modeling, food services, engineering, photography, travel, accounting, social work, psychology and many more.

Those representing the various careers will discuss their jobs, education that is required, schools in the Boston area that offer programs to prepare for the career field, typical salaries, working conditions and the job outlook for the next few years. They will also have pamphlets and brochures available.

Discussion will cover careers of interest to students who plan to go on to college as well as those who plan to work after graduation. Adults who are in the process of reevaluating or changing their jobs will also find a great deal of information at the Career Fair.

Alfred Petterson Granite Coop Winner

The name of Alfred D. Petterson, 540 Hancock St., Wollaston has been drawn as one of 12 weekly winners in a contest being held by the Granite Co-operative Bank of Quincy.

The public is invited to guess the amount of cash handled by the bank between Feb. 1 and April 30. The person guessing the closest will win a Panasonic Console Color TV worth nearly $700.

Each week the bank draws one of the entries submitted and awards a prize from amongst other Panasonic merchandise.

Petterson won a Panasonic stereo worth nearly $400.

No transaction is necessary to enter. Winners must be at least 18 years old though they need not be a regular depositor at the bank.

QSD Rezoning Beneficial To Community, Says Condon

City Councillor Joanne Condon says she feels rezoning of a parcel of land at 124-168 Quincy Shore Drive to Planned Unit Development (PUD) will prove beneficial to the entire community.

Mrs. Condon said she requested the zoning change, which was voted 9-0 by the City Council, in the interest of allowing the community more input into its development.

John A. Sullivan of Dorchester and his associate, William Clerkin, have proposed to build 150 to 200 units of housing in three-story buildings on the site.

One Win, One Loss

Earle Goes 13 Innings To Lead Raiders, 4-3

North Quincy's veteran southpaw, Gary Earle, turned in one of the early season masterpieces in schoolboy circles as he went the entire 13 innings to spark the Raiders to a 4-3 win over Newton North in their opening game.

However, North dropped a 6-4 decision to Cambridge Rindge and Latin Monday and took a 1-1 record into yesterday's (Wednesday's) game against Quincy. The Raiders will play at Brookline Monday and will host Brockton next Wednesday at 3:30 at Adams Field.

Earle's stint was one of the longest of any schoolboy this year and he struck out 17 along the way and walked only four. He allowed only six hits. He also scored the game winner in the 13th.

Earle and Billy O'Connell walked and moved up on a balk. Glen Segalla's single scored Earle with the clincher.

Earle pitched out of trouble in the 12th and 13th innings. In the 12th he had a runner on second with no outs but Larry Baker in center field threw the runner out at the plate on a hit. In the 13th Larry Burke tripled with nobody out but Earle retired the next three batters on a groundout, a pop out and his 17th strikeout.

"This was one of the best games I've been involved in during my eight years at North," Coach Charlie Bunker said.

Bob Biagini, O'Connell, Segalla and Mark Millane each had two hits for the Raiders.

"Things went wrong from the start Monday for North as the bus was late and the team arrived in Cambridge five minutes before game time.

"We didn't have a chance for any practice and we soon found ourselves behind, 3-0," Bunker said.

Sports

Biagini had two more hits and he stole his third and fourth bases.

Earle played first base and had a two-run single and a walk. O'Connell played outstanding ball at shortstop as did Dave Nagle at second base. North had plenty of chances but left 11 runners stranded.

Greg Madden pitched the first 5 1/3 innings and Brian Condon did well in relief.

Rugby Club Wins 4th Straight

The Quincy Rugby Club is off to a good start with a 4-0 record, defeating Southern Conn., 18-12 last weekend.

Colin and Chris Riely combined for 12 points and Bob Morton had the other points. Colin Riely received the MVP award.

In its previous game Quincy had defeated Beacon Hill Rugby Club, 6-0. Lou Trubiano accounted for the only scoring with an outstanding run and he was voted MVP.

Co-Capt. Tom Quinn said, "This win will be remembered for a long time to come."

Quincy's B team lost to Southern Conn., 16-12, with Peter Baberero and John Lotherp being named Quincy's MVPs.

Quincy will play at Dover, N., this Saturday.

Broad Meadows Wins Girls Gym Championship

The Broad Meadows Junior High girls' gymnastics team won the city-wide championship meet for the third year in a row last week, edging Central, 65.4-64.9, at Broad Meadows.

Broad Meadows, coached by Debra Hassan, was 4-0 in regular season competition and is 15-0 over the past three years. Central, coached by Barbara Donelin, was 3-1 during the season.

Atlantic-North, coached by Barbara O'Brien, finished third in the city-wide meet with 63.1 points. Point, coached by Debbie Congdon, had 52.5 points and Sterling, under Christy Oliveira, scored 52.2.

Deidre Donovan, Atlantic-North ninth grader, was the top all-around performer, compiling 25.5 points. Kristin Dever, Central seventh grader, had 23.6 points. Broad Meadows' Diane Raftery, an eighth grader, had 20.3 and Marie Young, Sterling eighth grader, had 16.5.

The results:
Balance beam: 1. Cathy Megnia, BM, 6.5; 2. tie between Deidre Donovan, A-N, and Kristen Dever, C, 6.2; 3. Renee Ryan, BM, 5.1; 4. Diane Raftery, BM, 5.0; 5. Denise Beliveau, P, 4.9.

Uneven bars: 1. Donovan, 5.3; 2. Sue Murray, C, 4.6; 3. Denise Wright, C, 4.3; 4. Raftery, 4.1; 5. tie between Dever, Franny Brown, BM, and Mary Kate Kennedy, C, 3.8.

Floor exercise: 1. Donovan, 6.6; 2. tie between Sonya Kondrat, BM, and Alta Driscoll, C, 6.5; 3. tie between Denise Jolley, P, and Dever, 6.4; 4. Beliveau, 6.3; 5. Brown, 6.1.

Vaulting: 1. Donovan, 7.4; 2. Dever, 7.2; 3. Kim McEachern, BM, 6.6; 4. Mary Kussman, BM, 6.3; 5. tie between Kathy Reddish, BM, and Jeanne Connolly, A-N, 6.2.

BM had finished unbeaten again in regular season competition by defeating Sterling, 57.4-54.6.

Franny Brown and Cheryl Bamberg of BM tied for first in floor exercise with a 6.4 score. Diane Heath of Sterling was second and Sterling's Anne Hallisey third.

BM's Kim McEachern won in vaulting with a handspring vault which earned her a 6.1 score. Sterling's Diane Morrissey was second and Sterling's Darlene Marston and Michelle Dubes tied for third.

On balance beam Sterling's Dee Dee Salvatore was the winner and Sterling's Michelle LaBonte and Lisa Burrelli tied for third.

BM swept the uneven bars with Kathy Reddish, Brown and Diane Raftery finishing 1-2-3.

Broad Meadows handed Central [3-1] its lone defeat, 57.85-54.85.

Central started out well by winning floor exercise as Kristen Dever took first with a score of 61.4, BM's Sonya Kondrat was second at 5.9, Central's Alta Driscoll was third and Lauren O'Rourke tied for fourth.

BM swept the vaulting with McEachern first at 7.25, Rosie Gaura second at 6.55 and Reddish third at 6.5. Central's Lisa Nolan scored 6.1 and Driscoll 5.8.

On balance beam Central's Dever won at 5.25, BM's Raftery was second and BM's Cathy Megnia third. Central's Tracie Towle and Amy Harrison also did well.

BM's Raftery won on uneven bars at 4.2 and Reddish was second at 3.35. Central's Sue Murray was third at 3.1.

Central defeated Atlantic [2-2], 66.55-56.30 with Dever winning floor exercise with a 7.0 score and taking second in vaulting [7.4], balance beam [5.1] and uneven bars [4.1].

Atlantic was led by Deidre Donovan, who took first in vaulting [7.9] and uneven bars [6.15] and took third on floor [6.1] and balance beam [4.7].

In floor exercise Central's Driscoll was second and Natalie Nigro fourth and Julie Nee provided a pleasant surprise for Coach Barbara Donelin with her best effort of the season, taking fifth [5.2].

In vaulting Central's Lauren O'Rourke scored a surprising 7.0 for third place while Driscoll [6.6], Jean Sandomato [6.4] and Lisa Nolan [6.35] turned in their best vaults of the season.

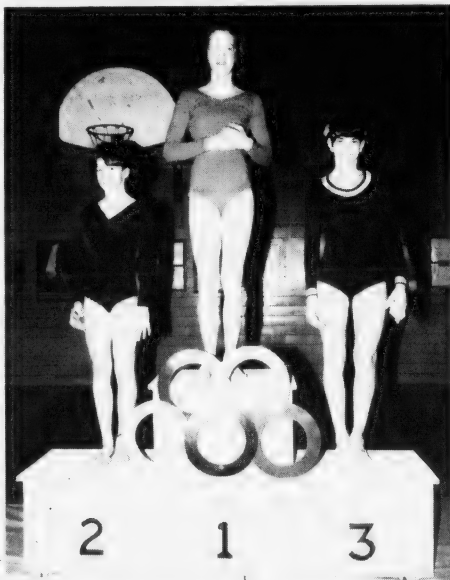

On balance beam Central's

Patti Novak won with a 5.45 score, her best of the season, and O'Rourke tied for second at 5.1.

On uneven bars Central again received an excellent routine from Murray [3.6], who has been Central's most consistent performer on bars, while Cathy O'Brien, in her first competition on bars, placed fourth at 3.25.

Earlier Broad Meadows had defeated Point, 57.6-43.6; BM topped Atlantic, 59.3-56.0; Central defeated Sterling, 50.85-40.75; Atlantic easily defeated Sterling, 53.0-34.10, and Sterling upset Point, 51.25-49.80.

DEIDRE DONOVAN, of Atlantic-North [center], was the top scorer in the junior high city-wide girls' gymnastics meet, with Kristen Dever of Central, left, in second place and Diane Raftery of Broad Meadows third.

CENTRAL GIRLS await their turn to perform in the junior high city-wide gymnastics championships. Kristen Dever, left, was second in overall competition, and Alta Driscoll, next to her, was the team's number two scorer.

MARIE YOUNG of Sterling, who competed in all four events, has her foot bandaged by Coach Christy Oliveira before continuing in competition during the city-wide junior high gymnastics meet. She was fourth overall.

Raider Track Team Green But Red Hot

North Quincy track coach Lou Tozzi admitted he would be pleased with a 500 record this spring but his inexperienced team has been red hot and took a 3-0 record [2-0 in the Suburban League] into yesterday's meet against Weymouth South.

North will be at Brookline, Thursday.

The Raiders last Thursday rolled over Waltham, 89-56, for their second straight league win as Danny McIntyre was a triple winner.

McIntyre won the high hurdles and triple jump and ran on the winning 440 relay team.

Other North winners were Bill Dailey in the 100, Steve Mastorilli in the 220; John McGuigan in the 880; Rich Schaezel, low hurdles; Tim O'Neill, long jump; Jack Leone, high jump; Tim Allen, discus, and Jim Mackiewicz, javelin. Both relay teams also won. Mastorilli, McIntyre, Dailey and Rick Anderson ran on the 440 team and Mike Ricciuti, Gerry McCormack, McGuigan and Schaezel on the mile team.

Second places were taken by Paul O'Sullivan, 100; Jim Coughlin, mile; John Barrett, two-mile; Dailey, pole vault; and Luke DiPietro, shot put.

Taking thirds were Anderson, 220; Walt McConaghty, 440; McCormack, 880; Ricciuti, mile; Rich McCarthy, low hurdles;

Leone, high hurdles; McConaghty, long jump; McCormack, high jump; McCarthy, vault; Penzo, javelin, and Bob Danna, discus.

Earlier in the week North scored an impressive 82-63 win over Cambridge Rindge and Latin in its league opener.

The Raiders had two double winners, McIntyre in the triple jump and low hurdles and O'Neill in the long jump and 220.

Mackiewicz won the javelin, Leone the high jump, Dailey the pole vault, Steve Mastorilli the 440 and McGuigan the 880.

North won both relays, O'Neill, McCormack, McConaghty and McGuigan winning the mile event and Anderson, Mastorilli, McIntyre and Leif Thornton winning the 440 run.

Other Raider scorers were Coughlin, second in the mile; Ricciuti, second in the two-mile; McCarthy, second in the low hurdles and second in the pole vault; Leone, second in the high hurdles; Thornton, second in the long jump and third in the 100; Allen, third in the pole vault; Penzo, third in the javelin; Dailey, third in the 220; Anderson, third in the 440; John Barrett, third in the two-mile; Mike Bradbury, third in the pole vault, and DiPietro, third in the shot put.

To Benefit Camp Program

33-Hour Aquathon-Runathon Starts Saturday At YMCA

The Quincy YMCA will hold its annual Aquathon/Runathon starting Saturday, at 9 a.m., through Sunday, April 29, to 6 p.m. or 33 continuous hours.

Last year over $7,500 was raised to help sponsor youngsters to Day or Resident Camp, enjoy the "Y's" regular year-round programs, and help support on-going youth programs.

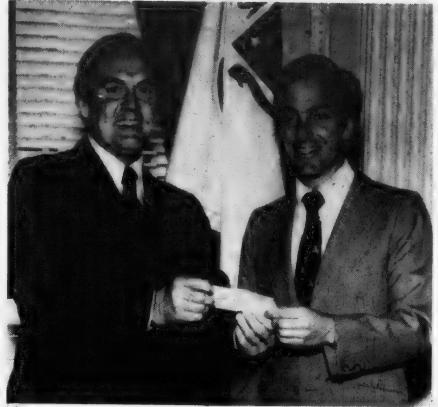

Participants can jog laps or swim lengths and solicit sponsors.

Participants do not have to be a YMCA member to participate.

The Quincy Education Association and the Quincy Public School System have endorsed the fund-raising event again this year. Teachers and students in almost all the elementary schools will be swimming or jogging to raise funds for the "Y".

City officials will be on hand at the Kickoff ceremonies Saturday, April 28, at 9 a.m. to give their support.

Participant forms are available at the Main Desk at the YMCA. When participants have all the sponsors they wish to solicit they should go to the AQUATHON SPONSOR—Gov. Edward J. King presents Senator Paul D. Harold (D-Quincy) with pledge form for Quincy YMCA Aquathon to be held Saturday and Sunday at the YMCA. The governor is sponsoring Harold in the Aquathon.

YMCA anytime during the 33 hours and swim their lengths or jog their laps. Those not actively participating may sponsor a YMCA professional staff member. Each contribution is tax deductible.

Bantam C's Eliminated In Presidential Tourney

The Bantam C team was eliminated in two straight games in the Presidential Tournament, losing to Fairfield, Conn., 6-3, and to Weymouth, 10-6.

In the Fairfield game Rich Durham had two goals and Jim DiPietro one. Tom Richards had two assists and DiPietro, Durham, Bob Flynn and Steve Dennelsbeck one each.

Against Weymouth DiPietro and Mike Chennette had two goals apiece and Keith Blaney and Flynn one each. Durham, Chris Gorman, DiPietro and Chennette had assists.

Recreation Dept. Offering Adult Tennis Lessons

The Quincy Recreation Department will again offer adult tennis lessons in the beginner and intermediate level.

The six-week, one-hour lessons will be held at the Faxon Park Tennis Courts.

The classes will be offered Mondays and Wednesdays from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. at Faxon Park, Saturday, beginner classes will be held from 11 a.m. to noon. Night classes will be held Monday through Thursday from 6 to 7 p.m. and to 9 p.m. at Faxon Park.

The Recreation Department will supply tennis balls and will have some racquets available. Registration will take place at the Recreation Office located at 100 Southern Artery, Merrymount, beginning Monday April 30.

Registration will be held on a first come first serve basis. A fee will be charged and be payable upon registration. For further information contact the Recreation Department at 773-1380, ext. 204.

Montclair Defeats Squantum For Senior Boys Crown

Montclair School defeated Squantum, 57-37, for the championship of the Quincy Recreation Department Senior Boys Basketball League.

Every member of the Montclair team scored in a well-balanced attack.

Leading Montclair was Benny King with 12 points. King was followed closely by Larry Baker and Bill Murphy with 10 each. Chris Sullivan had six, Dennis Shenhan five, John Marsters and Bob Cuervels four, followed by Bob Woodman and Ed Tobin who each had one point. Montclair is coached by Tom Birke and Jerry Pratt.

Squantum was led in scoring by Tom Pound with 10 points. Following Pound were John Badger eight, Jim Coughlin six, Pat Ennis five, John McGuigan four, and Paul Graham two. The Squantum team was rounded out with Bob Rency, Kurt Braun, and Mike Quinn. Squantum is coached by Robert Noble and Ted Stevenson.

Championship trophies were awarded to Montclair by Director of Recreation, Charles L. Alongi Jr. He also awarded certificates to the runnerup Squantum team.

Quincy Track Team Bows To Brockton

The Quincy boys' track team hoped to rebound from losses to Suburban League powers Brockton and Weymouth South when it faced Cambridge Rindge and Latin yesterday [Wednesday] and next Tuesday the Presidents will host Newton North at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Quincy was outclassed by powerhouse Brockton, 117-28, last week but Coaches Bill Maver and Joe Goguen again were pleased with some of the performances.

The Boxers, annually among the best in the state, swept eight events enroute to their cinch win.

The Presidents had two winners, Dan Flannery in the triple jump [37-9] and Brian Donovan in the high jump [5-8]. Flannery also took third in the low hurdles.

John Griffiths took seconds in the high jump and high hurdles, Roy Higgins was second in the long jump and third in the 440, John Furey second in the two-mile and Paul Bandera third in the high hurdles.

Levenson First Quincy Finisher In Marathon

Former Quincy High Coach Joe Catalano was reported in last week's Quincy Sun as the first Quincy finisher in the Boston Marathon.

Actually, Marty Levenson, a former North Quincy distance standout under Coach Lou Tozzi, was the first Quincy finisher in 2:37.32, good for 578th place.

Catalano finished 676th in 2:38.22, while Quincy's Jake Mahoney, a Milton police officer, finished 733rd in 2:39.57.

Quincy's Mike Hussey, 15-year old freshman at Choate Rosemary Hall, Wallingford, Conn., finished for the second year in a row unofficially with a time of 3:05. Last year Mike finished in four hours and hopes to do even better next year.

Cohasset Woman Wins Set Of 4 Bowling Balls In Olindy's Lucky Total

Olindy's Lanes, Quincy Ave., Quincy, has raised $500 in the first of the Lucky Total contests being conducted for the benefit of the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

John Mezzetti, co-owner of the alleys, secretly bowled three strings for a score of 348.

Mary Keating, 47 James Ln., Cohasset, guessed the score correctly. Robert Estrella, 2 Payson St., Quincy, also guessed 348. The tie was broken by a drawing and the lady was awarded a set of four candlepin bowling balls. Estrella, Mezzetti said, will receive 10 to 15 free strings of bowling.

The next contest will be held April 30 and another set of bowling balls will be awarded to the person who guesses - or comes closest to Mezzetti's new score for three strings.

The two sets of balls and carrying bags have been donated by Paramount, Inc., manufacturers of the balls, and John, James and Stephen Mezzetti, co-owners of Olindy's. Each set is valued at $50.

There is a 50-cent entry fee for the contest which is sponsored by the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee for Muscular Dystrophy.

Last year a similar event at Olindy's raised more than $800 for MDA which provides patient services, medical services and clinics, public health education and research.

Guerriero's Team Wins St. John's HNS Title

Dick Guerriero's team won the championship of the St. John's Holy Name Bowling League by defeating Ron DiRamio's team in the title rolloff.

Guerriero had won the first half championship and DiRamio had captured the second half crown.

John Darcy's team finished third and, in another rolloff, Clem Pagnani's team defeated Earl Laureto's team for fourth place.

Guerriero was the top bowler with a 105.7.

He was followed by Ron DiRamio, 105.0; Bob Saluti, 104.7; Tom Darcy, 103.5; John Darcy, 103.1; Dick DiRamio, 100.6; Joe Matarazzo, 100.0; Fred Fostello, 99.8; Paul Beatrice, 99.8, and Clem Pagnani, 99.3.

The final second half standings: Ron DiRamio, 62-28 (total pinfall of 21,468); Guerriero, 56-34 (21,787); John Darcy, 55-35 (21,291); Pagnani, 54-36 (21,348); Earl Laureto, 40-50 (21,135); Saluti, 38-52 (21,046); Dan Sandomato, 33-57 (20,736); Ed Linehan, 22-68 (20,704).

The final weekly high team single was rolled by Guerriero, 502, and he also had high team thirds of 1452. Guerriero rolled the high individual high thirds of 354 and the high single of 125.

Pagnani's team had the season's high single of 548, and Linehan's team had 547. Pagnani's team had the season's high team third of 1336 and DiRamio's team had 1523. Saluti rolled the season's high single of 153 and Dick DiRamio had 139. Linehan had the high individual third of 369 and Ron DiRamio had 365.

Roofer Turned Major League Umpire

For McNally, Fenway 'Chance Of A Lifetime'

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy's Jim McNally didn't dream, when he and his twin brother, Mike, attended Al Somers' umpiring school in Daytona Beach, Fla., back in 1971 that it would lead to the major leagues.

But, thanks to the major league umpires' strike, the lifelong Houghs Neck resident who lives on Sea Street and who graduated with Mike from Quincy High in 1970, was called upon to work every game during the recent Red Sox nine-game home stand at Fenway Park.

Jim, who stands only 5-6 and was told when he graduated from the umpiring school that he was too small, even for the minor leagues, worked behind the plate and at all three bases during the stand. He sat out one game as the alternate.

"We received $108 a game [the minimum daily pay for a major league umpire] and even those of us who sat out a game as alternate got the same," said Jim. An extra umpire is always named in case of illness or injury.

Jim, a 27-year old roofer, umpires in the Boston Park League every summer and for the past several years has officiated at ECAC Division 2 and 3 college games.

"This is the chance of a lifetime," said McNally of his major league opportunity. "I wouldn't trade it for anything. However, I'm very disappointed at the ECAC telling me I wouldn't work another of its games this spring if I worked at Fenway Park. More than that, any umpire who walked on the field with me is also suspended. Who do they think they are?"

Jim isn't worried, however, explaining that several college coaches who appoint their own umpires are friends of his and "I know I will get my share of games this spring."

Jim said the toughest part of his major league assignment was walking through the major league umpires' picket line. "They called us lots of names but I don't really blame them," he said. "I think they are underpaid and I wouldn't work for what they make. But I'm not trying to take anyone's job away, so why jump all over us? If we weren't doing the job, someone else would be."

Jim found doing the Red Sox games a lot harder than doing college and Park League games. "You bear down a lot harder for these. You want to look good and do well," he said. "You don't want to let people down, but most of all, you don't want to let yourself down."

Jim said the players and managers gave him no trouble, but Jim Rice did complain bitterly over a called strike in one of the Milwaukee games.

"After the game Hank Soar, a major league ump for many years who still fills in when needed, asked me what Rice had said," McNally said. "I told him he said it was a bad pitch but Hank told me it was a good pitch and a good call."

Jim admitted the players didn't seem as big as they looked to him from the stands. However, he was just as glad he didn't get in a rhuabarb with Frank Howard, Milwaukee's 6-7, 290-pound first base coach.

Jim played baseball at Quincy and after he and twin Mike, who is the same height as Jim, graduated from umpiring school, Mike umpired for two or three years but then called it quits, while Jim kept on. Mike is a machinist at Vulcan Tool in Quincy.

"I began in the Park League and have done its games ever since," he said. And for a number of years I have done the Division 2 and 3 college games. I once tried to get into the Cape Cod League but had no success."

Jim explained that his name and those of the other umpires were submitted to the Red Sox and he was notified by Owner Haywood Sullivan's secretary that he had been selected. He had to fill out a questionnaire which came from the major league presidents and gave three references.

"I had some pretty good references and that may have helped me," he said.

McNally, the son of John and Catherine McNally of Quincy, has a solid booster in his wife, the former Jeanne Corsette, head saleswoman at Sawyer's Men's Store.

"I am just as excited as Jim is about umpiring the Sox games," she said. "This is a wonderful opportunity for him and I know he wouldn't trade it for anything."

If the umpires strike is still on when the Red Sox return home on May 4, Jim McNally may still be in the major leagues.

PeeWee C's Bow Out

The Pee Wee C team defeated Milton, 2-1, in the Presidential Tournament on goals by Bob Drury and Brian Provenzano and assists for Dan Hall, Provenzano and Drury.

The C's lost to Medford, 4-0, and were eliminated by Quincy's B team, 3-2, with Mark Chambers and Mark McManus scoring for the C's and Drury and Provenzano having assists.

Quincy Takes Silver Lake, But Falls To Brookline

Quincy's baseball team faced North Quincy yesterday (Wednesday) and Coach Bud Mosher was hoping for a reversal of form after a disappointing game Monday.

The Presidents, now 1-3, will be at Brockton today (Thursday). Monday will host Waltham at 3:30 at Adams Field and next Wednesday will play at Weymouth North.

Quincy, after gaining its first win last Friday (7-0 over Silver Lake), dropped a 4-1 decision to Brookline in its Suburban League opener Monday when the defense faltered and handed Brookline four unearned runs and the Presidents were held to three hits.

Tom Eames and Dave Austin pitched well, giving up only six hits but, as Mosher said, "We just played a very poor game both in the field and at bat."

In the win over Silver Lake Ray Coscia pitched well as he struck out eight and walked only one and he also had two hits. Dean Prescott drove in four runs with three hits and Fran Donovan and Bill Deitch had two hits apiece.

Stay Alive!

By Jack Silverstein

IS IT A CIGARETTE COUGH?

A cigarette cough is dangerous in that it can mask more serious conditions. For example, the smoker who develops a chronic cough cannot tell by the quality of the cough alone whether it is due to cigarettes or to some major ailment or chronic disease. The cigarette cough, the Tuberculosis cough, the bronchitis cough and the cough due to cancer of the lung all sound alike.

There is one reliable test by which a smoker can determine for himself if his cough results from tobacco. The test is simple, yet at the same time inconvenient and difficult to perform. It requires absolute cessation of smoking for at least four to five weeks. There is no half-way measure - smoking must be stopped completely, not reduced. No other method will succeed. The true cigarette cough will disappear within five weeks. After that length of time why start smoking again?

Flyers, Panthers Roll On In S.S. Cup Playoffs

The first all-Quincy final in the South Shore Hockey Cup playoffs came closer to reality last Sunday when the Quincy Flyers, South Shore League South Shore Division champion, defeated Bridgewater, 8-5, and the Quincy Panthers upset Greater Boston Division titlist Jamaica Plain, 6-3.

Next Sunday the Panthers and Jamaica Plain will meet at 7 and the Flyers and Bridgewater will clash at 8:30 at Pilgrim Arena in Hingham in the second games of the semifinals.

Bob DeBrace put the Panthers ahead, 1-0, with a goal with only 58 seconds left in the first period, being set up by Tom Staples.

Sixteen seconds into the second period the same pair combined with DeBrace making it 2-0. Five minutes later Jamaica Plain scored but with six minutes left in the period DeBrace completed a hat trick on a power play as Brian Fahey gave the puck to Staples, who again set up DeBrace. It was the second successive hat trick in the series for DeBrace. Jamaica Plain cut the gap to 3-2 on Dennis Sholes' unassisted goal.

Staples and Fahey scored for Quincy in the final period and Joe Sheehy scored for JP. With four minutes to play DeBrace put the frosting on the cake with his fourth goal.

In the Flyers-Bridgewater game Ed McDonald put Quincy up 1-0 with David Power setting him up but three minutes later Carl Lodi tied it for Bridgewater.

The tempo picked up in the middle period as Tom Pistorino scored for Quincy unassisted and Bridgewater's Brian Heggie again tied it at 5:31. Sean Polley set Power up for a goal but again Bridgewater tied it on Paul Venziano's goal and the teams were tied at 3 going into the final.

The Flyers came out flying as Kevin Jago scored on passes from Bruce Maggio and Jim Mullaney two minutes into the period. Two minutes later Ed Mullen put the Flyers two goals up with Pistorino and Jago assisting and midway in the period Pistorino set up David Noonan, who scored through a crowd and Mullaney and Dennis Bertoni finished off the scoring for Quincy.

● Bantam House

D&H, Johnson Winners

In the Bantam House League playoffs Doran & Horrigan defeated Burgin Platner, 3-2, with Kevin Jennette scoring all three goals.

Dave Clifford and Bryan had two assists each. For Burgin Keith Blaney had both goals and Rich Camilleri had two assists and Chris Gorman and Darby Flaherty one each.

MBTA To Register Seniors May 8

An MBTA registration team will be Quincy, Tuesday, May 8 between the hours of 9:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. to process applications for reduced fare identification cards for eligible senior citizens and eligible handicapped citizens of Quincy and surrounding communities.

Registration will take place at Quincy Drop-In Center, High School Ave., Quincy Center. To be eligible for a senior citizen reduced fare identification card, which contains the name and address of the holder and a color photograph for positive identification, senior citizens must bring:

Proof of age—65 years or older—such as a birth certificate, baptismal record, or driver's license; proof of residency such as a driver's license, library card or charge plate; and a 50-cent cash fee.

Medicare cards will not be accepted as proof of age.

The MBTA stressed that senior citizens who already have a reduced fare identification card to not need to register again. What appears to be an expiration date is used merely for internal auditing and control purposes. Once a reduced fare identification card is issued, it is good for life.

To be eligible for a handicapped citizen reduced fare identification card, good only during off-peak hours, handicapped persons must:

Present acceptable proof of their disability such as a letter from the Social Security Administration; evidence of 70 percent or more disability as determined by the United States Veterans' Administration; or completion of MBTA Form No. SN-7 which must be approved and signed by a physician or state or federal agency serving the handicapped.

The MBTA forms will be mailed to anyone requesting them by calling the MBTA's Special Needs Office at: 722-5438.

Licensing Board Denies Request

Lavinia Restaurant License Turned Down

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The Quincy Licensing Board has denied the request of Lavinia Restaurant, 184 Willard St., West Quincy, for a common victualer-all alcoholic license.

Voting against the request Tuesday were Building Inspector Allan McDonald; Health Commissioner Dr. Samuel Solomon; Fire Chief Edward F. Barry; and City Clerk John Gillis. Police Chief Francis X. Finn declined a vote because he said he was not at last week's meeting when the matter was discussed and a number of residents opposed the license.

The board had turned down the request of Nicholas V. Trifone, owner, and Augustine Russo, manager, several months ago.

The decision was appealed to the state Alcoholic Beverage Commission which referred the matter back to the local board.

At that time, Trifone was given leave to withdraw the request without prejudice.

Trifone was present at Tuesday's meeting, accompanied by Atty. James A. Castleman.

At one point, Castleman offered to withdraw the request on behalf of his client. He noted the opposition of local residents, and pointed out his client's wish to avoid hard feelings.

Said Trifone, "The issue has been beaten to the ground. We've heard the pros and cons. The property was purchased for business purposes, and considerable investment has been made. One out of four direct abutters are opposed to the license. I place the request on the mercy of the board."

In voting down the request, McDonald and Barry both noted that the action was not taken against Trifone, personally.

"There has been tremendous opposition in Ward 4 over the request and I feel that the residents are entitled to determine if a liquor license is issued," said McDonald.

In other action, the Licensing Board:

- Continued for two weeks a request from Highway Auto Body (Daniel N. Antonelli) 481 Quincy Ave., first floor, for a permit to store 250 gallons of gasoline in tanks of cars and for an auto body repair license. The request was made by Atty. George Burke because of a court commitment.

- Granted a used furniture license to Harold Whiteneck for Court Coin Co., 1659 Hancock St., on the conditions that no wares be displayed at the exterior of the building, and no changes be made to the building's sign without the approval of the building inspector. Whiteneck was also granted a license to sell old gold and silver.

- Continued for six months a hearing on a complaint against Soon Lee Corp., d/b/a Joy King Restaurant, 425 Hancock St.

Police Capt. Paul Nestor presented police reports to the board written during a two-week period when officers were assigned to the restaurant. They failed to indicate any problems.

David N. Colligan, of 90 Billings Rd., spoke to the board about teen-agers smashing windows of business establishments during three week-ends between 2 and 3 a.m. after supposedly coming from the restaurant.

An extra police car was requested by Chief Finn to patrol the establishment after midnight.

Quincy Cancer Crusade Continuing

The 1979 Quincy Cancer Crusade will continue this week announces Richard J. Koch, Crusade Chairman.

Volunteers are asked to complete their assignments by the weekend and make returns to any branch of the Hancock Bank in Quincy or at the main office, 1495 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Those not at home when the volunteer visits are requested to use the envelope left at the house to enclose a donation of any amount and mail it as soon as possible. The contribution, although forwarded to the City of Boston, will be credited to the Quincy Cancer Crusade.

Over 1,300 throughout the city have volunteered to visit their neighbors for the Crusade. The major portion of the donations received are going to Cancer research and education.

A number of crusader kits have been returned by persons who because of illness have been unable to complete their designated area coverage and the Committee is seeking additional crusaders to assist for the full coverage of the city wide endeavor.

The following are coordinating the crusade in Quincy:

Ward 1, Mrs. Joanne Reardon, 70 Chickatabot Rd.; Ward 2, Theodore DeCristofaro, 17 Murdock Ave.; Ward 3, Mrs. Janet Crowley, 139 Highland Ave.; Ward 4, Mr. David J. Donaghue, 88 Wallace Rd.; Ward 5, Mr. Joseph E. Burke, 145 Willow St.; and Ward 6, Mrs. Linda Bowes, 241 Newbury Ave.

Heating Oil Prices Climb

The average price of a gallon of home heating oil in the Quincy area has reached 63.7 cents, although the 1978-79 heating season unofficially came to a close at the end of March, according to the state office of energy resources.

The informal designation of the heating season is from October to March and in that period the price of a gallon of heating oil rose more than 12 cents.

The latest bi-weekly survey of 108 retail dealers across the state shows a 1.4 cent increase since the last survey of the heating season on March 28.

In Quincy the most recent prices ranged from 60.9 to 64.9 cents per gallon. The average price was 63.7 cents per gallon.

The office of energy resources said that while the survey was being conducted several dealers indicated that a wholesale increase is expected within a week or two.

A Big Flag On Her Big Day

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Three year old Stephanie Anne Siteman, adopted Korean daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Siteman, of Federal Ave., South Quincy, recently became an American citizen at ceremonies held on Patriot's Day at Faneuil Hall, Boston.

Stephanie was among the 53 children and 500 adults who took part in the citizenship hearing presided over by Judge Joseph L. Tauro and attended by Governor Edward King.

Dressed in a red, white and blue outfit, Stephanie was presented a small flag pin which prompted her to exclaim "I want a big flag!"

She has learned the Pledge of Allegiance and celebrated her new citizenship at a family dinner which followed the ceremony.

In attendance at the ceremony along with the Sitemans were Stephanie's grandmothers Mrs. Mary Barry of Quincy, and Mrs. James Siteman, of Dorchester; along with grand aunt Catherine Bombard, of Quincy; and grand uncle John Higgins, of Dorchester.

The Sitemans adopted Stephanie through International Adoptions, Newton, and she came to the United States on Dec. 18, 1977.

The family is hoping to adopt a sister for her in the near future.

$5 Million Hike Under 4% Cap

Tobin Submits $99.1 Million Budget

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin was set to present a $99,102,799 budget for fiscal 1980 to the City Council last night (Wednesday).

That part of the budget which is included in the state's proposed property tax cap is well within the 4 per cent lid that has been passed by the legislature and needs only Gov. Edward J. King's signature to become law. It figures out at 2.8 per cent.

The $5,660,069 increase over the budget for fiscal 1979 represents about $20 on the tax rate, but that figure is subject to numerous reduction factors before the 1980 tax rate becomes finalized later in the year. The 1979 tax rate is $196.60.

"I am proud of what we have accomplished, considering the mandates under which communities like Quincy have to live," said Tobin, singling out for special praise Auditor Charles L. Shea, Treasurer Robert Foy III and financial adviser William J. Callahan.

Tobin pointed out that Gov.

King has until 5 p.m. tomorrow [Friday] to sign the 4 per cent tax cap that was enacted by the legislature despite the governor's insistence on permitting no increase at all.

"If the Governor and the legislature have to reach a compromise on their tax caps, I am sure the City Council and I can adjust the budget downward," said the Mayor.

Tobin said a total of $35,612,980 is exempt from the tax cap under the law, leaving $63,489,819 subject to the 4 per cent limitation. The figures for last year were $32,709,477 and $61,733,253, a difference of $1,756,566, or 2.8 per cent, in the cappable part of the budget.

Exempt from the cap are principal and interest payments on loans, pensions and retirement allowances, matching grants, sums voted for revenue producing enterprises (such as

Adams Birthplaces Now 'Belong To The Whole Nation'

By PETER BARNICLE

Ownership of the Adams Birthplaces was formally transferred by Mayor Arthur Tobin to the National Park Service at ceremonies Tuesday on the lawn of the historic red saltbox cottages.

More than 300 attended the event at which Mayor Tobin was joined by former Congressman James A. Burke in handing over the deed to Jack E. Stark, regional representative of the National Park Service.

Burke sponsored the bill which brought about the transfer to the federal government which will now preserve and maintain the houses where John Adams and John Quincy Adams, the second and sixth presidents of the United States were born.

Wilhelmina Harris, superintendent of the Adams National Historic Sites, told the gathering that the transfer was the result of the combined efforts of many people and the continuing interest of the Adams family.

ALFRED P. MALANEY AWARD -- Atty. Edward M. Joyce (left) of the Quincy Bar Association presents Superior Court Justice Henry H. Chmielinski, the association's "Man of the Year" with the Alfred P. Malaney Award at Law Day ceremonies held at Quincy District Court.

Bethlehem Steel President Says:

ENC Committed To At Least 10-15 Years Here

Eastern Nazarene College is committed to another 10 to 15 years in Quincy and, even now, has begun programs designed to attract more students to the campus in the heart of residential Wollaston.

"It's hard to project beyond 10 to 15 years in any aspect of life," said Richard F. Schubert, president of Bethlehem Steel Co., who is visiting Quincy as an ENC trustee.

"I don't mean to imply that we have a judgement that we are going to leave at the end of that time. Nor do I want to imply that if something dramatic occurred we wouldn't take a hard look at it."

Only last year, Eastern Nazarene, which is crowded into two residential blocks on East Elm Ave., was contemplating a move to Pennsylvania when it found expansion plans blocked.

"We took a hard look at the possibility of moving," said Schubert. "I'm satisfied we explored it as carefully as we could. We came to the judgement that this is where we ought to be."

"Our commitment is to stay and make the college a viable institution and to provide a service to our young people and to the community. We are working at it."

One of the young people for whom ENC will be providing a service next fall is Schubert's daughter, Robyn, 17, who is enrolled from her home town of Bethlehem, Pa.

"She is entering almost 25 years to the day when I started," said Schubert, who was a classmate of City Councillor James A. Sheets at the Wollaston School.

Schubert indicated that his own experiences as a student at Eastern Nazarene during the 1950s played at least a slight role in his vote to keep the campus in Quincy.

"I enjoyed it," he said. "I enjoyed going into Boston for the sports activities. I became a fanatical Bruins, Celtics and Red Sox fan when I was here. I still am, for that matter."

"The skiing was obviously attractive. So were the Boston Public Library and the Widener Library at Harvard. I went to Harvard and MIT for the lectures."

"The Boston area is as good a place to go to school as any place in the country. Those things are hard to duplicate in most American cities."

Schubert said work on the improvement of ENC's Wollaston facilities has already begun.

"We are involved in a program now to build a new fine arts building, in lieu of the antiquated facility we now have in the center of the campus," he said.

"The local church congregation has decided to put a new edifice up on top of the basement that has been used for both church and chapel."

"We have been giving a lot of attention to what our dormitory needs might be in the next few years and we have been working with the city administration on a plan of development."

"Also we are very anxious to consummate the closing of Wendell St., which runs through the center of our property."

"We have purchased three key homes on the periphery of that street so that eventually we will be able to contain the whole of the campus and make it more attractive and improve security."

Schubert said ENC has been working with the city to secure an abandonment of the center portion of Wendell St.

"We fully expect it to occur," he said. "It was very important in our decision to stay here."

"We think we have sufficient space in our existing facilities to meet what we project as a student body of 1,000 to 1,200. Our goal is to level off in that range."

Cites Merrymount Incidents

Brownell Urges MDC Action To Reduce QSD Accidents

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell (D-Quincy) has urged MDC Commissioner William F. M. Hicks to do something about the increasing number of accidents on Quincy Shore Drive in the Merrymount section.

"If your agency fails to take appropriate action," said Brownell in a letter, "then blame for property damage, personal injury and possibly loss of human lives will be squarely on the MDC's shoulders."

Brownell noted that on April 13 a man lost control of his car and hit a brick column near 1381 Quincy Shore Drive and when he got out of the car to examine damage he was struck by a second vehicle.

"That brick column has been struck at least six times, to my knowledge," said Brownell.

"It is my firm belief that the only way we are going to avert further property damage and personal injuries is to place an MDC cruiser at the bottom of Quincy Shore Drive and Furnace Brook Parkway on a regular basis between the hours of 11 p.m. and 2 a.m."

"I also suggest that an engineering study be commissioned to ascertain a way to reduce vehicular speeds on the roadway."

250 Attend Workshops

Money Most Popular Topic At Woman To Woman Conference

What We Don't Have A Lot Of... Money was the most popular workshop at the third annual Woman to Woman conference held Saturday at Lincoln Hancock Community School and attended by 250 women.

The day was sponsored by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women and the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College.

Alicia Coletti, director of the Women's Center, opened the program by stating, "Women are our most wasted resource". She urged those attending the program to utilize their talents to enrich their own and others' lives.

Keynote speaker was Dr. Ruth Jacobs, author of "Life After Youth", who spoke of opportunities for women and of her own experiences and achievements.

A welfare orphan, she became a college entrant at age 35, and a tenured college professor at 49, while rearing a family and playing "Super Mom" at the same time.

The morning workshop on money was chaired by Jeremiah Foley of the Quincy Cooperative Bank. A consumer viewpoint was evident among the participants who asked occasionally pointed questions.

Other morning workshops included "Looking Out For A Healthy Number One: 'Koping With Kids'", and "Violence in the Home".

A buffet lunch was available, noon to one, for participants who pre-registered. Others brought their own lunch.

MOST POPULAR WORKSHOP at the third annual "Woman to Woman Day" at Lincoln-Hancock Community School was "What We Haven't Got A Lot Of...Money". It was conducted by, from left, Jeremiah Foley, Quincy Cooperative Bank branch manager; Richard Darr, Quincy Motor Co.; Steve Norton, Remick's; and Fred Bergfors, Quincy Oil Co. The day was sponsored by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women and the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College.

Almost as popular was an afternoon workshop, "Just Folks—Life Career Styles" which included a panel consisting of a divorcee with three children; a lesbian, a former nun, a 62-year old former semi-invalid and teacher's aide.

Also offered in the afternoon were workshops on "Breaking into the Job Market", and "So You Want to go Back to School".

The panel's testimonies provoked spontaneous applause and the audience's appreciation of the workshop was evident as many stayed to prolong conversation after the session had adjourned.

A social hour at the Neighborhood House concluded the day's activities.

John Norton Honored As Outstanding Suffolk Alumnus

John J. Norton of 44 Utica St., Adams Shore, was honored recently as an outstanding alumnus of Suffolk University at a Spring Reception held at the Great Dome, Quincy Market, Boston.

Norton was presented a citation by General Alumni Association president Joseph A. Saponaro in recognition of "... his dedication, his many untold personal sacrifices, and his uncommon leadership in the pursuit of an established, active alumni association at Suffolk University."

A 1955 graduate of Suffolk with a B.S. degree, he is one of the original founders of the alumni association and has served as president, treasurer and director.

He is also past president of the Suffolk University South Shore Alumni Association.

A retired supervising inspector for the State Division of Standards, Norton is a member of the Quincy VFW and past commander of the George F. Bryan Post, Quincy.

He and his wife, the former Anna Mae Baker, have six daughters.

DENISE BLAIR

Denise Blair Selected For A.F. Training

Airwoman Denise L. Blair, has been selected for training at Keesler Air Force Base, Miss., in the personnel field after completing basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

Miss Blair, daughter of Mrs. Linda L. Blair of Plymouth and Ronald D. Blair of Quincy, is a 1977 graduate of Plymouth-Carver Regional High School.

Your Dental Health

by Daniel P. Sweeney D.D.S.

Ever hear of tooth grinding? It turns out that this is not a technical procedure performed by your dentist, but an unconscious, although damaging habit among many people. Believe it or not, breaking the habit is both difficult, and frustrating. Recently, at the Walter Reed Medical Center, tooth grinders were instructed to clench the jaw as hard as possible for five seconds, then relax for the same amount of time. The procedure is to be repeated five times and the entire exercise to be continued six times a day for two weeks. This seemed to help many break the habit.

Prevent small dental problems from becoming serious problems with regular visits to your family dentist. Dr. Daniel P. Sweeney, D.D.S., whose office for the practice of general dentistry is at 539 Adams St., East Milton, stresses good oral hygiene and preventive dentistry. He works with all members of the family - from the very young to Senior Citizens. Call our office at 698-3636 for an appointment at your convenience. We honor dental insurance plans, Master Charge, and Visa.

Leo P. Nunnari Installed Quincy Elks Exalted Ruler

Leo P. Nunnari of Wollaston was installed as Exalted Ruler for 1979-1980 at the 74th annual installation of officers of Quincy Lodge of Elks recently at the Elks Home, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Mayor Arthur Tobin congratulated the Elks for their service to the community in many charitable works including youth programs, senior citizens and Christmas basket programs. The mayor also commended the Elks for the manner in which they conducted themselves requesting property for a new Elks home on Quarry St.

Nunnari, in his message to the 400 attending, stressed that his first order of business would be to tie all loose ends so that the transfer of the Quarry St. property would be made and ground-breaking ceremonies would take place early in his administration. The youth, senior citizen and Americanism programs will be expanded, he said.

Representatives from the Grand Lodge installed the newly elected officers and appointees. Other officers installed were Joseph J. McArdle, esteemed leading knight; David G. Montani Jr., esteemed loyal knight; Pasquale Venezia, esteemed lecturing knight; George R. Alcott, secretary; Robert J. Mahoney, Esquire; Louis A. Maggio, chaplain; and Paul N. Sullivan, inner guard.

City Club Essay, Poster Contest Deadline Extended To May 25

Deadline of the Quincy City Club Essay and Poster Contest being conducted in the Quincy public, parochial and private schools has been extended to Friday, May 25.

"Conservation Energy" is the theme of the poster contest. "What Energy Conservation Means To Me" is the theme of the essay contest.

The closing was extended because of the series of various contests involving school students in spelling bees.

A poster and essay contest was conducted by the School Department relative to Energy Conservation within the school buildings. However, the City Club contests involve the personal involvement of school children in Energy Conservation in their homes.

Posters entered may be no larger than 22 inches by 28 inches, with any larger sized posters disqualified, according to Richard J. Koch, president of the Quincy City Club. Essays submitted must not exceed 150 words.

The first place winner in the poster contest for students in Grades 1 through 3 will receive a $100 U.S. savings bond with the runner-up receiving a $25 bond. Students in Grades 4 through 6 will also receive a first and second prize.

First and second place winners in Grades 7 through 9 participating in the essay contest will also receive a $100 savings bond and $25 bond respectively. Three honorable mention certificates will be given in each category. Teachers have been asked to select the top three posters and essays from each classroom and submit them to the City Club for final judging.

David J. Donaghy and Robert T. Woodman are co-chairmen and Richard Meade, Thomas G. Bowes and Gordon MacPhee are members of the committee.

Entries may be left at the Park Department Office at the Nike Site, 100 Southern Artery, marked to the attention of Richard J. Koch.

Thomas Timcoe To Be Honored By Sons Of American Legion

Commander Thomas B. Timcoe, of Quincy will be honored by the Detachment of Massachusetts Sons of the American Legion at a testimonial dinner Sunday at 6:30 p.m. at the Houghs Neck Legion post home. Past commander of Houghs Neck squadron, he is also a national executive committee member and national assistant sergeant-at-arms. Timcoe was state commander from 1973-74, and is also serving in that capacity for 1978-79, the only member to hold this office twice.

Tickets for the dinner can be obtained from Mary Timcoe or at the post home.

McCauley Urges Prompt Action To Replace Cemetery Maintenance Building

City Councillor Francis X. McCauley has urged Mayor Tobin to take action as soon as possible to replace the maintenance building at Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

In a letter to the Mayor, McCauley pointed out that the building was partially destroyed by fire in 1974 and has been subject to acts of vandalism every since.

McCauley noted that the building has been condemned by the building inspector and presents a safety hazard to Cemetery Department employees who must use the building and "is an eyesore in an otherwise beautiful cemetery."

"Since $85,000 has already been appropriated for construction of a new building and the architect's fees have been paid for plans for the new building, I believe it is high time that this problem be corrected," McCauley said.

Series Of Special Events At Quincy Hospital

Quincy City Hospital is observing National Hospital Week, May 6-12, with a week-long series of seminars, clinics and group discussions designed to make the people of Quincy aware of what is available to them at their municipal hospital.

The theme of the week is "The Voluntary Effort: It's Working For You."

"While stressing the success of the voluntary effort," said Hospital Director Anthony DeFalco, "it also encourages involvement of everyone concerned with health care, from employees to consumers to the entire community."

The week's activities will start Sunday, May 6 with the "Run for Your Life," an NEAAU-sanctioned 5-mile road race, chaired by Mayor Arthur H. Tobin and City Councillor Joanne Condon, which starts at 12 noon at the Quincy Vo Tech School.

Other events, which the public is encouraged to attend, include:

Monday, May 7 at 2 p.m.: A presentation of the use of generic and over-the-counter drugs by John Leone, chief pharmacist, in the City Hospital dining room.

Monday, May 7 at 7:30 p.m.: A physio-therapy demonstration, including exercises for strengthening the back, lifting and relaxing, by Roberta Thall, director of physio-therapy, in the dining room.

Tuesday, May 8 at 2 p.m.: A cardio-pulmonary resuscitation demonstration, including film, by Maureen Bisognano, director of the Intensive Care Unit, in the dining room.

Tuesday, May 8 at 7:30 p.m.: Pulmonary and blood pressure tests given by Donald Wilkinson, director of respiratory therapy, in the dining room.

Wednesday, May 9, Senior Citizens Day.

3 p.m. Pharmacy discussion by John Leone, chief pharmacist, in the activity room at 1000 Southern Artery.

1:30 p.m.—Weight loss program and consumerism: How to buy an economical diet, conducted by Mindy Schlafman, dietitian, in the activity room at Fenno House.

3 p.m.—Cardio-pulmonary resuscitation demonstration by Maureen Bisognano, director of the Intensive Care Unit, in the recreation room at Ocean View.

11 a.m.—Presentation in the use of generic and over-the-counter drugs by John Leone, chief pharmacist, in the recreation room at Granite Place.

1 p.m.—Physio-therapy demonstration by Roberta Thall, director of physio-therapy, at Pagnano Towers.

11:30 a.m.—Weight loss program and consumerism: How to buy an economical diet, conducted by Mindy Schlafman, dietitian, at Martinson Street.

1 p.m.—Cardio-pulmonary resuscitation demonstration by Maureen Bisognano, director of the Intensive Care Unit, at Wollaston Manor.

11:30 a.m.—Pulmonary and blood pressure tests given by Donald Wilkinson, director of respiratory therapy, at Tobin Towers.

Thursday, May 10 at 2 p.m.—Mental health program: Coping with today's tensions, by Dr. Ronald Rosso, chief of psychiatry, and Mrs. Mary Mudge, nurse, in the hospital dining room.

Thursday, May 10 at 1:30 p.m.—Self breast examination by Dr. Arthur Glasgow, general surgeon, in the dining room.

Friday, May 11 at 2 p.m.: X-ray exhibits, by Linda Berrio, chief technician, in the dining room corridor.

Friday, May 11 at 7:30 p.m.: Pulmonary and blood pressure tests by Donald Wilkinson, director of respiratory therapy, in the dining room.

Saturday, May 12 at 10 a.m.: Sports injuries, conducted by Drs. Frederick and David Heller, orthopedic surgeons, in the dining room.

In addition to those participating in the programs, the week's events were developed by Harold Coose, personnel director; John Felci, training director; Mrs. Agnes Sheppard, supervisor of inservice; Kathleen Fay, director of social service; and Robert Duncan, director of medical records.

HERE'S HOW YOUR HOME CAN PAY FOR ITS OWN IMPROVEMENTS.

You've worked hard to buy your home. And now your dreamhouse can make some other dreams come true. Like converting your basement into a room your whole family can eat, play, and relax in.

That's where an Equity Loan from Old Colony Bank comes in. As you've been paying your mortgage, you've been building equity in your home. Equity is basically the difference between what your home is worth and how much you owe on it. And when you consider how fast home prices are rising these days, your equity could be much higher than you think.

But equity is lazy money unless you put it to work. That's why Old Colony Bank wants to lend from $3,500 to $10,000 against the equity in your home. And at one of the better interest rates around! Up til June 30, we'll give you a special rate of 12%, with up to 10 years to repay. Best of all, you can use the cash for anything you want.

Like making your dreamhouse more than just a day dream.

So visit one of the six Old Colony Banks in Norfolk County and ask about an Equity Loan today. You've worked hard for your home. Now put it to work for you.

Spring Brings Schemes

No single group is more vulnerable to consumer fraud than the elderly.

Sadly, those on fixed, limited incomes, who are most tempted by glib promises, are exactly those who can least afford to be victimized. To protect our elderly citizens from sharp con artists, shady promoters and fast-talking salesmen should be a first priority.

To help protect you from these frauds, we are offering free the booklet "Target THE ELDERLY" sponsored by the Consumer Affairs Foundation. The booklet covers such subjects as:

- Work at Home Schemes
- Charity Frauds
- Lonely Hearts Frauds
- Hearing Aid Fraud
- Health Quackery
- and other frauds and schemes

BILLINGS RD. FACE-LIFT starts with a new water main as revitalization work gets underway on the North Quincy Business District.

WORKMEN prepare to lower new water main into position as long-planned project to upgrade North Quincy Business District starts on Billings Rd.

New Water Main Work Started

Revitalization Of N.Q. Business District Underway

By TOM HENSHAW

While most of the recent development headlines have gone to downtown Quincy, work has quietly begun on a revitalization of the North Quincy Business District that has been nearly two years in preparation.

The first step was taken last week when workers began replacing 536 feet of 87-year-old cast iron water main under Billings Rd. from Hancock to Felton Sts. with modern ductile iron pipe.

Once the water main project is completed in about two weeks, work will commence on sprucing up Billings Rd. from the MBTA tracks to Felton St. under a $180,000 federal Community Development Block Grant.

The Billings Rd. sidewalk is to be widened and the area dressed up with tree plantings and other ornaments plus trash containers sunk into cement. That part of the project should be done by the end of July.

"Then we'll tackle the Vane St. parking area to make it more visible and easier to get into," said Andrew Walsh, proprietor of Walsh's Restaurant on Billings Rd. and one of the prime movers in the revitalization.

The plan for the North Quincy Business District follows a course of action laid down last year by Sasaki Associates, Inc., which began a $10,000 study of the area in September, 1977.

The study was funded jointly by the City of Quincy, the State Department of Planning and Community Development, and the Norfolk County Development and Tourist Council.

The "streetscaping" that could begin as early as next week is only one of several recommendations to improve the area where Billings Rd. crosses Hancock St. that grew out of the Sasaki Report.

It was also suggested that:

- Overhead utility wires should either be buried underground or rerouted through surrounding streets to remedy a "major visual problem" that mars the business district.

- Sign control regulations be implemented and overhead billboards be removed. Signs should be simple and neat and identify the business by name, not advertise brands.

- Existing shops should be upgraded through storefront renovations and interior improvements, restoring where possible the original character of the building.

- The various stores in North Quincy should establish an identity for their area through increased use of joint advertising, special events and promotions as well as coordinated hours of operation.

- Existing parking spaces should be used more effectively by enforcing parking regulations and additional spaces should be added in strategically placed parking lots.

The report said parking "is perceived as one of the most critical problems of the North Quincy Business District," which is why it is being tackled early in the long-range revitalization plan.

The Vane St. lot, which should be to North Quincy what the Ross and Hancock lots are to Quincy Center, is underused, the study said, largely because of poor accessibility.

Spaces in the northern half of the Vane St. lot were taken up by all-day parkers, it was found, while spaces in the southern half went virtually empty.

"One possible action," said the Sasaki Report, "would be to restrict all-day parkers to the south end of the lot, making the spaces with better proximity to retail available for more efficient use."

"This, coupled with effective enforcement of the two-hour limit [outside of those spaces potentially designated for long-term parking], would improve parking availability."

Also, the study suggested, direct access to the Vane St. lot should be provided from Hancock St. and Billings Rd. and rear facades of shops on Billings Rd. should allow for customer entry from the lot.

To introduce additional parking without first introducing stepped-up enforcement would

Wollaston Man In Charge Of Iceland Anti-Submarine Air Patrols

A Wollaston man is in charge of anti-submarine warfare air patrols out of the North American Treaty Organization (NATO) base at Keflavik, Iceland.

Paul A. Zambarnardi, a Naval flight officer, is assistant mission control and evaluation officer on the staff of Commander Fleet Air Keflavik.

His duties also include a great deal of coordination with the NATO nations.

Zambarnardi is the son of the late Anthony M. Zambarnardi and Mrs. Louise Semiciuriello, formerly of 70 Hamilton St., Wollaston, now of New Port Richey, Fla.

A 1970 graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy, where he played football, Zambarnardi is a veteran officer of eight years service. He also played football at North Quincy High School, class of 1965.

He and his wife, the former Marsha Van Gemert of Wollaston, live on the Keflavik base with their two children, Patricia 5, and Michael 2.

likely only create additional parking abuses," the report said. "Enforcement would be a major step toward increasing the parking supply."

Long-range parking improvements, it said, "would require the acquisition of private property and the demolition of existing structures."

But, the report warned, "while it is essential to provide convenient parking for customers, it is not necessary to let that parking dominate the environment of the area."

One of the events that led to the recent decline of North Quincy as a business district was the coming of the MBTA, which effectively cut off traffic from the Montclair district west of the tracks.

It used to be that people could walk across the railroad tracks to shop but the MBTA, with its live third rail, put a stop to that. An overpass on the tracks was found to be poorly located and designed.

"In engineering terms," said the Sasaki Report, "it is infeasible [sic] to construct a direct vehicular access to Billings Rd. either under or over the MBTA tracks."

"It is feasible, however, to reconstruct the pedestrian overpass in a manner which will provide a more direct connection to the west, both visually and functionally."

The overpass proposed by Sasaki would arise directly out of the intersection of Billings Rd. and Holmes St. across from Walsh's Restaurant.

The Sasaki Report suggests a number of ways in which money can be obtained, chiefly from programs offered by the federal government, to finance the revitalization. They include:

- The Department of Housing and Urban Development's Block Grant Program, a source of funds for neighborhood revitalization, which has already been tapped $180,000 in streetscaping.

- HUD's Urban Development Action Grant program, which are available to communities to pay for public improvements that are needed in order to secure major private investment.

- The Urban Mass Transit Administration grants, which could be used through the MBTA to fund improvements in the Billings Rd. pedestrian overpass.

- The Department of Commerce's Economic Development Administration fund, which could be available to pay the cost of relocating overhead electrical lines.

- The Bureau of Outdoor Recreation will fund 50 per cent of the cost of outdoor parks and recreation areas such as the "tot lot" playground proposed for the Billings Rd.-Vane St. lot area.

- The Federal Highway Administration, whose funds can be used through the State DPW to finance such improvements as street trees, lighting and walks.

- The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, which could be a source of funding for security and law enforcement programs launched by the local police department.

- The Comprehensive Employment and Training Act [CETA], from which could be drawn the staff needed to fill technical and administrative positions at the community level.

- The Small Business Administration, which often gives special priorities to loan guarantees and grant applications from small businesses acting in concert for the betterment of their area.

SBA loans and grants are expected to play a significant role in the revitalization of the North Quincy Business District. "Once we get started," said Walsh, "I expect the merchants will be interested in doing things for themselves, working on their own to upgrade their stores through SBA loans."

Walsh already has plans to develop the lot next to his restaurant, site of the old Dudley Furniture Co., either as a new parking lot or new stores that could be attracted to the area as the revitalization proceeds.

No time schedule has been set for the complete revitalization of the area, except that it be "in a constant state of progress." That started last week on Billings Rd.

Keep Telephone Pressure On Massport, Morrissey Urges

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey [D-Quincy] urges Quincy residents to keep the telephone pressure on Massport about airplane noise.

"Area residents should call the Massport Noise Abatement Line at 567-3333 to complain about noisy airplane flights over our area," he said.

The F.A.A. and Massport are conducting a series of tests that would have planes taking off on Runway 22R follow a radio signal over Dorchester Bay and up the Neponset River to Milton before turning over heavily populated areas.

"It is extremely important for residents to call during this test of the new flight tract," said Morrissey. "The new flight path has its problems especially for pilots who are unfamiliar with the procedure. When the pilots make a mistake they will over fly Quincy, as happened this past Sunday."

The diamond has long been one of the most popular and valuable of gems. It started to really dominate the European and American gem markets in 1867 when diamonds were discovered in South Africa and later in other parts of the African continent. In terms of fashion, diamonds reached their peak of elegance in the late Victorian and Edwardian periods [around the turn of the century] when diamond dog collars, tiaras, necklaces and bracelets were a must at all important social events.

We have the jewelry you'll want to wear for all your social events. She's A Quincy 'News First'

The Quincy press has been criticized in some quarters for its coverage of the appointment of Mrs. Lolita Harris to the Quincy Housing Authority Board of Commissioners.

Both the Quincy Sun and The Patriot Ledger referred to Mrs. Harris in headlines as a "black woman".

The Sun did it first (March 1) when it disclosed there were seven applicants for the job including a "black woman". The Ledger did April 20 when it reported a "black woman" was expected to be appointed to the board.

The criticism included this comment from Mayor Arthur Tobin: "I think the press goes overboard in trying to print sensationalism. I don't think the people of this city are going to treat Mrs. Harris any differently than they would anyone else."

The Mayor seems to be confusing "sensationalism" with a news "first".

For Mrs. Harris is a Quincy "first": she is the first black woman ever appointed to a board in Quincy's history.

She's a news "first" like:

Amelio Della Chiesa was the first Quincy mayor of Italian descent. Edna Austin was the first woman elected to the Quincy City Council. John F. Kennedy was the first Catholic president. John Paul is the first Polish Pope. Bobby Briscoe was the first Jewish lord mayor of Dublin. Jackie Robinson was the first black baseball major leaguer.

And, like someday, there will be a first woman mayor of Quincy.

The press could not have headlined Mrs. Harris as the "first woman" appointed to the board because she is not. She succeeds Rosemary Wahlberg.

Mrs. Harris is highly thought of by co-workers in the State Public Works Commission where she has been a secretary since 1974. She appears to have the credentials to do a good job.

As for how the people in Quincy will treat her, we think she will be treated quite fairly.

She will not be judged by the color of her skin but on how well she does her job. That's how everyone should be judged.

JAMES SHEETS hasn't moved any closer to the mayoral ring than where he was two or three weeks ago. He's still doing a lot of thinking but expects to make up his mind within a week or two.

The deciding factor, he indicates, will be personal—not political or financial. He thinks he can raise the estimated $50,000 to $70,000 necessary to wage an effective campaign. "But," says he, "the major consideration is my family."

The recent Congressional campaign, he says, kept him from his family (wife Joanne and four children) longer than he wished. "The main question," he says, "is whether this is the right time from a personal standpoint for me to run."

The answer is due shortly.

RAYMONDI

COUNCILLOR Daniel Raymondi isn't too thrilled over the decor of the newly remodelled City Council chamber. The rug is maroon and the drapes are gold. Which, of course, are Boston College colors. Raymondi went to Holy Cross where he captained the football team in 1968. Holy Cross's colors are purple and white.

□

DEBBIE KOCH turned 18 the other day and hurried off to City Hall to register to vote. It means she will cast her first vote ever for her brother, Richard J. Koch, Jr., candidate for City Council at large. Debbie brought along her friend, Carol Johnson, also 18, to register. So, that's two sure votes for young Koch.

A MAN WHO was getting signatures on a petition to freeze property taxes knew just where to stand Monday. He set himself up at the front entrance to City Hall where people were standing in line to pay their taxes. "He had 1,800 signatures by 11 o'clock in the morning," said Auditor Charles Shea. "He had people waiting in line to sign his petition."

HOW'S YOUR MAIL delivery? A Ruggles St., Quincy Point reader wants everyone to know that people in that area get "great service" from letter carrier Manuel Andrews. And, they like the fact he whistles while he works.

A FUND RAISER for Mike Kelly, Ward 6 City Council candidate is set for Saturday, May 19, 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Bryan VFW Post, Broad St. Dancing and refreshments. Tickets available from Kathy Minukas (328-4489).

Preserving Open Space On Quarry St.

Former Quarry Hole (And Dump) To Become Beautiful Recreational Area

By HELEN JOHNSON

A former West Quincy quarry hole—and dump—is on its way to becoming a beautiful open space recreational area.

The City Council was to hear a request Wednesday to re-zone nearly 10 acres of city-owned land on Quarry St. from Planned Unit Development (PUD) to Open Space (OS). The Council was expected to flash a green light for the project.

The rezoning would include land owned by the city on the westerly side of Quarry St., but excludes a proposed purchase by the Quincy Lodge of Elks.

The site was once Fallon's Quarry which yielded handsome Quincy granite. It then became a popular swimming spot in the 1920's-30's-40's—popular enough to make Life Magazine's cover in 1938. It then became a city dump. The reclaimed land would become the recreational area.

The request for the rezoning comes from the City's Planning Board which last month approved unanimously the rezoning requested by the Council's Subcommittee on Quarry Street Land Use. The rezoning will provide long-term protection of the area and is the first step in developing the land into a passive recreational area.

The subcommittee, established for the purpose of determining the use of the land, has focused its work on the design of a comprehensive open space plan to meet the needs of the area. Some of the possible uses discussed include jogging paths, historic observation site, a promenade and public gardens and groves.

Funding for the project is being sought through both state and federal programs. The Urban Parks Action Grants program has been identified through the Lt. Governor's Office of Federal-State Relations. This grant would refund to the city up to 70 percent of costs of recreational areas.

Also the state's Land and Water Conservation Act makes available matching grants for conservation projects. Money appropriated to Quincy under this program has in the past funded such projects as the upgrading of Mound Street Beach.

Also included on the subcommittee's plans is a neighborhood survey. Area residents will be asked to provide input into the project.

The next meeting of the subcommittee is planned for May 16, at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall. The meeting is open to all and new members are encouraged to participate.

Ronald Iacobucci is chairman of the subcommittee. Members are:

Consumer Corner

HAIR DRYER HOTLINE: In the face of great public concern over the recently discovered problems of asbestos fibers in hair dryers, the U.S. Consumers Product Safety Commission has established a toll-free hotline to answer consumer questions. The number is 1-800-638-8326. If you want to know whether your hair dryer contains asbestos [which may be cancer-causing if inhaled], call this number. The hotline has been averaging 200 calls an hour, and the Commission says this is the "hottest thing" they have ever handled.

Q. After a body is cremated, are there any laws restricting the method of disposal of the ashes?

A. No. In Massachusetts there are no laws on the books dealing with the disposal of ashes after cremation. They can be buried or placed in an above-ground niche of a columbarium at a crematorium. Some people place the ashes in an urn and keep it in their homes. Or else the ashes can simply be scattered anywhere, at sea or on land.

Q. I have noticed that many lawyers and dentists are beginning to advertise and to give prices for their service. I thought such professionals were not allowed to advertise. How can they do this? What about other professions?

A. Until recently, most professionals were prohibited from advertising by the codes of ethics of the various professional associations or by the regulations of the State Boards of Registration. These prohibitions have come under fire, and, as a result of several Supreme Court decisions and the urging of consumer groups, a law was enacted in Massachusetts in 1978 prohibiting any agency of the state from restricting truthful advertising concerning the nature, price and availability of goods and services. In addition, under pressure from the Federal Trade Commission and to avoid further lawsuits, most national professional associations have removed advertising restrictions from their codes of ethics.

So now, members of all professions may advertise their prices. The only restrictions are that the advertising must be truthful and nondeceptive.

Q. I received some books from a book club recently, but I never ordered them. Now I just received a bill, demanding payment for the books. Am I obligated to pay for them or must I return them if I don't want them?

A. Under state law [c. 93, sec. 43] consumers who received unsolicited goods in the mail do not have to pay for them. They may treat such goods as unconditional gifts and need not return them to the sender.

If the sender demands payment from you, you may register a complaint with the Postal Service, the state Attorney General or the Federal Trade Commission.

Q. Is there any special protection for the elderly against utility shut offs?

A. If all the members of a household are aged 65 or over, the utility can not shut off service without written approval from the Department of Public Utilities. If yours is an elderly household, you should notify the utility of this fact. Some utilities, as a matter of public policy, will not shut off service to the elderly during the winter, regardless of how much is owed or for how long.

Gossard School Supt. At $6,500

Dr. Arthur Paul Gossard, 47, a native of Ohio and superintendent of schools in Bloomington, Ill., was elected to a similar post in Quincy, succeeding the retiring Supt. James N. Muir.

Salary for the position was $6,500, plus $600 in expenses.

"I came to Quincy about six weeks ago," said Dr. Gossard, "and I was delighted to find that the community was not too citified. I was afraid it might be one of those suburbs too closely built."

Dr. Gossard was a surprise nominee for the job since the favored candidates were Charles R. Thibadeau, superintendent in Weymouth, and James S. Collins, headmaster of North Quincy High School.

MEDAL FOR OJALA

Sgt. Russell E. Ojala of 198 Center St., South Quincy, was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross (DFC) for heroism as a waist gunner on a B-17 over occupied France on Oct. 21, 1942.

With a companion gunner incapacitated, Ojala moved from side to side in the plane manning the guns that repelled a German fighter attack, shooting down one Focke Wolfe 190.

Questionnaire Available For Children's Needs Survey

The South Shore Council for Children invites Quincy parents to participate in a Children's Needs Survey, the results of which will be part of the statewide Office for Children Needs Assessment used to influence state budgets and policies affecting children.

The results will also help determine the goals and priorities for the coming year of the South Shore Council which serves Milton and Randolph as well as Quincy.

The survey addresses concerns of parents regarding their children, programs or services used, and the quality of these programs or services.

Also included are questions on transportation, cost of programs or services, length of time it takes to participate in a program or service, and what services are not available that parents feel are needed.

The survey is part of a three-pronged approach which also includes survey and interviews with private and public agencies providing services and programs to children and youth.

Parents interested in filling out a survey questionnaire, which will be anonymous, can call Carolyn MacDougall, 472-4224, to have one sent to them.

Seniors Services Booklet Ahead Of Schedule

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin announces the Council on Aging's CETA-funded project Operation Information is running two weeks ahead of schedule.

The goal of the project, which got underway four weeks ago, is to compile in booklet form the services available to the elderly in Quincy.

Tobin said nearly all the agencies that provide services to the elderly locally and on the state level have been interviewed and the project committee is now breaking it down for printing.

It is hoped that the information will be delivered to the printer in about a month and distribution of the booklets to senior citizens will take place the second week in June.

Islamic Mosque Damage 'Senseless Act Of Vandalism'

By TOM HENSHAW

"We don't put children away very often in this community," said Police Chief Francis X. Finn. "They're not necessarily criminals. Most of the juvenile offenders go on to lead very successful adult lives."

Chief Finn's words of caution came in the midst of a news conference Monday announcing that five teen-agers had been arrested for doing some $6,000 worth of damage to the New England Islamic Center, a Muslim mosque at 470 South St., Quincy Point.

The youngsters — two boys, age 16; another, age 14; and two girls, age 13; all from the general neighborhood of the mosque — are scheduled to be arraigned in a juvenile session of Quincy District Court on Tuesday, May 8. All are first offenders.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, who called the news conference in his office at City Hall to announce the arrests, said the destruction of the mosque's blue plexiglass dome "was just a senseless act of vandalism. It had no religious significance at all."

The arrests also touched off a bitter exchange of words between Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli (D-Quincy), who deplored the vandalism in a letter to Chief Finn as "a determined act of religious discrimination," and City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi of the Point's Ward 2. Raymondi called Cerasoli's words "a very irresponsible statement, especially in the light of the fact that it is just not so."

It doesn't look good for the Quincy Point community to have these kinds of statements being made."

"I just didn't pull this out of the air," replied Cerasoli. "These people called me up and asked me to try to do something. If my letter to the chief of police served the purpose of pushing them into action then I think it served a good purpose."

The day actually belonged to Chief Finn and four of his men — Sgt. Daniel Lyons, Officer William Stenmon and Officer Thomas Frane, all of Juvenile Division, and Officer Robert Hanna of the Special Operations Unit.

"The police did a fine job getting them so fast," said Mrs. Ramsey Hassan, secretary of the Islamic Center. "If these were children I'm sure they won't dare do it again. That makes me very happy."

Tobin and Raymondi also praised the police for their quick work in apprehending the five youngsters over the weekend for the incident that happened around 8:30 p.m. last Wednesday.

Stenmon said that Hanna came up with the original information in the case "by interviewing neighbors who were concerned with the problem."

"As a result," he said, "we ended up in the homes of various juveniles. We found that five juveniles were directly responsible for the damage."

"We found no evidence of any motive. They seem to have had idle time on their hands and subsequently found themselves with nothing to do."

"The parents of the children were very cooperative," said Chief Finn. "In this particular case they were as much for solving this as we were."

The Chief also had praise for the men of his Juvenile Division, which he called "one of the most effective units in the Police Department."

"The Juvenile Division handled 2,300 investigations last year, ranging from serious felony crimes to many acts of vandalism," he said. "About 90 per cent of the 2,300 cases were solved."

"We brought to court last year more than 400 juveniles and many, many more were handled in the diversionary program. The recidivism rate is very low among the people that we work with."

Chief Finn said he is not in favor of recently introduced legislation that would make parents responsible for vandalism damage caused by their children.

"The main intent when you deal with a juvenile," he said, "is to treat him as he should be treated parentally. The thrust when treating juveniles is not punishment."

"If you're going to change that thrust to punishment, be it to the parent or the juvenile, that is going counter to what we have been doing for many years."

"Our juvenile programs have been very effective. Most of the juvenile offenders go on to lead very successful adult lives. They're not necessarily criminals. If the courts, after an investigation, want to let the parents to pay up they can easily do it now without any additional legislation."

Raymondi told the Monday news conference that he and the people of Quincy Point were "very concerned by some of the statements that were made by Rep. Cerasoli."

"I think the statements were very inflammatory," he said. "I think they were designed to implant certain ideas in people's minds that this was not an act of vandalism by juveniles, that it was done methodically by adults who had some kind of religious discrimination in mind."

He said he particularly objected to one statement by Cerasoli that said: "I sincerely believe that this singular act of destruction was not the act of vandals just happening by. I believe that this was a determined act of religious discrimination."

"As far as I know," said Raymondi, "there have been no acts of adult confrontation with any members of the mosque."

"We've lived in harmony for years and years and we will continue to do so. We want the mosque to stay. They're good community people. The building is a beautiful addition to the Quincy Point area. These kind of statements can only hurt the good feeling that exists."

He called Cerasoli's statements "highly political. It's unfortunate. It verges on demagoguery. It's just trying to stir up the basic fears and emotions of the people."

Cerasoli termed Raymondi's remarks "obviously political."

"I did not make those statements to get political benefit," said Cerasoli. "I do not need any political benefit out of this situation. I just want to see the vandalism stopped."

"My remarks never hinted that anyone in the Quincy Point community was involved. Quincy Point is a great community. I've lived there all my life. I live only seven blocks from the mosque."

"The mosque, according to its director, John Omar, has been the subject of vandalism for the past year. The problem has not been solved."

"The vandalism was incidental to a hearing that took place on Tuesday evening for the expansion of the mosque."

Mrs. Hassan said that "this has been going on for a couple of years now but we've never bothered to call the newspapers. But this was too much. We figured it would continue if we didn't get the police there to find out who was doing it."

"The police did a fine job getting them so fast."

Officer Stenmon said there was no evidence connecting any of the five juveniles with any previous vandalism at the mosque.

Spelling Bee Returns Pass $5,000 Mark

Pledge returns in the first Quincy Jerry Lewis Spelling Bee to aid in the fight against muscular dystrophy now total more than $5,000.

Students still holding pledges from sponsors are urged to return them immediately to Muscular Dystrophy Association, care of Hancock Bank, 415 Hancock St., Wollaston.

"Pledge Champ" trophies will be presented to each of the top three Pledge Collectors throughout the city at ceremonies to be held when the count is completed.

The top two collectors in each of the 10 participating public and parochial schools will receive a Jerry Lewis wristwatch. All participating students who send in their pledge envelopes will receive prizes which include a Spelling Bee certificate, a Jerry Lewis sew-on patch, an iron-on transfer for T-shirts, and an autographed photograph of Jerry Lewis with the national Muscular Dystrophy poster child.

The Spelling Bee was sponsored by the Quincy Public Schools and the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee. Schools taking part included: Atherton Hough, Massachusetts Fields, Montclair, Pollard, Quincy Elementary, Squantum, Wollaston, St. Ann's, St. Joseph's and Sacred Heart.

Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun, and Richard J. Koch, executive secretary, Quincy Park-Recreation Board, are co-chairmen of the telethon committee.

The winner of the spelling bee was Michael Whalen, a sixth grade honor student at Sacred Heart School. Heather Norton, a fifth grader at Massachusetts Fields, won second prize and Lisa Livingstone, sixth grade at Wollaston School, was in third place.

WALKERS AWAY -- Participants in the annual 10-mile walk through Quincy and Braintree for benefit of Quincy-based Protestant Social Service Bureau step off from First Presbyterian Church, Franklin St., Quincy. More than 521 walkers from 45 South Shore churches took part. Donna Zanolli, chairwoman of the event, said early returns indicate the walk will bring in more than $20,000 in sponsor's pledges.

Tobin $99.1 Million Budget Under 4% Cap

City Hospital), unemployment compensation and rate increases for special education placements.

Tobin said that of 85 budget accounts, including department requests, 43 increased and 42 either went down or remained the same compared to last year.

Some of the increases within the cap include $192,000 in Blue Cross-Blue Shield payments for city workers and $74,000 for the City Clerk, who is faced with three elections, two municipal and one presidential primary, in fiscal 1980.

There was also a $133,000 boost in workman's compensation and a $48,000 increase for the Tax Collector, which Tobin explained will be more than offset by increased collections from delinquent taxpayers.

The biggest decrease was recorded in the budget request of the Auditor's Department, which went down 19 per cent, from $172,000 to $140,000, due largely to the increased use of computers.

Capital outlay sections of the budget were reduced to $192,000, not counting $183,605 for the schools and $39,500 for the Junior College, Tobin said.

It included money for 11 new police cruisers, $25,000 for the rewiring of City Hall, $13,000 for the Park and Recreation Department, $19,000 for the Forestry Department and $1,500 for the Cemetery Department.

Tobin said he plans to talk to the City Council in the future "to see if they want a capital outlay budget." It would not be a supplementary budget, the Mayor said.

The City Hospital was not given any capital outlay funds in the budget, Tobin said, even though it badly needs some equipment to maintain a first class standing.

"We put $350,000 in hospital expenses to lease $1.3 million worth of equipment over the next five years," said Tobin.

By law, the Mayor has 90 days from the date of his inauguration or his mid-term address to submit his budget to the Council but due to the uncertainty of the tax cap legislation the cities and towns were granted a 30 day extension. The deadline thus is May 2.

Now the City Council has 45 days, or until June 15, to pass the budget, either as is or trimmed. The Council cannot make additions to the budget.

Tobin said he received 100 per cent cooperation from the department heads in making up the budget.

"They even suggested ways of holding it down," he said. "If it is felt that additional austerity is required I would welcome their help again."

$100,000 Renovations Planned

License Granted To Wendy's Restaurant

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

A common victualer license has been granted by the Quincy Licensing Board to the Wendworth Corporation, 514-526 Southern Artery, for the operation of a Wendy's Restaurant.

Renovations totaling an estimated $100,000 are planned for the establishment which is the former site of Howdy's Beef 'N Burger. Plans include landscaping, establishing of parking spaces, ramps and lavatory facilities for handicapped persons, and renovation of the interior.

Hours of operation will be 10:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m., Sunday through Thursday; and 10:30 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday. The license was granted on the condition that the restaurant's sign be approved by the building inspector and that the disposal unit be screened.

The board granted a request from Roman Gardens Cafe Corp. d b a Roman Gardens Cafe, 653 Southern Artery, Quincy, for the transfer of a common victualer-all alcoholic license from Roman Gardens, Inc., to Mrs. Stacia Ruth Kelley, manager of the establishment.

In conjunction with the granting of the request, a resolution was passed commending Emma Tozzi, former owner of Roman Gardens for many years, for the fine way that the establishment has been run.

In approving the transfer of the license, Fire Chief Edward F. Barry cited, "the excellent exposure that the location has, and its potential to do good business, which is what we want to see".

In other action, the board:

- Granted a Motor II License to South Shore Classic Automobile Corporation, 463 Hancock St., North Quincy, which is owned by Dennis E. Harrington, assistant City Solicitor, and Atty. Edward Masterson. The corporation was recently involved in leasing antique cars for the movie, "The Brinks Job". A limit of five cars will be allowed to be parked in the rear of the property.

- Granted the Committee to Elect Michael E. Faherty, Councilor at large, a one-day all alcoholic license for May 6, 7 p.m. to 11 p.m., at the North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall.

- Continued for one week a hearing on the request from South Shore Bait & Tackle, Inc., 569 Washington St., for a common victualer license and change of address from 527-529 Washington to 569 Washington St. and for Sunday opening of the Bait & Tackle, Inc.

- Granted a request from Quincy Public Schools to conduct "Tag Day" May 26, (rain date June 9).

- Granted a request for a one-day all alcoholic license for May 11, at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 8 p.m. to midnight, for Committee to Re-Elect Joanne Condon.

- Granted a request from McDonald's, 473 Southern Artery, to open for breakfast at 3:30 a.m. on Thursdays, Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays during the fishing season.

A hearing on a request from Lillian Ashmore, 45 White St., West Quincy, for an auctioneer's license was cancelled.

- Granted an all-alcoholic license to the Squantum Club for May 5 and 6 for the club's opening night festivities and boat racing regatta.

North Edges Brookline, Quincy Loses Slugfest

The North Quincy baseball team, sparked by its outstanding battery of pitcher Gary Earle and catcher Bob Biagini, took a 3-1 record into Wednesday's game with Suburban League-leading Brockton.

The Raiders will host Weymouth North Friday at 3:30 at Adams Field and Monday will play at Waltham.

Meanwhile, Quincy continues to find rough going. Entering Wednesday's game at Weymouth North, the Presidents had only a 1-6 record. Quincy will be at Weymouth South Friday and Monday will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin at 3:30 at Adams.

Monday North scored in the final inning to edge Brookline, 3-2.

as Earle won his third game in a row, all complete games.

Although he allowed only four hits, while striking out seven, the strong southpaw was in constant trouble and in each of the last two innings, Brookline had runners on first and second with no outs.

In the bottom of the sixth the tie-breaking run for Brookline was cut down at the plate on a perfect relay from center fielder Larry Baker to shortstop Bill O'Connell to catcher Biagini, who blocked the plate beautifully.

In the top of the seventh Biagini walked, stole second and scored the winning run on Dave King's single.

"Earle (he is 3-0 and has pitched all the wins) is our key for sure," Coach Charlie Bunker said. "And Biagini is easily the top catcher in the league. He hits well, is an excellent defensive catcher and everyone respects his strong arm."

Quincy, meanwhile, dropped an 11-9 slugfest to Waltham as Coach Bud Mosher's pitching continued to falter and the defensive play again was spotty.

Last week North topped Quincy, 6-2, in the first meeting of the teams, as Earle again pitched a four-hitter and outpitched Ray Coscia. North pounded out 11 hits, three by Tom Quinn and three by Earle, who is also one of North's top hitters. Tom Brennan, Billy Deitsch, Dean Prescott and Coscia had the Quincy hits.

The next day the Presidents were pounded by Brockton, 12-2, as Quincy's pitchers made things easy for the Boxers by issuing 10 walks.

Quincy, North Girls Softball Teams Take On Weymouths

The Quincy girls' softball team, off to a good start with wins in its first two Suburban League games, will host Weymouth South Friday at Faxon Field and Monday will play at Cambridge Rindge and Latin.

North Quincy girls, 0-3, who were defeated by Quincy last week, will be at Weymouth North Friday and will be home to Waltham Monday at Atlantic Junior High. All games for both teams start at 3:30.

Barbara Webster's Quincy girls won a wild one from North Quincy, 15-10, in a game which saw play often as bad as the weather.

Neither coach, Ms. Webster and North's Cheryl Manoli, was happy with the performances as both teams committed many errors.

"It is only our second league game and the girls missed some signals and they still lack confidence," Ms. Webster said. "We'll improve as we progress."

"The weather has hurt us and we had only three outside practices before our first game [North also lost to Newton North and Cambridge Rindge and Latin] and I hope we will improve," Manoli said. "We have had our troubles after getting two outs. The other teams will get a bunch of runs before we can get that third out."

Quincy errors set up three North runs in the third inning. Lauren Apollo walked, went to third on a mishandled fly ball, Pat Negus' single scored Apollo and she went all the way around on passed balls. Another run scored on a pair of errors.

In the opening inning Quincy scored four runs with three North errors playing prominent roles. Sue Callahan singled, Maureen Maher bunted and Callahan scored when a late throw to third was dropped. Two more errors accounted for three more runs.

North cut a 10-3 Quincy lead down to 10-8 but gave up five more runs in the top of the seventh and the Raiderettes could add only two in the bottom half.

Earlier in the week Quincy had opened with a 6-1 win over Brookline as Helen Gleason pitched a four-hitter.

With the score 1-1 Laura Miller scored the winning run in the fifth as she walked, stole second and third, Callahan walked and Miller scored on a double steal. Callahan later scored.

Sports

JOHN FURLONG, a 1975 graduate of North Quincy High, is a standout member of the Boston State College lacrosse team. A junior, Jack has been seeing a lot of action at attack for the Warriors. "John has really come into his own this season," said Coach Gordie Webb. "He has worked hard on his skills and was a very pleasant surprise."

Morrisette Tryouts Saturday

The Morrisette Legion Post baseball team will hold its first tryouts Saturday and Sunday at 1 p.m. at O'Rourke Field, West Quincy.

Anyone living in Quincy and born on or after Aug. 1, 1960, regardless of what school he attends, is eligible to try out.

This year's Zone 6 lineup includes Morrisette, Quincy, Wollaston, Weymouth and Hingham in one division and Braintree, Milton, Holbrook, Randolph and Canton in another. The winner of each division will face each other to determine which team will represent Zone 6 in the state tournament.

The Northeast Regional Tournament, held in Quincy last year with Morrisette as host, will be held this year at Milford from Aug. 22 through 26.

Flyers, Panthers In Semi-Finals Showdowns

The third and deciding games in the South Shore Hockey League playoff semifinals will be played Sunday night at the Pilgrim Arena in Hingham as the Quincy Flyers and Panthers strive for the first all-Quincy final.

The Flyers will play Bridgewater at 7 and the Panthers will meet Jamaica Plain at 8:30.

Bridgewater evened its series by defeating the Flyers, 8-4, and Jamaica Plain also evened its series with a 9-6 win over the Panthers last Sunday.

Bridgewater took a 2-0 lead over the Flyers in the first period. Quincy came back at 14:11 of the second period when Dave Noonan scored on passes from Jim Connolly and Jim Mullaney but Bridgewater increased its lead to 4-1. In the final minutes of the period Midget set up Mullaney to make it 4-2.

Early in the third period Jim Cooney took a pass from John Ryan and made it 4-3 but Bridgewater scored twice to make it 6-3. Quincy's Bob Boyle scored with assists for Pete Janis and Mullaney but Bridgewater scored twice more to ice the win.

The Panthers came out flying and took a 2-0 lead on goals by Jay Kelly and Bill Dailey, set up by Jay Nolan and Ed Shea, but Jamaica Plain tied it up early in the second period and went ahead at 7:01 of the period. Dave Mullen tied it for Quincy on a pass from Bob DeBruce with nine seconds left in the period.

Nine goals were scored in the final period. Jamaica Plain making it 4-2 but Brian Fahey tying it for the Panthers on a pass from Tom Staples. Jamaica Plain added two goals and Quincy was awarded a penalty shot and Nolan scored to make it 6-5. Jamaica Plain.

Alan Borgal tied it again for Quincy on a pass from Dailey but the Plainers went ahead at 4:51 of the final period. Quincy pulled its goalie and Jamaica Plain added two goals to put the frosting on the cake.

Johnson Motor

King Of Bantam House

Johnson Motor Parts won the Bantam House League playoffs with two straight wins over Baskin Robbins.

In the first game Johnson won, 6-3, on goals by Joey Engrassia, Tim McGrath, Mike Connolly, Ricky Miller, Joe McArdle and Jim DiPietro. Bill Lawless had two assists and Miller, McArdle, Engrassia, Bob Doyle, McGrath and Rich Durham one each. For Baskin Mike Chennette had two goals and Tom Richards one. Doug Concannon, Chennette and Bob Flynn had assists.

In the final Johnson won, 3-0, with Brian Foley and Bob McElman excelling in goal. Doyle, Engrassia and Lawless had the goals with assists for Lawless, Connolly, McGrath, Miller and Doyle.

Earlier Johnson had defeated Doran & Horrigan, 4-3, in three overtimes. Durham scored the winning goal and Jim McSweeney had two goals and DiPietro one. Durham, Bill Campbell and Steve Dannelsbeck had two assists apiece and McSweeney one. Brian Egan, Dave DiCarlo and Kevin Jennette scored for Doran with assists for Jennette and Dave Clifford.

Baskin topped Johnson, 8-5, with Concannon having the hat trick and Richards, John Feeney, Jeff Linehan, Ed Leavitt and Flynn one goal each. Chennette had four assists, Flynn three and Tom Gillis, Kevin Corrigan, Brian Strausbaugh, Jon Beniers, Bob Galvin, Feeney, Richards and Concannon one each. For Johnson McArdle, Durham, Doyle, McGrath and DiPietro had the goals with two assists for Brian Reardon and McSweeney and one each for DiPietro, Connolly, Miller and Engrassia.

Police Come On Strong To Win Midget House Title

The Police Club, which finished in last place, surprised by winning the Midget House League playoffs with a 6-2 win over Suburban.

North Trackmen At Newton N. Friday

The North Quincy boys' track team, with a 2-1 Suburban League record and a 6-1 overall, will be at Newton North Friday. Next Wednesday the Raiders will host Brockton, a perennial league power, at Veterans Memorial Stadium at 3:30 p.m.

North competed in the State Coaches Relays last Saturday and the 880-yard relay team of Tom Quinn, Steve Mastroioli, Tim O'Neill and Dan McIntyre finished second.

North suffered its first loss last week at the hands of Weymouth North, 81-64, despite a double win by McIntyre, who took the high hurdles and the triple jump.

North's Jackie Leone won the high jump, Bill Dailey the pole vault, Mackiewicz the javelin and Coughlin the 880. The mile relay team of McGuigan, Rich Schaeztl, Gerry McCormick and Rich McCarthy also won.

Seconds were taken by Mastroioli in the 220, McCormick in the 440, McGuigan, mile; Barrett, two-mile; McCarthy, low hurdles and pole vault; and John Hernon, discus. Taking thirds were Leif Thornton, 100 and long jump; Walter McConaghty, 440; Ricciuti, mile; Leone, high hurdles; Paul White, shot put, and Penzo, javelin.

Earlier in the week the Raiders had defeated Boston English and Boston Latin, in a triangular meet with McGuigan winning the 880, Coughlin the mile; Ricciuti the two-mile, Schaeztl the low hurdles and high hurdles, Hernon the discus, Mackiewicz the javelin, White the shot put, Thornton the long jump and Leone the high jump.

Dailey was second in the 100, Thornton second in the 220, Mastroioli second in the 440, Joe McDonald second in the mile, Penzo second in the javelin, Lou DiPietro second in the shot put and Leone second in the triple jump.

Barrett took third in the two-mile and Tim Allen third in the discus.

JOANNE KUSSMAN (left) and her sister, Tricia, of Quincy, recently completed their first season on Northeastern University's women's varsity swimming/diving team. Both qualified for the N.E. championships. Joanne's specialty was diving and Tricia competed in the 50 and 100-yard butterfly, medley relay, 100-yard individual medley and the 100-yard breaststroke. Joanne, a 1974 graduate of Quincy High, was an outstanding gymnast and diver in high school and in her senior year she captained the gym team and was state diving champion. Tricia graduated from Quincy in 1976 and took part in swimming, gym, basketball, tennis and softball. She captained the swimming team her senior year.
